PERC for Spring 2015 (Sally Page)

PERC Instruction Manual Attached

We'll be running the PERC process in batch for spring according to the schedule below. Just a reminder that PERC (Post Enrollment Requirement Checking) gives admin users the ability to see if an enrolled student has met the requirements for a class, and if not, which requirements have not been met. Please note that the PERC process looks at BOTH restrictions (major restrictions, minimum unit restrictions, etc.) as well as prereqs/coreqs that are setup as a requisite on the class.

More detailed information about using PERC, navigation, etc. is in the attached document.

Please note the following:

- If you want to drop a student from a spring class because they do not meet the requirement, you can drop the student through the deadline to drop without a W grade. And if you do drop a student, you are responsible for contacting the student to let them know they've been dropped and why.
- For spring, we'll run PERC according to the following schedule:
  - Run after deadline for fall 2014 grading and I to F conversion – December 29 (will be complete by 5:00pm)
  - Run on the 1st day of spring classes – night of January 12
  - Run after 1st week of spring classes – night of January 16

In fall 2014, we discovered that the PERC process is not always updating the Post Enroll Req Status on the PERC rosters (see highlights in example below). This issue was reported and the problem reported to Oracle. We're hoping that Oracle will deliver a fix to this issue in a future bundle, but to date, a fix hasn't been delivered. In the meantime, we will continue to run PERC as originally scheduled. If you have class rosters that do not have the Post Enroll Req Status field populated AFTER our last run of PERC on 1/16 and the students without this field populated added the class AFTER 1/16, please contact JSISDev@colorado.edu to inquire about running PERC manually on your class roster.
