

Introducing ...

Independent Study Credit for
Colorado Engineer Magazine

Sign up now for Fall 2009!

GEEN 2850 is a 1-credit, repeatable, pass/fail independent study course designed to introduce the student to magazine writing techniques and improve their skills in writing a magazine article appropriate for publication in Colorado Engineer Magazine.

CEM is written by and for students in the College of Engineering and Applied Science. It is published three times a year during the fall, spring and summer semesters. This century-old magazine is the oldest student publication at the University of Colorado at Boulder!

You will develop an article idea, research the topic, conduct interviews, outline the article and write at least two drafts before submitting your completed article to the magazine editor. Biweekly meetings with the course instructors can be adjusted to fit your schedule.

Contact Donna Gerren or Carol Rowe with any questions you may have:
donna.gerren@colorado.edu or carol.rowe@colorado.edu