Spring 2019, MWF, 1-1:50pm in Muenzinger E431
Professor Sokhey

Office: Ketchum Hall 133 (Ketchum is located between Norlin Library and Atlas)
E-mail: sokheys@colorado.edu
Office phone: 303-292-2985
Office hours: Mondays, 2-4pm & by appointment*

*I am happy to arrange meetings outside of my scheduled office hours as the times above are not likely to accommodate all students. You are always free to stop by my office outside of these hours, or to arrange another specific time to meet. On Wednesdays and Fridays, the morning (before 10:30am) and afternoon (2-4pm) will also usually be a good time for me to meet.

*****

Welcome to Russian Politics! PSCI 3022 is an upper division political science course. This course covers a brief review of Soviet history, the Yeltsin era (in the 1990s), the Putin era (in the 2000s), Russia's foreign policy, and how Russia compares to other countries today. Students are required to take a geography quiz, 2 midterm exams, and a final exam. Students are also asked to regularly participate in class, comment on current affairs articles on the Canvas website for the course, and write a policy brief.

Requirements

Your course grade will be based on the criteria listed below. Exams and assignments are graded on a standard 100 percentage point scale. Please pay attention to the relative weight of different course requirements as listed below.

The two biggest components of your grade are:

- 2 Midterm Exams 40% (20% each)
- In-Class Participation 25%

I also require several other assignments/exams/quizzes to enhance your learning:

- Policy Brief (includes online discussion) 15%
- Final Exam 10%
- Geography Quiz 5%
- Current Events Discussion on Canvas 5%
- Extra Credit Reaction Papers See more information below

Grading

I will use the scale below in assessing grades.

A	94+	C+	77-79	F	59 and below
A-	90-93	C	74-76
B+	87-89	C-	70-73
B	84-86	D+	67-69
B-	80-83	D-	60-66

Course Website

Our course website can be found at <https://canvas.colorado.edu>. I will use this website to post readings and information about the course. You should check this website regularly. You will also be required to comment on current affairs articles on this website (more information on this below in the section on “current events”). On a few days of class, you will be asked to watch a video lecture and complete other activities on Canvas.

Midterm Exams (worth 40% total; worth 20% each)

The two midterm exams will consist of multiple choice, identification, and short answer questions. I will provide more information in class on what you should expect on the exams. The midterm exams are not cumulative. On the final exam, you will be asked to answer 1 long essay question. This question will focus on the big questions we have focused on from week 13 onwards, but will also ask you to draw on information from the first part of the course.

In-Class Participation (worth 25%)

Your participation grade will be based on reading quizzes and in-class assignments. There is no subjective component (based on something like how often you speak in class) to your participation grade. There are no make-ups for the reading quizzes and in-class assignment because these are specifically intended to evaluate your participation in class. There will, however, be many of these throughout the semester (usually at least 1 a week, or more) so that missing just a few will not have a large negative impact on your grade. If you miss many of these, then there will, of course, be a larger impact on your final grade.

Policy Brief (15%)

You are required to write a policy brief in which you explain a current issue related to Russian politics, take a position on what the Russian government should do, or take a position on what another government should do in relation to Russia. Your policy brief should be 3-pages, double-spaced, 12 point font, Times New Roman, and with 1" margins on all sides. Do not include an excessively space-consuming header to help fill up the 3 pages. You should plan on citing sources in your policy report. More detailed information will be provided in class. Don't be fooled by the short length of the paper. You need to write 3 succinct, well-researched, and well-articulated pages. The short length should give you plenty of opportunity to research and revise these 3 pages.

Reminder: Don't plagiarize – the penalty for plagiarizing in this class is failing the class. You will also be reported to the honor council at the University of Colorado. See the section on the Honor Code below.

Final Exam (worth 10%)

The final exam will consist of 1 long essay question. If you attend class regularly, you will likely have a good idea about what this question will be.

Geography Quiz (worth 5%)

There will be a geography quiz at the end of week 2 which tests your knowledge of the post-Soviet countries (including Russia, of course), country capitals, and major geographic features.

