Prerequisites: Restricted to Master of Business Admin (MBAD), MBA with Dual Degree (DMBA), Joint Juris Doctor/MBA (JMBA) or Professional MBA Program (PMBA) majors only.

Leeds School of Business | Master of Business Administration | MBA: Accounting

ACCT-6720 (2) Estate Planning

Discusses problems and solutions for owners of various-sized estates and different types of assets including jointly-held property, stock in closely-held corporations and farms, analysis of federal taxation of generation-skipping transfers in trust, postmortem estate planning, and drafting of trusts and wills. Prereq., ACCT 6710 or equivalent. Same as LAWS 7217.

Leeds School of Business | Accounting

MBAX-6760 (3) Accounting for Managers

Explores cost management, especially as related to organizational decision making, planning, and control. Emphasizes case analysis and applications. Prereq., MBAC 6020 or equivalent or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Master of Business Admin (MBAD), MBA with Dual Degree (DMBA), Joint Juris Doctor/MBA (JMBA) or Professional MBA Program (PMBA) majors only.

MBAX-6761 (2) Managerial Accounting, Planning and Control

Introduces managerial accounting, which includes the concepts, models, and systems that provide this information and control. The course will familiarize participants with the terminology and basic concepts of managerial accounting, touching on topics ranging from development and use of cost information for decision-making to management control systems. Prereq., MBAC 6020. Prerequisites: Restricted to Professional MBA Program (PMBA) majors only.

ACCT-6780 (3) International Taxation

Covers basic aspects of the United States taxation of income earned abroad by its citizens and the taxation income derived by foreign persons from U.S. sources, including the implications of income tax treaties. Restricted to Accounting, Finance/Accounting, Information Systems/Accounting, Systems/Accounting Concurrent Degree students or Accounting, Accounting/Taxation or Business Administration graduate students only. Same as LAWS 7617. Prerequisites: Restricted to Accounting, Finance/Accounting, Information Systems/Accounting, Systems/Accounting Concurrent Degree students or Accounting, Accounting/Taxation or Business Administration graduate students only.

MKTG-7820 (3) Doctoral Seminar: Sociological and Anthropological Approaches to Research in Market

Inquires into substantive and methodological issues concerning postmodern consumer research. Attains depth in a few areas while also providing a framework in which to situate other substreams of research. Uses ethnography, semiotics, literary analysis, and other interpretive methods to examine topics such as brand and store loyalty, atmospheric and shopping dynamics, creation of brand meanings, and other marketplace behaviors.

Leeds School of Business Marketing

OPIM-7820 (3) Advanced Research in Information Systems

Examines advanced topics in information systems research, focusing on the electronic era and ebusiness. Examines foundations of ebusiness, including basic technical, organizational, and behavioral foundations. Covers leading edge research from both topical and methodological perspectives. Focuses on methods appropriate for studying ebusiness and examines future research directions. Prereq., PhD standing or instructor consent. Formerly SYST 7820.

Leeds School of Business Operations and Information Management

MKTG-7825 (3) Doctoral Seminar: Empirical Models in Marketing

Presents state-of-the-art empirical modeling techniques (both reduced-form and structural) used by marketing scientists, as well as discuss the key findings generated from major empirical studies. Acquaint the class participants with the systematic process of conducting rigorous empirical marketing research, enable them to read and critically review empirical papers in leading marketing journals and, ultimately, start doing independent empirical research. Prereq., a graduate course in regression.

ACCT-7830 (3) Doctoral Seminar: Accounting Research

Designed to assist the doctoral student in integrating courses and fields of study in order to be able to apply knowledge and skills to problems in accounting. Special attention given to the development of thesis topics.

FNCE-7830 (1) Doctoral Seminar: Dissertation Research

Assists doctoral students in integrating courses and fields of study in order to apply their knowledge and skills to problems in finance. Gives special attention to development of thesis topics. Continuous enrollment required of all finance doctoral students while doing course work.

Leeds School of Business | Finance

MKTG-7830 (3) Doctoral Seminar: Dissertation Research

Assists doctoral students in integrating courses and fields of study in order to be able to apply knowledge and skills to problems in marketing. Gives special attention to development of thesis topics.

ORMG-7830 (3) Research Design and Methods in Management

Introduction to research design and commonly used methods in management and organizational research. Covers the fundamental building blocks of research, provides the basics of a number of analytical techniques, and presents considerations important in analyzing multivariate data in organizational research. Restricted to Ph.D. students only.

Leeds School of Business | Organization Management

ACCT-8820 (1-6) Graduate Seminar

Provides opportunity for investigation of new frontiers in accounting through an experimental seminar. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prereq. varies. Offered irregularly.

FNCE-8820 (3) Graduate Seminar

Experimental seminar offered irregularly to provide opportunity for investigation of new frontiers in finance.

MKTG-8820 (1-6) Doctoral Seminar: Special Topics

Studies marketing literature on a topic or topics selected by instructor. Examples include marketing history, international marketing management, marketing environment, marketing of high technology products, and marketing models.

ENVD-1004 (3) Introduction to Environmental Design Theory

Introduces students to the complexity of forces that interact to shape the designed environment. A lecture sequence and parallel set of design exercises exposes students to the theory and practice of environmental design, and to the important issues that guide the work of architects, landscape architects, urban designers, and urban planners. Open to nonmajors on a space available basis. Coreqs., ENVD 1052, 2001. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design
Environmental Design

ENVD-1010 (3) Design Appreciation

Designed for students who are interested in pursuing a degree in design. Provides a foundation for viewing the world through the "eyes" of a designer and gives a broad overview of various design professions including: Architecture, Planning, Landscape Architecture, and Industrial Design through a basic history of design and speculation concerning the future of these professions. Restricted to non-ARPL students. Prerequisites: Restricted to non-Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design
Environmental Design
History and Theory

ENVD-1052 (3) Design and Communication 1

Using both lectures and drawing exercises, this class extends understandings of the representational conventions used by the design professions through its introduction to the possibilities offered by emerging digital techniques for the depiction of designed artifacts and environments, allowing students to extend and enhance their understandings of advanced practices for design visualization, representation, and communication. Coreqs., ENVD 1004, 2001. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Using both lectures and drawing exercises, this class extends understandings of the representational conventions used by the design professions through its introduction to the possibilities offered by traditional techniques for the advanced practices for design visualization, representation, and communication. Prereqs., ENVD 1004, 1052, 2001. Coreqs., ENVD 1104, 2003.

Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 1004, ENVD 1052, and ENVD 2001 (min grade C- for all). Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | Methods and Techniques

ENVD-1104 (3) Introduction to Environmental Design Methods

Explores the forces and conditions that interact to shape the designed environment. It does so through a lecture sequence and parallel set of design exercises introducing students to the theory and practice of environmental design. It develops student understandings of the central role design thinking plays as the unique process used to effect appropriate change in the designed environment. Prereq., ENVD 1004, 1052, 2001. Coreqs., ENVD 1102, 2003. Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 1004, ENVD 1052, and ENVD 2001 (min grade C- required for all). Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | History and Theory

ENVD-2001 (3) Human Behavior in Design and Planning

Examines reciprocal relationships between people and their built and natural environments, tracing major issues and approaches in design research to understand how people are influenced by the environment and how they can create healthy, just, and livable places. Coreqs., ENVD 1004, 1052. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-2002 (3) Environmental Design Media 1

Using both lectures and drawing exercises, this class examines the traditional representational conventions used by the design professions to depict and describe space, form, pattern and information. Uses a multi-disciplined approach that explores the three basic intentions that inform the marks that designers make: visualization, representation and communication. Prereq., ENVD 1004. Open to nonmajors on a space available basis. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-2003 (3) Ecology and Design

Introduces basic principles and techniques of ecology as they relate to the design and understanding of the built environment. Includes a study of hazards and the impact of modern technology on the natural and built environments. Prereqs., ENVD 1004, 1052, 2001. Coreqs., ENVD 1102, 1104. Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 1004, ENVD 1052, and ENVD 2001 (with min grade C- for all). Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | Physical Factors

ENVD-2052 (3) Introduction to Computers in Planning

Introduces the use of computers in design fields, including applications for word-processing, desktop publishing, graphic creation, and Cad-style design. Aims to provide basic general skills in computer use that are transferable to other computer applications. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-2100 (6) Architecture Studio 1

The first of four architecture studios, this class introduces students to the basic strategies and techniques of architectural design. Focuses on the languages of design, as well as on traditional and digital methods of visualizing architectural ideas and forms. Prereq., ENVD 2002. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-2110 (6) Environmental Design Studio

This class exposes students to a sequence of design investigations that lead to the development of design concepts for critical evaluation and discussion. The intent of this introductory design studio is to expose students to fundamental design practices common to the disciplines---architecture, landscape architecture, planning, urban design---that share the responsibility for shaping the designed environment. Prereq., ENVD 2002.

ENVD-2120 (6) Environmental Design Lab - Urban Design

Exposes students to a sequence of design investigations that lead to the development of design concepts for critical evaluation and discussion. The intent of this introductory design studio is to expose students to the fundamental design practices that are common to the disciplines of environmental design, planning, urban design and landscape design - that share the responsibility for shaping the designed environment. Prereqs., ENVD 1102, 1104, 2003. Coreqs., ENVD 3122, 3124. Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 1102, ENVD 1104, and ENVD 2003. Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-2130 (6) Environmental Design Studio: Landscape Design

Exposes students to a sequence of design investigations that lead to the development of design concepts for critical evaluation and discussion. The intent of this introductory design studio is to expose students to the fundamental design practices that are common to the disciplines of architecture, urban design and landscape design - disciplines that share the responsibility for shaping the designed environment. Prereqs., ENVD 1004 and 1104. Restricted to ARPL majors. Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 2120, ENVD 3122, and ENVD 3124. Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-2152 (3) Geographic Info Systems

Focuses on construction and use of computer-based information systems to represent and manipulate geographic data. Emphasizes the recording, mapping, and transforming of data for analysis and use by planners. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | Methods and Techniques

ENVD-3001 (3) Environment and Behavior

Examines the social and behavioral aspects of relationships between people and the designed environment. Gives special attention to antecedent factors (why we have the environments we do), implications of given arrangements for special population groups, and responses to incongruent environments. Open to nonmajors on a space available basis. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3002 (3) Design Theory and Methods

The nature of design and systematic methods for improving design. Topics include: nature of design problems; structure of design process; theory of form; problem definition; generating solution ideas; evaluation; roles of form and function. Students use computers without having to learn to program. Open to nonmajors.

ENVD-3003 (3) Site Planning

Introduces the site planning process including: site analysis and its relationship to building program and site concept, and preparation of site plans. Emphasis is placed on the planning of the physical site through a thorough understanding of process, land use, site constraints and synthesis of ecological, functional and aesthetic considerations in the site planning process. Prereqs., ENVD 2120, 3122, 3124. Coreqs., ENVD 2130, 3004. Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 2120, ENVD 3122, and ENVD 3124. Restricted to College of Architecture and Planning majors only.

ENVD-3004 (3) History of Landscape Architecture

Investigates landscape architectural thought from antiquity to the present. Begins with a review of Greek ideals and proceeds - through an appreciation of landscape and nature as essential cultural constituents - with a survey of major themes such as Renaissance Humanism, the Picturesque, and the varieties of Modernism, Neo-Eclecticism and most recent directions in landscape and garden design. Prereqs., ENVD 2120, 3122, 3124. Coreqs., ENVD 2130, 3003. Restricted to College of Architecture and Planning undergrads. Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 2120, ENVD 3122, and ENVD 3124. Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3009 (1-6) Special Topics in Environmental Design

Provides a seminar or design lab on special issues in environmental design, including study abroad. May be repeated up to 18 total credit hours. Variable topic class. Recommended prereq., ENVD 1004 and 1052. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design (ENVD) majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | Miscellaneous

ENVD-3015 (3) Introduction to Historic Preservation

Introduces methods for identifying historic structures and evaluating their materials. Considers techniques for preserving and restoring and legal options for promoting preservation efforts. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3022 (3) Technical Photography

Introduces students to the technical and practical aspects of making photographic images: the workings of the camera and lens, principles of depth of field, black and white film processing, printing, and basic darkroom procedures. Open to nonmajors on a space available basis. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | Methods and Techniques

ENVD-3052 (3) Introduction to Computer Methods in Environmental Design

Surveys existing and emerging computer methods used in the environmental design professions, with an introduction to computer programming. Open to nonmajors with instructor consent.

ENVD-3100 (6) ENVD Studio--Architectural Design

Exposes students to a sequence of design investigations that lead to the development of design concepts for critical evaluation and discussion. The intent of this introductory design studio is to expose students to the fundamental design practices that are common to the disciplines of environmental design, planning, urban design and landscape design - that share the responsibility for shaping the designed environment. Prereqs., ENVD 2130, 3003, 3004. Coreqs., ARCH 3114, ENVD 3115. Restricted to ARPL students only. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3110 (6) Architecture Studio 1

The first of four upper-division studios introduces students to the basic strategies and techniques of architectural design. Focuses on the languages of design, as well as on traditional and digital methods of visualizing architectural ideas and forms. Prereq., ENVD 2110. Restricted to junior/senior ARCH majors.

ENVD-3115 (3) Introduction to Building Materials and Systems

Surveys building methods, materials, and assemblies from the designer's perspective. Prereqs., ENVD 2130, 3003, 3004. Coreqs., ARCH 3114, ENVD 3100. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4112 (3) Architectural Graphics 1

Illustrates techniques of graphics communication and presentation for architectural design. Includes advanced delineation and use of color. Prereq., ENVD 2130.

ENVD-4122 (3) Advanced Technical Photography

Focuses on working with a variety of alternative photographic processes intended to give students an array of photographic techniques to incorporate into studio course presentations and portfolio work. Processes include hand-applied color to black and white images, using two or more negatives to produce black and white combination prints, shooting color slides to produce graphic arts, high-contrast black and white prints, and documentary photography of Colorado architecture and urban landscapes using color slide film. Students must provide their own 35mm SLR camera. Prereq., ENVD 3022 or ARTS 2191 or instructor consent.

ENVD-4152 (3) Computer Graphic Applications

Introduces the mechanics of entering 2-D images and 3-D objects into the computer. Once entered, graphics are interactively rotated in space, walked through, and displayed in perspective from any position. Also covers the mechanics of other computer programs allowing additional manipulation of images and objects. Prereq., ENVD 2130.

ENVD-4192 (3) Improving Imaging Ability 2

Offers an advanced course dealing with theories of imaging and methods of improving imaging in the design process. Open to nonmajors.

ENVD-4212 (3) Architectural Graphics 2

Covers development of an architectural set of construction documents combined with job administration, field observation, and guest speakers from related construction and architectural disciplines. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4322 (1-6) Special Topics: Graphics

Provides an advanced seminar on special issues in design communications. May be repeated for credit by petition. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4352 (1-6) Special Topics: Computer Methods

Topics include animation and environmental simulation, computational methods of technical evaluation and optimization, and computational mapping and analysis. May be repeated for credit by petition. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-1004 (3) Introduction to Environmental Design Theory

Introduces students to the complexity of forces that interact to shape the designed environment. A lecture sequence and parallel set of design exercises exposes students to the theory and practice of environmental design, and to the important issues that guide the work of architects, landscape architects, urban designers, and urban planners. Open to nonmajors on a space available basis. Coreqs., ENVD 1052, 2001. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Designed for students who are interested in pursuing a degree in design. Provides a foundation for viewing the world through the "eyes" of a designer and gives a broad overview of various design professions including: Architecture, Planning, Landscape Architecture, and Industrial Design through a basic history of design and speculation concerning the future of these professions. Restricted to non-ARPL students. Prerequisites: Restricted to non-Environmental Design majors only.

Using both lectures and drawing exercises, this class extends understandings of the representational conventions used by the design professions through its introduction to the possibilities offered by traditional techniques for the advanced practices for design visualization, representation, and communication. Prereqs., ENVD 1004, 1052, 2001. Coreqs., ENVD 1104, 2003.

Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 1004, ENVD 1052, and ENVD 2001 (min grade C- for all). Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4311 (3) Housing Policies and Practices

A seminar providing students with a descriptive knowledge and analytical understanding of the use and development of residential settings in different political economies, globally divided into advanced capitalist nations, collectivist economies, and the third world. Prereq., ENVD 2130.

ENVD-4361 (1-6) Special Topics: Social Factors in Design

Addresses variable topics in the relationship of human experience and behavior to the built environment, e.g., social research methods in environmental design. Prereq., ENVD 2130.
Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-2003 (3) Ecology and Design

Introduces basic principles and techniques of ecology as they relate to the design and understanding of the built environment. Includes a study of hazards and the impact of modern technology on the natural and built environments. Prereqs., ENVD 1004, 1052, 2001. Coreqs., ENVD 1102, 1104. Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 1004, ENVD 1052, and ENVD 2001 (with min grade C- for all). Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3003 (3) Site Planning

Introduces the site planning process including: site analysis and its relationship to building program and site concept, and preparation of site plans. Emphasis is placed on the planning of the physical site through a thorough understanding of process, land use, site constraints and synthesis of ecological, functional and aesthetic considerations in the site planning process. Prereqs., ENVD 2120, 3122, 3124. Coreqs., ENVD 2130, 3004. Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite courses of ENVD 2120, ENVD 3122, and ENVD 3124. Restricted to College of Architecture and Planning majors only.

ENVD-4023 (3) Environmental Impact Assessment

Provides a field-oriented seminar in current environmental impact controversies. Gives attention to history, theory, and application of impact analysis at state levels for designers, land-use planners, and others involved in resource decision making. Prereq., instructor consent. Open to nonmajors on a space available basis, by instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 87-180 credits (Senior, Fifth Year Senior) Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4233 (3) Environmental Aesthetics

Explores the interdisciplinary field of environmental aesthetics, examining the history of landscape tastes, theoretical approaches to the study of aesthetic responses, and contemporary attempts to incorporate matters of aesthetics in American planning. Emphasizes developing analytical and critical approaches to aesthetics in the public realm.

