Depository Library Conference

April 30th – May 2nd.

Mark Anderson is presenting about Historical government docs. Army Artists in the Southwest in the 19th Century. Peggy is doing a talk on how to plan a virtual conference.

Collecting Patterns for Needs & Offers

How is current collecting pattern working? Institutions should consult their own lists to make sure that they match actual collecting patterns.

GPO is resuming public access assessments for Colorado

Nicole was first. CULaw is going first next week.

Mark Popielarski's presentation on Law School technologies

- Overview of legal research certificate class and workshops. Because courses weren't offered for credit they could not use Blackboard. Libguides page for class has:
 - o "slideshare" widget hosts powerpoint slides, tracks views.
 - o Chart program called "Giffy." great for visual learners.
 - o "Snagit" allows one to create demonstrational visualization with notation.
 - o Survey software used to collect feedback on course.
- This past year, DU legal research instructors used coursesites.com instead of libguides to create course pages. Made two pages: one for day students and one for evening.
 - o CMS and editor are very intuitive, similar to blackboard paradigm.
 - o Use captivate for video and slide tutorials because editing is easier.
 - o Great class quizzes hosted on the coursesites tool.
 - o Tool offered extra tracking and workflow constraints for evening student to make sure that they do the work.
- Panopto: Online course capture software. Different windows for classroom video, slideshow presentation, and audience comments.

Presentation followed by Q&A

Peggy Demonstrates Zoom virtual conferencing SaaS. CU Boulder will be using a new virtual conference software because adobe connect is too expensive for the amount of usage.
