
Francisca Antman, Assistant Professor

Ph.D., Stanford University, 2007

FIELDS

Economic Development • Labor Economics • Public Economics

CURRENT RESEARCH INTERESTS

Impact of international migration on family members remaining in the home country with emphasis on migration between Mexico and the U.S.; health and education effects of migration; existence and measurement of poverty traps and economic mobility in developing countries; distribution of responsibility for elderly care among siblings; intergenerational persistence in income and education levels; estimating peer effects.

SELECTED PUBLICATIONS AND WRITINGS

“Earnings Mobility and Measurement Error: A Pseudo Panel Approach” (with David McKenzie), Economic Development and Cultural Change, October 2007.

“Poverty Traps and Nonlinear Income Dynamics with Measurement Error and Individual Heterogeneity” (with David McKenzie), Journal of Development Studies, August 2007.

“Who Cares for the Elderly? Intrafamily Resource Allocation and Migration in Mexico,” Department of Economics, University of Colorado at Boulder Working Paper No. 08-01, June 2008.

“Parental Migration and Child Education: Evidence from Variation in Child Age During Parental Absence,” Department of Economics, University of Colorado at Boulder Working Paper No. 08-02, June 2008.

“The Intergenerational Effects of Paternal Migration on Schooling: What Can We Learn from Children’s Time Allocations?” Department of Economics, University of Colorado at Boulder Working Paper No. 08-03, July 2009.

“How Does Adult Child Migration Affect Elderly Parent Health? Evidence from Mexico”, August 2009.