ENVD-4363 (1-6) Special Topics: Physical Factors in Environmental Design

Includes such topics as appropriate technology, public policy and natural hazards, organization of the designing and building process, and physical elements of urban development. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

The first of four architecture studios, this class introduces students to the basic strategies and techniques of architectural design. Focuses on the languages of design, as well as on traditional and digital methods of visualizing architectural ideas and forms. Prereq., ENVD 2002. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-2110 (6) Environmental Design Studio

This class exposes students to a sequence of design investigations that lead to the development of design concepts for critical evaluation and discussion. The intent of this introductory design studio is to expose students to fundamental design practices common to the disciplines---architecture, landscape architecture, planning, urban design---that share the responsibility for shaping the designed environment. Prereq., ENVD 2002.

ENVD-3100 (6) ENVD Studio--Architectural Design

Exposes students to a sequence of design investigations that lead to the development of design concepts for critical evaluation and discussion. The intent of this introductory design studio is to expose students to the fundamental design practices that are common to the disciplines of environmental design, planning, urban design and landscape design - that share the responsibility for shaping the designed environment. Prereqs., ENVD 2130, 3003, 3004. Coreqs., ARCH 3114, ENVD 3115. Restricted to ARPL students only. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3110 (6) Architecture Studio 1

The first of four upper-division studios introduces students to the basic strategies and techniques of architectural design. Focuses on the languages of design, as well as on traditional and digital methods of visualizing architectural ideas and forms. Prereq., ENVD 2110. Restricted to junior/senior ARCH majors.

ENVD-3200 (1-6) Advanced ENVD Studio

Design studio dealing with problems at an intermediate level of complexity: emphasis is on the interaction of form, use, and multiple values and technologies in conjunction with issues and techniques drawn from other content area courses of the curriculum. Recommended prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4360 (4-6) Historic Preservation Studio

A design studio exploring emerging issues and practices in historic preservation. Prereq., ENVD 3300. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4420 (3) Senior Capstone Seminar

Advanced seminar focuses on theoretical concerns and practical issues inherent in environmental design and planning. Views concerns and issues in terms of setting, processes, and planning and design outcomes. Provides a critical synthesis of the inherently interdisciplinary nature of planning and design education. Open to planning and design studies seniors only, or by instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4440 (6) Landscape Design Studio 2

A preprofessional studio in landscape architecture. Prereq., ENVD 4340.

ENVD-4510 (6) Architecture Studio 3

The third of the four upper-division studios focuses on concepts of program, architectural meaning and human behavior in buildings. Through a number of design exercises, students learn how these factors help shape buildings. Prereq., ENVD 3310. Formerly ENVD 4310. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4550 (4-6) Urban Design Studio

A studio exploring emerging issues and practices Prereq., ENVD 3300. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4710 (6) Architecture Studio 4

The last of the four upper-division studios focuses on concepts of building technology, context and environmental sustainability. Prereq., ENVD 4510. Formerly ENVD 4410. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3100 (6) ENVD Studio--Architectural Design

Exposes students to a sequence of design investigations that lead to the development of design concepts for critical evaluation and discussion. The intent of this introductory design studio is to expose students to the fundamental design practices that are common to the disciplines of environmental design, planning, urban design and landscape design - that share the responsibility for shaping the designed environment. Prereqs., ENVD 2130, 3003, 3004. Coreqs., ARCH 3114, ENVD 3115. Restricted to ARPL students only. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3152 (3) Introduction to Computer Graphics Applications

Explores principles and uses of computer graphics in design. Topics include creation and modification of complex two- and three-dimensional objects; orthographic and perspective views; use of color; input using mouse and digitizer; output using screen, plotter, matrix printer, and slides; automated aids for form generation and manipulation; and analysis of current and future trends of computer usage for design. May be repeated up to 12 total credit hours. Prereq., ENVD 1052, 1102. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3200 (1-6) Advanced ENVD Studio

Design studio dealing with problems at an intermediate level of complexity: emphasis is on the interaction of form, use, and multiple values and technologies in conjunction with issues and techniques drawn from other content area courses of the curriculum. Recommended prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3212 (3) Color Theory

Illustrates color media techniques for the preparation, composition, and presentation of landscape and built environment drawings. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3252 (3) Computer Graphic Programming

Provides an introductory computer programming course designed to teach the capabilities of a computer in providing graphic representations of environments, including buildings. Open to nonmajors.

ENVD-3300 (3-6) Special Topics: Intermediate Design Lab

Design lab exploring new and emerging themes in environmental design. May be repeated up to 18 total credit hours. Prereqs., ARCH 3114, ENVD 3100, 3115. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3310 (6) Architecture Studio 2

The second of the four upper-division studios focuses on concepts of medium-scale building design, siting, and climate. Through a number of design exercises, students learn how these factors help shape buildings. Prereq., ENVD 3110. Formerly ENVD 3210. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3320 (2) Planning Practicum

Supervised practicum in some aspect of urban or regional planning. Prereq., ENVD 3220.

ENVD-3352 (3) Architectural Computer Media

Introduces the integration of computing and the architectural design process and related representational tasks. Studies common computer-aided design programs, emphasizing two- and three-dimensional and animation techniques. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-3909 (1-6) Independent Study

By special arrangement with instructor. Prereq., ENVD 3100 and a 3.00 GPA.

Program in Environmental Design | Architecture

ENVD-4012 (3) Imagination and Creativity

Offers a seminar on imagination and creativity in environmental design. Students research and prepare a class presentation and paper on a topic of interest. Open to nonmajors at all levels.

ENVD-4023 (3) Environmental Impact Assessment

Provides a field-oriented seminar in current environmental impact controversies. Gives attention to history, theory, and application of impact analysis at state levels for designers, land-use planners, and others involved in resource decision making. Prereq., instructor consent. Open to nonmajors on a space available basis, by instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 87-180 credits (Senior, Fifth Year Senior) Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4031 (3) Thinking Like a Mountain: A New Land Ethic

Critically reviews and analyzes land use policies, the ethics and economics of air and water pollution, regional sustainability, and resource management. Includes critical evaluation of empirical methodologies, and criteria of cultural and social equity. Prereq., junior or senior standing in the college.

ENVD-4035 (3) Solar and Sustainable Design

Introduces aspects of solar technology relevant to the environmental design professions. Includes readings and lectures on the nature of energy limitations, energy needs, and the potential role of solar energy in meeting these needs. Prereq., ENVD 2130.

ENVD-4052 (3) Digital Presentation and Portfolio

Introductory course creating interactive web sites. Covers use of Hypertext Markup Language (HTML) and Flash to create linked pages containing text, images animations, menus, and buttons. Covers principles of site navigation, page layout, and graphic design for designers and planners. Credit not granted for this course and ENVD 2352. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4092 (3) Improving Imaging Ability

Offers an advanced course dealing with theories of imaging and methods of improving imaging in the design process. Open to nonmajors.

ENVD-4100 (3-6) Advanced Design Lab 1

Design lab exploring new and emerging themes in design. May be repeated up to 18 total credit hours. Prereq., ENVD 3300.

ENVD-4114 (3) History of American Architecture and Urbanism

Surveys architecture, landscape architecture, urban design, and planning in the U.S. from ca. 1600 to the present. Prereq., ENVD 2130.

ENVD-4122 (3) Advanced Technical Photography

Focuses on working with a variety of alternative photographic processes intended to give students an array of photographic techniques to incorporate into studio course presentations and portfolio work. Processes include hand-applied color to black and white images, using two or more negatives to produce black and white combination prints, shooting color slides to produce graphic arts, high-contrast black and white prints, and documentary photography of Colorado architecture and urban landscapes using color slide film. Students must provide their own 35mm SLR camera. Prereq., ENVD 3022 or ARTS 2191 or instructor consent.

ENVD-4152 (3) Computer Graphic Applications

Introduces the mechanics of entering 2-D images and 3-D objects into the computer. Once entered, graphics are interactively rotated in space, walked through, and displayed in perspective from any position. Also covers the mechanics of other computer programs allowing additional manipulation of images and objects. Prereq., ENVD 2130.

ENVD-4192 (3) Improving Imaging Ability 2

Offers an advanced course dealing with theories of imaging and methods of improving imaging in the design process. Open to nonmajors.

ENVD-4212 (3) Architectural Graphics 2

Covers development of an architectural set of construction documents combined with job administration, field observation, and guest speakers from related construction and architectural disciplines. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4233 (3) Environmental Aesthetics

Explores the interdisciplinary field of environmental aesthetics, examining the history of landscape tastes, theoretical approaches to the study of aesthetic responses, and contemporary attempts to incorporate matters of aesthetics in American planning. Emphasizes developing analytical and critical approaches to aesthetics in the public realm.

ENVD-4300 (3-6) Advanced Design Lab 2

Design lab exploring new and emerging themes in design. May be repeated up to 12 total credit hours. Prereq., ENVD 4100. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | Studios

ENVD-4311 (3) Housing Policies and Practices

A seminar providing students with a descriptive knowledge and analytical understanding of the use and development of residential settings in different political economies, globally divided into advanced capitalist nations, collectivist economies, and the third world. Prereq., ENVD 2130.

ENVD-4314 (3) Architectural Theory

Surveys, through lectures and readings, the major historical developments and contemporary directions in architectural theory. Prereqs., ARCH 3114 and ARCH 3214. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | History and Theory

ENVD-4320 (6) Planning Studio 3

See ENVD 2120. Prereq., ENVD 3300.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | Studios

ENVD-4322 (1-6) Special Topics: Graphics

Provides an advanced seminar on special issues in design communications. May be repeated for credit by petition. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | Methods and Techniques

ENVD-4340 (4-6) Landscape Design Studio

Studio in landscape design. Prereq., ENVD 3300. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4352 (1-6) Special Topics: Computer Methods

Topics include animation and environmental simulation, computational methods of technical evaluation and optimization, and computational mapping and analysis. May be repeated for credit by petition. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4360 (4-6) Historic Preservation Studio

A design studio exploring emerging issues and practices in historic preservation. Prereq., ENVD 3300. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4361 (1-6) Special Topics: Social Factors in Design

Addresses variable topics in the relationship of human experience and behavior to the built environment, e.g., social research methods in environmental design. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4363 (1-6) Special Topics: Physical Factors in Environmental Design

Includes such topics as appropriate technology, public policy and natural hazards, organization of the designing and building process, and physical elements of urban development. Prereq., ENVD 2130. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4364 (1-6) Special Topics: History and Historiography of Environmental Design

Provides an advanced seminar on history and historiography of environmental design, e.g., American dwellings. May be repeated for credit by petition. Prereq., ENVD 2130.

Program in Environmental Design | Environmental Design | History and Theory

ENVD-4365 (1-6) Special Topics: Technology and Practice

Provides an advanced seminar on new technologies and issues of professional practice in the environmental design professions. Prereq., ENVD 3100. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

Advanced seminar focuses on theoretical concerns and practical issues inherent in environmental design and planning. Views concerns and issues in terms of setting, processes, and planning and design outcomes. Provides a critical synthesis of the inherently interdisciplinary nature of planning and design education. Open to planning and design studies seniors only, or by instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

ENVD-4440 (6) Landscape Design Studio 2

A preprofessional studio in landscape architecture. Prereq., ENVD 4340.

ENVD-4510 (6) Architecture Studio 3

The third of the four upper-division studios focuses on concepts of program, architectural meaning and human behavior in buildings. Through a number of design exercises, students learn how these factors help shape buildings. Prereq., ENVD 3310. Formerly ENVD 4310. Prerequisites: Restricted to Environmental Design majors only.

EDUC-2020 (1) Step 1: Inquiry Approaches to Teaching

Invites science and mathematics students to explore teaching as a career by providing first-hand experiences teaching science/math lessons in local elementary classrooms. Introduces theory and practice necessary to design and deliver excellent instruction. Master teachers provide ongoing support and feedback. Meets weekly on CU campus (1.5 hours/week) and involves additional visits to local elementary school. Prerequisites: Restricted to AMEN, ASTR, BCHM, CHEM, EBIO, GEOL, IPHY, MATH, MCDB, PHYS, Arts and Sciences Open Option majors, College of Engineering majors, or Education minors only.

EDUC-2030 (1) Step 2: Inquiry-Based Lesson Design

Builds on EDUC 2020 and further develops lesson design and inquiry-based teaching practice. Offers opportunity to explore teaching career and learn about middle school culture. Master teacher provides support as students design and deliver lessons in middle school classrooms. Emphasizes assessment of student learning. Meets weekly on CU campus (1.5 hours/week) and involves additional visits to local middle school. Prereq., EDUC 2020.

EDUC-2125 (3) History of American Public Education

Provides overview to evolution of American public schools by exploring major reform efforts from the common school movement to present. Considers contentious values, important players, and roots of school structures. Examines both what intellectuals were thinking about public education and how ordinary people experienced schools. Assesses how differences in race, class, ethnicity, gender, and power shape public schools.

School of Education | Education | General Education

EDUC-2150 (3) Education in Film

Provides opportunities to view and analyze how facets of education are represented (or misrepresented) in film. Considers narratives constructed about education and how those stories fuel popular conceptions of and assumptions about students, teachers, and schools. Examines how issues of race, class, and gender are embedded in how films represent schools, teachers, students, and communities.

EDUC-2400 (3) Cultural Diversity and Awareness

Enhances students' self-awareness in a variety of educational and cultural settings. Investigates self within a cultural context, inviting students to engage more deeply with their cultural assumptions and lenses, as well as the cultural practices and beliefs of other distinct groups. Explores themes relating to diversity through works of fiction, cultural contexts, contemplative practices, poetry, music and experiential activities.

EDUC-2625 (3) Teaching English as a Second Language

Exposes students to strategies used to teach English as a second or foreign language. Covers both theoretical and applied aspects of language learning and teaching. Exposes students to techniques, activities, strategies and resources to plan instruction for students learning English as a second language. Emphasizes oral language development, literacy and content-area instruction for teaching K-12 students.

EDUC-2800 (1-3) Special Topics

Designed to meet needs of students with topics of interest. May be repeated up to 12 credit hours.

School of Education | Education | General Education

EDUC-2910 (1-3) Field Practicum 1

Offers supervised campus and off-campus experiences tied to course work in the Chancellor's Leadership RAP or the INVST program. See also EDUC 2920. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Same as LDSP 2910.

School of Education Education General Education

EDUC-2919 (3) Renewing Democracy in Communities and Schools

Examines concepts of activism, citizenship, democracy, power, and diversity through classroom discussions and participation in a local high school's Public Achievement project. Through community-based partnerships, students will develop leadership skills; dialogue with diverse groups of people; identify multiple perspectives around controversial issues; and learn to use research and writing to articulate public problems and advocate for their solutions. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Same as INVS 2919. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

EDUC-2920 (1-3) Field Practicum 2

Offers supervised campus and off-campus experiences tied to course work in the Chancellor's Leadership RAP or the INVST program. See also EDUC 2910. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Same as LDSP 2920.

School of Education Education General Education

EDUC-3013 (3-4) School and Society

Introduces students - both future teachers and those simply interested in education - to pressing issues surrounding education within the United States. The course reveals the complex relationship between schools and the larger society of which they are a part. Examines issues of diversity and equity from different disciplinary lenses, including history, philosophy, sociology and anthropology. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies or human diversity. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

EDUC-3570 (3) Learning With Technology In and Out of School

Examines ways digital media are changing the way young people learn, play, make friends, and participate in civic life. Studies widely implemented digital tools intended to support literary, math, and science learning of children ages 4-18. Involves brief internship (5 hours outside class) and design projects that integrate these tools to transform in either a classroom or after-school program.

EDUC-3621 (1-3) Art for the Elementary Teacher

Introduces elementary education students to art education. Introduces many visual art techniques, art media, and processes used in art education. The class includes hands-on studio art experiences in a format that supports subjects such as literature, writing, music, and social studies. Emphasizes the role of art education and materials in supporting the artistic development and visual literacy of children. Prereq., completion of 30 hours of course work. Restricted to Education majors.

School of Education | Education | Elementary Education

EDUC-4015 (3) International / Comparative Education

Comparatively studies education in other countries, emphasizing its role in developing nations, with an emphasis on successful models in basic literacy, primary education, secondary curriculum, and teacher education. Analyzes political, social, and economic policies and ideologies for their relevance to the development process, including the role of international organizations: World Bank, UNICEF, UNESCO, Peace corps and Volunteer Agencies. Same as EDUC 5015.

EDUC-4023 (3-5) Differentiating Instruction in Diverse Secondary Classrooms

Focuses on teaching culturally and linguistically diverse secondary school students, special education students, and differentiation in the secondary classroom. Includes hands-on experiences in secondary school settings. Restricted to students admitted to the secondary or K-12 music teacher education program. Credit not granted for this course and EDUC 4351. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDEN, EDFR, EDGR, EDIT, EDJP, EDLT, EDMA, EDMU, EDSC, EDRU, EDSP, EDSS or MMED majors only.

School of Education | Education | Secondary Education

EDUC-4050 (3) Knowing and Learning in Mathematics and Science

Explores current theories of learning in mathematics and science at the secondary level. This course focuses on the interrelation between learners' conceptual and sociocultural development. Students examine their own assumptions about learning, and critically examine the needs of a diverse student population in the classroom. Prerequisites: Restricted to AMEN, ASTR, BOHM, CHEM, EBIO, GEOL, IPHY, MATH, MCDB, PHYS, Arts and Sciences Open Option majors, College of Engineering majors, or Education minors only.

