Art 7.44 18 Just as much better is as the polished statue of dazzling marble than the clay model, or as much more impressive as is the granite cathedral or pyramid than the ground-plan or profile of them on paper, so much more beauty owe they to Nature than to Art.

Art 7.46 5 In poetry, it is tradition more than invention that helps the poet to a good fable.

Art 7.48 19 The artist who is to produce a work...which is to be more beautiful to the eye in proportion to its culture, must disindividualize himself.

Art 7.51 1 The mind that made the world is not one mind, but the mind. And every work of art is a more or less pure manifestation of the same.

Motion is the exact expression for the universe of change. Thought is the expression for the mind of change. But it is the expression for nothing else. To every change there is an understanding and to every understanding there is a change. The understanding is the cause of the change and the change is the effect of the understanding. The understanding is neither cause nor effect but the medium of the cause and effect. The understanding is the cause of change and change is the effect of the understanding. The understanding is the cause of change and change is the effect of the understanding. The understanding is the cause of change and change is the effect of the understanding. Chrl 3.99 27 It is much that [the ingenious man] does not accept the conventional opinions and practices.

Chrl 3.111 11 I know nothing which life has to offer so satisfying as the profound good understanding which can subsist, after much exchange of good offices, between two virtuous men.

Mrs1 3.134 12 I may easily go into a great household where there is much substance...and yet not encounter there any Amphihtyon who shall subordinate these appendages.

Mrs1 3.140 24 ...besides personal force and so much perception as constitutes unearting taste, society demands in its patrician class another element...which it significantly terms good-nature...

Mrs1 3.151 23 [Lilla] had too much sympathy and desire to please, than that you could say her manners were marked with dignity...

Nat2 3.171 17 We go out daily and nightly to feed the eyes on the horizon, and require so much scope, just as we need water for our bath.

Nat2 3.183 3 We may easily hear too much of rural influences.

Nat2 3.185 8 ...to every creature nature added a little violence of direction in its proper path, a shrove to put it on its way; in every instance a slight generosity, a drop too much.

Pol1 3.200 17 We are superstitious, and esteem the statute somewhat: so much life as it has in the character of living men is its force.

Pol1 3.203 27 ...doubts have arisen whether so much weight had not been allowed in the laws to property...

Pol1 3.206 11 [A cent’s value] is so much warmth, so much bread.

Pol1 3.206 12 [A cent’s value] is...so much water, so much land.

Pol1 3.217 20 It is because we know how much is due from us that we are inclined to give over some petty talent as a substitute for worth.

NR 3.227 21 ...if an angel should come to chant the chorus of the moral law, he would eat too much gingerbread...

NR 3.235 11 It seems not worth while to execute with too much pains some one office, but to spend the time in theoretical, or civil feast.

NER 3.255 19 ...the motto of the Globe newspaper is so attractive to me that I can seldom find much appetite to read what is below it in its columns.

NER 3.261 10 It is of little moment that one or two or twenty errors of our social system be corrected, but of much that the man be in his senses.

NER 3.285 19 Shall not the heart which has received so much, trust the Power by which it lives?

NER 3.285 22 May [the heart] not quit other leadings, and listen to the Soul that has...taught it so much.

UGM 4.4 6 ...I do not travel to find...ingots that cost too much.

UGM 4.22 14 We live in a market, where is only so much wheat, or wool, or land;

UGM 4.26 24 ...we feed on genius, and refresh ourselves from too much conversation with our mates...

UGM 4.33 16 ...the smallest acquisition of truth or of energy, in any quarter, is so much good to the commonwealth of souls.

Ph3 4.30 9 ...the ploughman, the plough, and the furrow are of one stuff; and the stuff is such and so much that the variations of form are Ph3 4.35 27 ...the experience of poetic creativeness, which is not found in staying at home, nor yet in travelling, but in transitions from one to the other which must therefore be admirably managed to present as much a transitional surface as possible; this command of two elements must explain the power and the charm of Plato.

Pnr 4.85 3 [Plato] saw...that the world was throughout mathematical;...the power and the charm of Plato.

SwM 4.98 1 Shall we say, that the economical mother disburseth so much earth and so much fire...to make a man, and will not add a pennyweight...

SwM 4.102 3 It seems that [Swedenborg] anticipated much science of the nineteenth century.

SwM 4.112 22 Few knew as much about nature and her subtle manners [as Swedenborg].

SwM 4.130 15 The wise people of the Greek race were accustomed to lead the most intelligent and virtuous young men...through the Eleusinian mysteries, wherein, with much pomp and graduation, the highest truths known to ancient wisdom were taught.

MoS 4.153 11 [The men of the senses] believe...that there is much sentiment in a chest of tea;...

MoS 4.154 15 There is so much trouble in coming into the world, said Lord Bolingbroke, and so much more, as well as meanness, in going out of it, that ’t is hardly worth while to be there at all.

MoS 4.166 11 ...[Montaigne] has seen too much of gentlemen of the long robe.IsActive was with them...for cannabis...

MoS 4.169 19 ...[Montaigne] says, might I have had my own will, I would not have married Wisdom herself, if she would have had me, but ’t is to much purpose to evade it, the common custom and use of life will have it so;

MoS 4.174 26 ...[the levity of intellect] is hobgoblin the first; and though it has been the subject of much elegy in our nineteenth century...I confess it is not very affecting to my imagination;...

ET10 5.168 6 It is not, I suppose, want of probity, so much as the tyranny of trade, which necessitates a perpetual competition of underselling...

ET10 5.170 15 ‘England’s’ prosperity, the splendor which so much manhood and talent and perseverance has thrown upon vulgar aims, is the very argument of materialism.

ET11 5.176 14 At [Richard Neville’s] house in London, six oxen were daily eaten at a breakfast...and who had any acquaintance in his family should be as much milled and roasted as he could carry on a long dawdle.

ET11 5.186 5 These people [English nobility] seem to gain as much as they lose by their position.

ET11 5.186 17...it is wonderful how much talent runs into manners...

ET12 5.201 20...Wood’s Athenea Oxonienses...is...as much a national monument as Purchas’s Pilgrims or Hansom’s Register.

ET12 5.217 23...the slow-grown [English] church important reactions this country, when one thinks how much more and better may be learned by

ET12 5.212 3...from the twenty deficient pages of his Mentz Bible, in perfect order; brought them to Oxford with the rest of his purchase, and placed them in the volume; but has too much awe for the Providence that

ET12 5.221 14 No doubt much of the power and brilliance of the reading-

ET12 5.213 3...the rich libraries collected at every one of many thousands of houses [in England], give an advantage not to be attained by a youth in this country, when one thinks how much more and better may be learned by a scholar who, immediately on hearing of a book, can consult it...

ET13 5.217 27...From this slow-grown [English] church important reactions this country, when one thinks how much more and better may be learned by ET13 5.221 1...the subject [of economy] is tender, and we may easily have too much of it...

ET13 5.210 45...to make a great fortune [said Rothschild], and when you have got it, it

ET14 5.251 9...much of [English] aesthetic production is antiquarian and ET14 5.256 26...the grave old [English] poets...needed their designs, and less the consideration of the finish. It was their office to lead to the divine sources, out of which all this, and much more readily springs;...than blueberries. Others are liquid and deep...others...take all too much ET14 5.257 23 We [Emerson and Carlyle] counted and measured by paces the biggest stones [at Stonehenge], and soon knew as much as any man can suddenly know of the inscrutable temple.

ET14 5.261 25 We are not yet too late to learn much more than is known of this structure [Stonehenge].

ET15 5.284 26...though there were some good pictures [at Wilton Hall], and a quadrangle cloister full of antique and modern statuary,—to which Carlyle, catalogue in hand, did all too much justice,—yet the eye was still drawn to the windows.

