

PSCI 4016-001 - Adrian Shin

This seminar will be conducted remotely for most of the time. In this class, we will meet Tuesday and Thursday synchronously via Zoom during the scheduled class time to discuss the course readings and materials. Students are expected to attend these sessions and participate regularly. Although attendance and participation are not graded components, students will be given daily quizzes based on class discussion. Students who do not participate via Zoom often do poorly on daily quizzes which make up about 20 percent of the grade. The synchronous sessions are not recorded to foster the ability of students to speak freely in the discussions. Some synchronous class sessions may be replaced by short lecture presentations followed by online activities and quizzes. Students are expected to complete the readings before watching the lectures. This class has two take-home exams and a final paper. There is no in-person component in this course.