

Shuang Zhang, Associate Professor

PhD, Cornell University, 2012

FIELDS

Economic Development • Health Economics • Labor Economics

CURRENT RESEARCH INTERESTS

The relationship between education and health, particularly parental education and child health; impact of the land reform in China on the sex ratio imbalance; long-term impact of the land reform on academic performance; the One Child Policy; environment and health.

PUBLICATIONS

- “Willingness to Pay for Clean Air: Evidence from Air Purifier Markets in China,” (with Koichiro Ito) Journal of Political Economy, 2020, 128(5), 2019.
- “Land Reform and Sex Selection in China,” (with Douglas Almond and Hongbin Li) Journal of Political Economy, 127 (2): 560-585.
- “The Limits of Political Meritocracy: Screening Bureaucrats Under Imperfect Verifiability,” (with Juan Carlos Suárez Serrato and Xiao YuWang) Journal of Development Economics, 140: 223-241, 2019.
- “Quantifying Coal Power Plant Responses to Tighter SO2 Emissions Standards in China,” (with Valerie Karplus and Douglas Almond) Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, 115 (27): 7004-7009, 2018.
- “The Effects of High School Closure on Education and Labor Market Outcomes in Rural China,” Economic Development and Culture Change, 67 (1): 171-191, 2018.