ET15 5.286 22 On Sunday we had much discourse, on a very rainy day.

ET15 5.288 16 There, I thought, in America, lies nature sleeping, overgrowing, almost conscious, too much by half for man in the picture...

ET15 5.290 20 There, I thought, in America, lies nature sleeping...and on it man seems not able to make much impression.

ET17 5.291 17 My journeys [in England] were cheered by so much kindness from new friends, that my impression of the island is bright with agreement.

ET17 5.292 17...I found much advantage in the circles of the Geologic, the Antiquarian and the Royal Societies.

ET17 5.297 16 I do not attach much importance to the disparagement of Worshdworth among London scholars.

F 6.12 7 Each [tendency] absorbs so much food and force as to become itself a new centre.

F 6.16 14 We see how much has been expended to extinguish the Jew, in every country.

F 6.19 19...: it was much if each [drowning man] could keep aloft alone.

F 6.23 21 The too much contamination of these limits induces meanness.

F 6.27 7 Just as much intellect as you add, so much organic power.

Pow 6.6 15 A man who has that presence of mind which can bring to him on the instant all he knows, is worth for action a dozen men who know as much but can only bring it to light slowly.

Pow 6.77 15...in human action, against the spasm of energy we offset the continuity of drill. We spread the same amount of force over much time, instead of concentrating it into a moment.

Pow 6.80 20...[spirit] is as much a subject of exact law and arithmetic as fluids and gases are;

Wth 6.101 25 [The farmer] knows how much land [his dollar] represents;...and who had any acquaintance in his family should be as much milled and roasted as he could carry on a long dawdle.

Wth 6.101 27 [The farmer] knows that, in the dollar, he gives you so much discretion and patience...

Wth 6.102 1 [The farmer] knows that, in the dollar, he gives you so much discretion and patience, so much hoeing and threshing.

Wth 6.108 14 You may not see that the fine pear costs you a shilling, but it costs the community so much.

Wth 6.109 2 Money often costs too much...

Wth 6.111 15...the subject [of economy] is tender, and we may easily have too much of it...

Wth 6.112 14 Do your work, respecting the excellence of the work, and not its acceptability. This is so much economy that...it is the sum of economy.

Wth 6.119 16 [A farm] requires as much watching as if you were decanting wine from a cask.

Ctr 6.141 5 Our arts and tools give to him who can handle them much the same advantage over the novice as if you extended his life...

Ctr 6.141 18...though we must not omit any jot of our system, we can seldom be sure that...as much good would not have accrued from a different system.

Ctr 6.145 1 I am not much an advocate for travelling...

Ctr 6.146 3...let [the traveler] go where he will, he can only find so much beauty or worth as he carries with him...

Ctr 6.148 10...let [a man’s] own genius be what it may, it will repel quite as much of agreeable and valuable talent as it draws...

Bhr 6.175 15 It is much to conquer one’s face...

Bhr 6.180 25 The farmer knows that, in the dollar, he gives you so much admission into the man than blueberries. Others are liquid and deep...others...take all too much notice.

Bhr 6.190 25 Self-reliance...is the guaranty that the powers are not squandered in too much demonstration.

Bhr 6.192 11 We watched sympathetically [in earlier novels], step by step, [the boy’s] climbing, until at last...the wedding day is fixed, and we follow the gala procession home to the bannered portal, when the doors are slammed in our face and the poor reader is left outside in the cold, not enriched by so much as an idea or a virtuous impulse.

Bhr 6.195 1 How much we force to those who yield us the rare spectacle of heroic manners!

Wsp 6.201 4 Some of my friends have complained...that we...gave too much time to the evil spirit of the place.

Wsp 6.201 11 I have...no belief that it is of much importance what I or any man may say...

Wsp 6.202 21 We may well give skepticism as much line as we can. Wsp 6.215 3 I know no words that mean so much [as the words moral and spiritual].

Wsp 6.218 4 As much love, so much mind, said the Latin proverb. Wsp 6.228 14...Philip [Neri] stretched out his leg, all bespattered with mud and desired [the nun] to draw off his boots. The young nun, who had become the object of much attention and respect, drew back with anger... Wsp 6.237 22...[the Shakers] say, the Spirit will presently manifest...

Wsp 6.241 21 The new church founded on moral science] shall...make [man] know that to-day he may have himself to his friends.

Mirabeau's popularity and to much more than his predominance in France.

NMW 4.232 25 [Kings and governors] are a class of persons much to be pitied.

NMW 4.244 17 In the Russian campaign he was so much impressed by the courage and resources of Marshal Ney, that [Napoleon] said, I have two hundred millions in my coffers, and I would give them all for Ney.

GoW 4.266 19 If I were to compare action of a much higher strain with a life of contemplation, I should not venture to pronounce with much confidence in favor of the former.

GoW 4.283 4 This earnestness enables [the Germans] to outsee men of much more talent.

ETI 5.3 19 Like most young men at that time, I was much indebted to the men of Edinburgh and of the Edinburgh Review...

ETI 5.8 19 [Landor]...designated as three of the greatest of men, Washington, Phocion and Timoleon--much as our pamphlistom, in their issues, between the three or the six best pamphlets--as a small orchard;..."

ETI 5.12 27 I told [Coleridge] how excellent I thought [the Independent's pamphlet in The Friend] and how much I wished to see the entire work.

ETI 5.20 6 ...I fear [the Americans] are too much given to making of the name of Wordsworth.

ETI 5.22 5 [Wordsworth's] eyes are much inflamed.

ETI 5.23 8 I told [Wordsworth] how much the few printed extracts had quickened the desire to possess his unpublished poems.

ETI 5.25 4 The occasion of this second visit to England was an invitation from some Mechanics' Institutes in Lancashire and Yorkshire, which separately are organized much in the same way as our New England Lyceums...

ETI 5.27 10 The shortest sea-line from Boston to Liverpool is 2850 miles. This a steamer keeps, and saves 150 miles. A sailing ship can never go in a shorter line than 3000, and usually it is much longer.

ETZ 5.30 26 Jack [Tar] has a life of risks, incessant abuse and the worst pay. It is a little better with the mate, and not very much better with the captain.

ETZ 5.37 4 ...to resist the tyranny and prepossession of the British element, a serious man must aid himself by comparing with it the civilizations of the farthest east and west, the old Greek, the Oriental, much more, the standard.

ETZ 5.47 24 Race avails much, if that be true which is alleged, that all Celts are Catholics and all Saxons are Protestants;...

ETZ 5.54 21 I found plenty of well-marked English types...a Norman type, with the complacency that belongs to that constitution. Others who might be Americans, for any thing that appeared in their complexion or form; and their speech was much less marked and their thought much less bound.

ETZ 5.54 22 I found plenty of well-marked English types...a Norman type, with the complacency that belongs to that constitution. Others who might be Americans, for any thing that appeared in their complexion or form; and their speech was much less marked and their thought much less bound.

ETZ 5.54 7 [A Norse] king was maintained, much as in some of our country district's winter-salerooms. This was a true race.

ETZ 5.95 9 The rivers, lakes and ponds [in England], too much fished, or obstructed by factories, are artificially filled with the eggs of salmon, turbot and eel.

ETZ 5.105 6 Every man in this polished country [England] consults only his convenience, as much as a solitary pioneer in Wisconsin.

ETZ 5.106 13 ...in my lectures [in England] I hesitated to read and threw out for its impertinence many a disparaging phrase which I had been accustomed to spin, about the superiority of the Anglo-Saxons;--so much had the fine physique and the personal vigor of this robust race worked on my imagination.

ETZ 5.109 7 Nothing so much marks [Englishmen’s] manners as the concentration on their household ties.

ETZ 5.120 8 If war do not bring in its sequel new trade, better agriculture and manufactures...no prosperity could support it; much less a nation denominated for conscripts and out of pocket, like France.

