COURSE DESCRIPTION

Economic perspectives can give insights into the optimal use and preservation of our natural environment. In this course we will examine the contributions of economics to studying environmental issues and analyzing environmental policies from an economic perspective. From this course students should have a clear understanding of how economic theory informs public policy as well as some knowledge of what policies are currently being used in environmental issues.

This course is designed for non-economics majors and as such will require less math than other economic courses (see prerequisites). Instead we will blend learning economic theory and (some) mathematical models with discussion of real world examples.

TEXT

Environmental and Natural Resource Economics by Tom Tietenberg and Lynne Lewis, 10th edition (optional). Additional readings may be assigned that require students to access economic journals. Access is free on campus and via the CU VPN.

PREREQUISITES

A basic understanding of microeconomics is required for this class. Students should have previously taken ECON 2010 (Principles of Microeconomics) or an equivalent class at another institution. This course requires students to know basic algebra at the same level as the aforementioned ECON 2010. There will be no formal math review as part of this class.

GRADING

Homework	15%
Literature Review	10%
Participation	15%
Midterms	40%
Final	20%

Homework (D2L):	Homework will be done on D2L. It will be due before class starts. Homework will be graded on a check plus/check/check minus system. The lowest homework score will be dropped. There is no makeup policy.
Literature Review:	At the end of the semester, students will be expected to turn in one literature review. This literature review must be on an approved subtopic of material covered in class. The literature review must be of economic literature.
Participation:	If a student shows up, is respectful, and tries to learn then the student will get full participation points. One day will be dropped.
Midterms:	There will be 2 midterms. Each midterm will be worth 20%. Midterms will be composed of multiple choice questions, short answer questions, and long answer questions.
Final:	The final will be composed of multiple choice questions, short answer questions, and long answer questions. The final exam will require knowledge from throughout the semester, but will focus more heavily on material learned after the second midterm.

Grading will largely be done by the class TA, Jiannan Zhou. Students with concerns over their grades should contact him at Jiannan.Zhou@colorado.edu.

CHEATING

Cheating on will include, but not be limited to, looking at others' work, talking to others during exams, accessing electronic devices during exams, copying the work of others, and sharing work with others. Students that need to use the restroom during an exam may be escorted by TAs or the instructor. Students caught cheating will receive a 0 on the assignment/exam and their class grade will be dropped by 20%. Students who have their work copied on an exam will receive the same punishment unless they are able to prove they took reasonable steps to prevent the cheating. Students will also be reported to the Honor Council for further disciplinary action.

ELECTRONICS

Laptops are allowed, however if a student is caught browsing the internet, that student will lose their laptop privileges. Earbuds and headphones are not allowed. Excessive cell phone use is not allowed. Students who fail to follow these policies will be asked to leave and receive a 0 for the day.

MAKE UP WORK

There will be no make-up work unless students have university sanctioned absences, serious injury, or an emergency that prevents class attendance. Students are required to provide proof that their absence has met these criteria. A note that a student merely attended a medical facility will be insufficient.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Students with Disabilities

If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit to me a letter from Disability Services in a timely manner so that your needs be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities. Contact: 303-492-8671, Center for Community N200, and http://www.Colorado.EDU/disabilityservices.

If you have a temporary medical condition or injury, see guidelines at http://www.colorado.edu/disabilityservices/go.cgi?select=temporary.html.

Disability Services' letters for students with disabilities indicate legally mandated reasonable accommodations. The syllabus statements and answers to Frequently Asked Questions can be found at http://www.colorado.edu/disabilityservices.

Religious Observance Policy

Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to reasonably and fairly deal with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts 6 with scheduled exams, assignments, or required attendance. If you have a conflict, please contact me at the beginning of the term so we can make proper arrangements.

Classroom Behavior Policy

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Students who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Faculty has the professional responsibility to treat all students with understanding, dignity and respect, to guide classroom discussion and to set reasonable limits on the manner in which they and their students express opinions.

Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with differences of race, culture, religion, politics, sexual orientation, gender variance, and nationalities. Class rosters are provided to the instructor with the student's legal name. I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make appropriate changes to my records. See policies at http://www.colorado.edu/policies/classbehavior.html and at http://www.colorado.edu/studentaffairs/judicialaffairs/code.html#student_cod
