EWI 11.106 17 Very unwilling had that great lawyer [Lord Mansfield] been to reverse the late decisions [on slavery]; he suggested twice from the bench in the course of the trial [of George Somerset], how the question might be got rid of...

EWI 11.128 14 ...England has the advantage of trying the question [of slavery] at a wide distance from the spot where the nuisance exists;...

EWI 11.128 21 The present of the [British] empire, and the magnitude and number of other questions crowding into court, keep this one [slavery] in balance, and prevent it from...being urged with that intemperance which a question of property tends to acquire.

EWI 11.128 27 There are causes in the composition of the British legislature—which exclude much that is pitiful and injurious in other legislative assemblies. From these reasons, the question [of slavery] was discussed with a rare independence and magnanimity.

EWI 11.135 26 The use of the advocates [of emancipation in the West Indies] was, the pages of greatness, and the connection of the eminent senators with this question constitutes the immortalizing moments of those men's lives.

EWI 11.138 8 ...we are indebted mainly to this movement [for emancipation in the West Indies] and to the continuers of it, for...reference of every question to the absolute standard.

EWI 11.147 7 I am sure that the good and wise elders, the ardent and generous youth, will not permit what is incidental and exceptional to withdraw their devotion from the essential and permanent characters of the question [of emancipation].

War 11.160 15 The sublime question has startled one and another happy soul in different quarters of the globe,—Cannot love be, as well as hate!

War 11.160 20 ...a universal peace is as sure as is the prevalence...of liberal governments over feudal forms. The question for us is only How soon?

War 11.167 13 Since the peace question has been before the public mind, those who affirm its right and expediency have naturally been met with objections more or less weighty.

War 11.170 1 The question naturally arises, How is this new aspiration of the human mind [towards peace] to be made visible and real?

FSLC 11.179 3 Fellow Citizens: I accepted your invitation to speak to you on the great question of these days, with very little consideration of what I might have to offer...

FSLC 11.204 17 In Massachusetts, in 1776, [Webster] would, beyond all question, have been a refugee.

FSLC 11.206 21 I pass to say a few words to the question, What shall we do?

FSLN 11.220 21 ...granting...that these evils [of slavery] are to be relieved only by the wisdom of God working in ages,—and by what instrument...none...tell...the question recurs. What must we do?

FSLN 11.225 9 ...though I have my own opinions on [Webster's] seventh of March discourse and those others, and think them very transparent and very open to criticism,—yet the secondary merits of a speech, namely, its logic, its illustrations, its points, etc. are not here in question.

FSLN 11.225 13 Nobody doubts that there were good and plausible things to be said on the part of the South. But this is not a question of ingenuity, not a question of syllogisms, but of sides. How came [Webster] there?

FSLN 11.225 25 ...question which History will ask is as broader. In which History will ask is it the final hour...did [Webster] take the part of great principles—or the side of abuse and oppression and chaos?

FSLN 11.226 25 [Webster's 7th of March Speech] was like the doleful speech falsely ascribed to the patriot Brutus: Virtue, I have followed thee through life, and I find thee but a shadow. Here was a question of an immoral law; a question agitated for ages...

FSLN 11.227 9 Here [in the Fugitive Slave Law] was the question. Are you for man and for the good of man; or are you for the hurt and harm of man?

FSLN 11.227 11 [The Fugitive Slave Law] was the question whether man shall be treated as leather?...

FSLN 11.228 12 ...when allusion was made to the question of duty and the sanctity of marriage, [Webster] very frankly said...Some thing is...something existing somewhere between here and the third heaven,—I do not know where.

FSLN 11.238 1 ...if you have a nice question of right and wrong, you would not go with it to Louis Napoleon...

TPar 11.287 6 ’T is sometimes a question, shall we not leave [the old religions] to decay without rude shocks?

ACiv 11.299 10 The times put this question, Why cannot the best civilized society be carried over the whole countries?

SMC 11.357 19 One of our later volunteers...in reply to my question, How can you be spared from your farm...said, I go because I shall always be sorry if I did not go when the country called me.

EdAd 11.384 20...we cannot stave off the inferior question...the WHERE TO of all this [American] power and population.

EdAd 11.384 21...we cannot stave off the inferior question,—the famous question of Cineas to Pyrrhus,—the WHERE TO of all this [American] power and population.

Lovel 2.174 15 ...a beauty overpowering all analysis or comparison and putting us quite beside ourselves we can seldom see after thirty years, yet through that haze arise there visions of other remembrances.

Wth 6.109 2 A youth coming into the city from his native New Hampshire farm, with its hard fare still fresh in his remembrance, boards at a first-class hotel.

Bhr 6.193 2 It is sublime to feel and say of another...we need not reinforce ourselves, or send tokens of remembrance.

Dl 7.105 5 The child realizes to every man his own earliest remembrance.

MMeEm 10.415 22 This morning rich in existence; the remembrance of past destruction in the deep poverty of my [Mary Moody Emerson’s] aunt...Lst 7.135 8 After relating the breaking of the bread [at the Last Supper], has these words: This do in remembrance of me.

Ls 11.6 25 ...we must suppose that the expression, This do in remembrance of me, had come to the ear of Luke from some disciple who was present. Lst 7.135 8 The words, Do this in remembrance of me, do not occur in Matthew, Mark or John...yet many persons are apt to imagine that the very striking and personal manner in which the eating and drinking [at the Last Supper] is described, indicates a striking and formal purpose to found a festival.

Hdc 11.38 11 The Puritans, to keep the remembrance of their unity one with another...named their forest settlement CONCORD.

Hdc 11.85 11 I feel some unwillingness to quit the remembrance of the past.

Fslc 11.179 12 I wake in the morning with a painful sensation...which, when traced home, is the odious remembrance of that ignominy which has fallen on Massachusetts...

Srite 11.375 8 I hope the disuse of such medals or badges in this country only signifies that everybody knows these men [veterans of the Civil War], and carries their deeds in such lively remembrance that they require no badge or reminder.

Milt 12.251 21...deeply as that peculiar state of society, in which and for which Milton wrote, has engraved itself in the remembrance of the world, it shares the destiny which overtakes everything local and personal in Nature...

Milt 12.279 4 I am not an man fortified by the remembrance of the bravery of this man [Milton]...

remembrancer, n. (1)

Chrl 3.100 3 10 It is much that [the ingenious man] does not accept the conventional opinions and practices. That non-conformity will remain a goad and remembrancer...

remembrances, n. (4)

Lovel 2.171 17 ...in infinite compunctions embitter in mature life the remembrances of budding joy...

Lovel 2.174 16 ...a beauty overpowering all analysis or comparison and putting us quite beside ourselves we can seldom see after thirty years, yet the remembrance of these visions outlasts all other remembrances...

Ls 11.20 1 ...I choose that my remembrances of [Jesus] should be pleasing, affecting, religious.

Pray 12.351 24 ...what led us to these remembrances [of prayers] was the happy accident which in this undevout age lately brought us acquainted with two or three diaries...