ETZ 5.129 9 As compared with the Americans, I think [the English] cheerful and contented. Young people in this country are much more prone to melancholy.

ETZ 5.130 9 [The English] are...in all things very much steeped in their temperament.

ETZ 5.142 23 [The English]...can direct and fulfill their own day, nor need so much as others the constraint of a necessity.

ETZ 5.145 2 Swedenborg, who lived much in England, notes the similitude of minds among the Europeans, but, incessant and total; and chastity not a local, but a universal virtue; unchastity being discovered as much in the momentary [to Swedenborg], but incessant and total; and chastity not a ETZ 5.158 9...it is wonderful how much talent runs into manners;...nowhere and never so much in England.

ETZ 5.195 24 In the university, [the English] noblemen are exempted from the public exercises for the degree...by which they attain a degree called honorary. At the same time, the fees they have to pay for matriculation, and on all other occasions, are much higher.
The topos of the side of religion on the vigorous English understanding shows how much wit and folly can agree in one brain.

ET15 5.221 20 The torpidity in the [English] put no Socratic prayer, much less any santer prayer for the Queen’s mind.

ET15 5.230 3 The [English] church at this moment is much to be pitied.

ET15 5.251 2 It would be easy to add exceptions to the liminary tone of English thought, and much more easy to adduce examples of excellence in particular helps.

Bhr 6.172 23 We prize [manners] for their rough-plastic, abstergent force;...to slough [people’s] animal husks and habits;...teach them to stifle the base and choose the generous expression, and make them know how much happier the generous breed of offspring are.

Bhr 6.179 26 The eyes of men converse as much as their tongues...

Wsp 6.214 21 I do not think [skepticism] can be cured or stayed by any modification of theologic creeds, much less by theologic discipline.

Wsp 6.215 9 Men talk of mere morality;--which is much as if one should say, Poor God, with nobody to help him.

Wsp 6.228 21 We need not much mind what people please to say, but what they must say....

Wsp 6.237 4 [Benedict said] Is it a question whether to put [the sick woman] into the street? Just as much whether to thrust the little Jenny on your arm into the street.

ChW 6.245 20 The lawyer...is as gay and as much relieved as the client if it turns out that he has a verdict.

ChW 6.249 26 In old Egypt it was established law that the vote of a prophet be reckoned equal to a hundred hands. I think it was much underestimated.

ChW 6.264 3...as far as I had observed [the sick and dying] were as frivolous as the rest, and sometimes much more frivolous.

ChW 6.274 8...it counts much whether we have had good companions in that time [the past five years]...

ChW 6.274 10...it counts much whether we have had good companions in that time [the past five years],--almost as much as what we have been doing.

Bty 6.300 1 Into every useful object there enters somewhat immeasurable and divine, and just as much into form bounded by outlines...as into tones of music or depths of space.

Ili 3.316 5 We are not very much to blame for our bad marriages.

Ili 3.322 14 Like sick men in hospitals, we change only from bed to bed, from one folly to another; and it cannot signify much what becomes of such castaways....

SS 7.15 7 [My friend] admired in Newton not so much his theory of the moon as his letter to Collins....

SS 7.12 22 The recluse witnesses what others perform by their aid, with a kind of fear. It is as much out of his possibility as the prowess of Coeur-de-Lion....

Civ 7.32 17...when I see how much each virtuous and gifted person...lives affecionately with scores of excellent people...I see what cubic values America has....

Artz 7.44 2 Eloquence...is modified how much by the material organization of the orator.

Artz 7.44 16 Just as much better as is the polished statue of dazzling marble than the clay model, or as much more impressive as is the granite cathedral or pyramid than the ground-plan or profile of them on paper, so much more beauty owe they to Nature than to Art.

Artz 7.44 18 Just as much better as is the polished statue of dazzling marble than the clay model, or as much more impressive as is the granite cathedral or pyramid than the ground-plan or profile of them on paper, so much more beauty owe they to Nature than to Art.

Artz 7.46 11 The effect of music belongs how much to the place....

Artz 7.46 23 It is a custom of conviction that the artist...is as much surprised at the effect as we, that is so unwilling to impute our best sense of any work of art to the author.

Artz 7.50 14 A masterpiece of art has in the mind a fixed place in the chain of being, as much as a plant or a crystal.

Artz 7.51 20 Proceeding from absolute mind, whose nature is goodness as much as truth, the great works [of art] are always attuned to moral nature.

Elo1 7.61 17...because every man is an orator...an assembly of men is so much more susceptible.

Elo1 7.62 5 Our county conventions often exhibit a small-pot-soon-hot style of eloquence. We are too much reminded of a medical experiment where a series of patients are taking nitrous-oxide gas.

Elo1 7.66 24 [Every audience] know so much more than the orator....

Elo1 7.71 2 The more indulgent and imaginative complexion of the Eastern nations, makes them much less susceptible of any fancy.

Elo1 7.72 26...when...his words fell like the winter snows, not then would any mortal contend with Ulysses; and [the Trojans], beholding, wondered not afterwards so much at his aspect.

Elo1 7.81 10...what if one should come of the same turn of mind as [a man’s] own, and who sees much farther on his own way than he?

Elo1 7.84 5 Pepsy says of Lord Clarendon...I did never observe how much easier a man do speak when he knows all the company to be below him, than in him.

Elo1 7.86 12 In every company the man with the fact is like the guide you hire to lead your party...through a difficult country. He may not compare with any of the party in mind or breeding or courage or possessions, but he is much more important to the present need than any of them.

DL 7.118 22 Let a man...say...an eating-house and sleeping-house for travellers [my house] shall be, but it shall be much more.

DL 7.128 28 A verse of the old Greek Menander remains, which runs in translation;--Not on the store of sprightly wine;...Nor plenty of delicious meats;...though generous Nature did design/ To court us with perpetual treats;--’T is not on these we for content depend;/ So much as on the shadow of a Friend.

Farm 7.153 25 [The farmer] is a person whom a poet of any clime...would appreciate as being really a piece of the old Nature, comparable to...rainbow upon the flood because he is, as all natural persons are, representative of Nature as much as these.

WD 7.182 23...those only write or speak best who do not too much respect the writing or the speaking.

WD 7.184 3 There are people...who do not care so much for conditions as other things.

Boks 7.191 24...the colleges, whilst they provide us with libraries, furnish no professor of books; and I think no chair is so much wanted.

Boks 7.196 11...good travellers stop at the best hotels; for though they cost more, they do not cost as much more.

Boks 7.197 19 English history is best known through Shakspeare; how much through Merlin, Robin Hood and the Scottish ballads!...

Boks 7.208 1...[Jonson] has really illustrated the England of his time, if not to the same extent yet much in the same way, as Walter Scott has celebrated the poetries and places of Scotland.

Boks 7.217 10...this passion for romance, and this disappointment, show how much we need real elevations and pure poetry...

Clbs 7.244 26 The man of thought...the man of manners and culture, whom you so much wish to find,—each of these is wishing to be found.

Clbs 7.248 14 Plutarch, Xenophon and Plato, who have celebrated each a banquet of their set, have given us next to no data of the viands; and it is to be believed that an indifferent tavern dinner in such society was more relished than the classes of a man better one in worse company.

Clbs 7.250 11...Nature is always very much in earnest...

Cour 7.255 27 I need not show how much [courage] is esteemed...

Cour 7.261 1 I must mistake if every man who went to the army in the late war had not a lively curiosity to know how he should behave in action.

Cour 7.262 20 The child is as much in danger from a staircase...as the soldier from a cannon...

Suc 7.285 22 [Columbus told the King and Queen] I assert that [the pilots] can give no other account than that they went to lands where there was abundance of gold, but they...would be obliged to go on a voyage of discovery as much as if they had never been there before.

