Circle the correct answer.

1. True or false? Plantinga thinks that if naturalism and evolution were both true, animals with beliefs would probably have mostly true ones.
2. True or false? Plantinga thinks that if the probability of reliable cognitive faculties is low or inscrutable, that provides a defeater for the belief that our cognitive faculties are reliable.
3. True or false? Draper thinks we'd be quite likely to have generally reliable cognitive faculties if "sensible naturalism" and evolution are both true.
4. True or false? Draper agrees with Plantinga that if  $P(R/N&E)$  were inscrutable, that would provide a defeater for R.
5. True or false? Draper thinks the contents of our beliefs make a difference to what we do.
6. True or false? Adams thinks that if God commanded us to be cruel to other people we would have a moral obligation to be cruel to other people.
7. True or false? Adams thinks that no atheist could know that cruelty is morally wrong.
8. True or false? Adams thinks you could know that something is wrong without knowing the true nature of the property of being wrong.
9. True or false? Adams identifies wrongness with contrariety to the commands of a loving God.
10. True or false? Adams thinks wrongness is an objective but non-natural property.
