

FACULTY TEACHING EXCELLENCE PROGRAM

Who uses FTEP?

Colleagues who...

- Are seeking tenure and promotion
- Are trying something new in a course
- Want to get a handle on a big class
- Have encountered a new problem
- Want to refresh a class they have taught over and over again
- Want to learn about new developments in teaching and learning
- Have received mystifying FCQ scores
- Want to grow from good to great in the classroom
- Want to better understand the students sitting in their classes
- Want to be part of a campus-wide community of educators
- Just got tenure and want to renew focus on students' learning
- Want to talk about teaching with someone outside their department who is an advocate, confidential and informed

Photo by: Casey A. Cass/University of Colorado
Participants in the FTEP 2011 Assessment Institute

I use FTEP...

"...because I wanted to talk to someone about what was happening in my classes who wouldn't be voting on my tenure case."

"...because I had taught the same class six times and it wasn't working like it used to."

"I love attending symposia. Not only do I learn great things, but I don't feel so alone in my classroom anymore."

"I want to be a great teacher and I need intelligent feedback that isn't tied to public evaluation like FCQs."

"...because nothing in my PhD class prepared me to teach a class with 200 non-majors in it."

"...and students really appreciated that I cared about how I was teaching them."

FTEP SERVICES ARE CONFIDENTIAL: THESE COMMENTS ARE, THEREFORE, ANONYMOUS

www.colorado.edu/ftpep

University of Colorado Boulder