EDUC-5255 (3) Processes Involved in Literary Interpretation

Stresses curiosity, observation, challenge, and insight into how children and adolescents learn to become literate beings. Discusses the work and play of literary interpretation including analytic reading, substantive discussion, reflective writing, visual presentation, and dramatic enactment where readers learn to take the words from the page to inform and transform their worlds. Prereq., EDUC 5245.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5265 (3) Processes in Writing

Examines processes writers use from early ages to maturity by investigating current research and proposing and evaluating research designs. Discusses the reciprocal relationship between reading and writing instruction, emphasizing the Colorado Academic Content Standards and the International Reading Association Specialized Reading Professional Standards. Prerequisites: Restricted to Educ-Curriculum & Instruction (EDCI) graduate students only.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5275 (3) Assessment in Literacy

Assumes an interactive model of reading and supports the perspective of assessment as interrelated with curriculum and instruction; examines principles that guide the selection and interpretation of assessment techniques, with a particular focus on low-performing students. Prereq., EDUC 5255. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5285 (3) Reading Clinic Procedures K-12

Focuses learning on a select group of low performing students to assess reading proficiency, develop appropriate instructional goals, and provide instruction that addresses these goals. Emphasis on interpreting assessment data, extending a repertoire of instructional strategies, and developing and implementing a strong instructional plan. Prereq., EDUC 5275.

EDUC-5295 (3) Reading and Literacy in the Secondary Classroom

Examines ways in which adolescents develop literacy through reading, writing, speaking, viewing, and listening. Students learn to plan and organize literacy instruction based on ongoing assessment, to draw on and develop learner's linguistic skills related to reading, to support learner's reading comprehension skills, and to support their learning through oral language development. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCI or EPSY or EECD or EFPP majors only.

EDUC-5315 (3) Perspectives on Science

Explores contemporary ideas and issues in the history, philosophy, and sociology of science education and science, science as a social and cultural activity, and how contemporary issues in science relate to and impact educational practice. Same as EDUC 4312.

School of Education | Education | Graduate Education

EDUC-5316 (3) Nature of Social Studies and Social Studies Education

Prepares teacher education candidates for teaching social studies in a social context. Participants will understand theoretical and developmental processes associated with social studies learning, methods for teaching social studies in a diverse society, and the integration of classroom instruction with the Colorado Academic Content Standards that foster such processes. Prerequisites: Restricted to Educ-Curriculum & Instruction (EDCI), Social Studies-Secondary Educ. (EDSS), Anthropology (ANTH), Economics (ECON), Geography (GEOG), History (HIST) or International Affairs (IAFS) majors only.

EDUC-5317 (3) Perspectives on Mathematics

Explores the historical development of mathematics as a human construct, and the relationship between the discipline and the contemporary school mathematics curriculum. Focuses on the sociology of mathematics education and how cultural traditions and societal needs influence the school mathematics curriculum and educational practice.

EDUC-5318 (3) The Nature of "English Language Arts"

Considers historical and ongoing controversies concerning the nature of "English" as an academic field of study and of "English Language arts" as a school subject. Integrates understandings of subject-matter specialization, of approaches to teaching this contested subject, and of the diverse learners that teachers seek to prepare for the 21st century literacies. EDUC 4318 and 5318 are the same course. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5325 (3) Teaching Literature in Middle and Secondary Schools

Provides teachers of English with background and experiences relevant to using reading, writing, and a range of other classroom social languages to teach literature to a culturally and intellectually diverse population of students. Explores relevant literary theories, texts, and genres, and examines contemporary and historical perspectives on the meaning and function of stories in both personal and democratic public life. Restricted to students admitted to the secondary English education program. Prerequisites: Restricted to Educ-Curriculum & Instruction (EDCI), English - Secondary Education (EDEN), or Social Studies-Secondary Educ.(EDSS) majors only.

EDUC-5345 (3) Composition for Teachers

Same as EDUC 4342. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCI or EPSY or EECD or EFPP majors only.

School of Education | Education | Graduate Education

EDUC-5355 (3-4) Methods and Materials in Secondary Social Studies

Focuses on curriculum, materials, methods, assessment, and related aspects of instruction. Introduces best practices in teaching the social studies in middle and high schools. Examines the Colorado Academic Content Standards. Prereqs., EDUC 4295/5295 and EDUC 5325. Restricted to students admitted to the secondary social studies teacher education program. Prerequisites: Restricted to Educ-Curriculum & Instruction (EDCI) or Social Studies-Secondary Educ. (EDSS) majors only.

EDUC-5365 (3-4) Methods and Materials in Secondary English

Focuses on curriculum, materials, methods, and assessment. Introduces best practices in the teaching of English in middle and high schools. Examines the Colorado Academic Content Standards. Prereqs., EDUC 4295/5295 and EDUC 5325. Restricted to students admitted to the secondary English teacher education program. Prerequisites: Restricted to Educ-Curriculum & Instruction (EDCI) or English - Secondary Education (EDEN) majors only.

EDUC-5375 (3-4) Project-Based Math Instruction

Focuses on curriculum, materials, methods and assessment, and related aspects of instruction. Introduces best practices in teaching mathematics in middle and high schools. Examines the Colorado Academic Content Standards. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCI, EDSC, or EDMA majors only.

EDUC-5385 (3-4) Project-Based Science Instruction

Focuses on curriculum, materials, methods, assessment, and related aspects of instruction. Introduces best practices in teaching science in middle and high schools. Examines the Colorado Academic Content Standards. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCI, EDSC, or EDMA majors only.

EDUC-5425 (3) Introduction to Bilingual/Multicultural Education

Provides a comprehensive survey of bilingual-multicultural education programs for language minority students. Includes an overview of the history and legislation related to bilingual education and English as a second language. Presents various models, philosophies, and theoretical underpinnings of bilingual education and ESL. Same as EDUC 4425. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5435 (3) Materials and Methods in Bilingual/ Multicultural Education

Provides an in-depth study of the curriculum options available for bilingual and ESL programs. Presents, reviews, and critiques specific methods and strategies for teaching language to minority students. Gives the opportunity to develop and present teaching units in Spanish or in ESL methodology, as appropriate. Prereq., EDUC 5425.

EDUC-5445 (3) Curriculum for Multicultural Education

Analyzes curriculum programs and examines principles that inform innovation for education of diverse students at all school levels. Includes topics of ethnic, racial, socio-economic, linguistic, and gender diversity.

EDUC-5455 (3) Literacy for Linguistically Different Learners

Presents current and emerging philosophies and methods on teaching reading to culturally diverse second-language learners. Includes review of materials, strategies for teaching reading and writing skills, and important considerations for transference from L1 to L2 reading. Prereq., Educ 5425 or reading course at 5000 level.

EDUC-5460 (3) Teaching and Learning Physics

Learn how people understand key concepts in physics. Through examination of physics content, pedagogy and problems, through teaching, and through research in physics education, students will explore the meaning and means of teaching physics. Students will gain a deeper understanding of how education research is done and how people learn. Useful for all students, especially for those interested in physics, teaching, and education research. Prereqs., PHYS 3210 and 3310 or instructor consent. EDUC 4460 and 5460 are the same course. Same as PHYS 4460 and 5460. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5465 (3) Introduction to ESL/Bilingual and Special Education

Provides students with the fundamental information of ESL, bilingual and special education, including theories, assumptions, philosophies, and paradigms of bilingual and special education. Discusses successful teaching techniques and instructional approaches, including individualization, least restrictive environment, transition, and career education.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5485 (3) Differentiation in the Classroom

Focuses on teaching culturally and linguistically diverse school students, special education students, and differentiation in the classroom. Emphasizes evidence-based teaching practices and programmatic interventions that support student learning.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5505 (3) Education of Students with Learning and Behavior Disorders

Discusses unique learning needs of students with learning and behavior disorders. Emphasizes development of a systems model for diagnosis, programming, and remediation. Stresses data-based individualization of instruction, with emphasis on intervention in inclusive learning environments and developing a culturally responsive system.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5515 (3) Curriculum and Assessment for Special Learners

Emphasizes assessment of special education students from pre-referral through staffing and placement, including response to intervention, research-based assessment practices, analytic teaching and assessment, curriculum-based assessment and measurement. Selection, administration, and interpretation of formal and informal assessment devices are studied, with particular emphasis on cultural relevance and equity in assessment for special learners with mild to severe needs. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5525 (3) Research Issues in Special Education

Provides practical experience in the review, critique, conceptualization, and writing of research studies in special education. Also offers experience in design of evaluation systems for classroom practice. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5535 (3) Diagnostic Testing in ESL and Bilingual Education

Includes both theoretical and applied aspects of diagnostic testing. Reviews administration and interpretation of current formal and informal educational tests (language proficiency). Emphasizes practices for equitable testing and assessment of English language learners. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5545 (3) Strategies for Teaching Students with Special Needs

Provides teachers with specific evidence-based methods and techniques for teaching students with a wide variety of high and low disabilities including learning and language disabilities, hearing and visual impairments, physical disabilities, and health impairments. Emphasizes different teaching methods, instructional materials, and learning strategies that have proven effective working students with cognitive learning needs. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-5555 (3-4) Practicum in Bilingual/Special Education

Offers supervised field experience in elementary and secondary special education class settings. Each credit hour requires 50 contact hours. Prereqs., EDUC 5465, 5505, and EDUC 5515 or 5545. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5595 (1-4) Practicum in Linguistically Different: English as a Second Language

University supervised, school-based field experience teaching linguistically different students, as well as assistance in the completion of EECD portfolio. Prereqs., EDUC 5425, 5435 and 5535. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5605 (3) Research Issues in Bilingual Education

Offers practical experience in the review, critique, conceptualization, and writing of research studies in bilingual/ESL education. Provides experience in the design of classroom evaluation systems. Prereq., EDUC 5425. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5610 (1-3) Math and Science Education

Introduces learning theory and teaching practices for mathematics and science learning assistants. Presents theoretical issues such as conceptual development, questioning techniques, cooperative learning, nature of math/science, and argumentation in mathematics and science.

EDUC-5615 (3) Second Language Acquisition

Presents a broad survey of second-language acquisition research. Stresses theoretical concerns and research findings and practical applications to teaching second languages. Gives special emphasis to second-language acquisition. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5625 (3) Methods of Teaching English as a Second Language

Prepares teachers to teach English as a second language in public schools in the United States. Covers both theoretical and applied aspects of language learning and teaching. Recommended prereq., EDUC 5615.

EDUC-5635 (3) Education and Sociolinguistics

Explores the discipline of sociolinguistics, the study of language variation and use, and its application within education settings. Not designed as an advanced sociology or linguistics course. Areas of study include language variation, speech communities, the ethnography of communication, speech and social identities, and sociolinguistic research related to teaching and learning.

EDUC-5706 (3) Assessment in Mathematics and Science Education

Examines purposes and practices of assessment in mathematics and science education. Particular attention is given to application of theoretical foundations and contemporary research in the design and use of assessment techniques and tools to support teaching for student understanding. Addresses the role of effective formative assessment in teaching and learning.

EDUC-5716 (3) Basic Statistical Methods

Introduces descriptive statistics including graphic presentation of data, measures of central tendency and variability, correlation and prediction, and basic inferential statistics, including the t-test. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5726 (3) Introduction to Disciplined Inquiry

Considers various research approaches and methodologies included in education including experimental and quasi-experimental methods; anthropological and case study methods; evaluative research and field studies; correlational; and sociological, historical, and philosophical research. Topics include library research, research criticism, research design, and proposal writing. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-5810 (3) Teaching K-12 Mathematics: Number Sense

Provides teachers opportunity to explore fundamental mathematical theories and pedagogical perspectives pertaining to the teaching and learning of number and operation. Engages students in explorations of mathematical content underlying number and operations, while highlighting relevant problem solving, reasoning and proof, and mathematical connections. Explores implications of teachers' mathematical learning on their classroom teaching. Develops practices supporting learner's number sense development.

EDUC-5820 (3) Teaching K-12 Mathematics: Algebraic Thinking

Uses reform-based mathematics curricula to engage participants in algebraic thinking, to reflect on their own knowledge of algebraic concepts, and to examine pedagogical ideas that can foster K-12 students' algebraic thinking and learning. Algebraic topics include patterning, variable, functions, multiple representations, equality, and solving linear and systems of equations.

EDUC-5822 (3) Teaching and Learning Chemistry

Explores issues related to how people learn and teach chemistry. Reviews high school and early college chemistry concepts both from the content and pedagogical perspectives. Delves into the chemistry education research, education, psychology and cognitive science literature. Provides an opportunity to observe and/or teach K-12 or college chemistry classes.

EDUC-5830 (3) Teaching K-12 Mathematics: Geometry & Measurement

Provides an opportunity to explore how to foster geometric thinking while examining fundamental mathematical theory underlying the content area of geometry and measurement. Emphasizes investigative approach involving problem solving, reasoning, connections, and communication as well as learning mathematics content in a flexible and conceptual way. Challenges participants to apply their understanding to teaching practices that foster geometric thinking in K-12 learners.

EDUC-5840 (3) Teaching K-12 Mathematics: Probability & Statistics

Focuses on teaching probability, data analysis, and statistics in K-12 classrooms. Explores curriculum and assessment strategies in the areas of probability and statistics. Examines research on students' thinking on stochastic tasks and how this research informs teaching practice. Emphasizes deepening of one's conceptual understanding of probability and statistics and their importance in the current information age.

EDUC-6210 (3) Education Policy and the Law

Approaches education policy issues through the rich history of litigation and current legal challenges facing American K-12 schooling. Builds an understanding of the legal and policy development of the American schooling system, particularly in the 20th century. Laws and legal cases will be used as jumping-off points for broader discussions. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-6220 (3) Gender Issues in Education

Provides a strong foundation in the various issues of gender and sexual diversity in education. Stimulates explorations into the ways the construct of "gender" affects and is affected by the educational system and process. Presents theory and research about contemporary educational issues related to sexism and homophobia. Encourages development of well-considered views about the various issues, research, and theories.

School of Education | Education | Graduate Education

EDUC-6230 (3) Ethics in Education

Investigates controversies in education from a self-consciously ethical perspective, drawing as appropriate from moral and political theory as well as law. Focuses on public education's role in fostering democratic citizenship and providing equal educational opportunity. Critically evaluates various education reform policies and curriculum policies. Applies method commonly used in medical ethics to make decisions regarding concrete ethically problematic cases.

School of Education | Education | Graduate Education

EDUC-6240 (3) African American and Latino Education in the United States

Explores development of schooling for African Americans in the U.S. and for Latinos in the American Southwest. Emphasizes parallels and points of intersection these groups experienced in their quest to access meaningful educational opportunities. Examines how social, economic, political, and judicial action defined and organized policy and practice for these two groups. EDUC 4240 and 6240 are identical courses.

EDUC-6318 (3) Psychological Foundations of Education

Introduces students to theoretical and empirical contributions of educational psychology, emphasizing applications to educational practices. Topics include learning, development, cognitive processes, social and cultural context, motivation, assessment, and individual differences. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-6325 (3) Culture and Ethnography in Education

Applies anthropological perspectives to research in educational settings. Focuses on theories of culture, cultural transmission and acquisition, and cultural reproduction and production for understanding schooling and its outcomes.

EDUC-6504 (3) Issues and Methods in Cognitive Science

Interdisciplinary introduction to cognitive science, examining ideas from cognitive psychology, philosophy, education, and linguistics via computational modeling and psychological experimentation. Prereqs., graduate standing or at least one upper-division course in computer science, linguistics, philosophy, or psychology. Same as CSCI 6402, LING 6200, PHIL 6310, and PSYC 6200. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-6505 (1-2) Readings and Research in Cognitive Science

Interdisciplinary reading of innovative theories and methodologies of cognitive science. Share interdisciplinary perspectives through in-class and online discussion and analysis of controversial texts and of their own research in cognitive science. Required for joint PhD in cognitive science. Prereq., graduate standing. Same as CSCI 7762, LING 7762, and PSYC 7765.

EDUC-6506 (2) Cognitive Science Research Practicum

Independent, interdisciplinary research project in cognitive science for advanced graduate students pursuing a joint PhD in an approved core discipline and cognitive science. Research projects integrate at least two areas within the cognitive sciences: psychology, computer science, linguistics, education, philosophy. Students need commitments from two mentors for their project. Prereq., CSCI 6402 or EDUC 6504 or LING 6200 or PHIL 6310 or PSYC 6200. Recommended prereq., CSCI 7762 or EDUC 6505 or LING 7762 or PHIL 7310 or PSYC 7762. Same as PSYC 7415, LING 7415, PHIL 7415, and CSCI 7412. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

Strategies for disseminating information and collaborative activities will be discussed.

EDUC-7316 (3) Intermediate Statistical Methods

Studies sampling theory and inferential statistics; advanced applications for testing of hypotheses regarding central tendency, variability, proportion, correlation, and normality; chi-square and the analysis of frequency data; multiple regression and prediction; introduction to the analysis of variance; and related computer programs for statistical analysis. Prereq., EDUC 5716.

EDUC-7326 (3) Experimental Design and Analysis 1

Focuses on experimental and quasi-experimental designs in educational research; applications of the general linear model; power and statistical efficiency; randomization and control; multiple comparisons; factorial experiments and interaction with fixed-factor and mixed design; analysis of covariance; effects of assumption violations; and related computer programs for statistical analysis. Prereqs., EDUC 5726 and 7316.

EDUC-7336 (3) Methods of Survey Research and Assessments

Examines theory and techniques involved in each stage of survey research, including problem formulation, questionnaire development, interview and mailed surveys, assessing reliability and validity, sampling plans, data reduction (e.g., factor analysis), and analysis of continuous and categorical data. Prereqs, EDUC 5726 and 7316.

EDUC-7346 (3) Ethnographic Methods in Educational Research

Explores the history of ethnography and its translation into educational research. Students practice participant observation, interviewing, journal writing, artifact searches, qualitative analysis and interpretation, and styles of reporting. Prereq., EDUC 6325 or equivalent doctoral level course in anthropological or sociological theory, or sociology of education.