Suc 7.289 15 Egotism...seems to be much used in Nature for fabrics in discovery as much as if they had never been there before.

Suc 7.292 3...nothing astonishes men so much as common sense and plain dealing...

Suc 7.293 8 So far from the performance being the real success, it is clear that the success was much earlier than that, namely, when all the feats that make our civilization were the thoughts of good heads.

OA 7.325 19 When I chanced to meet the poet Wordsworth, then sixty-three years old, he told me that he had just had a fall and lost a tooth, and when his companions were much concerned for the mischance, he had replied that he was glad it had not happened forty years before.

OA 7.331 12 Much wider is the pleasure which old men take in completing their secular affairs...

OA 7.333 8...[John Adams]...added...what effect age may work in diminishing the power of [John Quincy Adams’s] mind, I do not know; it has been very much the stretch, even since he was born.

PI 8.15 23 The poet accounts all productions and changes of nature as the natures of language, uses them representatively, too well pleased with their ulterior to value much their primary meaning.

PI 8.27 7 There is no subject that does not belong to [the poet],—politics, economy, manufactures and stock-brokerage, as much as sunsets and souls;...

SA 8.79 19...how impossible to, acquire good manners, unless by living with the well-bred from the start; and this makes the value of wise forethought to give ourselves and our children as much as possible the habit of cultivated society.

SA 8.79 24”T is an inseminable hint that I owe to a few persons of fine manners, that they make behavior the very first sign of force,—behavior, and not performance...or much less, wealth.

SA 8.86 12 A lady loses as soon as she admires too easily and too much.

SA 9.96 21 A lady of my acquaintance said, I don’t care so much for what they say as I do for what makes them say it.

Elo 8.121 13 In moments of clearer thought or deeper sympathy, the voice will attain a music and penetration which surprises the speaker as much as the auditor;...

LS 11.16 1 I have only brought these accounts [of the Last Supper] together, that you may judge whether it is likely that a solemn institution, to be communicated to the world by all mankind, as they should come, nation after nation, within the influence of the Christian religion, would have been established in this slight manner...

LS 11.7 9 When hereafter, [Jesus] says to [his disciples], you shall keep the Passover; it will have an altered aspect to your eyes. It is now a historical covenant of God with the Jewish nation.

LS 11.7 24 ...I cannot bring myself to believe that in the use of such an expression [This do in remembrance of me] [Jesus] looked beyond the living generation, beyond the abolition of the festival he was celebrating, and the scattering of the nation...

HDC 11.31 15 ...some of these [suspected ministers]...were punished with imprisonment or mutilation. This severity brought some of the best men in England to overcome that natural repugnance to emigration which holds the sensitive, self-loving, modest every nation to their own soil.

HDC 11.49 27 The British government has recently presented to the several public libraries of this country, copies of the splendid edition of the Domestic Book, and other ancient and modern records of England. I cannot but think that it would be a suitable acknowledgment of this national munificence, if the records of one of our towns...should be printed, and presented...to the English nation...

HDC 11.72 2 This body [the Provincial Congress]...adopted those efficient measures whose progress and issue belong to the history of the nation.

HDC 11.77 5 To you [veterans of the battle of Concord] belongs a better badge than stars and ribbons. This prospering country is your ornament, and this expanding nation is multiplying your praise with millions of tongues.

LVV 11.93 6 The prophets now inform us that the exchange of all the Cherokee territory was pretended to be made by an agent on the part of the United States with some persons appearing on the part of the Cherokees; that the fact afterwards transpired that these deputies did but meanly represent the will of the nation...

LVV 11.91 8 ...out of eighteen thousand souls composing the [Cherokee] nation, fifteen thousand six hundred and sixty-eight have protested against the so-called treaty...

LVV 11.91 20 ...the American President and the Cabinet, the Senate and the House of Representatives...are contracting to put this active nation [the Cherokees] into carts and boats, and to drag them over mountains and rivers.

EWI 11.101 8 If there be any man...who would not so much as part with his ice-cream, to save [a race of men] from rapine and manacles, I think I must not hesitate to satisfy that man that also his cream and vanilla are safer and cheaper by placing the negro nation on a fair footing than by robbing them.

EWI 11.109 20 These debates [on West Indian slavery] are instructive, as they show on what grounds the trade was assailed and defended. Everything generous, wise and spirited is sure to come to the attack. On the other part are force, bold presence, bare-faced selfishness and silent votes. But the nation was aroused to enthusiasm.

EWI 11.122 7 ...that faculty which is paramount in any period and exerts itself through the strongest nation, determines the civility of that age...

Nat2 3.182 19 We talk of deviations from natural life, as if artificial life were not also natural.
Nat2 3.183 4 The cool disengaged air of natural objects makes them enviable to us...
Nat2 3.183 19 Every known fact in natural science was divined by the presentiment of somebody, before it was actually verified.
Nat2 3.196 15 The world is mind precipitated, and the volatile essence is forever escaping again into the state of free thought. Hence the virtue and pungency of the influence on the mind of natural objects...
Pol1 3.204 18 If it be not easy to settle the equity of this question [of property], the peril is less when we take note of our natural defenses.
Pol1 3.208 23 Our quarrel with [political parties] begins when they quit this deep natural ground at the bidding of some leader...
NR 3.239 18 ...[each man] would impose his idea on others; and their trick supernatural advantages do easily see to the end of [the institution]...

NER 3.265 3 [One man]...in his natural and momentary associations, doubles or multiplies himself;...
UGM 4.3 1 It is natural to believe in great men.
PPh 4.47 9 [Philosophy’s] early records...are of the immigrations from Asia...a confusion of crude notions of morals and of natural philosophy...
PPh 4.54 6 Metaphysics and natural philosophy expressed the genius of Europe;...
PPh 4.56 18 ...The physical philosophers had sketched each his theory of the world;...theories mechanical and chemical in their genius. Plato... studious of all natural laws and causes, feels these...to be no theories of the world but bare inventories and lists.
PNR 4.82 12 These expansions or extensions [of facts] consist in continuing the spiritual sight where the horizon falls on our natural vision...
SwM 4.103 13 Our books are false by being fragmentary: their sentences are bonmots, and not parts of natural discourse;...
SwM 4.116 8 ...if we choose to express any natural truth in physical and definite vocal terms [says Swedenborg], and to convert these terms only into the corresponding and spiritual terms, we shall...elicit a spiritual truth or theological dogma...
SwM 4.121 3 [Swedenborg] fastens each natural object to a theologic notion;...
SwM 4.122 24 Instead of a religion which visited [Swedenborg] diplomatically three or four times...here was a teaching which accompanied him...into natural objects, and showed their origin and meaning...
SwM 4.135 7 The genius of Swedenborg...wasted itself in the endeavor to reanimate and conserve what had already arrived at its natural term...
MoS 4.154 23 I knew a philosopher of this kidney who was accustomed briefly to sum up his experience of human nature in saying, Mankind is a damned rascal: and the natural corollary is pretty sure to follow, The world lives by humbug, and so will I.


