All provide stimulating reading and discussion. A new section under Noncredit highlights morning and afternoon classes at the East Boulder Community Center, offered in cooperation with the City of Boulder Senior Services Division; current choices include Colorado Geology, Plant Identification and a video workshop. Plus dozens of our usual (and not so usual) offerings, from computer programming to analytic geometry, TQM training, public speaking, film studies, Hebrew studies and much much more. After-hours learning: Solid academic challenge with a kick-back collegial energy. Can be habit forming.

Evening credit students are here by choice. They like the informal atmosphere, the give and take of class discussions. Credits may be applied to the degree of your choice. Each school or college admits a certain number of evening credit hours (usually 12) before you must apply for admission as a degree student. If you are thinking of applying to CU, you should consult a current catalog for admission requirements and make an appointment with a CU admissions advisor.

Eligibility: All you need is a high school diploma or GED. (Individuals on University of Colorado financial stops or academic suspension from the College of Engineering and Applied Science or the College of Business may not enroll.)

Residency: Whether you are a resident or non-resident, you may take up to 3 semester hours per term or session for $80 per credit hour. Residency makes a difference only if you are registering for 4 or more credit hours. If you have lived in Colorado for the past 12 months, you may be eligible for in-state tuition rates although you may be asked for documentation. The last day to petition (provide residency documentation) for Spring semester is January 31, 1995.

Under 21: If you're not 22 years old by the first day of classes, you are assumed to have the same legal residence as your parents. If your parents live out of state, you may petition the University of Colorado for resident status as an emancipated minor. If you believe your initial classification is incorrect, talk to the Classification Coordinator at 492-5148.

Tuition: Resident tuition is $80 per credit hour. Some courses requiring special equipment or materials may be slightly higher. If you're not a Colorado resident and want to register for 4 or more credit hours, you'll be charged non-resident tuition. Please see Survival Tip on page 9 for more information.

Privileges: As a Boulder Evening Credit student, you have access to the following services.
- Total library services at no additional charge
- Recreation Center membership for $74 a semester
- Wardenburg Student Health Services for $52.80 a semester
- Photo IDs for $10 cash, checks, or MasterCard (please bring photo identification). Boulder campus validation stickers are not available.

To sign up for these and other student benefits, simply take your registration receipt to the appropriate office.

Counseling Services: Free academic counseling is available to help you plan a degree program, decide on a major, or simply explore your options. Feel free to call 492-5145 for an appointment.

Financial Aid: Degree students may qualify for all financial aid programs if eligible. Nondegree students taking courses for credit may qualify for a Stafford Loan (formerly GSL) if eligible. Applications are available in the Office of Financial Aid, Environmental Design, Room 2 (492-5091).

Veteran Benefits: As an eligible veteran or veteran dependent, you may enroll in evening classes and apply credit toward a degree. If you have questions about your eligibility and benefits, contact Veterans Services in the Office of Financial Aid, Environmental Design, Room 2 or call 492-7322.

To Enroll: Advance registration is necessary, by mail, by FAX or in person at the Division of Continuing Education, 1221 University Avenue. See the instructions on the inside front cover of this catalog.

To Drop: To drop a credit course and ensure that you receive any tuition refund that may be due, come to the Division of Continuing Education, 1221 University Avenue and complete a drop voucher. If you don't officially withdraw from a course, you may receive a grade of "F" for that class.

Pass/Fail Option: This option is not available for Boulder Evening Credit Courses.

Special Faculty-Staff Registration: Faculty and staff of the University of Colorado at Boulder may enroll in Boulder Evening Credit Courses at half the regular tuition on a space available basis. Please bring a current copy of your PAF (showing at least half-time employment) to registration beginning January 17.

