Who's Who? New Faculty Cohort 2024

Meet the Faculty Who Joined the College of Arts and Sciences in Fall 2024

A wide spectrum of research and creative work in the College of Arts and Sciences has contributed to our university's reputation as a leading research institution. Our faculty are at the forefront of discovery, creating and sharing knowledge that benefits our students and society at large. Our faculty are also deeply committed to teaching, mentoring and advising students, ensuring that our students are well-prepared to take on the challenges of the 21st century. The College of Arts and Sciences is proud to welcome these new faculty members who are joining us this year.

Assistant Professor
Jacqueline Gulbas
College of Engineering, Applied Science
Research Interests: Cognitive Neuroscience, Neuroimaging, Computational Modeling
Scholarship Focus: Brain-behavior relationships in ADHD, Open Science
Teaching Focus: Cognitive Neuroscience, Research Methods, Statistics

Assistant Professor
Kathryn Kirkpatrick
College of Arts and Sciences
Research Interests: Contemporary Poetry, Poetics, Black Feminist Theory
Scholarship Focus: Contemporary Black Poetry, Black Feminist Poetics
Teaching Focus: Contemporary Poetry, Black Feminist Poetics, Creative Writing

Assistant Professor
Ashley Ruiz-Ramos
College of Arts and Sciences
Research Interests: Latinx Literature, Caribbean Literature, Critical Race Theory
Scholarship Focus: Contemporary Latinx Literature, Caribbean Literature, Critical Race Theory
Teaching Focus: Contemporary Latinx Literature, Caribbean Literature, Critical Race Theory

Assistant Professor
Ethan Bolton
College of Arts and Sciences
Research Interests: Ancient Greek Literature, Classical Reception, Ancient Rhetoric
Scholarship Focus: Ancient Greek Literature, Classical Reception, Ancient Rhetoric
Teaching Focus: Ancient Greek Language, Ancient Greek Literature, Classical Reception

Assistant Professor
Ashley Hinck
College of Arts and Sciences
Research Interests: Political Communication, Rhetoric, Gender
Scholarship Focus: Political Communication, Rhetoric, Gender
Teaching Focus: Rhetorical Theory, Political Communication, Gender

Assistant Professor
Ashley Ruiz-Ramos
College of Arts and Sciences
Research Interests: Latinx Literature, Caribbean Literature, Critical Race Theory
Scholarship Focus: Contemporary Latinx Literature, Caribbean Literature, Critical Race Theory
Teaching Focus: Contemporary Latinx Literature, Caribbean Literature, Critical Race Theory

Assistant Professor
Ethan Bolton
College of Arts and Sciences
Research Interests: Ancient Greek Literature, Classical Reception, Ancient Rhetoric
Scholarship Focus: Ancient Greek Literature, Classical Reception, Ancient Rhetoric
Teaching Focus: Ancient Greek Language, Ancient Greek Literature, Classical Reception

Assistant Professor
Ashley Hinck
College of Arts and Sciences
Research Interests: Political Communication, Rhetoric, Gender
Scholarship Focus: Political Communication, Rhetoric, Gender
Teaching Focus: Rhetorical Theory, Political Communication, Gender

Assistant Professor
Jacqueline Gulbas
College of Engineering, Applied Science
Research Interests: Cognitive Neuroscience, Neuroimaging, Computational Modeling
Scholarship Focus: Brain-behavior relationships in ADHD, Open Science
Teaching Focus: Cognitive Neuroscience, Research Methods, Statistics

Assistant Professor
Kathryn Kirkpatrick
College of Arts and Sciences
Research Interests: Contemporary Poetry, Poetics, Black Feminist Theory
Scholarship Focus: Contemporary Black Poetry, Black Feminist Poetics
Teaching Focus: Contemporary Poetry, Black Feminist Poetics, Creative Writing