President William J. Clinton: Eight Years of Peace, Progress and Prosperity

In 1993, President Clinton and Vice President Gore put in place an agenda to get America back on its economic feet while restoring the values of opportunity, responsibility and community that made this country great. Their work, along with the hard work of the American people, has led to remarkable progress: the longest economic expansion in our nation's history, more than 22 million new jobs, historically low unemployment, the lowest crime rates in a generation, the smallest welfare rolls in 35 years, and cleaner air and water in our nation's communities. Our report "Eight Years of Peace, Progress and Prosperity" highlights all of President Clinton's historic achievements and details the progress our nation has made over the past eight years. The report is available in HTML and as a PDF here on the White House web site. read more

President Tours Pentagon

But coming here confirms what the Secretary and I both know, that this is a great nation. People here working hard prove it; people out here working their hearts out to answer families' questions, to remove the rubble and debris from this office. I want to thank everybody not only on this site, but all across America, for responding so generously, so kindly, in their prayers, in their contributions of love and their willingness to help in any way they can. ◆ Presidential Transition

The peaceful transfer of power from one Presidential Administration to the next is a hallmark of American democracy. With our Nation at war, our homeland targeted by terrorist adversaries, and our economy facing serious challenges, the Administration is committed to establishing and executing a transition plan that minimizes disruption, maintains continuity, and addresses the major changes in government since the 2000 transition, including the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004, as well as the creation of the Department of Homeland Security, the Director of National Intelligence, and the Homeland Security Council.
