ASSETT News: Summer Special Edition

Register for Course Design Workshops: May 17 or May 21

These all-day workshops will feature a morning session on design principles applicable to all courses (regardless of modality) and your choice of afternoon breakout session: flipping the classroom OR designing online/hybrid courses. ASSETT will provide a catered lunch and a $250 professional development award.

Summer Book Club kicks off on May 23

We will be reading Empower: What Happens When Students Own Their Learning. The group will meet three times – May 23, May 29, and June 6 – with specific times to be decided by the registered participants. ASSETT will provide free copies of the book and light refreshments.

Apply for Active Learning Academy by May 31

This NSF-funded, faculty-driven professional development program provides opportunities for instructors to learn about and apply research-based teaching strategies and course design principles to an undergraduate STEM course of their choosing.
