There are two ways to withdraw from the University of Colorado: Degree seeking students must either complete the Registrar's withdrawal procedures listed below, or withdraw by default (by never registering or not re-registering after dropping all classes).

Non-degree students that are enrolled only through the Division of Continuing Education and Professional Studies must withdraw from that campus separately.

Nonattendance DOES NOT constitute withdrawal, nor is it the responsibility of a professor to drop a student from a class for nonattendance. If a student stops attending a class, the student remains liable for all applicable tuition and fees and will receive a failing grade.

Students that are considering withdrawing from a semester should:

- First check with your advisor.
- View drop/add information if you want to drop one or two of your classes rather than ALL of your classes.
- For Spring 2011 withdrawal information, look over the Spring 2011 Withdrawal Information
- Use the Withdrawal Checklist

Deadlines and rules for withdrawing may vary with each college or school. Students should check with their dean's office concerning their college or school's withdrawal policies.

Medical Withdraws: All withdraws are processed according to the Withdrawal Refund/Assessment Schedule. A medical withdraw is when a doctor from the Wardenburg Health Center mandates a student’s withdraw by notifying the Withdrawal Coordinator in the Registrar’s office. A Health stop is placed on the student’s record which prevents registration until the doctor approves the student’s return. After withdrawn, the student may petition the Bursar’s office for a tuition refund.

Returning to CU-Boulder after withdrawing: Beginning with the fall 2010 semester, continuing undergraduate degree-seeking students who withdraw from a semester will be automatically eligible to return within a given time period before a readmit application is required. Review the Return Chart for more information. Degree-seeking students who are taking classes only through the Division of Continuing Education and Professional Studies (CEPS) are considered an enrolled student.

During the semesters of non-enrollment, students’ CU e-mail and portal accounts remain open. To return, students just need to register for classes.

Exceptions: Continuing graduate, law and MBA students must apply for the Time Off Program (TOP) or reapply to return to CU-Boulder. New/transfer students who withdraw by the drop deadline of their first semester must reapply through Admissions to return.

Financial Concerns and Tuition Assessment

Withdrawing students who have received financial aid should review the Office of Financial Aid's Withdrawal Policy.

- Loans: Withdrawing students with Federal Perkins loans must complete a loan exit interview before leaving the university.
• Failure to do so results in a stop on your record. This stop prevents you from receiving a diploma or an academic transcript of work at the university and from registering for any future terms.

• Complete the exit counseling online at the Bursar’s Office, or contact the Student Loan Department in the Bursar’s Office at 303-492-5571 or 1-800-925-9844, or e-mail bursar@colorado.edu.

• Disputes: Withdrawing students with extenuating circumstances should also see Tuition Dispute Information.

• Confirmation Deposit: The Student’s $200 Confirmation Deposit may be returned after withdrawal.

• New Student Fee: The $62-$225 one time new student fee is non-refundable.
