Project Description

The Colorado football program has a synthetic practice field north of Boulder Creek. The field is a standard Collegiate Football Field of approximately (+-) 95,000 square feet of synthetic surface. The project will consist of removing the existing synthetic surface; the University would like strategies to reuse or recycle the current infill and synthetic surface. The Sub-base will require minor re-grade to ensure the proper contour and drainage. Any aggregate added must match existing aggregate and conform to the permeability requirements of the synthetic turf system. A new synthetic surface will be installed and will have field markings to match Folsom Field on game day as approved by the owner.

Scope of Services

The current synthetic turf system infill and turf must be removed; with reuse or recycle strategies approved by the owner. The current sand/aggregate sub-base system must be matched and have minor re-grading to prepare for a new synthetic turf system to be installed. The new synthetic turf system will have field marking to closely match Folsom Field on game day. The owner will approve the field marking layout.
