Minutes 2004-2005

April 14, 2005

At the last meeting we elected new officers for the 2005/2006 school year. I am happy to announce the results: Mike Aguilar will return for a second term as President. Steven Beard will be Mike's right hand man as Vice President. Joanna Schwab joins the leadership in the newly created role of Treasurer and Thomas Hendrick will stay on as Officer. The meeting also worked to define the role of the officers for the upcoming year to help organize the group. I look forward to serving with the new officers next year and I know that they will help lead the team to a bright future.

For next week's meeting (the last of the year) we would like to take a group photo for the website and promoting the team. Please wear a suit for this photo so that we look professional. It is very important that everyone who attended New York be here for this meeting as this will be the only opportunity we have to take a group photo before the school year winds down. After the photo shoot, we will head out to dinner at Olive Garden, so bring an appetite as well.

Have a good week!

April 7, 2005

This week we traveled to Denver for the Rocky Mountain Model United Nations Conference. Our team won seven individual awards at the Denver conference, a first for the team. Us officers wish to send out a huge congratulations to the team for their work. Here are the individual results:

Security Council:
Jed Ober Outstanding Delegate
Thomas Hendrick Outstanding Delegate

General Assembly:
Steven Beard Commendable Delegate

Commission on Human Rights
Julia Awedia Commendable Delegate
Jason Krueger Outstanding & Rapp Award
Hewsan Pang Outstanding & Rapp Award

United Nations Environmental Programme
Mike Aguilar Research Award

March 25, 2005

This week we traveled to New York for the national conference. The team performed wonderfully and came back to Boulder with a Distinguished Delegation award. For those who may not have read the points system used in nmun, this award is truly a team effort. At the end of each session the Director and Assistant Director nominate a percentage of their committee for an award. The conference then adds up all the nominations and the schools with the highest number of nominations receives an award. This means that a majority of our members had to have been recognized several times during the conference. Everyone should be proud of what we have accomplished this week. All our hard work has paid off and hopefully we will have as much success in Denver as we did in New York.

March 11, 2005

With only one meeting left before the New York trip we focused on practice. Members broke into caucuses again and discussed resolutions and gave speeches. It looks like everyone is coming along with their preparations for New York and that the first day in committee will not be a total surprise. For these last few days before the big conference we urge everyone to continue their research, and begin to form a strategy for your committee. Ask yourself what it is that you want to accomplish. Who will be your allies? How can you bring them on board? Begin to write some notes on speeches that you could give about setting the agenda. Why is one topic more important then the others? Practice your speech so you can deliver it smoothly and make a good first impression.

A word about those planning on attending the Denver conference. Position papers are due on March 25th (which is in the middle of the New York conference) so start working on your position papers now so that you don't have to worry about them in the Big Apple. Jed has sent out topics and committee lists so you can begin your research. If you have any questions feel free to contact any one of the officers, or check out the Denver conference website on the documents page.

March 3, 2005

First off we have only two meetings before the New York conference. This means that if there are any issues (procedural matters, formatting, questions about the Comoros, travel plans) you need to get them worked out. We officers are available always to answer questions, and help with your planning. It looks like many of you have things figured out, but don't be shy. Know your committee today so you can avoid embarrassment in New York.

Thanks to all our fundraising efforts, we have been able to pay for the hotel and conference registration this year. Congratulations and excellent work to everyone. This will help to make New York and other conferences more affordable to everyone so the hard work is appreciated by all.

Have a good week!

February 17, 2005

Thank you to all our sponsors:
- The CU Parent Association
- NA Chapter in Boulder
- UCSU/ASSG
- International Affairs Department at CU Boulder
- STA Travel Agency

This weeks meeting was short because of the Citi Bank Fundraiser. Special thanks to all who participated in the fundraiser that helped to bring in about $300 to our group. Every dollar counts, so keep up the good work and New York will get cheaper by the day. In terms of preparations for New York, there is one point to mention. POSITION PAPERS ARE DUE FRIDAY. This will be our focus for the next week in making sure that they are well written and sent in on time.

February 10, 2005

This week we focused on preparing for an informal caucus. Jed gave some pointers for those who have not yet had the chance to be in an informal caucus or suspension of the meeting including, meeting up with your partner countries and allies. Use your teammate efficiently by working on projects separately and then meeting back together to keep up to date about different projects. Try to keep the talking time down and work on writing resolutions. So much of the conference is wasted with the idea that "we have time left" and so you spend the first four days on one topic, get resolutions passed, and do the same amount of work on the second topic in just one day. Overall, don't be afraid to meet new people and wonder around the room. This is what the conference is all about.

