

Lecturers

The Department of Psychology and Neuroscience hires lecturers to teach on a course-by-course basis when additional offerings of courses is needed. The title Lecturer (job code 1419) is granted to a scholar invited to the University to give lectures or perform other teaching duties. The lecturer should possess the same qualifications as regular faculty members. More information on lecturers and Instructional Associates can be found on the Arts & Sciences.

Compensation for Lecturers in Psychology & Neuroscience is determined by the College of Arts and Sciences Level C policy as stated here.

Current lecturer rates in the Department of Psychology & Neuroscience:

3-credit course: $7,775

3-credit course with large enrollment of 100 to 200 students: $$7,775 + $750 = $8,525$ plus TA support

3-credit course with large enrollment of 275-300 students (PSYC 1001 General Psychology): $$7,775 + $1,500 = $9,275$ plus TA support

4-credit course with labs or recitations: $$7,775 + $750 = $8,525$ plus TA support