A Concordance to the Collected Essays of Ralph Waldo Emerson natural, adj. (cont.)
MoS 4.170 8 We are natural believers.
MoS 4.170 23 We hearken to the man of science, because we anticipate the sequence in natural phenomena which he uncovers.
MoS 4.171 17 ...we are natural conservers and causationists...
MoS 4.171 24 Every superior mind...will know how to avail himself of the checks and balances in nature, as a natural weapon against the exaggeration and formalism of bigots and blockheads.
MoS 4.175 11 ...though philosophy extirpates bugbears, yet it supplies the natural checks of vice, and polarity to the soul.
MoS 4.175 13 ...the wiser a man is, the more stupendous he finds the natural and moral economy...
ShP 4.213 15 This [power of expression] is that which throws [Shakespeare] into natural history...
ShP 4.217 5 Shakspeare, Homer, Dante, Chaucer...knew that a tree had another use than for apples...and the ball of the earth, than for tillage and roads: that these things bore a second and finer harvest to the mind... conveying in all their natural history a certain mute commentary on human life.
NMW 4.229 3 [Napoleon]...acts with the solidity and the precision of natural agents.
NMW 4.229 5 [Napoleon] has not lost his native sense and sympathy with things. Men give way before such a man, as before natural events.
NMW 4.229 15 ...men saw in [Bonaparte] combined the natural and the intellectual power...
NMW 4.230 20 That common-sense which no sooner respects any end than it finds the means to effect it;...the prudence with which all was seen and the energy with which all was done, make [Bonaparte] the natural organ and head of what I may almost call, from its extent, the modern party.
NMW 4.243 2 ...even when the majority of the people had begun to ask whether they had really gained any thing under the exhausting levies of men and money of the new master [Napoleon], the whole talent of the country...defended him as its natural patron.
NMW 4.243 7 ...Napoleon said...Gentlemen, in the situation in which I stand, my only nobility is the rabble of the Faubourgs. Napoleon met this natural expectation.
NMW 4.245 2 Natural power was sure to be well received at [Napoleon’s] court.
NMW 4.245 10 When a natural king becomes a titular king, every body is pleased and satisfied.

ET8 5.127 22 Religion, the theatre and the reading the books of [the Englishman’s] country all feed and increase his natural melancholy.
ET9 5.145 25 France is, by its natural contrast, a kind of blackboard on which English character draws its own traits in chalk.
ET9 5.149 5 ...the natural disposition is fostered by the respect which [the English] find entertained in the world for English ability.
ET10 5.154 17 A natural fruit of England is the brutal political economy.
ET11 5.174 22 All nobility in its beginnings was somebody’s natural superiority.
ET13 5.226 11 Like the Quakers, [the wise legislator] may resist the separation of a class of priests, and create opportunity and expectation in the society to run to meet natural endowment in this kind.
ET14 5.241 7 Plato had signified the same sense, when he said, All the great arts require a subtle and speculative research into the law of nature, since loftiness of thought and perfect mastery over every subject seem to be derived from some such source as this. This Pericles had, in addition to a great natural genius.
ET14 5.243 25 The later English want the faculty of Plato and Aristotle, of grouping men in natural classes by an insight of general laws...
ET14 5.254 1 ...for the most part the natural science in England is out of its loyal alliance with morals...
ET15 5.272 18 [If the London Times would cleave to the right] It would be

Nat 1.12 8 Under the general name of commodity, I rank all those advantages which our senses owe to nature.

Nat 1.12 12 Yet although low, [Commodity]...is the only use of nature which all men apprehend.

Nat 1.13 7 Nature, in its ministry to man, is not only the material, but is also the process and the result.

Nat 1.15 1 A nobler want of man is served by nature, namely, the love of Beauty.

Nat 1.16 2...besides this general grace diffused over nature, almost all the individual forms are agreeable to the eye...

Nat 1.16 15 The influence of the forms and actions in nature is so needful to man, that, in its lowest functions, it seems to lie on the confines of commodity and beauty.

Nat 1.16 19 To the body and mind which have been cramped by noxious work or company, nature is medicinal;...

Nat 1.17 26 What was it that nature would say?

Nat 1.20 4 Every rational creature has all nature for his dowry and estate.

Nat 1.21 22 Nature stretches out her arms to embrace man...

Nat 1.22 12...nature became ancillary to a man.

Nat 1.23 6 The beauty of nature re-forms itself in the mind...

Nat 1.23 18 [A work of art] is the result or expression of nature, in miniature.

Nat 1.23 19...the works of nature are innumerable and all different...

Nat 1.23 21 Nature is a sea of forms radically alike...

Nat 1.24 1 The standard of beauty is the entire circuit of natural forms — the totality of nature;...

Nat 1.24 11 Thus is Art a nature passed through the alembic of man.

Nat 1.24 21...beauty in nature is not ultimate.

Nat 1.25 2 Nature is the vehicle of thought...

Nat 1.25 8 Nature is the symbol of spirit.

Nat 1.26 1...thought and emotion are words borrowed from sensible things, and now appropriated to spiritual nature.

Nat 1.26 11...this origin of all words that convey a spiritual import...is our least debt to nature.

Nat 1.26 15 Every appearance in nature corresponds to some state of the mind;...

Nat 1.27 15 That which intellectually considered we call Reason, considered in relation to nature, we call Spirit.

Nat 1.27 21...these analogies...pervade nature.

Nat 1.28 10 ...the most trivial of these [natural] facts...in any way associated to human nature, affects us in the most lively...manner.

Nat 1.29 13 The seats of a plant...to what affecting analogies in the nature of man is that little fruit made use of...

Nat 1.29 16 This immediate dependence of language upon nature...never loses its power to affect us.

Nat 1.30 1 ...sensuity and falsehood take place of simplicity and truth, the power over nature as an interpreter of the will is in a degree lost...

Nat 1.30 20 Hundreds of writers may be found...who feed unconsciously on Nat 1.31 15 We know more from nature than we can at will communicate.

Nat 1.32 27 The laws of moral nature...to those of matter as face to face...in glass.

Nat 1.35 5 ...visible nature must have a spiritual and moral side.

Nat 1.35 17 By degrees we may come to know the primitive sense of the permanent objects of nature.

Nat 1.36 1 In view of the significance of nature, we arrive at once at a new fact, that nature is a discipline.

Nat 1.36 2 ...nature is a discipline.

Nat 1.36 18 Nature is a discipline of the understanding in intellectual truths.

Nat 1.38 18 ...the wise man's] scale of creatures and of merits is as wide as nature.

Nat 1.39 9 The beauty of nature shines in [man's] own breast.

Nat 1.39 22 Passing by many particulars of the discipline of nature, we must not omit to specify two.

Nat 1.4 3 Nature is not thoroughly mediate.

Nat 1.40 19 All things...have an unceasing reference to spiritual nature.

Nat 1.40 20 Therefore is nature glorious with form, color, and motion; that every globe in the remotest heaven...shall hint or thunder to man the laws of right and wrong.

Nat 1.41 8 This ethical character so penetrates the bone and marrow of nature, as to seem the end for which it was made.

Nat 1.41 12 Nothing in nature is exhausted in its first use.

Nat 1.41 27 The moral law lies at the centre of nature and radiates to the circumference.

Nat 1.42 18 The moral influence of nature upon every individual is that amount of truth which it illustrates to him.

Nat 1.45 5 A right action seems...to be related to all nature.

Nat 1.45 10 Words and actions are not the attributes of brute nature.

Nat 1.45 26 ...far different from the deaf and dumb nature around them, these [human forms] all rest...on the unfathomed sea of thought and virtue.

Nat 1.47 5 To this one end of Discipline, all parts of nature conspire.

Nat 1.47 8 A noble doubt perpetually suggests itself...whether nature outwardly exists.

Nat 1.48 5 Whether nature enjoy a substantial existence without, or is only in the apocalypse of the mind, it is alike useful and alike venerable to me.

Nat 1.48 13 The frivolous make themselves happy with the Ideal theory...as if it affected the stability of nature.

Nat 1.48 19 God...will not compromise the end of nature by permitting any inconsequence in its procession.

Nat 1.48 22 The wheels and springs of man are all set to the hypothesis of the permanence of nature.

Nat 1.48 27 ...we resist with indignation any hint that nature is more short-lived or mutable than spirit.

Nat 1.49 6 ...whilst we acquiesce entirely in the permanence of natural laws, the question of the absolute existence of nature still remains open.

