

Tips for choosing your Honors RAP class

When considering options for your Honors RAP course, here are some things to think about.

1. Your interests

Your first year is a good time to take courses that interest you. Although such courses might not be in your major course of studies, they may count as core or elective credit. As you progress in your academic career, you may find that there is less time and/or opportunity to take a class outside of your major(s).

2. Your core curriculum requirements.

Your degree plan requires classes in core curriculum categories. Carefully read the Honors RAP Schedule of Courses, paying particular attention to the Core column. To determine which core categories are required for your degree plan, consult the following resources. Later you will be able to run a degree audit in your MyCUinfo portal.

These topics are also covered in the New Student & Family Programs Online Experience.

- Check out the Arts & Sciences Core Curriculum Information.
- Check out the College of Engineering & Applied Sciences Humanities, Social Sciences, & Writing requirements.
- Check out the Leeds School of Business core here.
- Check out the College of Music degree plans here.
- Check out the Program in Environmental Design general education requirements here.
- Check out the College of Media, Communication & Information degree plans here.

3. Your transfer credits.

If you plan to transfer credit, consult the following resources:

For information about credit for Course Work or Exams (AP exams, IB, College Course Work) click here.

See what the Admissions Office says about Transfer Credit Policy & Guidelines.