School of Education | Education | Graduate Education

EDUC-7376 (3) Theory and Practice of Educational and Psychological Measurement

Introduces theories of measurement and applications, and presents classical test theory. Includes quantitative concepts, methods, and computational techniques for the development, application, and evaluation of measurement instruments in social/ behavioral science and education. Prereq., EDUC 5716.

EDUC-7386 (3) Educational Evaluation

Builds an understanding of the range of approaches taken by educational evaluators, focusing particularly on the evaluation of programs. Explores the nature of different evaluation perspectives and how these disparate views translate into methodological and conceptual models. Students develop a familiarity with the most common and influential approaches to evaluation.

EDUC-7396 (3) Multivariate Analysis

Introduces contemporary advanced multivariate techniques and their application in social science research. Methods include multivariate regression and analysis of variance, structural equation models, and hierarchical/multi-level models. Prior experience with Anova and multiple regression is assumed. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-7416 (3) Seminar: Research Methodology

EDUC-7436 (3) Item Response Theory

Includes one-, two-, and three-parameter logistic models for dichotomously-scored items and partial credit models for polychotomously-scored items; applications of the models to problems such as equating of test forms, test design, computerized adaptive testing, and the detection of item bias. Prereqs., EDUC 7316, 7376.

EDUC-7446 (3) Seminar: Policy Issues in Education

Explores major policy issues confronting U.S. education and examines the nature and undertaking of educational policy studies. Learn to approach policy issues from a contextual perspective that highlights systemic forces and analyzes and applies differing policy instruments. While a wide variety of policies are covered in the course, it particularly emphasizes issues of educational equity.

EDUC-7456 (3) Advanced Multivariate Methods: Multi-level and Latent Variable Modeling

Covers in depth two advanced multivariate models common to social science research: latent variable (structural equation) models and multi-level (hierarchical) models. Topics may be taught with a particular analytic context, such as measurement of change (longitudinal analysis) or experimental design. Prereq., EDUC 7396 or equivalent.

EDUC-8014 (3) Doctoral Seminar: Multiculturalism and Education

Addresses the sociopolitical context of multiculturalism and education, and the sociocultural context of learning. Examines critical issues involved in making schooling responsive to an increasingly multicultural and multilingual society. Required for all doctoral students. Prereqs., EDUC 8210, 8220, 8230 8240, 8250 and 8260. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCI, EECD, EPSY, EFPP or REME PhD graduate students only.

EDUC-8025 (3) Seminar: Curriculum Theories

Examines in depth recent developments in curriculum theory highlighting conceptual, contextual, and normative issues. Substantially explores distinct curricular traditions, corresponding conceptions of the good life along with related approaches to reason and emotion. Focuses on the works of prominent curriculum theorists.

EDUC-8055 (3) Theoretical Issues in Education Policy

Provides students with an examination of the theories behind education policy analysis. Takes a thematic approach to the study of policy in order to understand how policy agendas are set; how democratic deliberation should be linked with research and policy; and the relationship between politics, social structures, research, and policies. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCI, EECD, EPSY, EFPP or REME PhD graduate students only.

EDUC-8125 (3) Seminar: Radical Education Theories

Examines radical analyses, based on class, gender, and race, that public schooling in the U.S. maintains a dynamic of oppression and domination that undermines the schools' democratic premise. Scrutinizes the conceptual framework, interpretive and explanatory adequacy, and ethical justification of radical claims.

EDUC-8135 (3) Seminar: Research on Teaching

Provides an historical perspective of research on teaching, focusing on the evolution of conceptual frameworks, research methods, and research findings. Examines substantive and methodological issues that underlie contemporary research on teaching. Explores areas of research including teacher knowledge and beliefs, teaching for understanding, understanding student thinking, motivation and volition, and classroom assessment.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-8145 (3) Seminar: Research on Teacher Education and Learning to Teach

Explores substantive and methodological issues that underlie current research on learning to teach, teacher education, and teacher professional development. Considers the learning and development of experienced and novice teachers, with an emphasis on learning to teach in ways that conform to reform-based educational ideas.

EDUC-8220 (3) Introduction to Educational Research and Policy

Introduces conceptual and empirical issues and controversies in educational research and policy. Complements other doctoral courses in quantitative and qualitative methodology. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCl, EECD, EPSY, EFPP or REME PhD graduate students only.

School of Education Education Graduate Education

EDUC-8230 (3-4) Quantitative Methods I

Explores the use of statistics to formalize research design in educational research. Introduces descriptive statistics, linear regression, probability, and the basics of statistical inference. Includes instruction in the use of statistical software, (e.g., SPSS.). Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCl, EECD, EPSY, EFPP or REME PhD graduate students only.

EDUC-8240 (3-4) Quantitative Methods II

Continues the exploration of research design in the social sciences, especially the evaluation of the quantitative research reported in professional journals. Introduces instances of the general linear model (both multiple regression and ANOVA) and its application to educational research. Prereq., EDUC 8230 or equivalent. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCl, EECD, EPSY, EFPP or REME PhD graduate students only.

EDUC-8250 (3) Qualitative Methods I

Introduces students to the theory and practice of qualitative research in education. First of a two-course sequence covering research design, theoretical perspectives, and methods. Preference given to first-year doctoral students in education. Prerequisites: Restricted to EDCl, EECD, EPSY, EFPP or REME PhD graduate students only.

EDUC-8605 (3) Research and Professional Ethics for Educational Researchers

Examines the central issues and venerable theories of philosophical ethics that have historically framed research ethics. Also examines contemporary ethical theory that emphasizes a greater attention to the social sciences. Focuses on research ethics (both research of human subjects and research misconduct), various issues of professional academic ethics, and the AERA ethical code. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-8610 (3) Advanced Topics in Educational Equity and Cultural Diversity

Examines special topics in theory and research related to educational equity and cultural diversity in education. Topics vary each semester. May be repeated up to 12 total credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-8615 (3) Language Issues in Education Research

Examines ways in which issues of language can affect the validity of educational research. Discusses how language can be properly addressed with a multidisciplinary perspective through different stages in the process of an investigation, including design, sampling, data collection, and data analysis. Provides the conceptual basis for addressing linguistic diversity from a multidisciplinary perspective. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-8710 (3) Measurement in Survey Research

Introduces students to classical test theory and item response theory. Emphasizes the process of developing, analyzing and validating a survey instrument. Focuses on developing a survey instrument with items that derive from a clearly delineated theory for the construct to be measured. Analyzes item responses and put together a validity argument to support the proposed uses of the survey. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

EDUC-8720 (3) Advanced Topics in Measurement

Focuses on psychometric models for measurement and their applications in educational and psychological research. Emphasizes understanding and evaluating the utility of models from item response theory (IRT). Applies and compares measurement models in the context of simulated or empirical data sets. Recommended prereq., EDUC 8710.

EDUC-8730 (3) Advanced Qualitative Data Analysis

Requires students begin semester with qualitative data already collected (from class project, pilot study, dissertation). Focuses on three approaches to data analysis: reconstruction, coding (deductive and inductive), and constant comparative method. Students apply these approaches to their own data. Instructors customize part of course to address specific topic of expertise, e.g., discourse analysis, video analysis, textual analysis, ethnographic analysis. May be repeated up to 12 total credit hours.

Behavioral Genetics

The Institute for Behavioral Genetics (IBG) offers a training program in behavioral genetics. The goal of the program is to train scientists in the study of genetic contributions to individual differences in behavior. This is accomplished by requiring students to obtain strong training in a primary academic discipline, by providing training in the interdisciplinary field of behavioral genetics, and by providing an atmosphere in which close interactions among scholars with different perspectives may be established.

The program features a core set of courses and continuous research training with one or more IBG faculty members, and furnishes valuable opportunities for interaction among scholars with widely varying academic backgrounds. A student wishing to specialize in behavioral genetics must be regularly enrolled as a graduate student in an academic department of the university.

The training program requires completion of four core courses (Genetics, Molecular and Behavioral Genetics, Statistics, and Scientific Integrity), one course from core quantitative electives (Quantitative Genetics, Biometrical Methods in Behavioral Genetics, and Statistical Genetics), one course from core basic science electives (Bioinformatics and Genomics, Neuropharmacology), and one "Concepts" or "Seminar" course in behavioral genetics. Students also must participate in a weekly journal club and monthly colloquia series.

Each trainee works as a teaching assistant for one semester in a course relevant to his or her professional specialty. An IBG trainee's doctoral dissertation research must be conducted on a topic directly relevant to animal or human behavioral genetics.

A student in the interdisciplinary certificate program must have an IBG faculty member as an advisor and an advisory committee composed of faculty from both IBG and the academic department. The advisory committee evaluates the student's progress and may impose additional requirements.

Information about the IBG interdisciplinary certificate program may be obtained at www.colorado.edu/ibg/education_and_training/affiliated.html or by contacting the Institute for Behavioral Genetics, University of Colorado Boulder, 447 UCB, Boulder, CO 80309-0447; 303-492-7362, fax 303-492-8063.

Biotechnology

The graduate certificate program in biotechnology provides integrated, interdisciplinary training that encompasses both modern biological sciences and biochemical engineering. The goal of the program is to help students acquire the skills and credentials to undertake crossdisciplinary research in modern industrial, academic, and government biotechnology research laboratories and the perspective to serve as leaders in the advancement of beneficial applications of modern biotechnology.

The graduate biotechnology program is offered cooperatively by the Departments of Chemical and Biological Engineering, Chemistry and Biochemistry, and Molecular, Cellular, and Developmental Biology. The program awards a certificate, not a separate degree; each student enrolls in a participating department and meets the degree requirements for that department.

A student must take 6 semester credit hours of graduate biotechnology courses, including CHEN 5830 Introduction to Modern Biotechnology and CHEN 5831 Biotechnology Case Studies. For the remaining credits, bioscience graduate students choose from bioengineering courses, and bioengineering students choose from bioscience courses.

During their first year, students take laboratory rotations in participating faculty laboratories. At least one laboratory rotation must be outside the student's home department. Students receive up to 7 semester credit hours of independent study or laboratory-methods credit for these rotations.

All students are expected to undertake internships with local biotechnology companies. These internships usually take place during the summer after the first year of graduate study.

For more information on the biotechnology certificate program, contact Professor Ryan Gill, Department of Chemical and Biological Engineering, University of Colorado Boulder, 424 UCB, Boulder, CO 80309-0424; 303-492-2627.

Center for Advanced Engineering and Technology Education (CAETE)

The Center for Advanced Engineering and Technology Education (CAETE) is the distance learning and professional studies arm of the College of Engineering and Applied Science. CAETE provides convenient and flexible education for working professionals. Courses are delivered in the campus classroom and via the Internet to students across the country and abroad.

Academic course sequences may lead to a graduate certificate or master's degree in the following areas:

Certificates

- Computer and Network Security
- Embedded Systems (classroom only)
- Engineering Management
- Engineering Entrepreneurship
- Leadership and Ethical Decision Making
- Managing Applied Research in Technology
- Managing Research and Development
- Performance Excellence in Technology Management
- Power Electronics
- Project Management
- Quality Systems for Product and Process Engineering
- Six Sigma
- Software Engineering
- Technology Ventures and Product Management
- Wireless Networks and Technologies

Degrees

- Aerospace Engineering, MS
- Computer Science, ME
- Electrical, Computer, and Energy Engineering, ME and MS
- Engineering Management, ME
- Telecommunications, ME and MS

CAETE also provides access to over 100 prerecorded courses via their virtual library. These courses are available for academic course work, or purchase by companies for in-house training.

For additional information refer to the engineering and applied science section or contact CAETE at 303-492-6331, caete@colorado.edu, or caete.colorado.edu.

Embedded Systems

In the last few years, commercially available digital systems (microprocessors, microcontrollers, memory chips, interface systems, and systems that handle image, voice, music, and other types of signals) have experienced explosive growth in the electronics industry. These devices are increasingly powerful, cheap, and flexible as design components.

Hydrologic Sciences

The CU-Boulder Hydrologic Sciences Graduate Program focuses on quantitative studies of water in the environment including its role in geologic and biogeochemical processes, ecosystem functions, and global elemental cycling. The program is interdisciplinary and interdepartmental. It is intended for science and engineering graduate students, both currently enrolled and prospective. It allows students to obtain recognition for their accomplishments in hydrologic sciences and demonstrates the quantitative multidisciplinary education desired by many prospective employers.

Students can choose to enroll for a full Hydrologic Sciences PhD degree or obtain a hydrologic sciences graduate certificate while concurrently obtaining a master's or doctoral degree in an associated academic department. Prerequisites and course requirements are identical for the PhD degree and graduate certificate.

Students are members of the broader CU-Boulder Geophysical Sciences Program, which has two specialization options: solid-Earth geophysics and hydrologic sciences. All hydrologic sciences students are admitted through one of the participating departments: civil, environmental, and architectural engineering; ecology and evolutionary biology; environmental studies; geography; or geological sciences.

Students may apply for admission either concurrently with their application to one of the participating departments or after admission by a department. The program is designed to encourage students with a variety of undergraduate backgrounds to enter the field. Nevertheless, all students in the program must have a substantial background in math and physics, including fluid dynamics. At the time of acceptance, the student will be informed of any undergraduate deficiencies that they will need to address within the first year in the program.

Most hydrologic sciences students conduct research with participating departments, research institutes, and centers (e.g., INSTAAR), or partner government agency labs in the Boulder area (e.g., USGS and NOAA). Primary supervision of the student's research may be provided by any faculty member approved by the department.

Additional information is available at hydrosciences.colorado.edu/about/index.php, or by contacting the Graduate Coordinator, Hydrologic Sciences Graduate Program, University of Colorado Boulder, 450 UCB, Boulder, CO 80309-0450, hydrgrd@colorado.edu.

Peace Corps

Peace Corps Master's International Programs

The Graduate School is pleased to announce the initiation of four new Master's International (MI) programs developed in cooperation with the Peace Corps and with four academic units on the Boulder campus:

- geography
- education
- environmental studies
- master of business administration

Students accepted into the graduate programs of these four units may choose to also apply for one of the MI programs that entail both graduate training and Peace Corps service to combine theory with practice while working overseas.

Interested students should begin by consulting the following websites:

- Peace Corps national headquarters: www.peacecorps.gov
- CU-Boulder Peace Corps Recruiting Office: www.colorado.edu/ece/peacecorps/masters.html

Power Electronics

Power electronics is a key enabling technology in essentially all electronic systems ranging from wireless communication devices, portable and desktop computers, to telecommunication infrastructure systems, renewable energy systems, and industrial systems. The necessity for power electronics technology in these rapidly expanding areas creates a rising need for design engineers equipped with knowledge and skills to follow sound engineering principles and actively participate in multidisciplinary teams. The power electronics field has evolved rapidly with the advances in technology and introduction of many new application areas. As a result, it is likely that the required knowledge and skills were not in the curricula when many of today's professionals were in college. This creates a strong ongoing demand for continuing education of the workforce in the area of power electronics. The certificate program addresses the ongoing demand for skilled power electronics design engineers.

This program offers an opportunity for electrical engineers to obtain the specialized knowledge required to practice power electronics. It is intended for students and engineers having a BS degree in electrical engineering or equivalent.

Remote Sensing

Remote sensing (satellite and ground-based) is increasingly being used as technique to probe the Earth's atmosphere, ocean, and land surfaces. Probing of other planets is accomplished largely by satellite remote sensing. Given national priorities in such areas as climate and global change, the interest in remote sensing will only increase with time.

Remote sensing is a relatively new academic subject, with few universities having any sort of an organized curriculum. The purpose of formalizing the CU remote sensing curriculum is to coordinate curricula across campus so that a coherent curriculum in remote sensing can be provided to complement and supplement the student's regular degree program. An additional purpose is to encourage multidisciplinary education of the students in the area of remote sensing.

Graduate students, research staff, and faculty work on a wide variety of topics, ranging from the theory of remote sensing to its application. These applications include: use of satellite remote sensing to determine ocean surface temperature and heat fluxes; use of surface radar to improve the determination of clouds and precipitation from satellite; determination of surface biological characteristics and productivity from satellite; mapping of land use from satellite; mapping of surface landform and topographical features; searching for locations of buried artifacts; use of surface radar to determine upper atmosphere wind motions; and aircraft remote sensing to assess the validity of satellite retrieval algorithms of surface and atmospheric characteristics.

ARSC-3600 (3) Diversity Issues: Higher Education

Uses Internet dialogue, computing, and media technology to improve communication and develop research and inquiry skills and critical thinking. Race, class, gender, and sexual orientation issues are addressed to foster understanding of university codes of inquiry and modes of interaction in scholarly communities. Prereq., admission to McNair Program, junior standing, minimum GPA of 2.50, and strong interest in graduate school).

College of Arts & Sciences | Arts & Sciences Admin | Special Curricula

ARSC-3650 (3) Diversity Issues in Graduate Education

Guides students through research on diversity and retention issues in graduate education. Participants use Tinto's work on academic and social integration as a conceptual framework. Further, students investigate how specific institutions support diversity goals in their graduate programs. Prereq., admission to McNair Program (minimum 2.50 GPA, three recommendation letters, personal statement, strong interest in graduate school).

ARSC-3700 (1-5) McNair Seminar: Research Design

Multidisciplinary course guiding critical thinking as students design a formal investigation. Includes presenting and writing a prospectus. Students revise the prospectus, creating a proposal for funding the research as well as HRC proposals. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prereq., admission to McNair Program (junior standing, minimum GPA of 2.50, and a strong interest in graduate school).

In this course, students will gain deep exposure to the historical, cultural, and socio-economic traditions and pressures that drive domestic and international policy making in Washington D.C. Students will read widely, prepare papers, and lead discussions on fundamental aspects of Washington's professional life. Course takes place in the nation's capital and is taken in conjunction with a professional internship.

