PUBLIC SERVICE

COLORADO LAW

colorado.edu/law/publicservice
NESTLED IN THE FOOTHILLS OF THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS, Colorado Law is consistently ranked as a top law school in both academics and commitment to public service. Colorado Law is proud of its reputation as a public service institution and works hard to foster a new generation of public-service-minded lawyers. Our many programs provide students with hands-on experiences, starting in the first year, to understand the legal needs in our community and begin to meet them.

The faculty and staff at Colorado Law are committed to providing a dynamic experience both during law school and after graduation. Students thrive during their summers, with over 150 each year accepting public service summer work, supported with 65 fellowships funded by the law school. Even more exciting is that a quarter of our most recent graduating class took jobs in public service.

Colorado Law offers students a robust academic experience tailored to their passions. Our nine clinics, in diverse practice areas from American Indian Law, to Juvenile Law, to Technology Law and Policy, introduce students to the satisfaction of serving over 700 low income individuals and nonprofit agencies each year, advancing the common good. Our centers organize unique opportunities to explore and understand the law deeply, such as volunteering for Constitution Day and teaching civic lessons to high school students across the state, or successfully engaging communities around the world to bring sustainable energy technologies to some of the world’s most vulnerable populations.

Colorado Law offers a multidisciplinary, public-service-minded education to produce the future’s best lawyers. We look forward to sharing our programs with you.

COLENE ROBINSON
Clinical Professor of Law
Co-Director of the Juvenile and Family Law Program
Chair of the Public Service Committee
OVERVIEW

Colorado Law’s community and curriculum will enable you to engage in public service during and after school. Our combination of course options, clinics, volunteer opportunities, and networking events prepares students to pursue public service opportunities in government, nonprofit, and corporate environments.

CLINICS

American Indian Law Clinic
Since 1992, the American Indian Law Clinic has advised tribes and prepared matters to be heard before federal, state, and international legal bodies. Starting in 2014, the AILC will be providing support to the United Nations Special Rapporteur.

Civil Practice Clinic
Handling cases in social security, disability, family law, and asylum and refugee law, students finish the year-long clinic with both breadth and depth of experience.

Criminal Defense Clinic
The Criminal Clinic defends indigent clients accused of jailable municipal and misdemeanor offenses in the Boulder courts. Students represent clients from bond arguments through jury trial.

Criminal and Immigration Defense Clinic
Students represent clients with legal matters before the federal immigration court and/or the Boulder County criminal courts.

Entrepreneurial Law Clinic
The Entrepreneurial Law Clinic provides transactional legal services to local entrepreneurs who are trying to start a business in Colorado. Student attorneys review applications and work with client businesses throughout the school year.

Family Law Clinic
Students interested in Family Law counsel low-income clients in allocation of parental rights and dissolution of marriage cases in Boulder County.

Getches-Green Natural Resources and Environmental Law Clinic
Natural Resources and Environmental Law Clinic students represent clients before courts and administrative agencies to protect the natural resources of the Rocky Mountain region.

Juvenile Law Clinic
Students in the Juvenile Law Clinic handle a full range of legal matters related to youth, including client representation in the child welfare system or the juvenile justice system.

Samuelson-Glushkow Technology Law and Policy Clinic
The TLPC advocates for sound technology, telecommunications, privacy, and intellectual property policy in the public interest before federal and state administrative agencies and other policymakers.

CERTIFICATES
American Indian Law Certificate
Juvenile and Family Law Certificate
Natural Resources Law and Policy Certificate

LOAN REPAYMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAM
Awards up to $6,500 per year for five years in loan repayments after graduation to select students who choose underserved or public service work.

PUBLIC SERVICE PLEDGE
By signing the Colorado Law Public Service Pledge, students commit to 50 hours of law-related public service work, not for credit or other compensation, during their time at the Law School. Students who fulfill their pledge will be recognized at graduation, and their public service will be reflected on their transcripts.

PUBLIC SERVICE FELLOWSHIPS
Jonathan Boyd Chase Human Rights
Colorado Law Public Service Summer
Environmental Law Society
Dale Hatfield Scholars Award
Richard R. Helmick Public Service
Moran and Kleiman Public Service
Patton Boggs Public Policy
PISA Public Interest Summer
Sandgrund Environmental Law
Women’s Law Caucus Public Interest
CAREERS

Our commitment to helping you excel in your professional endeavors comes through the individualized support of our Career Development Office. With four career advisors with JDs, we will connect you with employers and help you succeed in the current job market. The depth and breadth of experiences, theory, and skills you will gain will enable you to make meaningful contributions to the field of public service upon graduation. Our 7,000+ alumni network provides you access to and support from leaders across the nation.