Nat 1.49 10 It is the uniform effect of culture on the human mind...to lead us to regard nature as phenomenon.

Nat 1.49 12 It is the uniform effect of culture on the human mind...to esteem nature as an accident and an effect.

Nat 1.49 16 To the senses and the unenewed understanding, belongs a sort of instinctive belief in the absolute existence of nature.

Nat 1.49 17 In [the senses'] and the unenewed understanding's] view man and nature are indissolubly joined.

Nat 1.49 21 The first effort of thought tends to relax this despotism of the senses which binds us to nature as if we were a part of it...

Nat 1.49 23 The first effort of thought...shows us nature aloof...

Nat 1.50 9 The best moments of life are...the reverential withdrawing of nature before its God.

Nat 1.50 14 Nature is made to conspire with spirit to emancipate us.

Nat 1.51 16 In these cases, by mechanical means, is suggested the difference...between man and nature.

Nat 1.51 20 All things...have an analogous effect with all lower culture...

Nat 1.52 14 Shakspeare possesses the power of subordinating nature for the purposes of expression.

Nat 1.52 19 The remotest spaces of nature are visited [by Shakspeare's muse].

Nat 1.55 1 ...thus the poet animates nature with his own thoughts...

Nat 1.55 20 It is, in both cases [Plato and Sophocles], that a spiritual life has been imparted to nature...

Nat 1.56 9 The sublime remark of Euler on his law of arches...had already transferred nature into the mind...

Nat 1.56 20 ...we think of nature as an appendix to the soul.

Nat 1.57 16 Whist we behold unveiled the nature of Justice and Truth, we learn the difference between the absolute and the conditional or relative.

Nat 1.57 27 ...religion and ethics...have an analogous effect with all lower culture, in degrading nature...

Nat 1.58 6 [Religion and Ethics] both put nature under foot.

Nat 1.58 10 [Religion] puts an affront upon nature.

Nat 1.58 17 The devotee flouts nature.

Nat 1.59 71 No hostility to nature...

Nat 1.59 11 I only wish to indicate the true position of nature in regard to man...

Nat 1.59 15 I only wish to indicate the true position of nature in regard to man...as the ground which to attain is the object of human life, that is, of man's connection with nature.

Nat 1.59 16 Culture inverts the vulgar view of nature...

Nat 1.61 1 It is essential to a true theory of nature and of man, that it should contain somewhat progressive.

Nat 1.61 11 ...all the use of nature admit of being summed in one...

Nat 1.61 19 The happiest man is he who learns from nature the lesson of worship.

Nat 1.62 8 ...the noblest ministry of nature is to stand as the apporation of God.

Nat 1.62 16 Three problems are put by nature to the mind...

Nat 1.62 25 ...the mind is a part of the nature of things...

Nat 1.63 1 Idealism is a hypothesis to account for nature by other principles than those of carpentry and chemistry.

Nat 1.63 9 Nature is so pervaded with human life that there is something of humanity in all and in every particular.

Nat 1.63 12 ...this [ideal] theory makes nature foreign to me...

Nat 1.64 1 ...behind nature, throughout nature. spirit is present:...

Nat 1.64 6 ...spirit, that is, the Supreme Being, does not build up nature around us...

Nat 1.65 9 We are as much strangers in nature as we are aliens from God.

Nat 1.65 17 ...[the landscape] may show us what discord is between man and nature...

Nat 1.67 1 ...a dream may let us deeper into the secret of nature than a hundred concerted experiments.

Nat 1.70 12 I shall...conclude this essay with some traditions of man and nature.

Nat 1.70 26 We distrust and deny inwardly our sympathy with nature.

Nat 1.71 15 [Man] filled nature with his overflowing currents.

Nat 1.72 6 [Man] perceives that...if his word is sterling yet in nature...it is not inferior but superior to his will.

Nat 1.72 9 At present, man applies to nature but half his force.

Nat 1.72 15 [Man's] relation to nature...is through the understanding...

Nat 1.72 27 ...there are not wanting...occasional examples of the action of man upon nature with his entire force...

Nat 1.73 24 The ruin or the blank that we see when we look at nature, is in our own eye.

Nat 1.75 17 Whilst the abstract question occupies your intellect, nature brings it in the concrete to be solved by your hands.

Nat 1.76 1 Nature is not fixed but fluid.

Nat 1.76 3 The immobility or bruteness of nature is the absence of spirit;...

Nat 1.76 25 The vordor and filths of nature, the sun shall dry up...

Nat 1.77 8 The kingdom of man over nature...he shall enter without more wonder than the blind man feels who is gradually restored to perfect sight.

Nat 1.82 11 ...I accept the topic which not only usage but the nature of our association seem to prescribe to this day...

Nat 1.84 25 The first in time and the first in importance of the influences upon the mind is that of nature.

Nat 1.85 5 What is nature to [the scholar]?

Nat 1.85 18 ...[the young mind] finds how to join two things and see in them one nature;...

Nat 1.86 13 The ambitious soul...goes on forever to animate the last fibre of organization, the outskirts of nature...

Nat 1.87 1 ...nature is the opposite of the soul;...

Nat 1.87 4 Nature then becomes to [the scholar] the measure of his attainments.

Nat 1.87 6 So much of nature as he is ignorant of, so much of his own mind does [the scholar] not yet possess.

Nat 1.87 9 ...the ancient precept, Know thyself, and the modern precept, Study nature, become at last one maxim.

Nat 1.89 20 Hence the book-learned class, who value books...not as related to nature and the human constitution...

Nat 1.91 25 [The best human] impress us with the conviction that one nature wrote and the same reads.

Nat 1.98 19 That great principle of Undulation in nature...is known to us under the name of Polarity...

Nat 1.98 26 ...these fits of easy transmission and reflection...are the law of nature...

Nat 1.100 1 Not out of those on whom systems of education have exhausted their culture, comes the helpful giant to destroy the old or to build the new, but out of unhandelled savage nature...

Nat 1.100 14 I have now spoken of the education of the scholar by nature...
nature, n. (cont.)
AmS 1.101 23 [The scholar] is to find consolation in exercising the highest functions of human nature.
AmS 1.103 22 [the orator] finds...that [his hearers] drink his words because he fulfils for them their own nature...
AmS 1.104 18 Let [the scholar] look into [fear's] eye and search its nature...
AmS 1.104 22 ...[the scholar] will...find in himself a perfect comprehension of [fear's] nature and extent;
AmS 1.105 7 It is the divine notion that we are come late into nature...
AmS 1.105 16 They are the kings of the world who give the color of their present thought to all nature and all art.
AmS 1.106 23 What a testimony, full of grandeur, full of pity, is borne to the grandeur of his own nature, by the poor clansman...who rejoices in the glory of his chief.
AmS 1.107 3 [The poor and the low] are content to be brushed like flies from the path of a great person, so that justice shall be done by him to that common nature...
AmS 1.109 24 Do we fear lest we should outsee nature and God...
AmS 1.111 22 ...show me the sublime presence of the highest spiritual cause lurking...in these suburbs and extremities of nature...
AmS 1.112 14 A man is related to all nature.
AmS 1.113 2 ...[Swedenborg] saw and showed the connection between nature and the affections of the soul.
AmS 1.113 6 Especially did [Swedenborg's] shade-loving muse hover over and interpret the lower parts of nature...
AmS 1.114 3 ...in yourself is the law of all nature...
AmS 1.119 13 The mystery of nature was never displayed more happily.
AmS 1.123 12 ...speak the truth, and all nature and all spirits help you with unexampled fervor...
AmS 1.124 16 Whilst a man seeks good ends, he is strong by the whole strength of nature.
AmS 1.127 13 The doctrine of the divine nature being forgotten, a sickness infects and dwarfs the constitution.
AmS 1.131 15 The divine nature is attributed to one or two persons...
AmS 1.131 14 One would rather be A pagan, suckled in a creed outworn/than to be defrauded of his manly right in coming to nature and finding...even virtue and truth foreclosed...
AmS 1.131 22 ...you must subordinate your nature to Christ's nature...
AmS 1.136 9 ...this morning of the heart because it is bereaved of the consolation...the grandeur that come alone out of the culture of the moral nature...—should be heard...
AmS 1.137 3 ...the laws of nature control the activity of the hands...
AmS 1.137 9 ...now the priest's Sabbath has lost the splendor of nature...
AmS 1.141 21 ...historical Christianity destroys the power of preaching, by withdrawing it from the exploration of the moral nature of man...
AmS 1.145 7 None assayeth the stern ambition to be the Sclf of the nation and of nature...
AmS 1.149 4 The silence that accepts merit as the most natural thing in the world, is the highest applause. Such souls...are...the dictators of fortune. Our needs do not praise their courage,—they are the heart and soul of nature.

