A message from the President of the Geology Club

My name is Anya, I am a third year undergraduate geology major and president of Geology Club. Geology Club is a welcoming community that is open to anyone, including non geology majors! My team of elected board members and I strive to plan and prepare a wide variety of activities to reach a larger community united under a common interest of scientifically understanding the world around us. As the former Vice President last year I helped organize activities such as camping trips, a rock collection show and tell, and a final exam study session with pizza in tandem to department events such as career night and a formal dance which members are encouraged to participate in. Joining is simple: scan the QR codes on our posters around Benson and join our discord server where we will post club and department information. Meetings are completely optional and open to everyone so bring a friend!