Nanci Grayson says that Nutrition, Health and Performance is a basic nutrition education course that shows how food choices affect performance in all areas of life. This upper division science course appeals to Premed Students, Kinesiology majors and anyone with an interest in the subject. The highlight of the course? Self-assessment of your own habits. She says, "It's an eye opener. The biggest mistake most students make is thinking that a supplement will make up for unhealthy habits. Or getting so focused on one nutrient (fat, for example) that they lose track of the big picture. Nanci holds a Master of Science degree in Food Science and Human Nutrition from CSU. She is a Registered Dietitian and a Certified Diabetic Educator who provides outpatient nutrition counseling at Boulder Medical Center. A sports enthusiast who takes advantage of Colorado's spectacular recreational resources, Nanci enjoys skiing, biking, hiking, camping and riding. She likes the Evening Credit program because of its "motivated students, people who are here by choice."

Terry Maker doesn’t just teach art, she makes it. And she shows students how to see the world through artists’ eyes. Creativity, she says, is an expansive mode of “what-if” thinking. Like a muscle, it can be developed in a disciplined way, to open up a more adventurous approach to your work and your life. A professional artist affiliated with Denver’s Robinson Gallery, Terry works conceptually with found objects. Her students (she teaches drawing and painting) often begin cautiously (“... if you have to step over some fears to do this”) and end up amazed at what they produce. Terry is a CU alum with an M.F.A. and another Masters degree in Education (counseling), making her an empathetic listener and a respectful coach. She works part-time as a conservation technician for Denver-based WCCFA, on paintings for the Denver Art Museum and private collections. An expert at in-painting, she has filled in damaged sections of works by Georgia O’Keeffe and other prominent artists. Free time finds her combing flea markets for bizarre and evocative objects that invite a creative response.

Working with marginal computer skills is like driving your car with the brake on. Let us help.

There are many ways to build proficiency in a program or system, but there’s nothing like hands-on help from an expert who can tell you why, show you how, and show you again when you get mixed up. You can earn a certificate or just pick up some shortcuts. Either way, individual attention from outstanding instructors makes it painless for learners at every level.

Certificate in Computer Applications
You may earn a Certificate in Computer Applications in roughly three or four semesters, but there is no time limit. As you complete appropriate courses, credit is automatically applied toward Certificate requirements. The requirements are straightforward.

A. Four required core courses:
   1. Computer Literacy* (CCA 100)
   2. Concepts of Data Processing and Information Technology (CCA 335)
   3. Computer Application Systems Overview (CCA 340)
   4. Software Development and Maintenance (CCA 350)

   “Computer Literacy,” the introductory course, is designed to be completed first, although you may take it at the same time as another course. If you have a substantial background with computers, you may omit it. Simply submit a letter to the Division of Continuing Education requesting an exemption from CCA 100 Computer Literacy, if you plan on achieving the Certificate.

B. At least one course in programming. Programming languages offered include BASIC, Pascal, C and C++. Others are added to keep pace with industry standards.

C. Four elective courses chosen from the full range of computer topics. Any computer applications course not listed above and not a specific programming language qualifies as an elective, including all graphics courses.

Leading-Edge Courses in:
   - Basic computer skills
   - Operating Systems
   - Graphical user interfaces
   - Computer Aided Design
   - Desktop Publishing
   - Computer Graphics
   - Programming

Art Smoot defines the Internet as “a network of networks kept together by organized chaos.” He describes it as a host of applications linked by a single protocol that “enables you to do almost anything you want” in the realm of computer-driven communication. If you’ve always been curious to know what lies beyond e-mail, Art’s hands-on Internet class will give you a personal guided tour. An independent computer consultant, Art believes the Internet will “change the way commerce is done in some respects,” and that “small companies can be most swift in taking advantage of it.” It’s almost impossible to measure, but educated guesses place the size of the worldwide Internet user community at 24 to 30 million and growing rapidly. “Every day when you get on, more people are connected,” Art notes. Class participants are given an account through the university, enabling them to log in and use most tools in a UNIX shell. You can’t get your hands on everything, but it is a close-up look at what’s available and possible now.

