The soul, n. (cont.)

Eugene F. Irey

Great is the soul, and plain.

OS 2.255 12 The heroic soul does not sell its justice and its nobleness.

Hsm 2.259 17 Let the maiden, with erect soul, walk serenely on her way.

Hsm 2.261 22 ...not only need we breathe and exercise the soul by assuming the penalties of abstinence...

OS 2.267 17 What is the universal sense of want and ignorance, but the fine illusive by which the soul makes its action, we claim?

OS 2.267 24 The philosophy of six thousand years has not searched the chambers and magazines of the soul.

OS 2.269 7 ...within man is the soul of the whole... We see the world piece by piece... but the whole, of which these are the shining parts, is the soul.

OS 2.270 16 All goes to show that the soul in man is not an organ...

OS 2.271 6 ...the soul, whose organ [what we commonly call man] is, would have...it appear that his action, would make our knees to bend.

OS 2.271 15 All reform aims in some one particular to let the soul have its way through us;...

OS 2.271 27 ...as there is no screen or ceiling between our heads and the infinite heavens, so is there no bar or wall in the soul...

OS 2.272 11 The soul circumscribes all things.

OS 2.272 20 ...time and space are but inverse measures of the force of the soul.

OS 2.273 19 Before the revelations of the soul, Time, Space and Nature shrink away.

OS 2.274 2 ...we say... that a day of certain political, moral, social reforms is at hand, and the like, when we mean that in the nature of things one of the acts we contemplate is external and fugitive, and the other is permanent and connate with the soul.

OS 2.274 9 The soul looketh steadily forwards...

OS 2.274 13 The soul knows only the soul;...

OS 2.275 14 The soul requires purity, but purity is not it;...

OS 2.277 3 Persons are supplementary to the primary teaching of the soul.

OS 2.278 12 The action of the soul is often in that which is felt and left unsaid than in that which is said in any conversation.

OS 2.279 8 In my dealing with my child...as much soul as I have avails.

OS 2.279 13 ...if I renounce my will and act for the soul...out of [my child’s] young eyes looks the same soul;...

OS 2.279 15 ...if I renounce my will and act for the soul...out of [my child’s] young eyes looks the same soul;...

OS 2.279 16 The soul is the perceiver and revealer of truth.

OS 2.280 6 In the book I read, the good thought returns to me...the image of the whole soul.

OS 2.280 7 To the bad thought which I find [in the book I read], the same soul becomes a discerning, separating sword, and lops it away.

OS 2.281 1 We distinguish the announcements of the soul...by the term Revelation.

OS 2.282 19 The rapture of the Moravian and Quietist...the experiences of the Methodists, are varying forms of that shelter of awe and delight with which the individual soul always mingles with the universal soul.

OS 2.282 24 The soul answers never by words...

OS 2.282 27 Revelation is the disclosure of the soul.

OS 2.283 2 In past oracle of the soul the understanding seeks to find answers to sensual questions...

OS 2.283 15 Men ask concerning the immortality of the soul...

OS 2.283 21 To truth, justice, love, the attributes of the soul, the idea of immeasurableness is essentially associated.

OS 2.283 27 Jesus...never...uttered a syllable concerning the duration of the soul.

OS 2.284 3 It was left to [Christ’s] disciples...to teach the immortality of the soul as a doctrine.

OS 2.284 9 ...the soul is true to itself...

OS 2.284 19 ...the soul will not have us read any other cipher than that of cause and effect.

OS 2.284 27 ...all unawares the advancing soul has built and forged for itself a new condition...

OS 2.289 4 ...[Homer, Chaucer, Spencer, Shakspeare, Milton] are poets by the free course which they allow to the informing soul...

OS 2.289 6 The soul is superior to its knowledge...

OS 2.289 21 Why...should I make account of Hamlet and Lear, as if we had not the soul from which they fell as syllables from the tongue?...

OS 2.290 19 ...the soul that ascends to worship the great God is plain and true...

OS 2.291 5 The simplest utterances are worthiest to be written, yet are they so cheap and so things of course, that in the infinite riches of the soul it is like gathering a few pebbles off the ground...

OS 2.292 16 Ineffable is the nature of God and in every act of the soul...

OS 2.295 14 The reliance on authority measures...the withdrawal of the soul.

OS 2.295 18 Great is the soul, and plain.

OS 2.296 9 The soul gives itself, alone, original and pure, to the Lonely, Original and Pure...

OS 2.296 20 [The soul saith] I am somehow receptive of the great soul...

OS 2.297 1 ...everving the soul...man will come to see that the world is the perennial miracle which the soul worketh...

OS 2.297 4 ...man will come to see that the world is the perennial miracle which the soul worketh...

SwM 4.128 5 ...of progressive souls, all loves and friendships are [to Swedenborg] momentary.
SwM 4.129 1 Heaven is not the pairing of two, but the communion of all souls.
SwM 4.131 14 ...a bird does not more readily weave its nest...than this seer of the souls [Swedenborg] substructs a new hell and pit...round every new creature of defence.
SwM 4.131 20 [Swedenborg] was let down through a column that...was formed of angelic spirits, that he might descend safely amongst the unhappy, and witness the vastation of souls.
SwM 4.135 5 The genius of Swedenborg, largest of all modern souls in this [American] department of thought, was deasting all souls in the endeavor to reanimate and conserve what had already arrived at its natural term.
SwM 4.137 4 [Swedenborg] carries his controversial memory with him in his visits to the souls.
SwM 4.138 20 [Swedenborg’s] spiritual world bears the same relation to the generousities and joys of truth of which human souls have already made us cognizant, as a man’s bad dreams bear to his ideal life.
SwM 4.142 12 Strange, scholastic, didactic, passionless, bloodless man [Swedenborg], who denotes classes of souls as a botanist disposes of a carex.
SwM 4.142 18 [Swedenborg] goes up and down the world of men...and with nonchalance and the air of a referee, distributes souls.
SwM 4.143 19 ...the two complexions, or two styles of mind [in England]...which makes the tragedy of all souls.
