Course Description

This course examines the definition, formulation and implementation of public policy concerning the environment. Throughout, we will be focusing on the interplay between policy content (how we define the issues and what options we select for addressing those issues) and political processes (how we build support and develop compromise among divergent values and interests in order to forge agreement). Building knowledge of US environmental policy will be achieved through class discussion and readings as well as through development of a policy research topic of your choice and the writing of a policy brief designed to facilitate policy decision-making around this issue.

Class topics are organized around four basic themes. First, we will set the historic stage for interpreting contemporary environmental policies. Environmental policy is a dynamic field. The historic overview will focus on the objective rise of issues over time as well as how growing awareness of environmental concerns drives demands for policy responses. The policymaking process is the second key theme. We will explore how environmental issues develop through policy agenda setting, formulation, implementation and ongoing feedback phases, including how a wide array of government and non-government actors are involved in policymaking processes. Third, it turns out that people apply a widely divergent set of values in making environmental policy choices. What are some of these competing policy perspectives? Among others, we will consider regulatory imperatives, arguments for economic flexibility, the role of scientific information, environmental ethics positions, considerations of justice, and the limits and opportunities presented by the US system of federalism. Finally, the historic developments, policy processes and competing values and interests come together in our examination of specific policy cases, including issues related to pollution control, natural resource management, and emerging issues related to climate change and sustainability. How do these various factors influence policy design and the choice of policy tools adopted to address environmental issues? Our goal is to untangle the many elements of environmental policy to better understand our current environmental circumstances and future options moving forward.

Course Readings

Readings are drawn from one book and additional materials available as listed, either on the internet or on Canvas. Students should also plan to regularly read the news for current developments in environmental policy, which will be discussed in class on an ongoing basis.

James Salzman and Barton H. Thompson, Jr., Environmental Law and Policy, 4th ed. (Foundation Press, 2014). Note: earlier editions also acceptable.
Class Requirements

Class & University Policies & Expectations

- Classroom etiquette: The basic rule is one of respect. The goal is to create a community where all feel free to participate in classroom discussion and are open to the ideas and contributions of others. We should expect to disagree with each other on at least some issues of debate, but discussion and disagreement must be expressed in a manner that recognizes the dignity of all and is open to learning from other perspectives. Disrespectful language and/or behavior will not be tolerated.

- Use of technology in the classroom: Laptop computers and other electronic devices distract from the classroom learning environment and thus are not to be routinely used in class without the prior consent of the instructor.

- Attendance & participation: It is assumed that all students are enrolled with the goal of gaining maximum value from the course and will thus be in regular attendance and actively engaging with the material. Regular attendance means arriving on time, remaining for the entire class session, and avoiding unnecessary absences (more than 2 unexcused absences will negatively affect your grade). Active engagement means being attentive, asking and answering questions in the classroom and regularly participating in group discussions.

- Assignments: Students are responsible for ensuring that assignments are successfully submitted to Canvas on time and accessible for grading purposes (submitted in .doc, .docx or .pdf formats). If you’re having trouble with Canvas, you may submit a back-up copy of assignments via email as well. Assignments are due on the due dates. Students with legitimate, documented reasons for missing an exam or assignment deadline should consult with the professor prior to the due date for alternative arrangements and exemption from late penalties. In the absence of a pre-approved exception or documented emergency, late penalties apply, with deductions, as follows: Same day, after class begins: -10%; next day: -20%; each day thereafter, an additional 10% deduction, with papers 4 or more days overdue accepted at 50% credit.

• Accommodation for Disabilities: If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please submit your accommodation letter from Disability Services to your faculty member in a timely manner so that your needs can be addressed. Disability Services determines accommodations based on documented disabilities in the academic environment. Information on requesting accommodations is located on the Disability Services website. Contact Disability Services at 303-492-8671 or dsinfo@colorado.edu for further assistance. If you have a temporary medical condition or injury, see Temporary Medical Conditions under the Students tab on the Disability Services website.

• Classroom Behavior: Students and faculty each have responsibility for maintaining an appropriate learning environment. Those who fail to adhere to such behavioral standards may be subject to discipline. Professional courtesy and sensitivity are especially important with respect to individuals and topics dealing with race, color, national origin, sex, pregnancy, age, disability, creed, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, veteran status, political affiliation or political philosophy. Class rosters are provided to the instructor with the student's legal name. I will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise me of this preference early in the semester so that I may make appropriate changes to my records. For more information, see the policies on classroom behavior and the Student Code of Conduct.

• Honor Code: All students enrolled in a University of Colorado Boulder course are responsible for knowing and adhering to the Honor Code. Violations of the policy may include: plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, lying, bribery, threat, unauthorized access to academic materials, clicker fraud, submitting the same or similar work in more than one course without permission from all course instructors involved, and aiding academic dishonesty. All incidents of academic misconduct will be reported to the Honor Code (honor@colorado.edu; 303-492-5550). Students who are found responsible for violating the academic integrity policy will be subject to nonacademic sanctions from the Honor Code as well as academic sanctions from the faculty member. Additional information regarding the Honor Code academic integrity policy can be found at the Honor Code Office website.

• Sexual Misconduct, Discrimination, Harassment and/or Related Retaliation: The University of Colorado Boulder (CU Boulder) is committed to fostering a positive and welcoming learning, working, and living environment. CU Boulder will not tolerate acts of sexual misconduct (including sexual assault, exploitation, harassment, dating or domestic violence, and stalking), discrimination, and harassment by members of our community. Individuals who believe they have been subject to misconduct or retaliatory actions for reporting a concern should contact the Office of Institutional Equity and Compliance (OIEC) at 303-492-2127 or cureport@colorado.edu. Information about the OIEC, university policies, anonymous reporting, and the campus resources can be found on the OIEC website.

Please know that faculty and instructors have a responsibility to inform OIEC when made aware of incidents of sexual misconduct, discrimination, harassment and/or related retaliation, to ensure that individuals impacted receive information about options for reporting and support resources.

• Religious Holidays: Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to deal reasonably and fairly with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. Please let me know as soon as possible of any schedule conflicts – before missing class or assignments. See campus policy regarding religious observances for full details.
