SECOND TERM ACADEMIC PROBATION NOTICE

Dear Arts and Sciences Student,

As you will recall, you were granted two semesters of academic probation status to allow you to raise your cumulative grade point average to a 2.0 or above. I am writing to notify you that you have completed the first term of your two-semester probationary period. If you choose to continue in CU-Boulder main campus classes in spring 2017, that will be your final probationary term.

The College of Arts and Sciences supports your effort to return to academic good standing and recognizes that you are making progress; however, if you do not achieve a 2.000 cumulative GPA by the end of next semester, you will be subject to scholastic suspension, which will make you ineligible to register for main campus classes during any fall or spring term at any of the campuses of the University of Colorado until you are reinstated by the College of Arts and Sciences.

In addition to continuing in day classes next semester, you have several other options available to you (see the information enclosed). In fact, in some circumstances, it may be in your best interest to take a break and return to CU-Boulder in a future term. This is something to discuss with your academic advisor. Your academic advisor can help explain college policies and resources that can maximize your efforts toward getting back on track. To schedule an academic advising appointment, go to http://advising.colorado.edu.

Succeeding in college is not easy; many people encounter challenges along the path to getting their degrees. A first step on the road back to academic good standing is to determine how many credit hours of “B” or higher grades you will need at this point to bring your cumulative grade point average up to a 2.0. Please use the enclosed worksheet to do that and consider bringing the completed worksheet with you to your advising appointment.

Finally, I encourage you to discuss your situation and options with a family member or another trusted mentor. Our office does not notify your parents or guardians of changes in academic status so you should do so, if appropriate.

Sincerely,

Assistant Dean
