

New Histories for the Age of Shakespeare

Friday 16 November 2018

British and Irish Studies Room (M549), 5th Floor Norlin

9.00-10.30am Panel 1

Prof. Glyn Parry (Roehampton University, UK): 'Putting the magic back in Elizabethan politics'

Prof. Catherine Chou (Grinnell College): Elizabethan parliaments and politics

Dr Alexandra Gajda (Jesus College, Oxford): 'William Camden's 1590s'

10.45am-12.15pm Panel 2

Prof. Peter Lake (Vanderbilt University): Puritans and the 'public sphere'

Prof. Michael Questier (formerly of Queen Mary London, UK): 'Charting Resistance to the English Reformation'

Prof. Lori Anne Ferrell (Claremont Graduate University): The Victorians and the history of English Reformation

1.45-3.15pm Panel 3

Dr David Trim (Andrews University): 'An Underhanded Queen, a Protestant Council, and Calvinist Partners: Elizabeth I's Regime and the Protestant Cause'

Prof. Rory Rapple (University of Notre Dame): 'The historiography of sixteenth century Ireland: enclosed or narrow?'

Prof. Rupali Mishra (Auburn University): 'Companies, Projects, and Overseas Expansion: Or, what businesses can tell us about state power'

3.30-5.00pm Panel 4

Prof. Christopher Kyle (Syracuse University): 'Political communication'

Prof. Thomas Cogswell (UC Riverside): Popular politics and high politics