Required text:
Principles of Microeconomics, fourth edition by N. Gregory Mankiw, with Study Guide
Textbook website: http://mankiw.swlearning.com
The website is a good study tool, with quizzes and power point notes for each chapter.

Course Content and Goals:
This course examines the fundamental economic problem of limited resources and unlimited wants. We seek to answer the “What is produced”, “How products are produced”, and “For whom are the products produced” questions facing all societies. We study the behavior and interactions of individuals, firms, and the government through markets and other institutions.

As often as possible, class discussion will illustrate the theory we are learning by relating actual events to the theories presented in class. Students are strongly encouraged to participate in these discussions.

By the end of the semester you should be able to
• Apply economic reasoning and theory to the analysis of local, national, and international current events
• Understand the different market structures with their associated profit maximization techniques, and the business strategies corresponding to these market structures.
• Use mathematical, graphical, and written analysis skills acquired in class.

How to study for this course
Read each chapter carefully before class and to ask questions in class and during recitations. Use the questions in the Study Guide and in the problem sets to test your knowledge. Problem sets will be posted on the website, and answers will only be given during recitations. If you do not understand an answer, ask the TA or myself during office hours. Do not let it “slide” as later material builds on earlier material covered in class. I encourage you to regularly read a newspaper with a good economic section, such as The Wall Street Journal (online at www.wsj.com), The Financial Times (online at www.ft.com), The New York Times (online at www.nytimes.com), or The Economist (online at www.economist.com). But I’m sure that you will soon see: Economics is everywhere!

We will be using WebCT for class announcements. Therefore, check your WebCT account often.

Grading:
Mid-term 1, Mid-term 2, Recitation, each @ 30% 60% (the best two out of three scores)
Final Exam 40% (comprehensive) required to pass
Class attendance ≥75% required to pass

Recitation score:
5 Quizzes, each @ 20%

Exams:
All exams will be held during class time in our regular classroom. Make sure to bring a blue book at a #2 pencil. Exams may be taken only on the specified exam date and time. Due to the large number of students in this class there will not be any make-up exams for any reason. If a student misses a Mid-term, the course grade will be calculated with the other Mid-term and the recitation score. If a student misses both Mid-terms, the score will be zero for 30%, 30% the recitation score, and 40% the final exam.

Problem sets:
Problem sets will be posted on the course website on the following days:

Problem sets are composed of about 20 questions and are to give you practice in the type of questions I will be asking on the exams. Problem sets are graded, but explanation of correct answers will be available only in recitation.
