Personal profile

I have a first-class Honours MA in Latin, English and Scottish literatures from St. Andrews University, Scotland, and a PhD in Comparative Literature and Mediaeval Studies from the University of California Berkeley. Before being appointed as Professor of Classics at the University of Colorado Boulder in August 2009, I was successively Assistant Professor of Classics at Cornell University; Assistant Professor and then Associate Professor of Classics at UCLA; then Professor of Classics at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. I have held research fellowships at Clare Hall, Cambridge, and at the Institute for Advanced Studies, Princeton, as well as fellowships from the ACLS, the NEH, and the Loeb Classical Library Foundation. I served for four years as department chair at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, where I also held a Vilas research fellowship. I have served on the editorial boards of Viator and Classical Antiquity and as Associate Editor of the American Journal of Philology. I served for three years on the Nominating Committee of the American Philological Association and then was a Director of that organization (2010-2013). In spring 2010 I was the Visiting NEH Professor at the University of Richmond, Virginia; in summer 2010 I was the William Evans Fellow at the University of Otago, New Zealand. In September/October 2016 I had a fellowship at the Center for Humanities, ANU Canberra. In 2015 the University of Colorado honoured me as College Professor of Distinction in the Arts and Sciences; in 2019 I received the honour of University Distinguished Professor. My main areas of expertise are in Roman poetry and Medieval Latin literature and culture, and reception studies.