Application Programming
Intermediate Level
This more intensive first programming course is structured after the University's CSG-1200 programming course. It covers the techniques for designing common algorithms to solving practical problems. Topics include functions and procedures with parameter passing, data structures, files, recursion and pointers. It is designed to provide a sound background for entering a computer science degree program or for a course containing C++ programming. The course combines a lecture and self-paced laboratory format with hands-on programming using Turbo Pascal (Version 6.0) and Turbo C++ (Version 1.0). CCA 320

Introduction to the C Language for Programmers

Intermediate Level

This course provides an introduction to the C programming language for professional programmers. Master the fundamentals of the C language including: data types, control structures, functions and parameter passing, program structure, separate compilation, the C preprocessor, arrays, pointers, strings and structures. Portability, efficiency and readability will be emphasized with examples throughout the course. The format is lecture with homework exercises to reinforce lecture concepts. Any C compiler will suffice and logins on university computers will be provided for those with no access to their own C compiler. Prerequisite: Fluency in almost any language will suffice as basic programming concepts will not be covered. Those with no programming experience should consider CCA 302 Hands-On C II. Recommended text: The C Programming Language, Kernighan and Ritchie, University Book Center, UMC 10.

Carol J. Meier, M.S.
Section 500: Mondays, January 25-March 15, 6-9 p.m.
8 sessions. Hellemes 137. $265.

CCA 327

Introduction to C++ Programming

Intermediate Level

C++ is an extension of C that supports object-oriented (O-O) programming. This course addresses the essential concepts of O-O programming (classes, objects, inheritance and polymorphism), showing how these are supported in C++ (member functions, public and private, virtual functions). The course also covers parts of C++ that are not directly related to O-O programming (constants, function overloading, default arguments, inline functions). Prerequisite: CCA 321 Intermediate/Advanced C Programming or equivalent.

Tom Cargill, Ph.D.
Section 500: Mondays, January 25-February 27, 6-9 p.m.
6 sessions. Hellemes 141. $235.

CCA 328

Intermediate C++ Programming

Intermediate Level

This course continues the treatment of C++ and object oriented programming. First, it covers features of C++ that are needed in production programming: static members, abstract base classes, protected access, friends, arrays of objects. Another aspect of production C++ programming is the process by which programs are built: header files, type-safe linkage, linking with C code. More specialized material will then be covered: operator overloading and references, initialization versus assignment. Finally, the course covers a large collection of "Gotchas" that may bite the unsuspecting C++ programmer. Prerequisite: CCA 327 Introduction to C++ Programming or equivalent.

Tom Cargill, Ph.D.
Section 500: Mondays, March 6-April 17 (skip March 27), 6-9 p.m.
6 sessions. Hellemes 141. $235.

CCA 329

Advanced Topics in C++ Programming

Advanced Level

This course completes the treatment of C++ covering multiple inheritance and templates in detail, and introducing exceptions. We address the subtle question of which kind of problems really need multiple inheritance, and the language complexities of virtual base classes. Templates (generic types) are more straightforward, but also require skill for their effective use. Exceptions are introduced; they are not yet widely supported by production compilers. Prerequisite: CCA 328 Intermediate C++ or equivalent.

Tom Cargill, Ph.D.
Section 500: Mondays, April 24 and May 1, 6-9 p.m.
2 sessions. Hellemes 141. $150.

CCA 358

Programmer’s Introduction to the X Window System and OSF/Motif

Advanced Level

The X Window System is one of today’s most important window systems, and is becoming an adopted standard in a large part of the computer industry. In addition, Motif is emerging as the dominant Graphical User Interface (GUI) of X. This course provides a technical overview of X and the programming fundamentals for the X library, the X Toolkit, and OSF/Motif. Topics include: window system concepts and event-driven programming, X fundamentals: client/server model, windows, events, graphics, and window managers toolkit fundamentals: callback style programming, widgets, classes, resources, the Motif widget set. Examples given in C. Prerequisite: CCA 321 Intermediate/Advanced C Programming or equivalent, and experience with complex, multi-layered software systems.

Quality as a way of life. Instruction that takes you from theory to practice . . . to results.

The rules of the marketplace have changed, and quality has become a key factor in determining a company's success. The demand for qualified professionals competent in implementing and managing successful strategies of Total Quality Management continues to grow as does the impact of TQM on all aspects of American business.

