

What is MENV?

The Masters of the Environment (MENV) Graduate Program at CU Boulder is a professional master's degree that equips students with the skills, knowledge, experience, and network to launch impactful careers in the environmental and sustainability field.

MENV by the numbers:

48
credit hours

21
months to complete

80 - 100
students per cohort

Choose Your Path

- Environmental & Natural Resource Policy: Shaping policies that protect natural resources and communities
- Renewable & Sustainable Energy: Advancing clean energy solutions for a low-carbon future
- Sustainability in the Outdoor Industry: Promoting sustainable practices in recreation, tourism, and outdoor business
- Sustainable Food Systems: Designing resilient, equitable, and environmentally friendly food networks
- Urban Resilience & Sustainability: Creating adaptive, resilient, and vibrant cities

Real World Experience

- Year-long Capstone Projects with government, nonprofit, and industry partners
- Networking with sustainability professionals
- Career coaching and professional development workshops

Why MENV?

Our graduates are prepared to:

- Lead in sustainability-focused organizations
- Design innovative environmental solutions
- Influence policy and decision-making
- Build resilient communities

Alumni Careers:

- AECOM
- Mad Agriculture
- National Audubon Society
- National Renewable Energy Lab (NREL)
- Rocky Mountain Institute (RMI)
- VF Corporation

Location Advantage

Boulder, Colorado: A hub for environmental innovation, climate research, and outdoor access

Admissions

Application Deadlines:

- Priority*: December 1, 2025
- Early: February 5, 2026
- Final: May 1, 2026

*Apply by our Priority deadline to be considered for our first round of program scholarships.

Requirements:

- Bachelor's degree in any field
- Transcripts
- Letters of Reference (2)
- Personal Statements (2)
- Resume or C.V.

Ready to Shape the Future?

Visit: colorado.edu/menv

Email: MENVAdmissions@colorado.edu

Follow Us

@cuboulderMENV

linkedin.com/company/cubouldermenv/