We also discussed fundraising at this last meeting. There will be a yard sale at Marise's house coming up soon, so watch your e-mail for the date and time. The Citi Bank fundraiser is on for this Thursday. If you have questions about the fundraiser then contact Molly. We will be pushing our meeting back to 8:00 to accommodate the fundraisers so mark your calendars accordingly.
Also, Joanna and Julia are working on a Bake Sale/ Krispy Kream table. Contact Julia for more info on this one. Steve has a buying guide that you can use to order boxes of donuts.

Finally, start thinking about making your travel plans to NY. As a reminder, the conference schedule has opening ceremony on Tuesday the 22nd, at 2:00. We will be meeting the ambassador of the Comoros on Tuesday in the morning so you need to make sure that you are in NY by Tuesday morning so that you can be present for that. We have the hotel reserved for Tuesday night to Sunday morning. Closing ceremony is on Saturday at 5:00. All other times before or after the conference you need to make YOUR OWN hotel reservations and plans.
Have a good week!!

February 3, 2005

This week we focused on motions and how they will differ in New York. The meeting was started with a fundraising update. Basically, the resounding message is that we still need money.
The Citibank fundraiser will fall through unless one more person signs up. If you can make the time, please contact Julia to find out how to get involved in this fundraiser that requires a little effort but will yield a big return. Also, we discussed the yard sale which will be moved to next week, so get your old clothes ready to sell sell sell.

Members also turned in their position papers for the debate we are working on this month.
Again, if you haven't gotten your position paper in yet, try to get them to an officer as soon as possible. Also, with regards to the position papers for New York, make sure that you have signed up for a time to meet with one of the officers to discuss the progress of each paper. Keep up the January 20, 2005

At this week's meeting we worked out some good ideas for fundraising opportunities. We have several events that will be going on soon. The first is a yard sale which will happen on Feb 5th at Marise's House. Everyone is asked to bring a item to be sold at the yard sale (old clothes, books, trinkets, ect.) Derek is working on an entertainment book and Julia is working on a way to sell Krispy Kream doughnuts on campus. Consuelo and Thomas will be writing letters to local businesses to raise some money for the group. Camilo is working with his bake shop to bring baked goods to the yard sale, and to sell on campus with the doughnuts. Molly has been working very hard for a CitiBank credit card fundraiser that will be happening in February. Finally Consuelo is working on getting some money from STA for reduced plane tickets. Everyone is expected to get involved in some of these fundraising activities to help raise money for New York. If you have not yet volunteered for an activity, then contact the person in charge of the event, and they will get you squared away.

January 13, 2004

At the first meeting of the year we discussed preparations for New York and welcomed a some new members. First off New York. We discussed what the officers could better explain to help prepare for the New York conference and the group decided that resolution writing and speech preparation would be two areas that could use improvement. We will try to include these topics and more in coming weeks to prepare for the big conference. Also, everyone got the chance to meet their New York partner and work out a plan to research their committees and topics. We elected a new officer on Thursday night. Mason Phelps will replace Jed as an officer while Jed replaces Mike as President. Congratulations to Mason and you can expect his office hours to be posted on the website soon.

A fundraising meeting has been scheduled for Jan 20th at 5:30 in Ketchum 234. All members are encouraged to bring five ideas for fundraising opportunities so that we can easier afford the New York trip. If you cannot be at the meeting right at 5:30, this is fine, but try to show up as soon as you can.

Some new members joined our meeting last night. On behalf of the group we would like to welcome them all and encourage them to stick around and learn about NMUN and participate in our Denver conference.

December 2, 2004

This past week's meeting was very light. We discussed Las Vegas and talked about the elements of the conference that we both liked and disliked. It is still too early to say whether or not we will attend Las Vegas next year, but so far the leaning of the officers and some of the team is that the experience was not as beneficial as it could have been. We may end up replacing the Vegas trip with another one. Maybe Montreal (my pick eh!!) or San Francisco.
As for news about New York, we have made our final selection of who will attend the New York Conference as the Comoros. The list can be found on the New York Update page. Congratulations to everyone who made it, and for those who may have missed out, keep coming to our meetings. There is the Denver conference that we can bring as many people as we wish, so everyone will get a chance to participate in one conference this year.

