Brief description of Your Organization:

New Era is the leading voice for young people in Colorado politics and one of the most effective youth civic engagement organizations in the country. We work alongside our peers to grow our generation's power. We fight for a better Colorado for everyone, not just for a privileged few. Since day one, we set out to bring our progressive and diverse generation into the political world—not to get in line and stick with the status quo, but to take charge and reshape our democracy to work better for everyone.

Describe the nature/goals of the project(s):

New Era Colorado is seeking multiple part-time organizing fellows who will work to organize, educate, and mobilize young people to take action and make an impact on progressive issues here in Colorado. In this position you'll work on a team to register voters and mobilize young people to build momentum on higher education reform, towards the 2022 legislative session. You'll recruit volunteers and engage young people through organizing tactics including phone banking, tabling & educational events, opinion media, and digital & relational organizing – all while working towards a vision of a truly equitable Colorado for our generation. Organizing Fellows will conduct voter registration at local college campuses to reach students through regular tabling, as well as large-scale events like National Voter Registration Day!

Please list required and/or desired skills and qualifications:

- Commitment to progressive values, freedom & equity | You are committed to advancing economic justice, abortion access, access to voting, and fighting climate change, recognizing the specific impacts on marginalized people
- Commitment and enthusiasm to organize young people | You are passionate about mobilizing and reaching young people to take action for progressive change.
- Effective communication across a team | You can communicate in a timely, proactive manner, and have a solutions-oriented mindset. You're ready to tackle challenges head-on by proposing solutions and collaborating.
- Able to take direction, giving and receiving feedback, uses feedback to improve | You are enthusiastic to grow and develop at NEC through feedback.

- Drivership & Initiative | You take initiative with independent work, and can manage responsibilities including volunteer relationships, field shifts, and changing priorities.
- Flexible and adaptable | You are down to work in an environment with constantly changing circumstances and rapidly moving parts. You're able and willing to work nontraditional hours (evenings & weekends) to meet young people where they are and when they're free.
- Commitment to diversity, equity, inclusion | You are deeply committed to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion through and within our organization. You think critically about your own identity and work respectfully and collaboratively across different identities – specifically race.
