Course Objective

“When you play the game of thrones, you win or you die. There is no middle ground.” – Cersei Lannister (Season 1, Episode 7: You Win or You Die)

“Dracarys.” – Daenerys Targaryen (Season 3, Episode 4: And Now His Watch Has Ended)

All political leaders face the challenge of keeping their jobs or heads. Whether you are the prime minister of the United Kingdom, the ruler of King’s Landing, or the Mother of Dragons, your desire to survive—often quite literally—motivates your policy choices and determines whom to reward or punish. To maximize your chance of survival, you must shape the rules of the game to your advantage and decide how to deal with foreign nations and enemies within. The logic behind your and everyone else’s desire to survive is the essence of politics and the central focus of Political Science. Using the American fantasy drama television series, Game of Thrones (GoT), this course introduces first-year students to some of the most important concepts in Political Science across the traditional subfields. Starting from Season 1, students will watch the episodes for homework in addition to reading assignments exploring the fundamental ideas and frameworks of Political Science. In class, we will make connections between Game of Thrones and Political Science and will evaluate each character's survival strategy. This course is especially excellent for students who enjoy movies or television series depicting real or fantasy political events. Game of Thrones will help students internalize course concepts and class materials by providing a wealth of case studies for analyzing strategic interactions between political elites. To maintain coherent course content and reduce the reading load, we will not discuss George R. R. Martin's books on which GoT is based.

Attendance Policy

There is no penalty for missing class sessions. However, daily quizzes are heavily based on class materials, so I encourage everyone to attend class sessions in person.

Evaluation

For a total possible score of 100,000 points, your grade is made up of the following four components: (1) daily quizzes (2) two take-home exams; (3) a final paper; and (4) side quests. The grade breakdown of these components, along with their respective dates, is shown below.

You will automatically fail the entire course for plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, lying, bribery, threat, unauthorized access, resubmission, aiding academic dishonesty, and other behaviors I find unacceptable according to the University's Honor Code. Additionally, I will report all Honor Code violations to the Honor Council, the Department, and the Dean of Students.

- I. Daily Quizzes (20,000 points): You will take the quizzes on Canvas between 5:10 and 5:25 pm.
- II. You will have two take-home exams in this course. No final exam will be given for this course because you will have a final paper to complete. On each exam, you will be given two questions, but you only need to answer one. You are allowed to use any notes or books.

- (a) Exam 1 (25,000 points) – Due at 4:00 pm on Monday, 10/4 via Canvas
- (b) Exam 2 (25,000 points) – Due at 4:00 pm on Wednesday, 11/10 via Canvas

III. Final Paper or Project (30,000 points) – Wednesday, 12/15 (due via Canvas at 4:00 p.m.)

- [OPTION 1] You will choose two leaders from GoT to compare and contrast their political constraints and survival strategies. First, explain how their respective political constraints shape their political behaviors in general. In doing so, illustrate their political constraints (e.g., the winning coalition, the selectorate, etc.) and analyze their similarities and differences between the leaders. Additionally, show how their political constraints and their decisions affect the living standards of ordinary people and elites residing in their territories. Second, make an argument on who has made better political decisions given their political constraints. In doing so, make sure to distinguish between short-term and long-term goals. Moreover, avoid comparing apples to oranges. For instance, comparing Tywin Lannister to Robb Stark is probably not a good idea since Robb was the most extreme version of an idealist in the show. Finally, explain what a successful leader should do in order to survive both domestically and internationally. For instance, what type of winning coalition or selectorate is optimal for a leader to stay alive and powerful? What are some of the specific actions they can take to shape the rules of the game to their advantage?
- [OPTION 2] Write a paper on a topic of your choice as long as it lies within the course content and GoT. To select this option, you must come see me by Monday, November 29 to get my approval.
- You are encouraged to consult me during my office hours or make an appointment to discuss your paper or project.
- Late papers will lose 3,000 points per day (not per class). Papers turned in after 4:00 p.m. on Friday, 12/17 will not be accepted and receive a zero.
- Formatting Requirements:
 - Maximum of 6 pages
 - 1 inch margins for all
 - Double-spaced
 - Times New Roman, 12-point
- Non-compliant papers will lose 1,500 points per formatting violation.
- You must submit this paper to Canvas electronically so that we can verify its originality using turnitin.com. You will not receive credit for this paper until your Canvas version has passed the originality test.
- You must use quotation marks and provide proper citations when you use exact words of another author. You also need to cite an author whose argument you summarize or paraphrase in your papers. Your papers must provide citations and a list of references for the sources of facts you use in them. Appropriate sources for papers will be discussed in class.

IV. Side Quests (Various Points): Throughout the semester, you will have a variety of opportunities to increase your points by completing extra assignments. The maximum possible reward for completing each quest will not exceed 1,000 points. Note that side quests have due dates. You will not be able to complete a side quest after its due date.

GradeCraft™

GradeCraft™, a revolutionary online platform for the “gamification” of courses will power this seminar. You will be able to keep track of your course progress and check grades through this system. Instead of starting from 100 and defending their points, students will start from 0 and will have opportunities to “level up” throughout the course. This grading design provides students with a sense of growth and a fun way to take in course materials. One of my former students mentioned that GradeCraft with its gamification is “a heck of a drug” in the sense that they kept looking for additional assignments and activities to achieve a desired threshold. Driven by this powerful incentive tool, the course will feature a series of activities that stimulate student thinking through the 73 episodes of GoT. Since so many of the GoT episodes feature strategic interactions and political structures, students will engage in a semester-long question of how to survive politically. While the course will have a team project and an extended discussion of concepts, the incentive structure of the course and the epic GoT storylines will captivate students and will make learning irresistible throughout the semester. More information about how to register for and use GradeCraft will follow on Wednesday, September 5.