Finally, the meeting ended with a heartfelt good bye from our president Mike. Because of family matters and other issues, Mike has decided to step down as president of the team beginning next semester. This announcement came as a surprise to many in our club including the officers. We are not quite sure exactly how we will replace Mike, but rest assured that input from the team will be included. I know that I am not alone when I say that Mike has been an inspiration to us all and a wonderful friend over the past semester. We are all eternally grateful for everything he has done for us. Mike will still be with us as a team member and I look forward to many more good times with Peter Pan.

Good luck to you all in the coming week of Finals. I know that you all will do well. Then we can all enjoy a much deserved Winter Break.

Cheers.

November 20, 2004

Check out the pictures from the Las Vegas conference and see the results of competition here. Have a happy Thanksgiving!!

November 11, 2004

This last week's meeting saw the final debate of our fall semester. I can say on behalf of the officers, that Debate II was by far one of the best this year. We were able to get resolutions to the floor, have some minimal debate, and vote on the resolutions. Practicing Parli Pro is very important to staying informed in a committee, and I think that we all got some good practice Thursday night.

There are a few suggestions that we would like you to take into consideration for future debates. First, remember to refer to yourself in the third person. "Pakistan believes this" not "I think that." Second, make sure that you stand when it is your turn to speak (this includes moderated caucuses). Try to move around the room as much as possible during unmoderated caucuses to stay informed about what other groups are working on. Obviously this does not apply if you are writing a resolution, but try to be aware of what others are doing and what competition (if any) you might face. Finally, when ending a speech never say, "I don't know." It makes you look stupid. If you are finished saying what you wanted to say, don't panic and start trying to use up time. You are given time to speak but this does not mean that you have to use all of it. When you are finished with your speech, simply yield the rest of your time to the chair and sit down. That is all you have to do, and best of all you don't look clueless.
Some other notes for this week's meeting. We discussed judging at the Cherry Creek high school conference. I think I speak for everyone when I say that it was a valuable experience. We have a few other judging opportunities coming up so you will want to stay up to date on these chances to see a committee before heading to New York.

Finally, a word about next week's meeting. This will be the last meeting of the semester. This means that you have only ONE more chance to secure your spot to New York, so you want to make sure that you are very active at this meeting, and show the officers that you mean business. As always we encourage you to come and see us during office hours with any questions.

November 4, 2004

At this week's meeting, we debated till the early hours of the morning. Not really, but the debate was still a good opportunity for members to get experience inside a committee. We worked on resolutions on reforming the Security Council. Next week we will continue the debate with the same topic, and the same country assignments so keep the work that you have developed so far. Bruce McKenzie from the UNA attended the meeting and talked about the many activities of the United Nations Association Boulder Chapter. The group is involved in land mine removal in Africa, funding schools in Afghanistan, and efforts the group will begin to stop child prostitution. As you know the UNA has been very generous in is support of MUN and we appreciate Mr. McKenzie's visit.

The Las Vegas conference is coming up soon, and the officers are still waiting for position papers from some members.

Finally, the selection for New York is coming up soon, so stay as active as possible in the meetings to secure a sport at this conference.

October 28, 2004

At this week's meeting, we spent a day in a committee practicing caucusing skills and writing short resolutions. The team is really improving its communication skills and working with other people to write resolutions. A couple of points us officers saw as delegates were caucusing: Communication is key. You need to really make sure that people you are working with understand your ideas. When the group gets excited about a topic, a lot of people can start talking over each other. This is your opportunity to become a leader and organize the discussion so that everyone is heard and you all stay on topic. Second, remember not to get too involved in one groups discussion (unless you are writing a resolution) Branch out to other groups and discuss with others what you have been working on and stay aware of what else is happening in the room. This is a great way to build allies, and advertise your resolution. Finally, if you find that people are not agreeing with your ideas, don't give up. The worst thing you can do in a caucus is just sit down. Keep pushing, keep looking for allies, and don't panic. Remember judges grade you on how you represent your country, so if you are fulfilling that role and you keep pushing for your agenda, the judges will notice.
The topic of debate for this last meeting was Security Council reform. We will keep this topic for the second debate of our season which will be held next week.