SR 2.70 9 ...a man or a company of men, plastic and permeable to principles, by the law of nature must overpower and ride all cities...who are not.

SR 2.70 23 I see the same law working in nature for conservation and growth.

SR 2.70 24 Power is, in nature, the essential measure of right.

SR 2.70 24 Nature suffers nothing to remain in her kingdoms which cannot help itself.

SR 2.71 13 Let...our docility to our own law demonstrate the poverty of nature and fortune beside our native riches.

SR 2.73 4 You will soon love what is dictated by your nature as well as mine.

SR 2.77 23 [Prayer as a means to effect a private end] supposes dualism and not unity in nature and consciousness.

SR 2.78 2 The prayer of the farmer kneeling in his field to weed it, the prayer of the rower kneeling with the stroke of his oar, are true prayers heard throughout nature...

SR 2.84 5 ...the breath and the tongue are two organs of one nature.

SR 2.88 2 ...a cultivated man becomes ashamed of his property, out of respect for his nature.

Comp 2.93 13 The documents...from which the doctrine [of Compensation] is to be drawn...are the tools in our hands...the nature and endowment of all men.

Comp 2.96 17 Polarity, or action and reaction, we meet in every part of nature...

Comp 2.97 4 An inevitable dualism befits nature...

Comp 2.98 6 The same dualism underlies the nature and condition of man.

SL 2.160 7 Virtue is the adherence in action to the nature of things and the nature of things makes it prevail.
SL 2.165 8...this under-estimate of our own [possibilities], comes from a neglect of the fact of an identical nature.
SL 2.165 13...the painter uses the conventional story of the Virgin Mary, of Paul, of Peter. He does not therefore defer to the nature of these accidents or men.
SL 2.166 11...suddenly the great soul has enshrined itself in some other form and done some other deed, and that is now the flower and head of all living nature.
Lolv 1.263 3 Nature...anticipates already a benevolence which shall lose all particular regards in its general light.
Lolv 1.269 14 The introduction to this felicity [of Nature] is in a private and tender relation of one to one, which...seizes on man at one period...and carries him with sympathy into nature.
Lolv 1.270 20...[love] is a fire that kindling its first embers in the narrow nooks of a private bosom...grows and enlarges until it warms and beams...and so lights up the whole world and all nature with its generous flames.
Lolv 1.270 21...[love] is strong bent of nature...sees in the proportion which this topic of personal relations usurps in the conversation of society.
Lolv 1.272 9 How we glow over these novels of passion, when the story is told with any spark of truth and nature!
Lolv 1.273 12...without any coquetry the happy, affectation nature of woman...lies out in this pretty gossip.
Lolv 1.274 7...the coldest philosopher cannot recount the debt of the young soul wandering here in nature to the power of love...without being tempted to unsay, as treasonable to nature, aught derogatory to the social instincts.
Lolv 1.275 6...no man ever forgot the visitations of that power to his heart and brain...which made the face of nature radiant with purple light...Lolv 1.276 16 [Love] makes all things alive and significant. Nature grows conscious.
Lolv 1.276 24...nature soothes and sympathizes [with the lover].
Lolv 1.277 21 The like force has the passion [of love] over all [the lover's] nature.
Lolv 1.278 6...let us examine a little nearer the nature of that influence [love] which is thus potent over the human youth.

Lolv 1.285 22 The union which is thus effected [by love] and which adds a new value to every atom in nature...is yet a temporary state.
Lolv 1.286 19...it is the nature and end of this relation [love], that [lovers] should represent the human race to each other.
Lolv 1.288 2...nature and intellect and art emulate each other in the gifts and the melody they bring to the epistemology.
Lolv 1.289 9 We are by nature observers, and thereby learners.
Fdsp 2.195 11 I confess to an extreme tenderness of nature on this point [of friendship].
Fdsp 2.195 26 [Our friend's] goodness seems better than our goodness, his nature finer.
Fdsp 2.197 26 The law of nature is alternation for evermore.
Fdsp 2.199 5 The laws of friendship are...of one web with the laws of nature.
Fdsp 2.201 15...after so many ages of experience, what do we know of nature or of ourselves?
Fdsp 2.201 21...the sweet sincerity of joy and peace which I draw from this all-saturating soul is the nut itself whereof all nature and all thought is but the husk and shell.
Fdsp 2.203 18 No man would think...of putting [a man I knew] off with any chat of markets or reading-rooms. But every man was constrained by so much sincerity to the like plaindealing, and what love of nature...he had, he did certainly show him.
Fdsp 2.204 6 A friend...is a sort of paradox in nature.
Fdsp 2.204 7 A friend...is a sort of paradox in nature. I...who see nothing in nature that makes me can affirm with equal evidence to my own, behold now the semblance of my being...reiterated in a foreign form;...Fdsp 2.204 12...a friend may well be reckoned the masterpiece of nature.
Fdsp 2.210 14 Should not the society of my friend be to me...great as our contemporaries are punished in us also.
Fdsp 2.212 19 Late,—very late,—we perceive that...no consummations or habits of society would be of any avail to establish us in such relations with [the noble] as we desire,—but solely the uprise of nature in us to the same degree it is in him.
Fdsp 2.213 23 [By persisting in your path] You...draw to you...those rare pilgrims whereof only one or two wander in nature at once.
Fdsp 2.214 2 Whatever correction of our popular views we make from insight into nature will be sure to bear us out in...Prd 1.223 6 Once in a long time, a man...sees and enjoys the symbol solidly...and lastly, whilst he pitches his tent on this sacred volcanic isle of nature, does not offer to build houses and barns thereon.
Prd 1.224 18...our existence, thus apparently attached in nature to the sun and the returning moon and the periods which they mark...reads all its primary lessons out of these books.
Prd 1.224 25 Prudence does not go behind nature and ask whence it is.
Prd 1.226 12...wherever a wild date-tree grows, nature...spreads a table for [the islander's] morning meal.
Prd 1.226 18...not one stroke can labor lay to without some new acquaintance with nature.
Prd 1.226 19...nature is inexhaustibly significant.
Prd 1.228 5...nature punishes any negligence of prudence.
Prd 1.230 18 There is a certain fatal dissocation in our relation to nature.
Prd 1.230 25 We must...ask why health and beauty and genius should now be the exception rather than the rule of human nature.
Prd 1.230 26 We do not know the properties of plants and animals and the laws of nature, through our lack of sympathy with the same.
Prd 1.233 25 Is it not better that a man should accept the first pains and mortifications of this sort, which nature is not slack in sending him, as hints that he must expect no other good than the just fruit of his own labor and self-denial.
Prd 1.235 15...every thing in nature, even moats and feathers, go by law and not by luck.
Hsm 1.236 12 Human nature loves no contradictions, but is symmetrical.
Hsm 1.246 8...not with our sympathy with the same.
Hsm 1.249 3 The violations of the laws of nature by our predecessors and our contemporaries are punished in us also.

