

Resources and Organizations for Native Students

In recognition of the Native American Communities, the GLC Diversity Committee has compiled resources for students within these communities. A web version of this document is available by emailing any members of the committee

Denver March Powwow

Colorado was established on the land of the Arapahoe, Apache, Cheyenne, Pueblo, Shoshone, Ute. Every March, members of these communities and many others convene at a modern Powwow in Denver to share their heritage.

<http://www.denvermarchpowwow.org/guide.html>

AISES - American Indian Science and Engineering Society

This organization supports American Indian and Alaskan Natives to pursue the science and engineering fields and connect the student chapter to the professional Native community. This organization has both CU and National Chapters.

CU Chapter: <https://www.aises.org/directory/university-colorado-boulder>

CNAIS - Center for Native American and Indigenous Studies

Promotes collaborative research and community focusing on local and global Indigenous knowledge while fostering NAIS projects that aim to open conversations both in Colorado and the world. They have both undergraduate and graduate oriented chapters.

CU Chapter: <https://www.colorado.edu/cnais/>

NGSG - Native Graduate Student Group

NGSG serves as a supportive foundation for graduate students across all colleges and departments in the University of Colorado system and internationally.

CU Chapter: <https://colorado.presence.io/organization/native-graduate-student-group>

SACNAS- Society for Advancing Chicanos/Hispanics and Native Americans in Science

An organization dedicated to promoting professional development, academic support, and outreach for STEM for Hispanic, Latino, and Native American demographics. They offer memberships, volunteer opportunities, and job postings.

Website: <https://www.sacnas.org/>

Oyate Native American Student Organization

A support organization for Native American/ Indigenous students at the University of Colorado at Boulder - both graduate and undergraduate - and offers a communal atmosphere where students can share their unique cultures, backgrounds, while receiving academic support

Facebook Group: <https://www.facebook.com/groups/oyate.cuboulder/>