ARSC-4910 (1) McNair Practicum: Principles and Practices of University Teaching

Teaches the core principles of pedagogy at the university level and provides students guidance and feedback on constructing a teaching session in collaboration with a faculty mentor. Using the instructional practices of their discipline, students discuss issues university faculty encounter in their quest toward teaching excellence. The expertise of the Graduate Teacher Program, the Preparing Future Faculty Network and the Faculty Teaching Excellence Program will be drawn upon for supplemental resources, seminars and workshops. May be repeated up to 3 total credit hours. Prereq., ARSC 4700. Restricted to McNair Program Students.

ASTR-1010 (4) Introductory Astronomy 1

Introduces principles of modern astronomy for nonscience majors, summarizing our present knowledge about the Earth, Sun, moon, planets, and origin of life. Requires nighttime observation sessions at Sommers-Bausch Observatory. Similar to ASTR 1000, but with additional lab experience. Also similar to ASTR 1030. Students may receive credit for only one of ASTR 1010, 1000, 1110, or 1030. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science: lab or non-lab. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

ASTR-4330 (3) Cosmochemistry

Investigates chemical and isotopic data to understand the composition of the solar system: emphasis on the physical conditions in various objects, time scales for change, chemical and nuclear processes leading to change, observational constraints, and various models that attempt to describe the chemical state and history of cosmological objects in general and the early solar system in particular. Prereq., upper-div undergrad or grad standing in physical science. Recommended prereq., upper-div undergrad CHEM, PHYS, or MATH. Same as ASTR 5330 and GEOL 4330.

College of Arts & Sciences Astrophysical & Planetary Sciences

ASTR-4800 (3) Space Science: Practice and Policy

Exposes students to current controversies in science that illustrate the scientific method and the interplay of observation, theory, and science policy. Students research and debate both sides of the issues, which include strategies and spin-offs of space exploration, funding of science, big vs. small science, and scientific heresy and fraud. Prereqs., ASTR 1000 or 1200, or equivalent, or PHYS 1110 and 1120, or PHYS 2010 and 2020.

ASTR-5110 (4) Atomic and Molecular Processes

Explores the application of quantum physics and statistical mechanics to problems in astrophysics, space physics and planetary science, with an emphasis on radiative processes and spectroscopy of atoms and molecules. Prereq., graduate standing or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5120 (4) Radiative and Dynamical Processes

An introduction to radiative and dynamical processes aimed at graduate students in astrophysics, space physics and planetary science. Covers transport phenomena, the macroscopic treatment of radiation fields, magnetohydrodynamics and dynamical processes associated with planetary orbits and N-body systems. Prereq., graduate standing or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5140 (3) Astrophysical and Space Plasmas

Teaches magnetohydrodynamics and a few related areas of plasma physics applied to space and astrophysical systems, including planetary magnetospheres and ionospheres, stars, and interstellar gas in galaxies. Prereq., graduate standing in APS or physics. Same as PHYS 5141. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5150 (3) Introductory Plasma Physics

Includes basic phenomena of ionized gases, static and dynamic shielding, linear waves, instabilities, particles in fields, collisional phenomena, fluid equations, collisionless Boltzman equations, Landau damping, scattering and absorption of radiation in plasmas, elementary nonlinear processes, WKB wave theory, controlled thermonuclear fusion concepts, astrophysical applications, and experimental plasma physics (laboratory). Same as PHYS 5150. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5300 (3) Introduction to Magnetospheres

Introduces solar and stellar winds, and planetary and stellar magnetospheres. Acquaints students with the guiding center theory for particle motion, magnetospheric topology, convection, radiation belts, magnetic storms and substorms, and auroras. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5330 (3) Cosmochemistry

Same as ASTR 4330 and GEOL 5330. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Astrophysical & Planetary Sciences

ASTR-5400 (3) Introduction to Fluid Dynamics

Covers equations of fluid motion relevant to planetary atmospheres and oceans, as well as stellar atmospheres; effects of rotation and viscosity; and vorticity dynamics, boundary layers, and wave motions. Introduces instability theory, nonlinear equilibration, and computational methods in fluid dynamics. Same as ATOC 5400. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5410 (3) Fluid Instabilities, Waves, and Turbulence

Involves linear and nonlinear analyses of small-scale waves and instabilities in stratified fluids, with effects of rotation. Studies internal gravity and acoustic waves with terrestrial, planetary, and astrophysical applications. Also studies thermal and double-diffusive convection, homogeneous and stratified shear flow instabilities. Examines these topics from the onset of small amplitude disturbances to their nonlinear development and equilibration. Prereq., ASTR 5400 or ATOC 5060. Same as ATOC 5410. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5540 (3) Mathematical Methods

Presents an applied mathematics course designed to provide the necessary analytical and numerical background for courses in astrophysics, plasma physics, fluid dynamics, electromagnetism, and radiation transfer. Topics include integration techniques, linear and nonlinear differential equations, WKB and Fourier transform methods, adiabatic invariants, partial differential equations, integral equations, and integrodifferential equations. Draws illustrative examples from the areas of physics listed above. Same as ATOC 5540. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5550 (3) Observations, Data Analysis and Statistics

Introduces multi-wavelength observational techniques, their limitations and effects of various noise sources. Describes basic data handling, error analysis, and statistical tests relevant to modeling. Topics include probability distributions, model-fitting algorithms, confidence intervals, correlations, sampling and convolution. Students derive physical measurements and uncertainties with hands-on analysis of real datasets. Prereq., senior level undergraduate physics or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5560 (3) Radiative Processes in Planetary Atmospheres

Applies radiative transfer theory to problems in planetary atmospheres, with primary emphasis on the Earth's atmosphere; principles of atomic and molecular spectroscopy; infrared band representation; absorption and emission of atmospheric gases; radiation flux and flux divergence computations; radiative transfer and fluid motions; additional applications such as the greenhouse effect; and inversion methods and climate models. Prereq. or coreq., ASTR 5110. Recommended prereq., ATOC 5235. Same as ATOC 5560. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5700 (3) Stellar Structure and Evolution

Examines basic stellar astronomy: stellar classifications, kinematics, populations and distributions, and H-R diagrams. Covers principles of stellar structure, including energy generation and energy transport by radiation and convection. Includes stellar evolution theory, including compact objects. Prereq., Senior Level undergraduate physics. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5710 (3) High-Energy Astrophysics

Studies astrophysics of UV, x-ray, gamma-ray, and cosmic-ray sources, including fundamentals of radiative and particle processes, neutron stars, black holes, pulsars, quasars, supernovas and their remnants; stellar flares; accretion disks; binary x-ray sources; and other cosmic x-ray sources. Prereq., senior-level undergraduate physics. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5720 (3) Galaxies

Highlights the classification, structure, content, dynamics, and other observational properties of galaxies, active galaxies, and clusters of galaxies. Discusses Hubble's Law, the cosmic distance scale, and the intergalactic medium. Prereq., senior-level undergraduate physics. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5730 (3) Stellar Atmospheres and Radiative Transfer

Explores stellar atmospheres: basic stellar atmospheres, spectral line formation, interpretation of stellar spectra, and model atmospheres. Examines solar physics: the Sun as a star, solar cycle, chromospheric and coronal structure, energy balance, magnetic field, and solar wind. Prereqs., ASTR 5110 and undergraduate physics. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5740 (3) Interstellar Astrophysics

Highlights structure, dynamics, and ecology of the interstellar medium, stressing the physical mechanisms that govern the thermal, ionization, and dynamic state of the gas and dust; observations at all wavelengths; star formation; and relation to external galaxies. Prereq., ASTR 5110 or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5760 (3) Astrophysical Instrumentation

Covers the fundamentals underlying the design, construction, and use of instrumentation used for astrophysical research ranging from radio-wavelengths to gamma rays. Topics include Fourier transforms and their applications, optical design concepts, incoherent and coherent signal detection, electronics and applications, and signal acquisition and processing. Prereq., Senior Level undergraduate physics. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5770 (3) Cosmology

Studies the smooth universe, including Friedmann-Robertson-Walker metric, Friedmann equations, cosmological parameters, inflation, primordial nucleosynthesis, recombination, and cosmic microwave background. Also studies the lumpy universe, including linear growth of fluctuations, power spectra of CMB and galaxies, dark matter, and large scale flows. Covers galaxy formation and intergalactic medium. Prereq., Senior Level undergraduate physics or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5800 (3) Planetary Surfaces and Interiors

Examines processes operating on the surfaces of solid planets and in their interiors. Emphasizes spacecraft observations, their interpretation, the relationship to similar processes on Earth, the relationship between planetary surfaces and interiors, and the integrated geologic histories of the terrestrial planets and satellites. Prereq., graduate standing in physical sciences or instructor consent. Same as GEOL 5800. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5810 (3) Planetary Atmospheres

Covers the structure, composition, and dynamics of planetary atmospheres. Includes the origin of planetary atmospheres, chemistry and cloud physics, greenhouse effects, climate, and the evolution of planetary atmospheres - past and future. Same as ATOC 5810 and GEOL 5810. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-5820 (3) Origin and Evolution of Planetary Systems

Considers the origin and evolution of planetary systems, including proto-planetary disks, condensation in the solar nebula, composition of meteorites, planetary accretion, comets, asteroids, planetary rings, and extrasolar planets. Applies celestial mechanics to the dynamical evolution of solar system bodies. Prereq., graduate standing in physical sciences or instructor consent. Same as ATOC 5820 and GEOL 5820. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-6610 (3) Earth and Planetary Physics 1

Examines mechanics of deformable materials, with applications to earthquake processes. Introduces seismic wave theory. Other topics include inversion of seismic data for the structure, composition, and state of the interior of the Earth. Same as GEOL 6610 and PHYS 6610. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-6620 (3) Earth and Planetary Physics 2

Covers space and surface geodetic techniques as well as potential theory. Other topics are the definition and geophysical interpretation of the geoid and of surface gravity anomalies; isostasy; post-glacial rebound; and tides and the rotation of the Earth. Same as GEOL 6620 and PHYS 6620. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ASTR-6630 (3) Earth and Planetary Physics 3

Examines the solar system, emphasizing theories of its origin and meteorites. Highlights distribution of radioactive materials, age dating, heat flow through continents and the ocean floor, internal temperature distribution in the Earth, and mantle convection. Also covers the origin of the oceans and atmosphere. Same as GEOL 6630 and PHYS 6630. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Astrophysical & Planetary Sciences

Examines sources of energy and other resources in light of their availability, use, environmental impact, as well as their impact on policy, economics and values. As fossil fuels are the dominant energy source today, particular emphasis is placed on climate impacts and the carbon cycle. All material is assessed through the lenses of the physical sciences, policy, ethics and economics. Prereq., a two-course sequence in any natural science. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Same as GEOL 3520. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

Prerequisites: Restricted to Arts and Sciences, Journalism, Law or Business Graduate Students only.

ENVS-5820 (3) Renewable Energy Policy

Examines the technology, policy and politics of renewables. Technology includes the resource, science, and engineering aspects of renewables. Policy includes various policy levers used to influence renewables. Politics refers to political settings of renewables: how decision-makers perceive them, who supports/opposes policies, and how policies progress through the political process. Prereq., an introductory energy science and technology course. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Environmental Studies

ENVS-5830 (3) Critical Issues in Climate and the Environment

Discusses current issues such as ozone depletion, global warming, and air quality for graduate students in nonscientific fields. Provides the scientific background necessary to understand, follow scientific developments, and critically evaluate these issues. Same as ATOC 5000. Credit not granted for this course and ATOC 4800.

ENVS-5840 (3) Global Biogeochemical Cycles

Focuses on the cycling of elements at the global scale with a particular emphasis on human modification of biogeochemical cycles. Major biogeochemical cycles, their past dynamics, present changes, and potential future scenarios will be addressed. Ecosystem to global-scale model of the earth system will be discussed, along with global-scale measurements of element fluxes from satellites, aircraft, and measurement networks. Prereq., general chemistry, some organic chemistry. Same as GEOL 5305. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ENVS-5909 (1-3) Independent Study

Only 3 hours of independent study can be used towards degree requirements. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours for different topics. Prereq., department and instructor consent.

LING-5610 (3) English Structure for Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages

Description of morphological and syntactic categories and structures of English. Prereq., graduate standing. Same as LING 4610.

LING-5620 (3) Teaching ESL Pronunciation

Examines the phonetics and phonology of American English (including prosody) and explores techniques for teaching pronunciation skills to non-native speakers. Treats both general issues and specific problems for students from particular language backgrounds. Prereq., LING 3100 or LING 5030 and 5410. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Linguistics

LING-5630 (3) Methods and Materials for Teaching English as an Additional Language

Provides an overview of methods and materials for teaching English as an additional language, along with opportunities for students to observe, discuss and analyze these in relation to language teaching principles, linguistic considerations, and global and local contexts. Aimed primarily at the teaching of English to nonnative speaking adults, the course also addresses second and foreign language teaching generally. Recommended prereqs., LING 5610 or 5620. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

LING-5832 (3) Natural Language Processing

Explores the field of natural language processing as it is concerned with the theoretical and practical issues that arise in getting computers to perform useful and interesting tasks with natural language. Covers the problems of understanding complex language phenomena and building practical programs. Prereq., graduate standing or instructor consent. Same as CSCI 5832.

LING-5900 (1-3) Independent Study

LING-5910 (1-3) TESOL Practicum

Provides observation and supervised teaching experiences in classroom and other contexts involving the teaching of English to speakers of other languages, especially adults and young adult learners in settings outside K-12. Meetings provide opportunities to debrief and to consult on teaching practice; help students connect theory, methods and practice; and support a professional teaching portfolio process. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prereq., LING 4610/5610 or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Linguistics

LING-6200 (3) Issues and Methods in Cognitive Science

Interdisciplinary introduction to cognitive science, examining ideas from cognitive psychology, philosophy, education, and linguistics via computational modeling and psychological experimentation. Includes philosophy of mind; learning; categorization; vision and mental imagery; consciousness; problem solving; decision making, and game-theory; language processing; connectionism. Prereqs., graduate standing, or at least one course at the 3000-level or higher in computer science, linguistics, philosophy, or psychology. No background in computer science will be presumed. Same as CSCI 6402, EDUC 6504, PHIL 6310, and PSYC 6200. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

LING-6300 (3) Topics in Language Use

Discusses current issues and research in a selected area related to language use and function. Sample topics include conversational interaction, language policy, language content, and sociolinguistic variation. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

LING-6310 (3) Sociolinguistic Analysis

Serves as an advanced introduction to the empirical and theoretical foundations of contemporary sociolinguistic analysis, with special emphasis on linguistic variation, diversity and change. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

LING-6320 (3) Linguistic Anthropology

Serves as an advanced introduction to the empirical and theoretical foundations of contemporary linguistic anthropology, with special emphasis on the ways in which culture and society emerge semiotically through language and discourse. Same as ANTH 6320. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

LING-6450 (3) Syntactic Analysis

Introduces the major constructs used by formal theories of syntax to capture the relationship between meaning and syntactic form and uses data from diverse languages to explore the universality of these constructs. Restricted to graduate students.

LING-6510 (3) Language Structures

Surveys the structure of one or more languages, emphasizing understanding how parts of the language interact. Designed to supplement courses in which parts of languages are used to illustrate theoretical claims. Prereqs., LING 5410 and 5420. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

LING-6520 (3) Topics in Comparative Linguistics

Students compare and contrast selected structures of languages treated from a typological, genetic, or a real perspective. No special prior knowledge of the subject language is required. Prereqs., LING 5410, 5420, and 5570, or equivalent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

LING-6560 (3) Language Acquisition

PHIL-4460 (3) Modal Logic

Introduces the most philosophically relevant kind of logic that builds on PHIL 2440. Modal logic is the logic of the concepts of necessity, possibility, and contingency. A variety of systems of sentential modal logic will be covered, along with the standard system of first-order modal logic. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior). Recommended prereq., PHIL 2440. Same as PHIL 5460. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-4470 (3) Probability and Rational Choice

Examines issues in four related areas: probability theory (e.g. the interpretation of probability, the raven paradox, and the principle of indifference), decision theory (e.g., the Newcomb problem, the toxin puzzle, and Pascal's wager), game theory (e.g., Prisoner's dilemma, tragedy of the commons, and Schelling points), and social choice theory (e.g., Arrow's theorem). Familiarity with symbolic logic is strongly recommended. Prereq., 12 hours of PHIL coursework completed. Recommended prereq., PHIL 2440. PHIL 4470 and 5470 are the same course.

PHIL-4490 (3) Philosophy of Language

Examines theories and problems regarding the nature of language and its relation to reality. Concepts discussed include sense, reference, conventions, intentions, and their relation to science and social life. Relevant literature includes readings in Frege, Russell, Quine, Putnam, Kripke, and Chomsky. Prereq., PHIL 2440, 12 credit hours of philosophy, and junior standing. Same as PHIL 5490. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

PHIL-4600 (1) Theology Forum Seminar

Discusses a variety of theological and philosophical topics. Some reading, much discussion, occasional guest speakers. May be repeated up to 3 total credit hours with permission of instructor. Prereq., 12 hours of PHIL course work. Restricted to juniors/seniors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

PHIL-4800 (3) Open Topics in Philosophy

A variety of new courses at the 4000 level. See current departmental announcements for specific content. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prereqs., 12 credit hours of philosophy and junior standing. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

PHIL-4830 (3) Senior Seminar in Philosophy

Critical in-depth examination of a selected philosophical topic. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prereq., 15 hours of philosophy. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Philosophy (PHIL) majors only.

PHIL-4840 (1-3) Independent Study

May be repeated up to 8 total credit hours. Prereq. 12 hours of philosophy course work. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 87-180 credits (Senior, Fifth Year Senior).

