The Post-Cold War World: Evolution in Global Military Political Thought
COURSE SYLLABUS IAFS 4500-005 Spring 2019

Instructor: Sheila M. O. Scanlon
Colonel, United States Marine Corps Retired
Email: Sheila.Scanlon@colorado.edu

Office Hours: 1:15pm to 2:30 pm Monday/Wednesday University Club A4 (2 floors below the IAFS office). The door is always open; however, appointments are highly encouraged.

Class Location: Ketchum (KTCH) 1B84

Class Hours: Monday/Wednesday 3:00 – 4:15

Course Description: This course introduces students to the evolution of using the military to achieve political purpose in today’s world. It will link society, the military, policies, and human rights in the study of military political theory and strategic analysis by studying the “old dead guys” and history and then apply to the Post-Cold War. We will go through history until we get to World War II and then jump to Post-Cold War.

Class Attendance: Attendance at every class session is expected. Absences are to be arranged with the Professor prior to the class session. Tardiness or absence from class will directly impact your participation grade. You are expected to do the readings and homework for each class and participate in every class, even if you are absent. After two unexcused classes, 5% will be reduced from your participation grade for each absence.

Class Participation: Class time is both lecture time for the instructors and an opportunity for students to express points and ideas relating to the assigned reading. To apply the concepts presented, all reading assignments are mandatory and expected to be completed prior to discussion in class.

Expectations: Cell phones should be on vibrate or turned off. No food in class, unless you bring enough for all. Respect of all views whether you agree or not.

Class Assignment/Written Homework Due Each Class: Find a current event article that relates to the readings and discussions for the current day’s class. If you use an on-line source, ensure your article has been fact checked and it is a legitimate web-site. Give a written analysis, in one but no more than two paragraphs, on how the article relates to the readings for that day’s class. Print out your article. Turn in your homework and article in class - printed on paper.

Examinations: Two examinations will be administered during the semester. The midterm will be March 4, 2019 – bring a blue examination booklet and a pen. The final exam will be held on the date designated by the school and also require a blue examination booklet and pen.
Research Paper: You will be tasked to research different forms of diplomacy, information, military and economics to guide the analysis as discussed in the course material, and write a 15-20 page typed double-spaced paper which argues a thesis focused on one of the “old dead guys” vs. a US conflict today. Details of each paper will be discussed in class. A copy of your proposed research topic cover/title page, abstract statement and outline of the paper are to be submitted no later than Wednesday, February 18, 2019 for approval. Proposals will be submitted in APA format.

Presentation: The last three classes will be dedicated to class presentation of your paper. The presentation is 15 mins long. Your mission is to support your thesis and convince your classmates that that your recommendations to the President and National Security Advisors are sound and supported or not by one of our dead military theorists.

The completed paper is due Wednesday, March 20, 2019. Papers will be submitted in APA format to include: cover/title page, page numbering, running heads, completed one-paragraph abstract, all levels of headings and subheadings, titles for any figures or tables to be included, footnotes and a completed reference page. Guidance on the APA style can be found at: http://webster.commnet.edu/apa/apa_index.htm or https://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/

Late papers, or exams will be lowered by one letter grade for each day late.

Information: Course information will be disseminated via email. Instructor prefers to use student University email accounts for correspondence pertaining to the course.
Text Books: All text books are on hold at the Nolan Library and can be loaned out for a four-hour block period. Recommend you buy Mission Failure by Michael Madelbaum.

The Art of War by Sun Tsu, (Griffith/Hart Translation) (Electronic version also on loan at the library)

Course Objectives: In addition to stimulating thought in military theory and practice and how it affects using the military to achieve political purpose, specific objectives are:

1. Analyze the history and nature of war and its evolving character and conduct – past, present and future to achieve political purpose.
2. Analyze classical and contemporary theories of war and national security and apply them to current and future strategic challenges as well as human rights issues.
3. Explore the interplay between force and non-violent instruments in history and how they are linked to society, the military, and politics.
4. Examine the interaction between military theory and the execution of military strategy in achieving political purpose including responding to human rights issues.
5. Explore the influence of political, economic, societal/cultural, human, and technological factors on the design and execution of military strategies.

CU Policies:

Classroom Behavior: Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Those who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with race, color, national origin, sex, pregnancy, age, disability, creed, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, veteran status, political affiliation or political philosophy. Class rosters are provided to the instructor with the student's legal name. I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make appropriate changes to my records. For more information, see the policies on classroom behavior and the Student Code of Conduct.

Sexual Misconduct, Discrimination, Harassment and/or Related Retaliation: The University of Colorado Boulder (CU Boulder) is committed to fostering a positive and welcoming learning, working, and living environment. CU Boulder will not tolerate acts of sexual misconduct (including sexual assault, exploitation, harassment, dating or domestic violence, and stalking), discrimination, and harassment by members of our community. Individuals who believe they have been subject to misconduct or retaliatory actions for reporting a concern should contact the Office of Institutional Equity and Compliance (OIEC) at 303-492-2127 or cureport@colorado.edu. Information about the OIEC, university policies, anonymous reporting, and the campus resources can be found on the OIEC website. Please know that faculty and instructors have a responsibility to inform OIEC when made aware of incidents of sexual misconduct, discrimination, harassment and/or related retaliation, to ensure that individuals impacted receive information about options for reporting and support resources.

Honor Code: All students enrolled in a University of Colorado Boulder course are responsible for knowing and adhering to the Honor Code. Violations of the policy may include: plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, lying, bribery, threat, unauthorized access to academic materials, clicker fraud, submitting the same or similar work in more than one course without permission from all course instructors involved, and aiding academic dishonesty. All incidents of academic misconduct will be reported to the Honor Code (honor@colorado.edu; 303-492-5550). Students who are found responsible for violating the academic integrity policy will be subject to nonacademic sanctions from the Honor Code as well as academic sanctions from the faculty member. Additional information regarding the Honor Code academic integrity policy can be found at the Honor Code Office website.

Accommodations for Disability: If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit your accommodation letter from Disability Services to your faculty member in a timely manner so that your needs can be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities in the academic environment. Information on requesting accommodations is located on the Disability Services website. Contact Disability Services at 303-492-8671 or dsinfo@colorado.edu for further assistance. If you have a temporary medical condition or injury, see Temporary Medical Conditions under the Students tab on the Disability Services website.

Religious Observances: Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to deal reasonably and fairly with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. In this class, students will contact me directly prior to a requested absence to arrange for remediation. See the campus policy regarding religious observances for full details.
