Economics 4626
Prof. Jeffrey S. Zax

Syllabus and Schedule
17 August 2005

Welcome. I am Prof. Jeffrey S. Zax. This is Economics 4626, The Economics of Inequality and Discrimination.

Course description:

The purpose of this course is to investigate the extent of inequality, its causes and its consequences. This investigation occurs at both the macroeconomic and microeconomic level. With regard to macroeconomics, we discuss the relationship between inequality and growth, and the effects of different national institutions on this relationship. With regard to microeconomics, we discuss inequality in multiple dimensions and analyze the individual choices and economic contexts in which it arises. We complete this discussion with an examination of inequality that arises when disadvantages are imposed as a consequence of discrimination, and the economic contexts in which discrimination might take place.

This course requires previous completion of Economics 3070, Intermediate Microeconomic Theory, or its equivalent. This prerequisite will be enforced. In addition, previous completion of Economics 3080, Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory, or its equivalent, is helpful. Anyone uncertain with regard to their preparation should consult with me immediately.

This course will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 a.m. until 10:45 a.m. throughout the semester in Economics 119. I will hold regular office hours between 11:00 a.m. and 12:00 p.m. on Tuesdays and between 2:00p.m. and 4:00p.m. on Thursdays in my office, Economics 111. Appointments can be made for meetings at other times, if these are inconvenient.

Performance in this course will be judged on the basis of four instruments. The final examination will take place on Tuesday, 13 December from 4:30p.m. until 7:00p.m. It will require the full 2.5 hours and be worth 150 points. Any student who has three final examinations scheduled on 13 December and wishes to reschedule the final examination in this course must meet with me immediately.¹

One midterm examination, to take place on 11 October unless class progress deviates significantly from expectations, will be valued at 75 points. Examinations will ordinarily consist of short essay questions addressing the material in lectures and readings. They may also include short computational exercises.

Two papers complete the course requirements. Each will analyze the issues presented in a case from the Harvard Business School, based on discussions in class and the material in readings. The cases will be available at the UMC Book Store by the second week of classes. Both papers must be type-written, double-spaced, with conventional margins. Papers that exceed the maximum lengths, either in physical length or because of compressed format, will be penalized.

The first term paper is a three-page discussion of Inequality and Globalization, Harvard Business School Case No. 9-705-040. It will be due on 15 September, unless class progress deviates significantly from expectations. It will be worth 25 points. The second paper is a five-page discussion of Inequality and the American Model, Harvard Business School Case No. 9-703-025. It will be due on 15 November, unless class progress deviates significantly from expectations. It will be worth 50 points.

Excuses for the four course requirements will be granted only under extraordinary circumstances. If granted, the excused points will be reallocated to subsequent requirements. The course as a whole is valued at 300 points. The score attained by each student, evaluated relative to those of other students and to the score which would be attained by an intelligent student of economics at this level, will determine final letter grades.

The material to be mastered in this class is contained in the lectures and assigned readings. The tentative schedule of topics below also includes a list of assigned readings. All articles in the Journal of Economic Perspectives through 2002 are available as .pdf files through the University Library's website, following this protocol:

1. Access the Library website at <http://ucblibraries.colorado.edu/>.
2. Click on "Chinook Library Catalogue".
3. Click on "Periodical Title".
4. Enter "journal of economic perspectives".
5. Click on "Access back issues via JSTOR".
6. Click on "Browse This Journal".
7. Locate the desired article.

Articles from the Journal of Economic Perspectives subsequent to 2002 are available as .pdf files through the University Library's website. Follow this same protocol, with the exception of clicking on "Connect to online journal via Ingenta" in step 5 and proceeding as directed by that website.

Follow this same protocol, with the exception of entering "american economic review" in order to locate the article assigned for lecture 24.

In order to obtain the paper assigned for lecture 13, follow this protocol:

1. Access the Levy Institute website at <http://www.levy.org>.
2. In the box entitled “Quick Search”, click on “All Working Papers”.
3. Click on the desired paper.

In order to obtain the paper assigned for lecture 20, follow this protocol:

1. Access the Levy Institute website at <http://www.levy.org>.
2. In the box entitled “Quick Search”, click on “All LIMEW Papers”.
3. Click on the desired paper.

The remaining article, that assigned for lecture 4, may be obtained from the course website, at <http://www.colorado.edu/Economics/Zax/Econ4626>. Additional readings may be assigned at my discretion.

University policies:

Campus policy regarding disabilities requires that faculty adhere to the recommendations of Disability Services. In addition, campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to reasonably and fairly accommodate all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled examinations, assignments or required attendance. Any student eligible for and needing academic adjustments or accommodations because of disability or religious practice should arrange to meet with me immediately. Those with disabilities should immediately submit a letter from Disability Services describing appropriate adjustments or accommodations.²

² University policies regarding disabilities are available at www.colorado.edu/disabilityservices. Disability Services can be contacted by telephone at 303-492-8671, or in person at Willard 322. University policies regarding religious practice are available at www.colorado.edu/policies/fac_relig.html.

Students and faculty share responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. All are subject to the University's policies on Sexual Harassment and Amorous Relationships.³ Students who fail to adhere to appropriate behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Faculty have the professional responsibility to treat students with understanding, dignity and respect, to guide classroom discussion and to set reasonable limits on the manner in which students express opinions.⁴ I am happy to discuss any issues of individual or group treatment in office hours or by appointment.

All students of the University of Colorado at Boulder are responsible for knowing and adhering to this institution's policy regarding academic integrity. Cheating, plagiarism, assistance to acts of academic dishonesty, fabrication, lying, bribery, and threatening behavior are examples of behaviors that violate this policy. All incidents of academic misconduct shall be reported to the Honor Code Council. Students who are found to be in violation of the academic integrity policy will be subject to both academic sanctions from the faculty member and non-academic sanctions, including but not limited to university probation, suspension, or expulsion.⁵