We also spent some time learning how to write and deliver speeches. Speeches are an important aspect of the committee. I put an outline to writing speeches on the Documents page. You can also visit the officers during office hours and they can fill you in.

Finally, some reminders. The high school conference will be November 6th. If you have not yet signed up to judge (and want to) then contact Mike Aguilar. We also need bio's from everyone who wants to judge as this conference. Position papers are long past due. We know you guys are busy (we are too) but try to get us your position papers so that we can look over them before sending them to PAXMUN. Also, please pay Mike your $85 as soon as possible.

Have a happy Halloween!!

October 23, 2004

We have a new fundraising opportunity to tell you about this week. Invesco Field is looking for volunteers to run a burrito-deli stand during games. You would get paid $8.00 per hour and work 8 hours. The organizers need 10 people to work at least 3 games. The game dates are Nov. 7, Nov. 28, Dec. 12, and Jan. 2. If you can attend any of these games and want to participate, then contact Consuelo at Consuelo.Amat@colorado.edu. She has more information about this fundraising opportunity.

October 21, 2004

This weeks meeting focused on a day in a committee. We practiced the art of caucusing and forming collations with other countries to begin the resolution writing process. Making friends in committee is not an easy task. It takes charisma and some courage to actively approach other people and begin to discuss ideas. The best piece of advice we can give is to go out there and start talking. The worst thing you can do in any caucus, is just sit in your chair and hope that people come and talk to you-because they won't. We hope to practice caucusing more often in the coming weeks, to help refine this necessary skill.

Other announcements this week include a new page for those involved in the Vegas trip. A link has been created on the homepage that has information specific to Vegas. PAXMUN, which runs the Vegas conference, has a drastically unorganized website, so I have condensed the important information into one page for easy reading. There are also links to information specific to the conference, including formatting position papers and resolutions.

Speaking of Position Papers, remember to get your papers to the officers as soon as possible, so we can review them and make suggestions.

There is a high school conference coming up on November 6th from 9am to 3pm, that we have been invited to judge. Judging high school conferences is a great way to gain experience, even for our new members. Don't be discouraged at judging a high school conference if you haven't participated in MUN before. Judging is really easy, and gives you the competitor an edge when you know what judges look for in competition.

Finally, a word about attendance. It is really important that everyone attend the weekly meetings. The officers and I haven't seen the level of attendance that we would like to see (especially from some people selected to attend Vegas). Remember that meetings are the only opportunity for us to teach you about MUN and prepare you for the conferences. We want to take the best people to New York and Denver, and a large portion of our decision comes from attendance. That said, we won't punish you for missing a meeting or two, but please contact an officer BEFORE you miss the meeting so that we don't think you are a slacker. The highlight of being in MUN is the New York conference and we haven't yet made our decisions as to who is going. That means that you still have plenty of time to shine and secure a spot at this conference of conferences.

Hope you feel better Consuelo.
Have a good week!

October 14, 2004

A short update for this week. The meeting focused on writing resolutions, reports, and position papers. Mason did a good job educating the masses about each topic, and we thank him for his help. For more information about making either of these papers, see the Documents section. Other announcements this week include committee assignments for the delegates who will be attending the Las Vegas conference. Those of you who will be going to Vegas, please contact the other members of your country, and work with them in your research. Your powers combined make something more impressive then captain planet, an informed delegate who is ready to WIN.

Jed hosted one of many after the meeting parties at the "Burnt Toast" coffee shop. We plan on having many more of these impromptu gatherings in the coming weeks to build team unity. So grab some spare change for a cup of Joe and conversation. Finally this week, the votes are in and the team has decided on Jed's costume for the meeting before Vegas. Jed will be dressed as Tinkerbell, and Mike (our fearless leader will play the part of Peter Pan). I expect Jed to impress us all with his costume. Mike is Mike, so his is going to be great! My one question is whether or not the two will play their parts well. It is said that Tinkerbell had a secret crush on Peter Pan. Is this a metaphor for things to come? Is Jed secretly in love with Yankees pitcher Mariano Rivera? Find out on the next exciting episode of MUN Madness 2004 in Hellems 211.

