Course description:

This is a course in macroeconomics, which investigates the effects of aggregate decisions made by consumers and firms. In this course we will discuss issues relating to both long-run economic growth and short run business cycles, and the role government can have in affecting each. At the end of the semester, you would have a thorough understanding of how the economy actually works.

Prerequisites:

ECON 1000 or 2020; and either ECON 1078 and 1088, or MATH 1300, or MATH 1310, or MATH 1081, or MATH 1080, 1090, and 1100, or APPM 1350, or equivalent. Consult your adviser if you have questions regarding prerequisites.

Textbook:

Grading:

(1) Each of midterm 1, midterm 2, and homework accounts for 30%. The lowest of the three will be dropped.

There is no make-up for midterms. If you miss either of the two midterms for any reason, the other midterm and assignments will automatically account for 60%. Ordinarily, missing both midterms for any reason will cause a fail grade.

Late homework is not acceptable. There might be exceptions, see the "Policy regarding emergencies and special events" below.

(2) Final exam (40%). It is compulsory and cumulative.

Exam dates:

Midterm 1: October 1 (Wednesday)

Midterm 2: November 5 (Wednesday)

Final: December 13 (Saturday), 7:30-10:00pm,

All exams are administered in HUMN 1B80 (the same classroom).

I will generally not allow you to take the final exam on an earlier or later date. This means that you have to make sure you have no other exams on December 13 during 7:30-10:00pm. If you have three or more final examinations on that day, please have a talk with me no later than the end of the sixth week of the semester. In this case, you are expected to provide evidence that you have three or more examinations to qualify for exceptions.

Policy regarding emergencies and special events:

In the case of your own illness or injury, confirmation from a physician, physician's assistant, a nurse-practitioner, or a nurse is required. Be advised that the Wardenburg Health Center cannot provide such verification unless they have provided treatment and the student authorizes release of information to the instructor. Further, barring extraordinary circumstances, the confirmation must be available to me prior to the missed course event.

With regard to family emergencies, you must provide verifiable documentation of the emergency. Unless the emergency is critical you should notify me in advance of your absence from the scheduled course event. In cases of critical emergencies, you must notify me within one week of your absence.

For university-approved curricular and extra-curricular activities, verifiable documentation is also required. The student should obtain from the unit or department sponsoring the activity a letter (or class absence form) indicating the anticipated absence(s). The letter must be presented to me at least one week prior to the first absence.

Additional notes:

Disability

If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit to me a letter from Disability Services in a timely manner so that your needs may be addressed. Religious Holidays

Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to reasonably and fairly deal with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. If any of the scheduled exams in this syllabus conflicts with your religious holiday(s), notify me within the first week of classes so that I can accommodate you as reasonably as I can in accordance with the above stated policy.

Code of Behavior

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Students who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with differences of race, culture, religion, politics, sexual orientation, gender variance, and nationalities. Class rosters are provided to the instructor with the student's legal name. I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make appropriate changes to my records. See
