

PSCI 3011-001 The American Presidency and the Executive Branch- Griffin

This class is being taught as a remote/online class. In this class, we will meet Tuesday and Thursday synchronously via Zoom during the scheduled class time to discuss the readings and material. Students are expected to attend these sessions (with video screens on unless an exception is granted) and participate regularly, and attendance and participation are graded components of the class. The synchronous sessions will NOT be recorded to foster the ability of students to speak freely in the discussions. Students also have the option of participating in weekly online Canvas discussions. The Canvas discussions are an optional way to earn attendance and participation credit, and ideas from the Canvas discussions will be incorporated into the Zoom discussions. This class has two open book/open note essay exams which will be conducted as "take-home" exams. The class also has a semester paper, for which a rubric will be provided. There is NO in-person component to this class.