Pt 3.19 23 The chief value of the new fact is to enhance the great and constant fact of Life.
Pt 3.21 6 All the facts of the animal economy...are symbols of the passage of the world into the soul of man, to suffer there a change and reappear a new and higher fact.
Pt 3.22 2 ...nature] shakes down from the gills of one agaric countless spores, and one of which, being preserved, transmits new billions of spores to-morrow or next day.
Pt 3.23 4 The new agaric of this hour has a chance which the old one had not.
Pt 3.23 6 This atom of seed is thrown into a new place...
Pt 3.23 11 [Nature] makes a man; and having brought him to ripe age...she detaches from him a new self...
Pt 3.24 7 ...nature has a higher end, in the production of new individuals, than simply, namely ascension.
Pt 3.24 24 The poet also resigns himself to his mood, and that thought which agitated him is expressed, but...in a manner totally new.
Pt 3.24 25 The expression of [the poet’s] thoughts is organic, or the new type of things themselves take when liberated.
Pt 3.26 20 ...beyond the energy of his possessed and conscious intellect [every intellectual man] is capable of a new energy...by abandonment to the nature of things.
Pt 3.27 16 ...if in any manner we can stimulate this instinct, new passages are opened for us into nature...
Pt 3.30 12 Men have really got a new sense...
Pt 3.32 23 All the value which attaches to...Oken...is the certificate we have of departure from routine, and that here is a new witness.
Pt 3.33 22 ...we love the poet, the inventor, who in any form...has yielded us a new thought.
Pt 3.33 23 [The poet] unlocks our chains and admits us to a new scene.
Pt 3.33 11 The poet did not stop at the color or the form, but read their meaning; neither may he rest in this meaning, but he makes the same objects exponents of his new thought.
Pt 3.37 11 Time and nature yield us many gifts, but not yet the timely man, the new religion from whom all things await.
Pt 3.39 8 [Artists] found or put themselves in certain conditions...and each presently feels the new desire.
Pt 3.40 23 All the creatures by pairs and by tribes pour into [the poet’s] mind as into a Noah’s ark, to come forth again to people a new world.
Pt 3.41 6 O poet! a new nobility is conferred in groves and pastures...
Exp 3.45 23 Did our birth fall in some fit of indigence and frugality in our economical mother...plants an eye wherever a new ray of light can fall...
Nat2 3.195 15 ...the wary Nature sends a new troop of fairer forms...with a new and higher fact.
Exp 3.76 4 ...now, the rapaciousness of this new power, which threatens to absorb all things, engages us.
Exp 3.84 2 When I receive a new gift, I do not macerate my body to make the account square...
Exp 3.85 26 ...in the solitude to which every man is always returning, he has a sanity and revelations which in his passage into new worlds he will carry with him.
Chr 3.92 14 In the new objects we recognize the old game...
Chr 3.99 26 ...[the ingenious man] shall stand stoutly in his place and let me...know that I have encountered a new and positive quality;...Chr 3.102 2 [the hero] is again on his road, adding new powers and honors to his domain...

SwM 4.134 22 Nothing with [Swedenborg] has the liberality of universal wisdom.

SwM 4.135 24 The excess of [Hebraic] influence shows itself [in Swedenborg] in the incongruous importation of a foreign rhetoric. What have I to do, asks the impatient reader, with...baryl and chalcedony;...what with...behemoth and unicorn? Good for Orientals, these is nothing to me. SwW 4.25 22 Nothing with the Spartans. Wrestler, do you speak so much to the purpose; of that which is nothing to the purpose?

SwM 4.137 24 I doubt not [Swedenborg] was led by the desire to insert the element of personality of Deity. But nothing is added.

ET15 5.261 18 A relentless inquisition [the newspaper] drags every secret to the day—and no weakness can be taken advantage of by an enemy, since the whole people are already forewarned. Thus England rids herself of these attentions which have been the ruin of old states.

ET15 5.263 15 I asked one of [the London Times]'s old contributors whether it had once been abler than it is now? Never, he said; ...

ET15 5.265 17 I went one day with a good friend to The [London] Times office. He was entered through a pretty garden-yard in Frith's-house Square. We walked with somecircumspcension, as if we were entering a powder-mill; but the door was opened by a mild old woman...

ET15 5.265 26 The old press [the London Times] were then using printed five or six thousand sheets per hour.

ET16 5.274 11 Art and high art is a favorite target for [Carlyle's] wit. Yes, Kunst is a great delusion, and Goethe and Schiller wanted a great deal of good time on it—and he thinks he discovers that old Goethe found this out...

ET16 5.274 25 I told Carlyle that...I like the [English] people...but meantime, I surely know that as soon as I return to Massachusetts I shall lapse at once into the feeling...that England, an old and exhausted island, must one day be contented, like other parents, to be strong only in her children.

ET16 5.276 16 On the top of a mountain, the old temple [Stonehenge] would not be more impressive.

ET16 5.276 22 It looked as though the wide margin given in this crowded isle to this peculiar temple [Stonehenge] were accorded by the votaries at the British race to the old egg out of which all their ecclesiastical structures and historical habit had proceeded.

ET16 5.278 3 The situation [of Stonehenge] is fixed axiomatically,—the great stones...being placed exactly northeast, as all the gates of the old covenants are.

ET16 5.279 10 We [Emerson and Carlyle] walked in and out and took again and again a fresh look at the uncanny stones [of Stonehenge]. The old sphere...put our petty differences of nationality out of sight.

ET16 5.279 14 To these conclusions [of Stonehenge] we two pilgrims [Emerson and Carlyle] were alike known and near. We could equally well revere their old British meaning.

ET16 5.279 22 The old temple of England impress Carlyle much...

ET16 5.279 27 [Carlyle] can see, as he reads [the Acta Sanctorum], the old Saint of Iona sitting there and writing, a man to men.

ET16 5.286 13 Carlyle was unwilling, and we did not ask to have the choir [at Salisbury Cathedral] shown us, but returned to our inn, after seeing another old church of the place.

ET16 5.289 10 Just before entering Winchester we stopped at the Church of Saint Cross, and...we demanded a piece of bread and a draught of beer, which the founder, Henry de Blois, in 1136, commanded should be given to every one who should ask it at the gate. We had both, from the old couple who take care of the church.

ET16 5.290 1 [Winchester Cathedral] is very old...

ET16 5.290 3 [Winchester Cathedral] is very old: part of the crypt into which we went down and saw the Saxon and Norman arches of the old church on which the present stands, was built fourteen or fifteen hundred years ago.

ET16 5.290 14 The building [Abbey, Hyde, England] was destroyed at the Reformation, and what is left of Alfred's body now lies covered by modern buildings, or buried in the ruins of the old.

ShP 4.189 2 Great men are more distinguished by range and extent than by originality.

ShP 4.189 3 If we require the originality which consists in weaving, like a spider, their web from their own bowels;...no great men are original. ShP 4.189 6 If we require the originality which consists...in finding clay and making bricks and building the house; no great men are original. Nor does valuable originality consist in unlikeness to other men.

ShP 4.196 13 If [Shakespeare] lost any credit of design, he augmented his resources; and, at that day, our petulant demand for originality was not so much pressed.

ShP 4.198 20 ...originality is relative.

ShP 4.199 18 Is there at last in [the writer's] breast a Delphi whereof to ask concerning any thought or thing, whether it be verily so, yea or nay? and to have answer, and to rely on that? All the debts which such a man could consider as other wit would not have had to disturb his courtesies of originality.

ShP 4.201 11 ...the generic catholic genius who is not afraid or ashamed to owe his originality to the originality of all, stands with the next age as the recorder and embodiment of his own.
