

CU: Introduction to Export Controls

Go Online And Learn

Myth Busters...

Myth: Export control laws don't apply to research universities.

Myth: Export control laws apply only to military hardware or software.

Myth: The government really doesn't enforce all of these regulations.

Laboring under these misconceptions, may violate export control laws - jeopardizing you and the University of Colorado.

Learn more about export compliance.

Go to the CU Resources tab on your portal

<https://cuconnect.colorado.edu> or <http://my.cu.edu>

Select TRAINING

Click Start SkillSoft

Contact Linda Morris for more information -

Linda.Morris@colorado.edu

CU: Introduction to Export Controls is now available on SkillSoft.

This one hour course is recommended for CU-Boulder research personnel whose work involves export-controlled technologies, or who are responsible for transactions with non-US entities. The course provides an overview of export control regulations and how they affect university research.

Please use the instructions below to take this course:

- Logon to SkillSoft via CU Connect (<https://cuconnect.colorado.edu>), or <http://my.cu.edu>
- Go to the MyCU Links box and click, SkillSoft – CU’s Online Learning
- Select the MY.TRAINING tab
- Click, “Click here for SkillSoft – CU Learning Center...” This will open SkillSoft.
- Click Catalog, on the left-side of the screen
- Click the University of Colorado – Courses folder
- Click the Export Controls folder
- Hover over, “CU: Introduction to Export Controls” and click [Launch]

Having trouble? There are resources and FAQs on the Employee Learning and Development website. <https://www.cu.edu/eld>