October 7, 2004

Now that everyone has some experience in debating, we felt that it would be beneficial to discuss Parliamentarian Procedure. This was the focus of this weeks meeting. We discussed the general timeline of a committee and the powers that each delegate can use in committee. More about the rules for Parli Pro can be found on the Documents page. The handout that Consuelo gave to everyone will be there too.
In other news, the final list for who will attend the conference in Las Vegas was released last night. Congratulations are in order for Molly Franch, Jason Krueger, Julia Aweida, Dave Brennan, Neha Malhota, and Chris Gaskins who all made the cut, and Camilo Quintero as the alternate. You all will be joining Mike Aguilar, Consuelo Amat, Jedediah Ober, Thomas Hendrick, Marise Habib, Mason Phelps, and Erik Weiss. Congratulations again and let the work begin!!

For those of you who may not have made the cut, again don't give up. Remember that being selected to Vegas is like winning the Division title. Being selected to go to New York is like winning the World Series, so the big honor is yet to come.

We had a special visitor to the meeting this week. Last year's president Devon Doyle shared some advice for the members and we all appreciate her coming to the meeting.

Finally this week, we will put some of the lessons learned about Parli Pro to good use at the next meeting where the group will decide what Mike and Jed will wear the day before we go to Vegas. It can be ANYTHING. So start some brainstorms for the next meeting. And if you want to know why Mike and Jed must undergo this grueling ordeal, come and visit us officers during our office hours and we will fill you in.

Have a great week!!!
week so be patient and we'll send out a revised estimate for the cost of Vegas.

Now for the other good news about Vegas. We lost a country (the Philippines, Sorry Mason) and gained another (Greece, and maybe Turkey). This is great news for the team because it means that we can take 8 new members to the conference. It also means that we had to make the final decision for who gets to go to Vegas based off the debate Thursday night and previous meetings. The officers will be meeting in the next week to make their selections for who goes to Vegas and we will send out a list of those going on the list serve. I can say that making this decision will be very difficult because everyone at the meetings has been very active and deserves to go to Vegas. Keep in mind that even if you don't get to go to Vegas, this does NOT in any way disqualify you to go to Denver or New York. In fact everyone will get the chance to compete at Denver, and our selection for New York will not be related to the Vegas selection. So even if you don't get to go to Vegas, your chances are still really good that you can go to New York, so keep showing up for the meetings.

That's all for this week. Have a good fall break!!

September 20, 2004

Marise and Thomas are planning a trip of sorts to the Denver Museum of Nature and Science to see the Mummy exhibition. This is the largest collection of ancient artifacts on loan from Egypt ever to come to North America. If you are interested in joining our assemblage then send Thomas an e-mail Thomas.Hendrick@colorado.edu. The cost is about $20, but if we bring more then 10 people we can get a school group discount. We'll say more at this week's meeting. See you Thursday!!

September 16, 2004

All who attended the third NMUN meeting of the year had yet another enjoyable time. To address some administrative issues discussed at the meeting; first off we will be moving the meeting place to Hellem's 211 beginning in October. This new room is better suited for our debates then the lecture room we are in now. So mark your calendars, beginning on October 7th, we will be meeting in Hellem's 211 on Thursdays at 7:00.

The meeting began by discussing current events around the world. This is our chance to "show our stuff" and impress fellow members with our exhaustive supply of knowledge about the world. We hope to begin every meeting this way, so be sure to keep up with current events and tell us what you have read.

After the current events, Jed and Mike both gave presentations about the UN. Jed talked about the role of NGOs (non-governmental organizations) in the UN and what their contributions and limitations are. Mike talked about current issues on the UN agenda and some possible topics that may come up in the future.

Finally we spent most of the meeting in our first debate. The debate went really well, and I can say that I was very impressed with the information people brought to the debate and how eager they were to get involved. As a reminder we are holding another debate next week with a different topic. The topic for next week's debate is: "AID's in Africa." You should keep your country designation unless you changed it with Mike. Other wise keep up the research and reading current events so that you are prepared for the debate. Also, keep in mind that us officers will be using these debates to help us decide who gets to go to Vegas and New York, so make sure you keep coming to the meetings. That's all for this week. See you next time.

September 9, 2004

At this week's meeting we covered some basics about the United Nations. Thomas gave a brief history of the UN that focused on some of the trends in the history of the UN, which have contributed to the organization's successes and failures. To learn more about the UN's history go to the Documents page and click on the link to the UN website. Consuelo gave a presentation about the mockup of the UN and the various committees a country can have membership in. A copy of the hand out describing the mock up of the UN and its committees can be found on the Documents page.