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-4950 (3) Honors Thesis

May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prereq., 12 hours of philosophy course work. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5010 (3) Single Philosopher

May be repeated up to 12 total credit hours. Prereq., graduate standing or instructor consent. Same as PHIL 4010. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5020 (3) Topics in the History of Philosophy

May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Same as PHIL 4020. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHIL-5030 (1) Greek Philosophical Texts

Selected readings in classical philosophy, with a focus on achieving fluency in reading philosophical Greek. May be repeated up to 8 total credit hours. May enroll in multiple sections in the same term.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5040 (1) Latin Philosophical Texts

Selected readings in classical and medieval authors, in the original language. The focus is on achieving fluency in reading philosophical Latin. May be repeated up to 7 total credit hours.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5100 (3) Ethics

Presents representative positions in normative ethics and metaethics. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5110 (3) Contemporary Moral Theory

Same as PHIL 4110.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5120 (3) Philosophy and Animals

Examines the moral status of nonhuman animals, and its implications for the common use of animals as food and experimental subjects for humans. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior). Prereq., 12 hours of PHIL coursework completed. Recommended prereq., PHIL 3100. PHIL 4120 and 5120 are the same course. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5200 (3) Contemporary Political Philosophy

Same as PHIL 4200. Prerequisites: Restricted to Philosophy graduate students only.

PHIL-5210 (3) Philosophy and Social Policy

Studies philosophical approaches to social and political issues such as abortion, bioethics, environmental preservation, human rights, and reverse discrimination. Gives attention to strengths and weaknesses of philosophical treatments of these issues. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to Philosophy graduate students only.

PHIL-5230 (3) Bioethics and Public Policy

Examines public policy implications of contemporary biological, genetic, biomedical, and behavioral science in light of ethics and human values. Considers theoretical and practical grounds for moral assessment of scientific research and possible applications of technology. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.

PHIL-5240 (3) Seminar in Environmental Philosophy

Philosophical examination of several different approaches to environmental problems: economic, juridical, political, and ecological. Discusses specific environmental problems, focusing on their moral dimensions, e.g., wilderness preservation, animal rights, and land use and urban planning. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5260 (3) Philosophy of Law

Same as PHIL 4260. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5290 (1-3) Topics in Values and Social Policy

Deals with topics in the area of philosophy and public policy and is often interdisciplinary in focus. Topics vary from one semester to another. May be repeated up to 7 total credit hours.

Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5300 (3) Philosophy of Mind

Same as PHIL 4300. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5340 (3) Epistemology

Covers a selection of the following problems: the analysis of knowledge, theories of justification, skepticism, perceptual knowledge, theories of sense experience, other minds, knowledge of the past, the problem of induction, theories of justification, and a priori knowledge. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5360 (3) Metaphysics

Same as PHIL 4360. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHIL-5490 (3) Philosophy of Language

Same as PHIL 4490. Prerequisites: Restricted to Philosophy graduate students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5500 (3) Advanced Formal Semantics

Considers topics in the semantics of natural language not normally covered in first courses in philosophy of language. These include: natural deduction and sequent calculi for conditional logic; interpretation as logical inference; Lambek calculus and applicative categorial grammar; applications such as generalized coordination, plurals, higher-order intensional logic, generics, focus, and event-based semantics. Recommended prereq., PHIL 5490.

PHIL-5550 (3) Metaphysics and Epistemology Proseminar

Covers seminal classic texts and/or fundamental topics in analytic metaphysics and epistemology. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHIL-5600 (3) Philosophy of Religion

Studies topics falling under philosophy of religion, such as proofs for God's existence, religious language, mysticism, psychology of religion, modern theological movements, miracles, and study of individual theologians. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5700 (3) Aesthetics

Analyzes the principal topics of aesthetics, including such issues as formal structure of aesthetics, the nature of critical judgments, and the status of the work of art. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHIL-5800 (3) Open Topics in Philosophy

Variety of new courses at the 5000 level. See current departmental announcements for specific content. Maybe repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHIL-5810 (1-3) Special Topics in Philosophy

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-5840 (1-3) Graduate Independent Study

May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.

PHIL-6000 (3-4) Seminar in the History of Philosophy

Studies advanced topics in the history of philosophy. Content varies by semester, but may extend to any period in the history of philosophy, from the Presocratics into the modern era. May be repeated up to 12 total credit hours. Prereq., graduate standing or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHIL-6100 (3) Seminar in Ethics

Intensive study of selected topics in ethical theory.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-6200 (3) Seminar in Social and Political Philosophy

Provides an in-depth look at some particular topic in social and political philosophy, such as rights, political freedom, political obligation, or democracy. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-6300 (3) Seminar in Philosophy of Mind

Studies selected topics in philosophy of mind. Prerequisites: Restricted to Philosophy graduate students only.

PHIL-6310 (3) Issues and Methods in Cognitive Science

Prereqs., graduate standing, or at least one course at the 3000 level or higher in computer science, linguistics, philosophy, or psychology. No background in computer science is presumed. Same as CSCI 6402, EDUC 6504, LING 6200, and PSYC 6200. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-6340 (3) Seminar in Epistemology

Studies some of the main topics of epistemology, such as skepticism, foundations of knowledge, perception, introspection, belief, certainty, and analytic-synthetic distinctions. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-6380 (3) Seminar in Metaphysics

Traditional and contemporary theories of the basic categories used to describe nature and the human relationship to it, including such concepts as substance, identity, space and time, causality, determination, and systematic ontology. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-6400 (3) Seminar in Philosophy of Science

Topics connected with development of nature of science; structure of scientific theories; testing of hypotheses. Theory of decisions in science and ethics. Basic conceptions and models of abstraction in the history of science. Prerequisites: Restricted to Philosophy graduate students only.

PHIL-7415 (2) Cognitive Science Research Practicum.

Independent, interdisciplinary research project in cognitive science for graduate students pursuing a joint PhD in an approved core discipline and cognitive science. Projects integrate at least two areas within the cognitive sciences: psychology, computer science, linguistics, education, philosophy. Students should obtain commitments from two mentors for their project. Prereqs., CSCI 6402 or EDUC 6504 or LING 6200 or PHIL 6310 or PSYC 6200. Recommended prereqs., CSCI 7762 or EDUC 6505 or LING 7762 or PSYC 7765. Same as LING 7415, PSYC 7415, CSCI 7412, and EDUC 6506.

PHIL-7425 (2) Cognitive Science Research Practicum 2.

Prereq., CSCI 6402 or EDUC 6504 or LING 6200 or PHIL 6310 or PSYC 6200. Recommended prereq., CSCI 7762 or EDUC 6505 or LING 7762 or PHIL 6310 or PSYC 7762. Same as CSCI 7422, EDUC 6516, LING 7425, PSYC 7425.

PHIL-7810 (1-2) Topics in Cognitive Science

Reading of interdisciplinary innovative theories and methodologies of cognitive science. Students participate in the ICS Distinguished Speakers series that hosts internationally recognized cognitive scientists who share and discuss their current research. Session discussions include analysis of leading edge and controversial new approaches in cognitive science. Restricted to students enrolled in ICS Cognitive Science Academic Programs. Same as LING 7775, CSCI 7772, EDUC 7775, PSYC 7775 and SLHS 7775. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

PHIL-8990 (1-10) Doctoral Dissertation

All doctoral students must register for not fewer than 30 hours of dissertation credit as part of the requirements for the degree. For a detailed discussion of doctoral dissertation credit, refer to the Graduate School section. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-1010 (3) Physics of Everyday Life 1

Intended primarily for nonscientists, this course covers physics encountered in everyday life. Topics include balls, scales, balloons, stoves, insulation, light bulbs, clocks, nuclear weapons, basics of flashlights, and microwave ovens. Prereq., high school algebra or equivalent. Approved for GT-SC2. Meets MAPS requirements for natural sciences: chemistry or physics. However, this course should not be taken if the student has a MAPS deficiency in math. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science or quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

Uses interactive group work to aid student learning in co-requisite course PHYS 3220. In this tutorial, students will work in small groups to practice how to solve challenging problems and their underlying conceptual basis, as well as using hands-on activities, demonstrations, and other techniques to help learn content. Coreq., PHYS 3220.

PHYS-3310 (3) Principles of Electricity and Magnetism 1

Covers mathematical theory of electricity and magnetism, including electrostatics, magnetostatics, and polarized media, and provides an introduction to electromagnetic fields, waves, and special relativity. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite courses of PHYS 2210 and PHYS 2130 or 2170.

PHYS-3311 (1) Tutorial Practicum for Electricity & Magnetism 1

Uses interactive group work to aid student learning in co-requisite course PHYS 3310. In this tutorial, students will work in small groups to practice how to solve challenging problems and their underlying conceptual basis, as well as using hands-on activities, demonstrations, and other techniques to help learn content. Coreq., PHYS 3310.

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

PHYS-3320 (3) Principles of Electricity and Magnetism 2

Continuation of PHYS 3310. Electromagnetic induction; magnetic energy; microscopic theory of magnetic properties; Ac circuits; Maxwell's Equations; planewaves; waveguides and transmission lines; radiation from electric and magnetic dipoles and from an accelerated charge. Prereq., PHYS 3310.

PHYS-3330 (2) Electronics for the Physical Sciences

One lect. and one three-hour lab per week. Introduces laboratory electronics for physical science students. Includes basic electronic instruments, dc bridge circuits, operational amplifiers, bipolar transistors, field-effect transistors, photodiodes, noise in electronic circuits, digital logic, and microcontrollers. Students gain hands-on experience in designing, building, and debugging circuits. Concludes with a three-week project in which students design and build an experiment of their choice and present a seminar on the results. Prereq., PHYS 2150 and 2130 or 2170.

PHYS-3340 (3) Introductory Research in Optical Physics

Two lect., one three-hour lab plus variable unsupervised labs each week. Students design and build their own experiments using a modular type of optical research kit. Experiments cover basic research methods in instrument design, laser physics, Fourier optics, holography, spectroscopy, and interferometry. Students learn how to plan major projects and evaluate critically the significance of results. Course concludes with a four-week major project. Prereq., PHYS 3330.

PHYS-4130 (3) Biological Electron Microscopy: Principles and Recent Advances

Prereq., EBIO 1220, or MCDB 1150, or MCDB 4500/5500, or PHYS 1120, or 2020, or instructor consent. Same as PHYS 5130 and MCDB 4130.

PHYS-4150 (3) Plasma Physics

Discusses the fundamentals of plasma physics, including particle motion in electromagnetic fields, wave propagation, collisions, diffusion, and resistivity. Presents examples from space plasmas, astrophysical plasmas, laboratory fusion plasmas, and plasmas in accelerators. Prereqs., PHYS 1110--1120, PHYS 3310, and MATH 2400 or APPM 2350.

PHYS-4230 (3) Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics

Statistical mechanics applied to macroscopic physical systems; statistical thermodynamics, classical thermodynamics systems; applications to simple systems. Examines relationship of statistical to thermodynamic points of view. Prereqs., PHYS 3220 and APPM 2360.

PHYS-4340 (3) Introduction to Solid State Physics

Primarily for senior physics majors. Discusses crystal structure, lattice dynamics, band theory, semiconductors, and ferromagnetism. Prereq., PHYS 3220. Same as ECEN 4345.

PHYS-4410 (3) Quantum Mechanics and Atomic Physics 2

Extends quantum mechanics to include perturbation theory and its applications to atomic fine structure, interactions with external forces, the periodic table, and dynamical processes including electromagnetic transition rates. Prereqs., PHYS 3220, 3320.

PHYS-4420 (3) Nuclear and Particle Physics

Introduces structure of the atomic nucleus, spectroscopy of subnuclear particles, scattering, reactions, radioactive decay, fundamental interactions of quarks and leptons. Prereq., PHYS 4410.

PHYS-4430 (3) Introduction to Research in Modern Physics

One lect., one lab per week to be taken with PHYS 4410. Experiments introduce students to realities of experimental physics so they gain a better understanding of theory and an appreciation of the vast amount of experimental work done in the physical sciences today. Prereqs., PHYS 3220 and 3320. Coreq., PHYS 4410. Same as PHYS 5430.

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

PHYS-4450 (3) History and Philosophy of Physics

Investigates the role of experiment in physics; case studies in the history and philosophy of physics and in scientific methodology. Prereq., PHYS 1020 or 1120 or 2020 or instructor consent. Same as PHYS 5450, PHIL 4450.

PHYS-4460 (3) Teaching and Learning Physics

Learn how people understand key concepts in physics. Through examination of physics content, pedagogy and problems, through teaching, and through research in physics education, students will explore the meaning and means of teaching physics. Students will gain a deeper understanding of how education research is done and how people learn. Useful for all students, especially for those in interested in physics, teaching and education research. Prereq., PHYS 3210 and 3310 or instructor consent. Same as PHYS 5560 and EDUC 4460.

PHYS-4510 (3) Optics

Basic electromagnetic theory of light, using Maxwell's equations. Examples in geometrical optics; extensive applications in physical optics including diffraction and polarization. Spectra, including Zeeman effect and fluorescence. Recent advances in experimental techniques: microwaves, lasers, image converters. Prereq., PHYS 3320.

PHYS-4610 (2) Physics Honors

Students are matched with a faculty member and work independently on a research topic. Typically, the honors program lasts three semesters. A senior thesis and an oral presentation of the work are required. See also PHYS 4620 and PHYS 4630. Prereq., 3.00 GPA. Registration by special arrangement with the Department of Physics.

PHYS-4620 (2) Physics Honors

Students are matched with a faculty member and work independently on a research topic. Typically, the honors program lasts three semesters. A senior thesis and an oral presentation of the work are required. See also PHYS 4610 and PHYS 4630. Prereq., 3.00 GPA. Registration by special arrangement with the Department of Physics.

PHYS-4970 (3) Seminar on Physical Methods in Biology

Prereq., PHYS 1120 or 2020, and MCDB 1060 or 1150, or EBIO 1220, or instructor consent. Same as PHYS 5970 and MCDB 4970.

PHYS-5030 (3) Intermediate Mathematical Physics 1

This course and its continuation, PHYS 5040, form a survey of classical mathematical physics. Studies complex variable theory and finite vector spaces, and includes topics in ordinary and partial differential equations, boundary value problems, potential theory, and Fourier analysis. Prereqs., MATH 4001 and 4320. Same as MATH 5030. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-5040 (3) Intermediate Mathematical Physics 2

Continuation of PHYS 5030. Includes group theory, special functions, integral transforms, integral equations, and calculus of variations. Prereq., PHYS 5030. Same as MATH 5040.

PHYS-5130 (3) Biological Electron Microscopy: Principles and Recent Advances

Same as PHYS 4130 and MCDB 5130.

PHYS-5141 (3) Astrophysical and Space Plasmas

Covers magnetohydrodynamics and a few related areas of plasma physics applied to space and astrophysical systems, including planetary magnetospheres and ionospheres, stars, and interstellar gas in galaxies. Prereq., graduate standing in astrophysical and planetary science or physics. Same as ASTR 5140.

PHYS-5150 (3) Introductory Plasma Physics

Includes basic phenomena of ionized gases, static and dynamic shielding, linear waves, instabilities, particles in fields, collisional phenomena, fluid equations, collisionless Boltzman equations, Landau damping, scattering and absorption of radiation in plasmas, elementary nonlinear processes, Wkb wave theory, controlled thermonuclear fusion concepts, astrophysical applications, and experimental plasma physics (laboratory). Prereq., PHYS 3310. Same as ASTR 5150.

PHYS-5160 (3) Fundamentals of Optics and Lasers

Covers the basic physics of lasers. Topics include basics of optical resonators and gaussian beam propagation, stimulated emission, laser threshold conditions, laser linewidth, q-switching and mode locking of lasers, tuning of Cw lasers, and specifics of various common lasers. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-5210 (3) Theoretical Mechanics

Variational principles, Lagrange's equations, Hamilton's equations, motion of rigid body, relativistic mechanics, transformation theory, continuum mechanics, small oscillations, Hamilton-Jacobi theory. Coreq., PHYS 5250. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-5250 (3) Introduction to Quantum Mechanics 1

Quantum phenomena, Ehrenfest theorem and relation to classical physics, applications to one-dimensional problems, operator techniques, angular momentum and its representations, bound states and hydrogen atom, and Stern-Gerlach experiment and spin and spinor wave function. Prereqs., PHYS 3220 and 4410. Coreq., PHYS 5210. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-5260 (3) Introduction to Quantum Mechanics 2

Symmetries and conservation laws, identical particle systems, approximation techniques (including time-dependent and time-independent perturbation theories and variational techniques) and their applications, scattering theory, radiative transitions, and helium atom. Prereq., PHYS 5250.

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

PHYS-5430 (3) Introduction to Research in Modern Physics

Same as PHYS 4460 and EDUC 5460. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-5606 (3) Optics Laboratory

Consists of 13 optics experiments that introduce the techniques and devices essential to modern optics, including characterization of sources, photodetectors, modulators, use of interferometers, spectrometers, and holograms, and experimentation of fiber optics and Fourier optics. Prereq., undergraduate optics course such as PHYS 4510. Same as ECEN 5606.

PHYS-5770 (3) Gravitational Theory (Theory of General Relativity)

Presents Einstein's relativistic theory of gravitation from geometric viewpoint; gives applications to astrophysical problems (gravitational waves, stellar collapse, etc.). Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-5840 (1-3) Selected Topics for Graduate Independent Study

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

PHYS-6950 (1-6) Master's Thesis

Approved problem in theoretical or experimental physics under the direction of staff members. Intended to introduce the student to procedures in research and development work. Work of an original nature expected. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-7160 (3) Intermediate Plasma Physics

Continuation of PHYS 5150. Topics vary yearly but include nonlinear effects such as wave coupling, quasilinear relaxation, particle trapping, nonlinear Landau damping, collisionless shocks, solutions; nonneutral plasmas; kinetic theory of waves in a magnetized plasma; anisotropy; inhomogeneity; radiation---ponderomotive force, parametric instabilities, stimulated scattering; plasma optics; kinetic theory, and fluctuation phenomena. Prereq., PHYS 5150 or instructor consent. Same as ASTR 7160.