RECENT TOP EMPLOYERS

10th Circuit Court of Appeals
1st Judicial District Attorney’s Office (Golden, Colorado)
4th Judicial District Attorney’s Office (Colorado Springs, Colorado)
Anchorage, Alaska Superior Court
Arizona Attorney General's Office
Boulder County District Court
Colorado Attorney General’s Office
Colorado State Public Defender
Colorado Supreme Court
Denver District Attorney’s Office

Denver District Court
DNA People’s Legal Services
EPA, Region 3, Honors Fellowship, Office of General Counsel
Federal Communications Commission
IRS Office of Chief Counsel
Massachusetts Public Defender
U.S. Air Force Judge Advocate General (JAG)
U.S. Army JAG
U.S. Attorney’s Office for the Districts of Colorado and New Mexico
U.S. District Court, District of Wyoming

“My LRAP award has made a positive impact on my career and reminds me that Colorado Law is dedicated to making a career as a public defender a real option for me and other graduates.”

A. TYRONE GLOVER, JR. (’09)
Colorado Deputy State Public Defender

“The education I received at Colorado Law not only provided me with essential legal skills, but gave me the foundation to use these skills in advancing the public good, and the supportive community furthered my desire to make a real impact in our state.”

KARA VEITCH (’00)
Deputy Executive Director
Colorado Department of Personnel and Administration

“My time at the clinic confirmed that nothing else, not even the most lucrative private law firm associateship, would fulfill my desire to make a meaningful difference in people’s lives through public service.”

IAN SHIPPS (’08)
Supervisory Equal Opportunity Specialist
Office for Civil Rights
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

“At Colorado Law, I found my role models that guided me towards ways to pursue public service work. Colorado Law also taught me the critical thinking skills I use every day.”

JENNI LUKE (’98)
CEO
Step Up Women’s Network
The Constitution sits at the heart of the American legal system and has always formed a key component of legal education. The Byron R. White Center for the Study of American Constitutional Law at Colorado Law seeks to help students and citizens engage with relevant constitutional questions in and beyond the law school. Through the center’s programs at Colorado Law and in the community, the White Center has become a hub for bringing law students, lawyers, judges, high school students, public school teachers, and interested citizens into our nation’s constitutional conversation. By broadening the conversation beyond our law school walls, the center reinforces Colorado Law’s commitment to maintain a diverse, involved community.

The White Center was founded in 1990 and has stayed true to its mission to support excellence in constitutional legal scholarship, to offer opportunities for Colorado Law students to serve the community, and to expand public knowledge and informed discussion about the Constitution. As a student you will have the opportunity to participate in yearly programming or work as a research fellow to engage more deeply in the center’s mission and projects.

PROGRAMS

John Paul Stevens Lecture
The Stevens Lecture brings a well-known jurist to Colorado Law each year. The lecture is open to the public, with up to 2,000 attendees each year, and includes a question-and-answer session. The inaugural lecture was delivered in 2011 by former U.S. Supreme Court Justice John Paul Stevens with Justices Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Sandra Day O’Connor, and Antonin Scalia in subsequent years.

Colorado Law Constitution Day Project
This project launched in September 2011 and enables Colorado Law students to visit high schools in honor of Constitution Day and has already reached more than 350 classrooms across the state of Colorado. For Constitution Day 2012, presenters taught a lesson about the Fourth Amendment, in 2013 about the First Amendment and fighting words, and in 2014 presenters taught an interactive lesson about the First Amendment and online bullying.

Rothgerber Conference
This conference has attracted prominent legal scholars from around the nation for over 20 years. Recent topics include constitutional literacy, how federalism impacts the constitutional debates, and litigating constitutional change, including discussions on the people and the strategies that have shaped litigation on the Second Amendment, gay marriage, voting rights, abortion, and other controversial constitutional questions.

Marshall-Brennan Constitutional Literacy Project
Through the Marshall-Brennan Project, upper-level Colorado Law students partner with public school teachers in underserved high schools to teach a course about the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. The project exposes high school students to higher education opportunities and encourages them to participate in a moot court competition hosted at Colorado Law each spring. Finalists earn a trip to Washington, D.C. to compete in the national moot court competition.
Melissa Hart devotes her teaching and scholarship to employment discrimination, civil procedure, and constitutional law. She has been teaching at Colorado Law since 2000 and has been the Director of the Byron R. White Center for the Study of American Constitutional Law in 2010. A 1995 graduate of Harvard Law School, Professor Hart clerked for Judge Guido Calabresi of the Second Circuit and for Justice John Paul Stevens on the United States Supreme Court. Professor Hart practiced law for several years in Washington, D.C., including as a trial attorney at the U.S. Department of Justice.

