

Professor Edward Morey

Home Page for Econ 2010 (section 100): Principles of Microeconomics

Fall 2010: Tuesday and Thursday 12:30-1:45 Chem 140

My office hours: Tuesdays from 3:30 to 4:30 and Wednesdays from 10:30 to 12:00. If you need to schedule an appointment outside of normal office hours please email me or check with me after class to schedule a time. My email address is Edward.Morey@Colorado.edu

This is a very large class, almost 500 students; I probably will not learn all of your names. In addition to the course lectures on Tuesdays and Thursdays, you have been assigned to a once-a-week small review session with a graduate teaching assistant. The five teaching assistants for the course are there to help you both in the review sessions and in office hours. (See the link below:)

An important component of the course is the interactive web page for this course at Aplia.com. (See the link below). It includes the course outline, interactive quizzes, etc.

Links to course materials will be activated when the material becomes available

Unless otherwise specified, the materials available online are in .pdf format and can be read with the Adobe Acrobat Reader

- ▣ The text: Microeconomics by Paul Krugman and Robin Wells, second edition
- ▣ Aplia for Econ 2010, Section 100
- ▣ The recitation schedule, the T.A.'s and their office hours \(still needs to be updated for 2010\)
- ▣ Ways the T.A.s might help you to conquer the material
- ▣ Rough lecture notes
- ▣ Copies of the book chapters with notes and comments attached
- ▣ Comments on past exams
- ▣ What, pray tell, is microeconomics? And, why should I care?
- ▣ Who should be encouraged to take this course? Who should be discouraged from taking this course?

- ▣ Exam dates
- ▣ How your course grade will be determined.
- ▣ Links to the course web pages of other principles of microeconomics classes

Unless otherwise specified, the materials available online are in .pdf format and can be read with the Adobe Acrobat Reader If you do not have the Acrobat Reader, you can download it for free from the adobe web site. Once you have Adobe Acrobat Reader downloaded to your machine, clicking the title of the document will open it on the Web in the Acrobat Reader. Then use "save as" under "file" to copy the paper to one of your directories.

Contact me via email | Home Page | Top of Page

Last Update July 27, 2010: 19560 visitors since August 24, 2008