PHYS-7230 (3) Statistical Mechanics

Classical and quantum statistical theory, including study of both equilibrium and nonequilibrium systems. Topics covered include kinetic theory, degenerate gases, macrocanonical and grand canonical ensembles, and irreversible processes. Prereq., PHYS 5250 and 5260.

PHYS-7240 (3) Advanced Statistical Mechanics

Introduces current research topics in statistical mechanics. Topics vary from year to year and may include phase transitions, critical phenomena, nonequilibrium phenomena, dense fluids, dynamical systems, plasma physics, or quantum statistical mechanics. Prereq., PHYS 7230.

PHYS-7250 (3) Quantum Many Body Theory

Theory of quantum many body systems, including methods based on Green's functions, Feynman diagrams, and coherent state path integral with applications to interacting quantum gases, superconductivity and superfluidity, quantum phase transitions, quantum magnetism, quantum motion in the presence of disorder, and topological states of matter. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

PHYS-7270 (3) Introduction to Quantum Mechanics 3

Radiation theory; relativistic wave equations with simple applications; introduction to field theory and second quantization. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

PHYS-7280 (3) Advanced Quantum Theory

Quantum theory of fields, elementary particles, symmetry laws, and topics of special interest. Prereq., PHYS 7270 or instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

PHYS-7310 (3) Electromagnetic Theory 1

Sophisticated approach to electrostatics, boundary value problems, magnetostatics, applications of Maxwell's equations to electromagnetic wave propagation, wave guides, and resonant cavities and magnetohydrodynamics. See also PHYS 7320. Prereq., PHYS 5030. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

PHYS-7320 (3) Electromagnetic Theory 2

This is a continuation of PHYS 7310. Topics include relativistic particle dynamics; radiation by moving charges; multiple fields; radiation damping and self-fields of a particle; collisions between charged particles and energy loss; radiative processes; and classical field theory. See also PHYS 7310. Prereq., PHYS 7310.

PHYS-7440 (3) Theory of the Solid State

Stresses application to the solid state of physical concepts basic to much of modern physics, single-particle approximation, and the energy-band description of electron states in solids, pseudopotential theory applied to ordered and disordered systems, dynamical behavior of electrons in solids, lattice dynamics, Hartree-Fock and random-phase approximation in solids, many-body aspects of magnetism, and superconductivity. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-7450 (3) Theory of Solid State 2

The second semester of condensed matter physics covers topics in soft condensed matter physics, liquid crystals, semiconductors, Quantum Hall effect, Fractional Quantum Hall effect, superconductivity, and other topics at the discretion of the instructor.

PHYS-7550 (3) Atomic and Molecular Spectra

Covers theory of atomic structure and spectra, including coupling of angular momenta, tensor operators, energy levels, fine and hyperfine structure, transition probabilities, Zeeman and Stark effects. Molecular spectra: electronic, vibrational, and rotational states. Rotation matrices, symmetric top.

PHYS-7730 (3) Theory of Elementary Particles

Systematics of elementary particles, leptons, quarks, gauge bosons, symmetries and symmetry breaking, scattering cross sections, decay rates, electron-positron annihilation, lepton scattering and hadron structure, quantum chromodynamics, electroweak interactions, gauge theories.

PORT-1020 (5) Beginning Portuguese 2

Continuation of PORT 1010. Prereq., PORT 1010 (min. grade C-) or placement.

College of Arts & Sciences | Spanish | Portuguese

PORT-2110 (3) Second-Year Portuguese 1

Includes grammar review and a study of Portuguese and Brazilian culture, civilization, literature, and art. Prereq., PORT 1020 (min. grade C-) or placement. Approved for GT-AH4. Meets MAPS requirement for foreign language.

PORT-2120 (3) Second-Year Portuguese 2

Includes grammar review and a study of Portuguese and Brazilian culture, civilization, literature, and art. Prereq., PORT 2110 (min. grade C-) or placement.

PORT-2150 (5) Intensive Second-Year Portuguese.

Intensive review of grammar and other subjects normally covered in Port 2110 and 2120. Attendance at the language laboratory may be mandatory. Prereq., Port 1020 (min. grade of C-), or placement and departmental approval. Credit not granted for this course and Port 2110 and 2120. Meets MAPS requirement for foreign language.

PORT-2350 (3) Portuguese for Spanish Speakers

Intensive introduction to the Portuguese language for those able to speak Spanish. Prereq., five semesters of college Spanish or equivalent, SPAN 3000, placement, or departmental approval.

College of Arts & Sciences Spanish Portuguese

PORT-3003 (3) Advanced Portuguese Language Skills

Builds vocabulary and competence in more sophisticated written Portuguese. Involves composition, reading, grammar and class discussion. Themes are drawn primarily from current issues in Brazil. Mandatory for the Portuguese-track majors. Prereqs., PORT 2120 or 2150 or 2350.

PORT-3220 (3) Latin American Culture: Spanish America and Brazil

Examines literary, artistic, and philosophical currents in Spanish America and Portuguese America (Brazil), from pre-Columbian times to the present. Taught in Spanish. Prereq., SPAN 3000. Recommended prereqs., PORT 2110 and 2120. Credit not granted for this course and SPAN 3210. Same as SPAN 3220.

PORT-3230 (3) Lusophone Cultures: Brazil, Portugal, and Lusophone Africa

Examines literary, artistic and intellectual currents in Brazil, Portugal and Lusophone Africa from the 15th century period of Portuguese expansion to the post-colonial present. Taught in Portuguese. Prereqs., PORT 2110, 2120 and 2350 (min. grade C-) or departmental approval.

College of Arts & Sciences Spanish Portuguese

PORT-4110 (3) Survey of Brazilian Literature

Examines major works of Brazilian literature. Prereqs., PORT 2120, 2350 and 3230 (min. grade C-) or equivalent. Same as PORT 5110.

College of Arts & Sciences Spanish Portuguese

PORT-4150 (3) Survey of Portuguese Literature

Examines major works of Portuguese literature. Prereqs., PORT 2120, 2350, and 3230 (min. grade C-) or equivalent. Same as PORT 5150.

College of Arts & Sciences Spanish Portuguese

PORT-4230 (3) Special Topics in Luso-Brazilian and/or African Literature

Designed to examine intensively particular topics or issues concerning the literatures of Portugal, Brazil, and/or the African countries of Portuguese colonization. Taught in Spanish. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prereqs., PORT 3230, SPAN 3100, 3120, and an additional course above SPAN 3000. Same as SPAN 4230.

PORT-4840 (1-3) Independent Study

SPAN-3001 (3) Spanish Conversation

Emphasizes vocabulary acquisition and speaking fluency. Through structured and carefully monitored individual, group, and class work, students achieve enduring language growth and meaningful acculturation that otherwise could only be achieved through an extended stay in an Hispanic country. This course is intended for those who are learning Spanish as a second-language. Native speakers of Spanish who have pursued formal education in a Spanish speaking country will not be admitted to the course. Heritage speakers of Spanish (native speakers who have pursued formal education in a non-Spanish speaking setting) as well as students from bi-lingual K-12 programs must meet with the coordinator to determine appropriate class level. Prereqs., SPAN 2120 or 2150 (mingrade C-), the equivalent, or placement. Credit not granted for this course and SPAN 3002. Does not count toward the Spanish major.

GEOG-3682 (3) Geography of International Development

Compares and contrasts global characteristics and processes of development, emphasizing the developing countries of the world. Integrates theories of development, specific development topics, and case studies to explore the problems of development. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002 or 2412.

GEOG-3742 (3) Place, Power, and Contemporary Culture

Presents a radical reexamination of the geography of culture. Examines the relationship between places, power, and the dynamics of culture. Explores how the globalization of economics, politics, and culture shapes local cultural change. Looks at how place-based cultural politics both assist and resist processes of globalization. Recommended prereq., GEOG 1982, 1992, or 2002. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies.

GEOG-3812 (3) Mexico, Central America, and the Caribbean

Introduces the geography of Latin America, focusing on the lands and peoples of Mexico, Central America, and the Caribbean. Examines regional and national culture, history, environment, and population, as well as ongoing environmental and socioeconomic changes. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002, or 2412.

GEOG-3822 (3) Geography of China

Surveys the world's most populous country, examining physical and historical geography, urbanization and regional development, agriculture, population, energy, and the environment. Seeks to situate China's development in a broader Asian and global context. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002 or 2412. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

| College of Arts & Sciences | Geography | Human and Cultural Geography |
|----------------------------|-----------|------------------------------|

GEOG-4722 (3) Field Methods in Human Geography

Examines research methods associated with field work in human geography. Prepares students for fieldwork by focusing on geographic and interdisciplinary field work techniques; interpretation of field data; and discussion of the politics, ethics and gender, race, class, and cross-cultural issues related to field work. Prereqs., 15 credit hours in human geography. Same as GEOG 5722.

GEOG-4732 (3) Population Geography

Emphasizes spatial aspects of population characteristics including fertility, mortality, migration, distribution, and composition. Includes both theoretical and empirical considerations, in addition to field work and computer simulations. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002 or 2412. Same as GEOG 5732.

GEOG-4742 (3) Environments and Peoples

Studies the interaction of people and the environment, including human adaptation and modification of environments, cultural interpretation and construction of landscapes, and natural resources and land management. May be taken twice. Topics vary. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002 or 2412. Restricted to juniors/seniors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

GEOG-4812 (3) Environment and Development in South America

Presents theoretical approaches to the links between environment and development in Latin America and focuses on analytical discussion of contemporary (and controversial) issues in sustainable development in South America. Examines social, ecological, economic, and political forces influencing the use of natural resources. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002, 3812, 3422, ANTH 3110, or PSCI 3032.

GEOG-4822 (3) Environment and Development in China

Examines key environmental problems in relation to China's rapid modernization and development. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002 or HIST 1608.

GEOG-4832 (3) Geography of Tibet

Rigorously examines contemporary Tibetan society, culture, and nature from a geographical perspective. Uses readings on contemporary Tibet as an entry point into scholarly research about nationalism, representation, diaspora, landscape and place, sustainable development, natural resource management, identity, and environmentalism. Prereqs., GEOG 3822 or other classes on China. Same as GEOG 5832.

GEOG-2053 (4) Mapping a Changing World

Overviews the vital role cartography plays in modern society and contemporary science. Includes fundamentals of reading and creating maps for research and enjoyment. Lab provides hands-on experience with computer-based methods for creating useful maps.

College of Arts & Sciences
Geography
Techniques \(Skills\)

GEOG-3023 (4) Statistics for Geography

Introduces parametric and distribution-free statistics, emphasizing applications to earth science problems. Not open to students who have taken a college-level statistics course. Same as GEOL 3023. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Environmental Conservation (EVOC), Geography (GEOG), Geology (GEOL) or Environmental Studies (ENVS) majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences
Geography
Techniques \(Skills\)

GEOG-3053 (4) Cartography: Visualization and Information Design

Introduction to the fundamentals of cartography--the science and art of map design. Emphasis on map projections, symbolization, and the design of maps with computers. Students produce series of thematic maps with modern computer-assisted techniques. Basic familiarity with computers strongly recommended. Introductory course in statistics recommended (may be taken concurrently). Restricted to junior or senior GEOG/ENVS majors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Environmental Studies (ENVS) or Geography (GEOG) majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences

GEOG-4023 (4) Introduction to Quantitative Methods in Human Geography

Introduces fundamental statistical and quantitative modeling techniques widely used in geography today. Emphasizes geographic examples and spatial problems, as are statistical routines now available on most computers. Prereq., GEOG 3023 or equivalent. Same as GEOG 5023. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of GEOG 3023.

College of Arts & Sciences | Geography | Techniques (Skills)

GEOG-4043 (4) Cartography 2: Interactive and Multimedia Mapping

An advanced course in interactive, multimedia, animated, and Web-based cartography stressing the important role digital cartography plays in cyberspace. Focuses on principles of effective cartographic design in multimedia and hypertext environments. Labs are organized around hands-on active learning projects. Prereq., GEOG 3053. Same as GEOG 5043.

GEOG-4093 (4) Remote Sensing of the Environment

Covers acquisition and interpretation of environmental data by remote sensing. Discusses theory and sensors as well as manual and computerized interpretation methods. Stresses infrared and microwave portions of the spectrum. Same as GEOG 5093 and GEOL 4093.

GEOG-4103 (4) Introduction to Geographic Information Science

Examines construction and use of an information system and its data specifically designed for representing and manipulating geographical data. Emphasizes modern geographical information systems including computer hardware/software with a collection of methods/procedures for recording, transforming, storing/retrieving, analyzing, and mapping geographic data. Prereq., GEOG 2053 or GEOG 3053 and introductory course in statistics. Same as GEOG 5103. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite courses of GEOG 2053 or 3053 and introductory course in statistics. Restricted to Junior or Senior Geography (GEOG) or Environmental Studies(ENVS) majors only.

GEOG-4173 (3) Research Seminar

Examines the nature of research and develops pregraduate skills for geographic research, emphasizing problem definition, methods, sources, data interpretation, and writing. Recommended for students pursuing honors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 87-180 credits (Senior, Fifth Year Senior) Geography (GEOG) or Environmental Studies (ENVS) majors only.

GEOG-4203 (4) Geographic Information Science: Modeling Applications

Extends basic GIS concepts and mechanics. Develop GIS models for human and environmental applications. Grid and vector data models, tessellated and hierarchical data structures, terrain representation, interpolation and kriging, spatial regression. Small group projects design, implement and run GIS models. Prereq., GEOG 4103/5103 or instructor consent. Recommended prereq., working knowledge of GIS software. Same as GEOG 5203.

GEOG-4303 (4) GIS Programming for Spatial Analysis

Focuses on the extension of geographic information systems (GIS) through programming as well as on the development of algorithms for spatial analysis and information extraction in vector and raster data. Covers concepts, principles and techniques of programming and solving spatial problems in physical and human Geography. Prereq., GEOG 4103/5103. Recommended prereq., GEOG 4203/5203. Same as GEOG 5303.

GEOG-5003 (4) Elements of Geographic Information Systems

Discusses incorporating GIS methods into graduate thesis or dissertation research. Reviews basic mapping concepts (scale and projections), acquiring different types of spatial data (raster and vector), building an error-free database, making simple queries, overlays, charts, and maps. Intended for students who want to learn GIS but lack background skills in computing or cartography. Recommended prereq., some experience with Mac or Windows. Restricted to graduate students.

GEOG-5303 (4) GIS Programming for Spatial Analysis

Same as GEOG 4303.

GEOG-6443 (2) Remote Sensing Field Methods

Theory and practical field measurements for validation of airborne and spaceborne spectral image acquisition. Emphasizes radiative scattering properties of soil, vegetation, cryosphere, and atmosphere. Also focuses on characterization and calibration of instrumentation to measure these properties. Restricted to graduate students. Prereqs., GEOL/GEOG 4093/5093.

Recommended prereq., GEOL 5240. Same as EBIO 6440.

GEOG-4261 (3) Glaciers and Permafrost

Surveys the major terrestrial components of the cryosphere, including permafrost, glaciers, and ice sheets. Emphasizes physical processes involving ice, including thermal behavior, ice deformation, and mass balance, but also considers biogeochemical processes and landforms associated with ice. The climate context, including human interactions and recent climate history, will be considered. The course will be taught in a combination lecture-seminar format. Prereq., GEOG 1011 or GEOL 1010. Recommended prereq., GEOG 4241.

College of Arts & Sciences | Geography | Physical Geography

GEOG-4271 (3) The Arctic Climate System

Understanding the climate of the Arctic requires a synthetic, system oriented approach. The course focuses on the intimate linkages between the atmosphere, ocean and land that give the Arctic region its unique character, link the Arctic to the larger global climate system, and promote understanding the rapid changes occurring in the Arctic. Prereq., GEOG 1001. GEOG 4271 and 5271 are the same course.

GEOG-4292 (3) Migration, Immigrant Adaptation, and Development

Examines historical and current patterns of migration with an emphasis in international movement. Looks at leading migration theories related to both origin- and destination-based explanations while critically looking at the role of development as a potential cause and consequence of population movement. Finally, covers some aspects of immigrants' social and economic adaptation to their host society. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002, or 2412. Same as GEOG 5292 and ECON 4292.

GEOG-4303 (4) GIS Programming for Spatial Analysis

Focuses on the extension of geographic information systems (GIS) through programming as well as on the development of algorithms for spatial analysis and information extraction in vector and raster data. Covers concepts, principles and techniques of programming and solving spatial problems in physical and human Geography. Prereq., GEOG 4103/5103. Recommended prereq., GEOG 4203/5203. Same as GEOG 5303.

GEOG-4311 (3) Watershed Biogeochemistry

Emphasizes terrestrial-aquatic linkages in headwater catchments, focusing on hydrologic pathways, isotopic and geochemical tracers, nutrient cycling, water quality, experimental manipulations, and modeling. Prereq., GEOG 1011 and 3511. Recommended prereq., parametric statistics.

GEOG-4321 (3-4) Snow Hydrology

Offers a multidisciplinary and quantitative analysis of physico-chemical processes that operate in seasonally snow-covered areas, from the micro- to global-scale: snow accumulation, metamorphism, ablation, chemical properties, biological aspects, electromagnetic properties, remote sensing, Gis, and quantitative methods. Prereqs., GEOG 1001 or 1011, and any statistics course. Same as GEOG 5321.

College of Arts & Sciences | Geography | Physical Geography

GEOG-4331 (3-4) Mountain Climatology

Surveys and analyzes climatic characteristics of mountain environments worldwide. Prereq., GEOG 1001 or ATOC 1050 or 1060. Same as GEOG 5331.

