

EBIO Department Application Checklist

International Applications for Fall 2007 Admissions

You may apply on-line or download the international application at:

<<http://www.colorado.edu/prospective/international/apply/grad-apply.html>>.

- 1) International Application: Please see the checklist for International Applications at: <http://www.colorado.edu/prospective/international/apply/grad-check.html>

In addition to the items on the checklist, please also include in your application:

Three letters of Recommendation-- These may be submitted as part of the on-line application or by paper copy.

Graduate Record Examination-GRE: All applicants to the EBIO Department must take the GRE general test and the subject test in biology. Please have your official GRE score report sent directly to the University of Colorado. The institutional code is R4841.

Please submit all items on the International Application checklist online or to the following address by December 1, 2006 (postmark deadline):

Office of Admissions
Regent Administrative Center 125
University of Colorado at Boulder
65 UCB
Boulder, Colorado 80309-0065 USA

- 2) EBIO Supplemental Application (found here in word format). Your application will be reviewed by the faculty members (your potential faculty advisors) whose names you list on the EBIO supplemental application. Please submit the EBIO supplemental application to the following address by December 1, 2006 (postmark deadline).

Graduate Coordinator
Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology (EBIO)
University of Colorado at Boulder
334 UCB
Boulder, CO 80309-0034

You may also send the application by e-mail attachment to the Graduate Coordinator at the following address: <EBIOgrad@colorado.edu>.

- 3) Contact potential faculty advisor(s). Your acceptance depends very heavily upon the recommendation of a potential faculty advisor (see faculty listings), so be sure to contact a potential faculty advisor before the application deadline.

complete by this deadline. We are sorry, but no late applications will be accepted.

You will be notified about your acceptance or non-acceptance for admission by mid-April of 2007.