III. DISSERTATION PROJECTS

The TMUS Dissertation Projects usually are begun after successful completion of the first semester of study at CU. Students must have passed all required Preliminary Examinations or have begun enrolling in remedial coursework before they are permitted to present their first recital. If a recital or project is not completed during the same semester as registration, an IP ("In Progress") grade is recorded. The IP grade is later replaced with the letter grade assigned by the faculty advisory committee, and the student does not need to register again for the same TMUS project.

Notes on Dissertation Projects:

- Dissertation Project 1 (TMUS 8219), Dissertation Project 2 (TMUS 8229), and Dissertation Project 3 (TMUS 8239) must be performed by a combo of three or more players, with the DMA candidate taking a predominantly solo role in the concert.
- The Lecture-Recital (TMUS 8259) must be built around a specific area of original research. Students will prepare a program on a specific topic, and remarks must be presented before and after selections.
- The Repertoire Project (TMUS 8319) will consist of 50 pieces from the jazz repertoire, assigned by the primary advisor. The repertoire examination shall take no more than 60 minutes, and will take place in front of a committee comprised of jazz faculty. At the exam, the committee will select from this repertory the pieces to be performed. Pieces to be prepared will be from the following styles: bebop, ballad, swing, contemporary, free, and modal. In addition, some pieces from less familiar styles such as ragtime, stride, and early jazz may be chosen in order to further broaden the student's repertoire. The student should be prepared to play the melody, recite/write the chord changes, and improvise at a professional level over the chord changes to each piece assigned.
