

Tax Preparation Support

Current Year Tax Support

To assist with U.S. tax filing obligations, University of Colorado Employee Services International Tax Office provides a variety of helpful resources including tax preparation software to qualified CU Boulder students and scholars.

Employed By CU Boulder

- If you are paid by the university and have questions about the W-2 form that you received from CU Boulder, please contact Payroll and Benefit Services directly at (303) 860-4200.
- For questions about your withholding obligations or tax treaties, please schedule an appointment with an International Tax Specialist.

Local Tax Preparation Specialists

If you do not obtain a tax prep software license, have complicated filings, previous tax year questions or other issues, you may want to consult a local tax preparation specialist since ISSS advisors are not tax specialists.

Disclaimer:

The list of organizations below was compiled by ISSS as a convenience and is intended only to serve as a resource. This list is not exhaustive, the service offerings may change without notice. Any information listed on the web sites is the responsibility of the individual organization and not of ISSS. ISSS is not endorsing or approving of any of the services, opinions, or products of third-party providers listed herein. Please contact the organization to learn more about their service offerings and to determine if those services may be of assistance to you.

- When checking with a commercial tax preparer, be sure to ask questions about the services provided and the prior experience of the tax preparer specifically with the preparation of non-resident tax form (e.g., specialist's qualifications/experience with your type of filing, cost, and details about what is included for the fee).