There are a couple of administrative issues to tell you about. The group finalized our meeting time, which will remain on Thursdays at 7:00 in Ramaley N 1B23. We handed out a syllabus of the meetings for this semester. It should be noted that the syllabus has dates for Tuesdays and not Thursdays. Please make these changes to your copy so that you don't miss a meeting. An updated copy of the calendar of events can be found on the Calendar page.

Finally at the end of the meeting we assigned everyone a country for the next week's debate. The topic of the debate will be: "What can be done about Sudan." You need to research the issues affecting that country (hint: Darfur) and be prepared to represent your country in a debate over the issue. We encourage you to put some effort into this debate but don't stress too much about it. It is a first debate to give you a feeling about what debating will be like. So come prepared to talk about the issue for an hour, and more importantly come prepared to speak.

September 3, 2004

Hello fellow MUNer's this is Thomas, your friendly officer with an update of this weeks meeting. Last Thursday we held our frist meeting of the year. The meeting was a big success with lots of interested students and lots of free cookies. If you didn't get a chance to make the meeting then here is what you missed:

First, the officers introduced themselves and shared with the group why they keep coming back to MUN. Then we previewed the year ahead. We have a full agenda scheduled including judging at high school conferences, preparing for and competing at a conference in Las Vegas, learning about the UN, and finally Fundraising.

On the topic of Fundraising, one question that has been brought to us is how much will MUN cost? The answer is that we don't quite know yet. We get some funding from the school and the local chapter of the UN in Boulder. Those help pay for some of our travel and registration expenses for the conferences. The rest students have to pay for themselves including plane tickets, food, and any extras. However, this year we want to get involved in more fundraising so that we can make our trips to New York and Denver less expensive. We will have more details about what kinds of fundraising we will be participating in later. If you have any suggestions or know of any ways that we can get funds, then feel free to e-mail your suggestion to nmun@colorado.edu. Remember that one of the most appealing aspects of MUN is that we are totally student run. So that means that everyone on the team has a role to play in keeping the team running smoothly. So we look partially to you as a source of direction for where the team will go in the coming year.

As for Vegas, the deal is this. We can only take about a dozen members to this meet. Current members get first preference and that leaves room for only a few new members. We will be judging each new member and decide who gets to go based off these early trials. We don't have specifics on criteria yet but will be bringing those to you probably at the next meeting. Keep in mind however, that if you don't go to Vegas, that does NOT mean that you can't still be a part of our club or get the chance to go to either the Denver of New York conferences. Vegas will require a lot of preparation in a short amount of time and that will be challenging for many new members. But if you really want to go then be sure to attend the next several meetings and stay updated.

Finally, I want to close this update by asking for some feedback. If you made it to the first meeting, tell us about it. Were you interested? Excited? Was it too long? Too short? Also, does the meeting time work for you? We are flexible with the meeting time but will not be for long and within the next few meetings we will hammer out a PERMENANT meeting time. Let us know your thoughts by e-mailing the officers at nmun@colorado.edu. If you haven't yet given us your e-mail address, then please do so and be sure to log onto the list serve. Directions for how to do that are below.

Well, this is a really long update but with lots of info. I hope that you are as excited about the school year ahead as I am, and I hope to see you at our next meeting next Thursday at 7:00 in Ramaley N1B23.

August 30, 2004

Our introduction meeting will be September 2nd at 7:00 at Ramaley N 1B23. All current members are asked to attend as well as anyone thinking about joining MUN. Free Food will be provided!!!

August 1, 2004

We plan on including a conference in Las Vegas for our current members. The date for Las Vegas is November 20th through the 23rd. If you are interested in competing in Vegas contact Jed (Oberj@colorado.edu). The theme for the conference will be: The Legacy of Imperialism. The countries we will represent are Brazil, the Philippines, Sudan, and Sweden. We will find out the topics and committee assignments in September. For more information about the conference see the Links section.
Our national conference in New York will be over Spring Break this year (March 22-26).

If you have not yet signed up for the list serve please do so by sending an email to listproc@lists.colorado.edu. Leave the subject line blank and in the body type:

subscribe modelun first_name last_name

And that is all there is to it. Remember don't reply to the list serve but to an officer directly as your reply will be sent to the entire group. Thanks.