Current Events Discussion on Canvas (worth 5%)

Keeping up with current events is an important part of our class. I will post articles on Canvas with current relevant news. On the class schedule on the syllabus, I have marked the days of class for which you should read and comment on these articles. You will be required to: 1) make 1 relevant comment about the articles, and 2) respond to 1 comment from someone else. Your comments should be relevant and reflect that you have read the articles. Please be polite in your comments and responses to others. Suggestions for topics or articles in which you are especially interested are very welcome!

Resources for Current News about Russia

Current affairs will be regularly incorporated into class. In addition to the articles you are required to read and comment on, below I have listed some news sources about Russia including several which will give you a non-American perspective. Many people are surprised to find out how much accurate news and polling data are available about Russia in English on the web. Check it out!

- Johnson's Russia List: This is an excellent way to read articles (in English) about what is going on in Russia from a variety of Russian, international, and American news sources. You can sign up for free daily news from Russian and international news sources from "Johnson's Russia List" at russialist.org. You can also check this website instead of receiving the stories by e-mail. Johnson's Russia List includes articles from major news sources around the world and Russian newspapers. Russian-language articles have been translated into English which is a great advantage of this free service.
- BBC: The "Europe" web page of the BBC for news on Russia which can be found at: <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world/europe/>. Scan the BBC headlines for news on Russia and read any relevant articles. You can also search "Russia" from the BBC web page to find the most relevant news.

- RT: Formerly called Russia Today, RT is available at www.rt.com (click on the Russian Politics section). This is a Russian state-owned news sources which provides news in English. In particular, you should note how the perspective is the same or different for reporting on the same events when reading the BBC versus Russia Today. It is also interesting to take a look at US news reported in Russia Today at www.rt.com/usa.
- PONARS Eurasia: At www.ponarseurasia.org, you can find regularly find news commentary from academic experts—based in the US, Europe, and Russia—about current events in Russia and other post-communist countries.
- Public Opinion Polls: Check out Putin’s approval ratings, and other important results of national polls (including attitudes towards the US) at Levada (a private polling company) (<http://www.levada.ru/en/>) and at the Russian Public Opinion Research center (a state-owned polling organization) (<https://www.wciom.com/>). Both have English versions of their websites.

Extra Credit

There is one opportunity for extra credit in this course. On the course schedule below, you will notice that there are sometimes optional readings for extra credit. These are interesting additional sources which are available if you are interested and may be helpful for your policy brief. If you are especially interested in a topic on the syllabus for which there are not recommended readings, please let me know and I may be able to recommend readings for extra credit. Some optional extra credit readings will be available on Canvas.

You should complete a recommended reading and write a two-page summary which: 1) briefly summarizes the content of the reading, and 2) gives your reaction & thoughts about the reading. Your response paper should relate to what we are covering in the course. You may complete 2 recommended readings for extra credit. Each recommended reading response you complete is worth 2 points on your final grade. You may only receive 1 extra credit point if the response paper does not summarize the reading correctly or does not give your reaction to the reading. To receive extra credit, you must submit an extra credit response paper on Canvas before the final day of class. Please do not submit paper copies of your extra credit. I cannot promise that paper copies will be counted for extra credit. Instead, upload your extra credit in the appropriate folder on Canvas.

Required Books

Much of the required reading will be available on the Canvas website for our course.

Required:

Timothy Frye, Building States and Markets after Communism: The Perils of Polarized Democracy, Cambridge University Press, 2010, ISBN: 978-0-521-73462-2.

Recommended (but not required):

Mary McAuley, Soviet Politics. 1917-1991, 1991, ISBN: 978-0-19-878067

Note about cost & buying books

New paperback copies of the Frye book should be about $30 and used copies should be a bit cheaper. There appear to be rental options for the Frye book with online vendors. You may wish to check out online vendors like Amazon and Chegg in addition the University bookstore. You will not need the Frye book until week 13 of the semester so you should have plenty of time to order it online.

Contacting Professor Sokhey

For the purposes of this class, I prefer to go by “Professor Sokhey” or “Dr. Sokhey”. I am available during my regular office hours (which are indicated at the top of the syllabus). I am also happy to make arrangements to meet with you at a time that is more convenient for your schedule. You are welcome to stop by at other times as I am typically in my office during the week from roughly 9am-5pm.

