Course Description: This course examines twentieth-century American history, focusing on American culture and society. The primary texts for this course are America since 1945: The American Moment, American Film and Society since 1945, and Hollywood’s America: U.S. History through its Films. You will view American films such as City Lights, Casablanca, The Graduate, One Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest, Wall Street, American Beauty, and Crash. You will critically analyze how American cultural and social conflicts are portrayed and worked out in popular films. By watching, discussing, and writing about these films, you will examine how motion pictures create a window into modern American culture and society. You will learn how to read American films as cultural texts that help us better understand history and culture.

Course Objective: My objectives are threefold. Firstly, you will understand the major historical events and cultural issues in twentieth-century America. Secondly, you will understand how to read films as cultural texts that open up a window into American history. And, thirdly, you will learn how to use popular American films to understand competing perspectives on American history, culture, and society.
Required Reading:

P. Levine and H. Papasotiriou, America Since 1945: The American Moment
L. Quart and Albert Auster, American Film and Society since 1945, 3rd ed.
David Rosenwasster, Writing Analytically, 4th ed.

Films in this class:

City Lights, Casablanca, The Third Man, Rear Window, Far from Heaven, Dr. Strangelove, Breakfast at Tiffany’s, The Graduate, Apocalypse Now, One Flew over the Cuckoo’s Nest, Wall Street, Do the Right Thing, Fight Club, American Beauty, and Crash.

Online Readings: Some of the assigned readings are on the course website in the daily class website links. You will need a password to access the readings: “cclewis”. These readings are “pdf documents” that you can read online or print out and read at your convenience.

Grading: Grades will be based on class participation and attendance (10%), film reviews (25%), two take-home midterms (20% each), and a take-home final (25%). I reserve the right to give unannounced quizzes and assignments in class. Content will count most heavily in all written work, but grammar, spelling, and style will also affect your grade.

Course grades will be defined in these terms:

A--Excellent--(Thoughtful, coherent, insightful, contributes)
B--Good--(Knows material well, lacks depth, not outstanding)
C--Fair--(Adequate, average, passing, little participation)
D--Poor--(Little understanding, little effort, incoherent)
F--Fail--(No evidence of understanding, no work, no learning)
Exams: There will be two take-home midterms and final in this class. The exams will ask students to critically analyze and contrast these films’ competing perspectives on American society and culture. You will discover that the more notes they take and the more thoughtfully you review these films the easier it will be for you to write your midterms and final exams.

Class Participation and Attendance: Because this is not a lecture course, active class participation is very important. Participation and attendance will be a large part of your grade (10 %). You must participate actively in class discussion in order to get a high participation grade. Class attendance is required. There are 6 excused absences to be used for illness, business, tragedy, or even pleasure (or when you just got the blues). If you miss more than six classes, you will fail the class. So please try to attend class regularly.

Film Reviews: Out of the 15 movies we see this semester, students will be required to write 4 film reviews (2-3 pages each). As long as your film reviews are turned in at the time they were first due, you will be allowed to revise your reviews throughout the entire semester for a higher grade. Film reviews will be graded on how well you critically analyze how a movie works and how it exemplifies larger cultural and social issues in American history and society. You are required to write at least one film review before the first midterm is due (March 4).

Guidelines for Grading Written Work: We are using Writing Analytically to give students guidelines for all written work in Sewall classes. All your class written work and exams will be graded according to how well your papers meet these guidelines for analytical essays. I suggest that you read and/or skim through the following pages to become better acquainted with these writing guidelines. I will grade your papers by referring to these guidelines from Writing Analytically. If you have any questions about any of these guidelines, please come see me during my office hours.

Chapter 1: Seeing Better, pp. 24-39

Chapter 2: What is Analysis and How Does It Work?, pp. 60-69, 75

Chapter 3: Putting Analysis to Work, pp. 77-88, 99-100, 103-107

Chapter 13: Find and Citing Sources, pp. 335-338

Chapter 14: Nine Basic Writing Errors and How to Fix Them, pp. 349-369, 374

Incompletes: I will be very reluctant to give a grade of Incomplete (IF). I assign incompletes only to students who have successfully completed most of the course work and who have been prevented by significant and unanticipated circumstances from finishing all of their assignments. Incompletes require the Chair’s permission and a written contract.

Classroom Behavior: Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Students who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Faculty have the professional responsibility to treat all students with understanding, dignity and respect, to guide classroom discussion and to set reasonable limits on the manner in which they and their students express opinions. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with differences of race, culture, religion, politics, sexual orientation, gender variance, and nationalities. Class rosters are provided to the instructor with the student's legal name. I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make appropriate changes to my records. See polices at http://www.colorado.edu/policies/classbehavior.html and at http://www.colorado.edu/studentaffairs/judicialaffairs/code.html#student_code

Discrimination and Sexual Harassment: The University of Colorado at Boulder policy on Discrimination and Harassment (http://www.colorado.edu/policies/discrimination.html), the University of Colorado policy on Sexual Harassment and the University of Colorado policy on Amorous Relationships applies to all students, staff and faculty. Any student, staff or faculty member who believes s/he has been the subject of discrimination or harassment based upon race, color, national origin, sex, age, disability, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status should contact the Office of Discrimination and Harassment (ODH) at 303-492-2127 or the Office of Judicial Affairs at 303-492-5550. Information about the ODH and the campus resources available to assist individuals regarding discrimination or harassment can be obtained at http://www.colorado.edu/odh

University Honor Code: All students of the University of Colorado at Boulder are responsible for knowing and adhering to the academic integrity policy of this institution. Violations of this policy may include: cheating, plagiarism, aid of academic dishonesty, fabrication, lying, bribery, and threatening behavior. All incidents of academic misconduct shall be reported to the Honor Code Council (honor@colorado.edu; 303-725-2273). Students who are found to be in violation of the academic integrity policy will be subject to both academic sanctions from the faculty member and non-academic sanctions (including but not limited to university probation, suspension, or expulsion). Other information on the Honor Code can be found at http://www.colorado.edu/policies/honor.html and at http://www.colorado.edu/academics/honorcode/

As faculty, students, and members of the University community, we value honor, integrity, and morality. Honor is about academic integrity, moral and ethical conduct, and pride of membership in a community that values academic achievement and individual responsibility. Cultivating honor lays the foundation for lifelong integrity, developing in each of us the courage and insight to make difficult choices and accept responsibility for actions and their consequences, even at personal cost.

Students with Disabilities: I encourage students with disabilities, including non-visible disabilities such as chronic diseases, learning disabilities, head injury, attention deficit/hyperactive disorder, and psychiatric disabilities, to discuss with me after class or during my office hours appropriate accommodations. If you have any additional questions about how the University can accommodate your disability, please see me or the Coordinator of Disability Services in the Disability Services Office, 322 Willard Hall, (303-492-8671). If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability please submit a letter to me from Disability Services in a timely manner so that your needs may be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities (303-492-8671, Willard 322 www.colorado.edu/disabilityservices).

Religious Obligations and Class Attendance: Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to reasonably and fairly deal with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. In this class if you have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments, or other required attendance, because of religious obligations, please notify me two weeks in advance of the conflict to request special accommodation. See the CU Policy at this website: http://www.colorado.edu/policies/fac_relig.html.

Cheating and Plagiarism: Cheating and plagiarism violate the University Honor Code. Plagiarism is copying another person’s work and turning it in as your own. Plagiarism can involve buying a “class paper” online, copying another student’s work, or copying whole paragraphs and material from other sources, such as encyclopedias or textbooks. See the website for the Pledge not to Plagiarize.
