Howdy Folks!

I hope that you had a tremendous Memorial Day Weekend! I sure enjoyed my extra day of “me”/family time!

Can you believe that May is almost over? With the advent of June and the conclusion of the high school graduation season, I suspect that your student is refocusing their attention on a variety of activities—some vacation time, a summer job, and, hopefully, preparing for their freshman year at CU-Boulder!

Enrollment/course selection is an important part of your student’s preparation for their first semester at CU-Boulder. Enrollment appointments actually begin next week. Your student can verify the date of their enrollment appointment via their MyCUInfo account. Here are some things that your student should do to make sure they’re ready to enroll in classes:

- Complete their placement tests and pre-registration items if they haven’t done so already
- Review the advising and enrollment modules on Desire2Learn (D2L)
- Read through the Registration Guide from the Registrar’s Office
- Run, or review, their degree audit in MyCUInfo
- Explore potential classes and add them to their shopping cart in MyCUInfo

We hope your student enjoys building their class schedule on their own, but if they get stuck, we’ll be here to help! Check out the live Zoom chat schedule for when academic advisors will be available on-line. Once your student has enrolled, an academic advisor will make sure your son/daughter’s schedule is appropriate and contact your student if adjustments are needed.

I guess that’s all for now folks! Remember, your best sources of general information regarding your student’s transition to CU-Boulder student are the New Student Welcome Program website or the Parent Relations website. Don’t hesitate to give us a “buzz” if you have questions (303-492-1380 or parents@colorado.edu).

All the best… Barney, Caro and Lynn
