

THE NATIONAL CONSORTIUM FOR TEACHING ABOUT ASIA (NCTA) 2017 SEMINAR

Teaching Korea in the Globalizing World

A Professional Development Seminar for Secondary World and U.S. History, World Geography, and World Literature Teachers

Offered by the National Consortium for Teaching about Asia and Program for Teaching East Asia at the University of Colorado Boulder

Funded by the Korea Foundation and Freeman Foundation funding to NCTA

The National Consortium for Teaching about Asia invites applications for a 30-hour NCTA seminar on modern and contemporary Korea for Colorado and Wyoming secondary teachers. This seminar is offered through a combination of online, residential, and one-day workshop formats.

Overview: Presenting authentic voices through Korean narratives and texts, this seminar offers teachers the opportunity to use a humanities approach to engage in study, analysis, and discussion of scholarship related to Korea's interactions with the modern world. Participants will work with Korean studies scholars and specialists to learn about the Korean people's encounters and approaches to colonialism, democracy, the Cold War, communism, command economics, and capitalism in the last 125 years. The program will also consider how and what to teach about contemporary North and South Korea in the classroom.

Eligibility and Selection: Enrollment is limited to 30 secondary (grades 6-12) teachers. Applications will be accepted on a rolling admission basis, with preference given to social studies teachers and teacher-teams. Priority deadline: April 21, 2017. Applications received after April 21 will be considered if spaces remain.

Seminar Delivery, Locations, and Dates: Teachers will participate in the seminar through three components:

- Approximately six hours of online instruction and discussion beginning June 15, 2017.
- A two-day (13-hours) subsidized residential seminar at CU-Boulder, July 24-July 25, 2017.
- Two one-day (5.5-hour) workshops at CU, Saturdays, September 16 and 30, 2017.

Program Costs and Incentives:

- Teachers participating in the seminar pay a non-refundable $100 registration fee.
- Participants receive course materials and $150 stipend upon successful completion of the seminar and assignments.
- Light breakfasts, lunches, and one dinner (July 24) provided at face-to-face meetings.
- Dormitory housing (double occupancy) on the CU Boulder campus provided for night of July 24, 2017.
- Participants are responsible for travel to face-to-face meetings.
- Optional graduate credit from the University of Colorado, at the participant's expense.
- Eligibility to apply for continuing study through NCTA-sponsored study tours to East Asia.

Apply online at <http://www.colorado.edu/ptea/content/korea-seminar>. For more information, contact seminar leader, Catherine Ishida at Catherine.Ishida@colorado.edu or 303-735-5115.