To meet the challenge, the University of Colorado at Boulder, Division of Continuing Education is proud to address this timely subject. In cooperation with local business and industry, the Division is offering a Professional Certificate Program in Total Quality Management. This program will provide the knowledge and skills requisite to promote and implement TQM successfully in the workplace. Although anyone may take as many or as few courses as they wish, to earn the Professional Certificate in Total Quality Management, individuals must apply for admission to the certificate program, complete the seven core courses and two approved elective courses of their choice, and complete a team/individual project demonstrating total quality management skills and concepts. Participants with prior training/work experience may be allowed to substitute advanced elective courses for some of the required introductory core courses.

Our program is unique . . .

The Professional Certificate Program in Total Quality Management was developed at the request of business and industry. Representatives from a variety of firms were involved in its creation. Their input was employed in curriculum design, as well as in administrative processes. Course content and format will be practical and hands-on. Team participation within an organization will be encouraged through a reduced tuition plan for those employers enrolling three or more employees in the program. The culmination of the certificate program will be a team/individual project that will demonstrate the participants' knowledge and skills in total quality management.

REQUIRED COURSES

Introduction to Quality Management Fundamentals and Philosophy
Exploration of the philosophies from Taylor to Deming, Juran, Crosby, and Taguchi. This course will identify and explain the various quality philosophies, explore the application of quality management methodologies, and the implementation of total quality management concepts to improve productivity and a firm’s competitive edge.

Managing the Transition to TQM
Understanding and promoting the tools of quality are requisite to implementing TQM but are insufficient as “stand alone steps” to that process. To implement TQM successfully, one must also understand and address organizational systems, culture, and power blocks. Focus of this course will be the principles of instilling vision in organizations, aligning organizational structure with the vision, training employees effectively, and managing organizational change.

Basic Tools for Improving Quality and Productivity
For most American companies, the cost of quality runs to approximately 25-40% of the costs of goods sold. This course will explore and define the cost of quality, measurement techniques, and how to use a cost of quality system to measure actual systems performance and productivity. Participants will be introduced to the seven basic tools of quality and techniques for their use.

Building High Performance Work Teams
This course will focus on techniques for building and maintaining high performance, continuous improvement work teams. Topics will include how to select the work team for the continuous improvement project, how to manage team formation and development, and how to use basic team building and facilitation skills. Participants will also be introduced to problem solving and decision making techniques.

Introduction to Statistical Tools for Improving Productivity and Quality (SPC)
Using statistical methods to improve quality will be the focus of this course. The key to improved quality is measurement. Participants will develop an understanding of basic statistical concepts and will gain insight into SPC, what it can and cannot do for their organization, and how to apply it to impact on the bottom line performance. Discussion on the design of experiments will include why they are needed to optimize products and processes and how the results are applied.

Measuring and Achieving Customer Satisfaction
An introduction to the specific tools and techniques needed to build and measure a service culture and improve service levels within an organization. Focus will be given to recognizing quality service, diagnosing customer satisfaction, maximizing value to the customer, translating quality service to the organization, defining specific organizational standards for quality customer service, and acknowledging and achieving quality service in organizations.

Quality Function Deployment (QFD): A Structured Approach to Planning
Quality Function Deployment (QFD) guides managers through the planning process with a structure for identifying customer needs, allowing them to evaluate each proposed feature of the product or service function and how it affects the requirements of the customer. Course content will focus on the QFD business methodology and how it can improve quality and productivity.

ELECTIVE COURSES

Manufacturing Electives
Introduction to World Class Manufacturing
Practical Reliability Analysis Methods
Advanced Statistical Process Control (SPC)

Service Electives
Implementing TQM in a Service Environment
Improving Customer Service Processes

Management Electives

Beginnings, becomings.

You know how it is. What begins as wishful thinking on a ramble up the Mesa Trail quickly progresses to a full-blown wild idea over latte on the mall. A scheme to redirect your life—to do more of what you love and less of what you dread. But why let it die there? Come talk to us. We help people turn wishes into purposeful plans. So that beginnings become adventures. And adventures create opportunities to learn and grow and succeed. Let us help you begin. Let us help you become.