Points to Letter Grade Conversion

I will not be rounding up any points at the end of the semester. An excellent way to score more points is to complete the side quests on time.

Regrading Policy

In this class, all grades are final. There is no process for filing a grade grievance. However, if you find a computational error, please let me know as soon as possible.

E-mail Etiquette

I have posted some useful resources on Canvas about how to write e-mails to professors. This is a valuable skill to have as you navigate through college and prepare for your career. Please include a subject. I prefer something like “[FYSM-GOT]” followed by something indicative about the purpose of your e-mail. For instance, if you want to discuss classroom accommodation due to your disability, the subject of your e-mail can be “[FYSM-GOT] Disability Accommodation and Extra Exam Time.”

Do not e-mail me for the following reasons:

1. You missed a class session and want notes from me.
 - Instead, consult your classmates.
2. You are going to miss a class session and want to let me know.
 - Letting me know does not make a difference.
3. You missed a quiz and want a make-up quiz.
 - There is no make-up quiz. I would look into completing side quests to get more points!

University of Colorado Policies

Classroom Behavior

Both students and faculty are responsible for maintaining an appropriate learning environment in all instructional settings, whether in person, remote or online. Those who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with race, color, national origin, sex, pregnancy, age, disability, creed, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, veteran status, political affiliation or political philosophy. For more information, see the policies on classroom behavior and the Student Code of Conduct & Conflict Resolution policies.

Requirements for COVID-19

As a matter of public health and safety due to the pandemic, all members of the CU Boulder community and all visitors to campus must follow university, department and building requirements and all public health orders in place to reduce the risk of spreading infectious disease. Students who fail to adhere to these requirements will be asked to leave class, and students who do not leave class when asked or who refuse to comply with these requirements will be referred to Student Code of Conduct & Conflict Resolution. For more information, see the policy on classroom behavior and the Student Code of Conduct. If you require accommodation because a disability prevents you from fulfilling these safety measures, please follow the steps in the “Accommodation for Disabilities” statement on this syllabus.

As of Aug. 13, 2021, CU Boulder has returned to requiring masks in classrooms and laboratories regardless of vaccination status. This requirement is a temporary precaution during the delta surge to supplement CU Boulder’s COVID-19 vaccine requirement. Exemptions include individuals who cannot medically tolerate a face covering, as well as those who are hearing-impaired or otherwise disabled or who are communicating with someone who is hearing-impaired or otherwise disabled and where the ability to see the mouth is essential to communication. If you qualify for a mask-related accommodation, please follow the steps in the “Accommodation for Disabilities” statement on this syllabus. In addition, vaccinated instructional faculty who are engaged in an indoor instructional activity and are separated by at least 6 feet from the nearest person are exempt from wearing masks if they so choose.

Students who have tested positive for COVID-19, have symptoms of COVID-19, or have had close contact with someone who has tested positive for or had symptoms of COVID-19 must stay home. In this class, if you are sick or quarantined, please let your TA know before the next class, and accommodations can be made.

Accommodation for Disabilities

If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit your accommodation letter from Disability Services to your faculty member in a timely manner so that your needs can be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities in the academic environment. Information on requesting accommodations is located on the Disability Services website. Contact Disability Services at 303-492-8671 or dsinfo@colorado.edu for further assistance. If you have a temporary medical condition, see Temporary Medical Conditions on the Disability Services website.

Preferred Student Names and Pronouns

CU Boulder recognizes that students' legal information doesn't always align with how they identify. Students may update their preferred names and pronouns via the student portal; those preferred names and pronouns are listed on instructors' class rosters. In the absence of such updates, the name that appears on the class roster is the student's legal name.

Honor Code

All students enrolled in a University of Colorado Boulder course are responsible for knowing and adhering to the Honor Code. Violations of the policy may include: plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, lying, bribery, threat, unauthorized access to academic materials, clicker fraud, submitting the same or similar work in more than one course without permission from all course instructors involved, and aiding academic dishonesty. All incidents of academic misconduct will be reported to the Honor Code (honor@colorado.edu); 303-492-5550). Students found responsible for violating the academic integrity policy will be subject to nonacademic sanctions from the Honor Code as well as academic sanctions from the faculty member. Additional information regarding the Honor Code academic integrity policy can be found at the Honor Code Office website.

Sexual Misconduct, Discrimination, Harassment and/or Related Retaliation

The University of Colorado Boulder (CU Boulder) is committed to fostering an inclusive and welcoming learning, working, and living environment. CU Boulder will not tolerate acts of sexual misconduct (harassment, exploitation, and assault), intimate partner violence (dating or domestic violence), stalking, or protected-class discrimination or harassment by members of our community. Individuals who believe they have been subject to misconduct or retaliatory actions for reporting a concern should contact the Office of Institutional Equity and Compliance (OIEC) at 303-492-2127 or cureport@colorado.edu. Information about the OIEC, university policies, reporting options, and the campus resources can be found on the OIEC website.

Please know that faculty and instructors have a responsibility to inform OIEC when made aware of incidents of sexual misconduct, dating and domestic violence, stalking, discrimination, harassment and/or related retaliation, to ensure that individuals impacted receive information about options for reporting and support resources.

Religious Holidays

Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to deal reasonably and fairly with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. In this class, please inform me via email with at least one week's notice. We can then find the best accommodation. See the campus policy regarding religious observances for full details.
