

Position Announcement: Structural Engineer (PE or EIT)

Description

We are currently in need of a Structural Engineer to work as a member of our team in Santa Fe, NM.

About the Firm

Luchini Trujillo Structural Engineers is a consulting engineering firm which specializes in structural design of buildings. For more information about the company please visit our website at

<https://LTSENG.com>

The ideal candidate:

- Is a dedicated self-starter that has the ability to interface and coordinate with other project team members.
- Has strong organizational skills.
- Is detail oriented.
- Can problem solve and work with limited supervision.

Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Structural engineering design, analysis, and application of building codes for structural systems.
- Creation of project construction documents (drawings and editing specifications).
- Construction administration which includes shop drawing review and approval.
- Field inspections.

Qualifications

- Engineering Intern (EI) certification required or can be obtained within 6 months of hire.
- Minimum Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering
- Experience with AutoCAD is required, and experience with Revit is strongly desired.

How to Apply

A background check will be run on all final candidates. To be considered for the position, applicants must apply through our website at: <https://LTSENG.com/careers>

Benefits

As an employee you will receive:

- Competitive base pay
- Merit-based bonuses
- Company-paid health coverage
- Paid time off
- Holidays