E-mail is the quickest and easiest way to contact me outside of class and I always make an effort to respond promptly. Please be polite and professional in your emails. Some questions are best answered in class (because many students will have the same question) or in person during office hours (because they require some explanation) In these cases, I may wait to address your question in class or indicate that we should arrange a time to talk.

Accommodations for Disabilities

If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit your accommodation letter from Disability Services to your faculty member in a timely manner so that your needs can be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities in the academic environment. Information on requesting accommodations is located on the Disability Services website. Contact Disability Services at 303-492-8671 or dsinfo@colorado.edu for further assistance. If you have a temporary medical condition or injury, see Temporary Medical Conditions under the Students tab on the Disability Services website.

Religious Holidays

Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to deal reasonably and fairly with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. In this class, please make an effort to let me know as soon as possible before you need an accommodation and, preferably, at least a week before you need to arrange an accommodation. See the campus policy regarding religious observances for full details.

Classroom Behavior

Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Those who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with race, color, national origin, sex, pregnancy, age, disability, creed, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, veteran status, political affiliation or political philosophy. Class rosters are provided to the instructor with the student's legal name. I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make appropriate changes to my records. For more information, see the policies on classroom behavior and the Student Code of Conduct.

Sexual Misconduct, Discrimination, Harassment and/or Related Retaliation

The University of Colorado Boulder (CU Boulder) is committed to fostering a positive and welcoming learning, working, and living environment. CU Boulder will not tolerate acts of sexual misconduct (including sexual assault, exploitation, harassment, dating or domestic violence, and stalking), discrimination, and harassment by members of our community. Individuals who believe they have been subject to misconduct or retaliatory actions for reporting a concern should contact the Office of Institutional Equity and Compliance (OIEC) at 303-492-2127 or cureport@colorado.edu. Information about the OIEC, university policies, anonymous reporting, and the campus resources can be found on the OIEC website.

Please know that faculty and instructors have a responsibility to inform OIEC when made aware of incidents of sexual misconduct, discrimination, harassment and/or related retaliation, to ensure that individuals impacted receive information about options for reporting and support resources.

Honor Code

All students enrolled in a University of Colorado Boulder course are responsible for knowing and adhering to the academic integrity policy (<http://www.colorado.edu/policies/academic-integrity-policy>) of the institution. Violations of the policy may include: plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, lying, bribery, threat, unauthorized access, clicker fraud, resubmission, and aiding academic dishonesty. All incidents of academic misconduct will be reported to the Honor Code Council (honor@colorado.edu; 303-735-2273). Students who are found responsible of violating the academic integrity policy will be subject to nonacademic sanctions from the Honor Code Council as well as academic sanctions from the faculty member. Additional information regarding the academic integrity policy can be found at <http://honorcode.colorado.edu>.

All of the work you do in this course is expected to be your own and should not be work you have submitted in any other course. No cheating or plagiarism (using someone else's words or ideas without proper attribution) will be tolerated. Any cases of cheating or plagiarism will be handled according to university policy and reported to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. If I find that you have plagiarized, you will fail the course. Plagiarism does not only include lifting text verbatim from another source and using it as your own, but includes paraphrasing a work and not properly citing it in your paper (i.e., using an idea or argument without proper attribution).

When considering whether or not to plagiarize, consider whether you are willing to fail the course and possibly face other university sanctions for doing so. If you are having difficulty completing course assignments, consider alternatives to cheating including contacting me (or your other instructors) for help. The consequences of turning in a poorly done assignment, or not turning in an assignment at all, are much less severe than plagiarizing.

Extensions & Make-ups

As a general rule, I will not grant any extensions or make-ups. All deadlines have been clearly marked on the course schedule and you should make note of them. In case of extreme emergency (such as serious illness), extensions and make-ups must be discussed with the instructor individually and will be arranged on a case-by-case basis contingent on proper documentation of any incident preventing the student from meeting the deadline.

Course Schedule

Most of the readings will be made available on the Canvas website for our course at <https://canvas.colorado.edu>. Please let me know prior to class if you have difficulty accessing any of the readings. Please see above for more information about the “optional reading for extra credit”.

The course is organized around 4 topics:

- Topic 1: Introduction & Background (Weeks 1 and 2)
- Topic 2: The Yeltsin Era (1990s) (Weeks 3-5)
