

Rule # 1 – Don't do too much, too early. Until you hit July 4th, make sure to take a full day off from bar studying each week. Don't even talk about it. (You can still have a decent summer... well... June and August anyway.)

Rule #2 – Listen and focus during lectures. Don't skip lectures or try to do a bunch of videos in one day. You won't learn the material that way.

Rule #3 – Use flash cards if they have worked for you in the past! Make them as you go through the course and try and review a little every day (except your day off). In the last couple weeks, I would do hours and hours of flash cards every night.

– Darren Jankord, Class of 2012, passed the 2012 July Bar Exam

What are the three parties to a trust?

1. Settlor (creates trust)
2. Trustee (legal owner of trust property; must have active duties)
3. Beneficiary (equitable owner who has present or future beneficial interest in a trust; must have right to enforce terms of trust)