Professor Hart runs the Colorado Law chapter of the Marshall-Brennan Constitutional Literacy Project. She remains active in the legal community, serving on the Colorado Access to Justice Commission, the Colorado Supreme Court’s Judicial Ethics Advisory Committee and Board of Continuing Judicial and Legal Education. She has authored several amicus briefs in employment discrimination cases before the U.S. Supreme Court and in other matters before several courts of appeals. Professor Hart is the 2012 president of the American Association of Law Schools Section on Civil Rights, and was the president of the section on Employment Discrimination in 2008. She is on the editorial board of the peer-reviewed Employee Rights and Employment Policy Journal and is a member of the Executive Committee of the Labor Law Group.

MELISSA HART
Professor
Director, Byron R. White Center

SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES

Faculty at Colorado Law are committed to collaborating with students on public service work beyond the classroom. Professors lead these and additional service opportunities, which students join in their very first year.

Acequia Assistance Project
Professor Sarah Krakoff
Student volunteers travel to the San Luis Valley of Colorado to assist low-income farmers, whose families have lived there for centuries, with protecting their water rights and their long-standing sustainable farming practices.

Colorado Innocence Project
Clinical Professor Ann England
This entirely volunteer student organization works to free the wrongly convicted from prison.

Consumer Empowerment Project
Professor Amy Schmitz
This is a nonprofit consumer education and advocacy project that aims to provide helpful and independent information. Volunteers write short blogs on hot topics having to do with financial tips, being a smart consumer, student financial strategies, digital privacy, debt collection, credit card rules, and other consumer issues.

Governors’ Climate & Forests Task Force (GCF)
Professor William Boyd
GCF is a unique subnational collaboration between 19 states and provinces from Brazil, Indonesia, Mexico, Nigeria, Peru, and the United States that is working to develop regulatory frameworks to reduce emissions from deforestation and land use change.

Pro Bono Research and Legal Writing Project
Professor Amy Griffin
Law students help local Legal Services attorneys provide high quality civil legal services through dedicated research and writing on pressing issues facing indigent clients in Colorado. Griffin provides advice and mentorship as students work on their research and writing skills through this project.

Record and Arrest Sealing
Clinical Professors Colene Robinson and Ann England
Be part of a volunteer core partnering with the Women’s Bean Project that provides transitional employment to help chronically unemployed and impoverished women gain full-time employment through helping seal arrest records.
Clockwise from top left:
Grant Sullivan ('08) and Kevin Murphy ('08) at George Washington High School for Constitution Day. Bill Ritter ('81), Former Colorado Governor, and Hank Brown ('69), Former United States Senator. Colorado Health Equity Program and law student Amy Ellis ('15); Cynthia Conner, Salud Family Health Center social worker; and Professor Dayna Matthew.
Roy Romer ('52), Former Colorado Governor; Douglas J. Friednash, Former Denver City Attorney; Michael Carrigan ('94), University of Colorado Regent; and Joe Neguse ('09), University of Colorado Regent. Students clearing an acequia ditch in the San Luis Valley, Colorado.
Professor Scott Peppet and Jenni Luke ('98), CEO of Step Up Women’s Network.
Clockwise from top left:
Anthony Santos ('13), Deputy District Attorney, 4th Judicial District; Judge J. Eric Elliff ('87), Denver District Court, 2nd Judicial District; and Stefanie Gaffigan ('06), Public Defender, Adams County.

Michael Connor ('93), Deputy Secretary of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Denver District Attorney's Office
Back row left to right: Ashley Beck ('13), Deputy District Attorney; Joe Morales ('94), Chief Deputy District Attorney; Henry Cooper III ('87), Chief Deputy District Attorney; and Mitch Morrissey, Denver District Attorney. Front row left to right: Jake Friedberg ('11), Deputy District Attorney; Lindsay VanGilder ('09), Deputy District Attorney; and Andrew Garnett ('12), Deputy District Attorney.

The Honorable Jay Breese, The Honorable Gary Jackson ('70), The Honorable Eric Elliff ('87), The Honorable Michael Bender ('67), The Honorable Claudia Jordan ('80), and The Honorable Patrick Murphy.

Elizabeth “Libby” Cook ('82), Founder, President, and Director of Philanthropiece.
The annual John Paul Stevens Lecture brings a well-known jurist to Colorado Law each year and is open to the public. We have been honored to welcome U.S. Supreme Court Justices Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Sandra Day O’Connor, and Antonin Scalia.