College of Arts & Sciences | Geography | Physical Geography

GEOG-4371 (3) Forest Geography: Principles and Dynamics

Surveys principles of forest geography and ecology. Includes both individual tree responses to environmental factors and species interactions within communities. Emphasizes forest dynamics and their relation to management problems. Prereq., GEOG 1001. Same as GEOG 5371.

GEOG-4401 (3) Soils Geography

Discusses chemical and physical properties of soils, soil development, distributions, and management relevant to understanding plant-soil relationships in natural and human-altered landscapes. Prereq., GEOG 1011. Recommended prereq., inorganic chemistry. Same as GEOG 5401.

GEOG-4430 (3) Seminar: Conservation Trends

Provides environmental studies or geography majors with an undergraduate format for interdisciplinary discussion and research into current and future directions of conservation. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Restricted to junior and senior geography and environmental studies majors.

College of Arts & Sciences | Geography

GEOG-4501 (3) Water Resources and Water Management of Western United States

Interprets and analyzes hydroclimatic data, surface, and groundwater. Critically evaluates water use, emphasizing problems associated with geographic maldistribution, appropriations, irrigation, industry, pollution, and regional development. Same as GEOG 5501.

GEOG-4722 (3) Field Methods in Human Geography

Examines research methods associated with field work in human geography. Prepares students for fieldwork by focusing on geographic and interdisciplinary field work techniques; interpretation of field data; and discussion of the politics, ethics and gender, race, class, and cross-cultural issues related to field work. Prereqs., 15 credit hours in human geography. Same as GEOG 5722.

GEOG-4732 (3) Population Geography

Emphasizes spatial aspects of population characteristics including fertility, mortality, migration, distribution, and composition. Includes both theoretical and empirical considerations, in addition to field work and computer simulations. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002 or 2412. Same as GEOG 5732.

GEOG-4742 (3) Environments and Peoples

Studies the interaction of people and the environment, including human adaptation and modification of environments, cultural interpretation and construction of landscapes, and natural resources and land management. May be taken twice. Topics vary. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002 or 2412. Restricted to juniors/seniors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

GEOG-4812 (3) Environment and Development in South America

Presents theoretical approaches to the links between environment and development in Latin America and focuses on analytical discussion of contemporary (and controversial) issues in sustainable development in South America. Examines social, ecological, economic, and political forces influencing the use of natural resources. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002, 3812, 3422, ANTH 3110, or PSCI 3032.

GEOG-4822 (3) Environment and Development in China

College of Arts & Sciences | Geography | Human and Cultural Geography

GEOG-4832 (3) Geography of Tibet

Rigorously examines contemporary Tibetan society, culture, and nature from a geographical perspective. Uses readings on contemporary Tibet as an entry point into scholarly research about nationalism, representation, diaspora, landscape and place, sustainable development, natural resource management, identity, and environmentalism. Prereqs., GEOG 3822 or other classes on China. Same as GEOG 5832.

GEOG-4852 (3) Health and Medical Geography

Examines geographical patterns of health and disease with an emphasis on global health issues. Focuses on three major approaches to medical geographic research: ecological approaches, which systematically analyze relationships between people and their environments; social approaches, including political economy and socio-behavioral approaches; and spatial approaches, which employ maps and spatial analysis to identify patterns of health and disease. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1001 or 1011, and GEOG 1992, 2002 or 2412. Restricted to juniors/seniors. GEOG 4852 and 5852 are the same course.

GEOG-4892 (3) Geography of Western Europe

Provides a regional survey of cultural, political, economic, social, and physical geography of Western Europe, emphasizing the distinctive character and problems of each major area and the relationship of the region to the world. Recommended prereqs., GEOG 1982, 1992, 2002 or 2412.

GEOG-4990 (3) Senior Thesis

GEOG-5113 (3) Seminar: Geographic Information Systems

Focuses on the current research topics in geographical information systems and selected areas of application. Includes major journal articles related to each topic. Students complete and present a seminar paper. Prereq., GEOG 4103, 5103, or instructor consent. Restricted to graduate students. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

GEOG-5152 (3) History and Theory of Geography

History of ideas and institutions that have shaped contemporary geographic inquiry. Examines the evolving relations among human geography, physical geography, environment-society relations, and geographic information processing. Designed to situate graduate student research within major subfields and intellectual currents of geography. Restricted to graduate students. Prerequisites: Restricted to Geography (GEOG) graduate students only.

GEOG-5161 (3) Research Design in Geography

The human section reads and discusses contemporary research philosophies and methodologies in human geography. Practices the development of research proposals and presentation of research ideas and results. The physical section reads and discusses contemporary research philosophies and methodologies in physical geography (climatology, geomorphology, biogeography, and soils geography). Practices the development of research proposals and presentation of research ideas. Restricted to geography graduate students.

GEOG-4271 (3) The Arctic Climate System

Understanding the climate of the Arctic requires a synthetic, system oriented approach. The course focuses on the intimate linkages between the atmosphere, ocean and land that give the Arctic region its unique character, link the Arctic to the larger global climate system, and promote understanding the rapid changes occurring in the Arctic. Prereq., GEOG 1001. GEOG 4271 and 5271 are the same course.

HONR-1810 (3) Honors Diversity Seminar

Students will develop an appreciation for, and experience with, diverse perspectives. In particular this includes: racial/ethnic, gender, sexual orientation, and class perspectives, for constructing knowledge as they proceed through their undergraduate studies. Three themes provide the framework for the course: education for the next century, the 21st century citizen, and the modern individual in a diverse society. Topics explored include privilege, stigmatization, targeted and nontargeted grouping, and oppression. Engaging in independent research and experiential, empathetic experiences is required. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity. Prerequisites: A minimum 3.3 cum GPA is required for this Honors class or you must be part of the first year student group.

HONR-2250 (3) Ethics of Ambition

Through selected readings in classical literature on ethics and through more contemporary readings and films, examines critical ethical issues relating to the competition of ambitions and the alternative styles of choosing between courses of action in a dangerous world. Uses biographies of those whose lives illustrate both the complexities of the struggles and the profundity of possibilities. Considers the unconscious metaphors of national visions and ambitions, the competing ethics of ends and means, the conflicting ambitions in a pluralistic society, and the transcendent ambitions of visionaries. Same as FARR 2660. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values. Prerequisites: A minimum 3.3 cum GPA is required for this Honors class or you must be part of the first year student group.

PSYC-2022 (3) Biological Psychology 2

Continuation of PSYC 2012. Integrates knowledge and facts presented in PSYC 2012 into current topics in biopsychology. Course no longer taught after fall 2003, except through Continuing Education correspondence. Prereq., PSYC 2012.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology | Biological

PSYC-3102 (3) Behavioral Genetics

Inheritance of behavioral characteristics. Prereq., PSYC 3101.

PSYC-4052 (4) Behavioral Neuroscience

Intensive survey of the morphological, neurochemical, and physiological aspects of behavior. Prereqs., PSYC 2012-2022 or EBIO 1210-1220, or CHEM 1111-1131, or PHYS 1010-1020, or PHYS 2010-2020. NRSC 4052 and PSYC 4052 are the same course. Same as NRSC/PSYC 5052.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology Biological

PSYC-4062 (3) The Neurobiology of Stress

Provides an introduction to the concept of stress and the physiological systems involved. Factors modulating stress vulnerability versus resilience, and stress interactions with other systems with health relevance will be explored. Emphasis will be placed on current research on brain mechanisms. A strong foundation and interest in biological psychology, neuroscience, and physiology is recommended. Prereqs., PSYC 2012 or NRSC 2100 or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of PSYC 2012 or NRSC 2100 with grade of C- or better. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior).

PSYC-4142 (3) Brain Injury, Plasticity and Recovery: From Neuron to Behavior

Traumatic brain injury is prevalent in all aspects of society, with incidence rates varying according to age, gender, military affiliation and participation in certain sports. The course will delve into the full spectrum of consequences following injury, beginning with the individual neural cells in the brain through to the behaving individual. It will also cover strategies to improve functional recovery. Prereq., PSYC 2012 or NRSC 2100. Recommended prereq., PSYC/NRSC 4132. Restricted to junior/seniors or instructor consent required. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

PSYC-5112 (3) Concepts in Behavioral Genetics

Examines selected topics in greater detail than is possible in the comprehensive undergraduate course in behavioral genetics (PSYC 3102). Topics covered may include inheritance of behavioral characteristics from perspectives of pharmacogenetics, transmission genetics, biochemical genetics, and evolutionary genetics. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Instructor consent required.

PSYC-5122 (3) Quantitative Genetics

Surveys principles of genetics of quantitative characteristics. Topics include gene frequencies, effects of mutation, migration, and selection. Also looks at correlations among relatives, heritability, inbreeding, crossbreeding, and selective breeding.

PSYC-5232 (2) Molecular Genetics and Physiology

Covers fundamental mechanisms of gene action, including genome structure and regulation of gene expression. Discusses molecular techniques used to examine human genetic diseases. Emphasizes genetic diseases with behavioral, neurologic, and physiologic abnormalities. Prereq., IPHY/PSYC 5200 or instructor consent. Same as IPHY 5232.

PSYC-5242 (3) Biometrical Methods in Behavioral Genetics

Studies development of structural models appropriate to behavioral genetics and the estimation procedures necessary for their application. Instructor consent required. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5262 (3) Mammalian Neuroanatomy

Covers microscopic anatomy and function of different brain regions. Emphasizes correlation between structure and function, particularly at cellular and synaptic level. Course includes brain dissection, description of neuroanatomical and neurohistological techniques, and an introduction to the ultrastructure of neurons. Prereqs., PSYC 4052 or NRSC 4052 or MCDB 4190, and instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology | Biological

PSYC-7012 (1-3) Research in Behavioral Genetics

Individual research projects. May be repeated up to 7 total credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-7102 (2) Seminar: Behavioral Genetics

Intensive study of selected topics in behavioral genetics. Emphasizes recent research. Attention to both human and animal studies. May be repeated up to 8 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-2145 (3) Introductory Cognitive Psychology

Introduces the study of cognitive processes of human beings: sensation, perception, attention, pattern recognition, memory, learning, language, visual thought, reasoning, problem solving, and decision making. Discusses applications to education, human factors, human computer interaction, law, and other areas of psychology. Prereq., PSYC 1001.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology | Experimental

PSYC-3005 (3) Cognitive Science

Introduces cognitive science, drawing from psychology, philosophy, artificial intelligence, neuroscience, and linguistics. Studies the linguistic relativity hypothesis, consciousness, categorization, linguistic rules, the mind-body problem, nature versus nurture, conceptual structure and metaphor, logic/problem solving and judgment. Emphasizes the nature, implications, and limitations of the computational model of mind. Prereqs., two of the following: PSYC 2145, LING 2000, CSCI 1300, and PHIL 2440. Same as LING 3005, PHIL 3310, and CSCI 3702.

PSYC-3105 (3) Experimental Methods in Psychology

Provides an introduction to the use of experimental procedures in psychology. Students learn about the logic and design of experiments, the meaning of psychological data, how to analyze and interpret data, and the role of theory in psychology. Prereqs., Psyc 1001 and 3101. Recommended prereq., Psyc 2145.

PSYC-4145 (4) Advanced Cognitive Psychology

Advanced course in human cognitive processes. Focuses on attention pattern recognition. Memory, learning, language, visual thought, reasoning, problem solving, and decision making. Discusses major theories and ideas in terms of the research they have inspired. Emphasis varies with instructor. One lab per week; research project required. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2145, and 3101. Same as PSYC 5145. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite classes of PSYC 1001, 2145, and 3101.

PSYC-4155 (4) Cognitive Neuroscience/Neuropsychology

An introduction to cognitive neuroscience and neuropsychology. Provides a survey of the neuropsychological underpinnings for a wide range of cognitive functions: motor control, object recognition, spatial processing, attention, language, memory and emotion. One lab, three lectures per week. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2012 or NRSC 2100, PSYC 3101 or MATH 2510 or MATH 2520 or IPHY 2800 or APPM 1710 or APPM 2750 or CHEN 3010 or CHEN 3130 or ECON 3818. Same as NRSC 4155.

PSYC-4165 (4) Psychology of Perception

One lab, three lect. per week. Analyzes peripheral and central mechanisms involved in the transduction and interpretation of experience. Gives special attention to vision and audition; major theories in these areas are discussed in terms of research they have inspired. Prereqs., PSYC 1001 and 3101.

PSYC-4175 (4) Computational Cognitive Neuroscience

Introduction to cognitive neuroscience (how the brain gives rise to thought) using computer simulations based on the neural networks of the brain. Covers a full range of cognitive phenomena including perception and attention, learning and memory, language, and higher-level cognition based on both large-scale cortical neuroanatomy and detailed properties of cortical neural networks. One lab per week. Recommended only for students with a strong interest in the topic, as it requires a combination of computer modeling, neuroscience and cognition. Prereq., PSYC 1001, 2012, 2145, and 3101. Same as PSYC 5175. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4385 (3) Ethology and Comparative Psychology

Provides an advanced and intensive survey to topics in experimental psychology. General areas are higher-level cognition, attention, and learning and memory. Meets seven weeks in the term. May be repeated up to 4 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5685 (2) Proseminar: Advanced Experimental Psychology

Provides an advanced and intensive survey of topics in experimental psychology. General areas are research methods in cognitive psychology, and low-level perception. Meets seven weeks in the term. May be repeated up to 4 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5695 (2) Proseminar: Memory

Provides beginning Ph.D. students with a basic introduction to (primarily human) memory research. This is one of the six Cognitive Psychology Proseminar modules that all students in the Cognitive Psychology Ph.D. program are required to take. The seminar will include consideration of theoretical, behavioral, and cognitive neuroscience perspectives on memory. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology Experimental

PSYC-5815 (2) Proseminar: Advanced Experimental Psychology

Provides an advanced and intensive survey of topics in experimental psychology. General areas are language and high-level thinking. Meets seven weeks in the term. May be repeated up to 4 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent.

PSYC-7765 (1-2) Readings and Research in Cognitive Science

Interdisciplinary reading of innovative theories and methodologies of cognitive science. Participants share interdisciplinary perspectives through in-class and online discussion and analysis of controversial texts and of their own research in cognitive science. Required for joint PhD in cognitive science. Prereq., graduate standing. Same as CSCI 7762, EDUC 6505, and LING 7762.

PSYC-7775 (1-2) Topics in Cognitive Science

Reading of interdisciplinary innovative theories and methodologies of cognitive science. Students participate in the LCS Distinguished Speakers series that hosts internationally recognized cognitive scientists who share and discuss their current research. Session discussions include analysis of leading edge and controversial new approaches in cognitive science. Restricted to students enrolled in LCS Cognitive Science Academic Programs. Same as LING 7775, CSCI 7772, EDUC 7775, SLHS 7775, and PHIL 7810.

PSYC-2606 (3) Social Psychology

Covers general psychological principles underlying social behavior. Analyzes major social psychological theories, methods, and topics, including attitudes, conformity, aggression, attraction, social perception, helping behavior, and group relations. Prereq., PSYC 1001. Credit not granted for this course and PSYC 4406. Approved for GT-SS3. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology Social

PSYC-4136 (4) Judgment and Decision Making

One lab, three lectures per week. Introduces the study of judgment and decision making processes (estimation, prediction and diagnosis, choice under certainty, and risky decision making) and the methods that have been developed to improve these processes (statistical modeling, decision analysis, and expert systems). Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2606 and 3101. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4376 (4) Research Methods in Social Psychology

Designed primarily for psychology majors interested in learning about research methodology. Topics include research design, data collection and data analysis, and written research reports. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2606, and 3101. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite classes of PSYC 1001, 2606, and 3101. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4456 (3) Psychology of Personality

Offers a psychological study of structure, organization, and development of the person as a whole. Analysis of major theories, methods, and research, including topics such as emotion, motivation, temperament, inner experience, identity and the self, personality change, and the influence of sociocultural context.

PSYC-4606 (3) Advanced Topics in Social Psychology

In-depth study of selected topics in social psychology. Particular section content each semester is determined by the instructor. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credit hours, provided the topics vary. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2606 and 3101. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-5606 (3) Proseminar: Social-Personality Psychology

Provides a thorough introduction to methods and theories in social psychology concerned with topics such as the self, social cognition, judgment and decision making, attitude formation and change, small group processes, inter-group relations, health and social psychology, and others. May be repeated up to 12 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-6606 (1) Professional Issues in Social Psychology

Covers a range of topics important for professional development in social psychology, including preparation and delivery of research presentations, preparation of grant proposals and manuscripts, and peer review of manuscripts. Intended to prepare students for careers as research scientists. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Restricted to graduate students. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-7536 (3) Personality and Social Psychology

Selected topics in the area of social-personality psychology. Students may register for more than one section of this course within the term and/or within their graduate career. These seminars may be on one of the following topics: stereotyping and person perception, social psychology and self, social psychology of problem behavior, health and social psychology, race and ethnic identity, or groups and small group organization. May be repeated up to 8 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-4303 (3) Abnormal Psychology

Examines borderline disorders as extreme variations of the normal personality. Focuses on major functional and organic disorders, theories of mental disorders, and methods of psychotherapy. Prereq., PSYC 1001. Credit not granted for this course and PSYC 3313.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology | Clinical

PSYC-4443 (4) Research Methods in Clinical Psychology

Learn to evaluate research methods as they relate to etiology, assessment, and intervention of psychological disorders. Emphasizes the importance of using sound methodological strategies in both research and clinical settings. Three lectures, one lab per week. Prereqs., PSYC1001, 3101, and 3313 or 4303. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite classes of PSYC 1001, PSYC 3101, and either PSYC 3313 or 4303. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4543 (3) Clinical Neuropsychological Disorders

Neuropsychological disorders are behavioral and cognitive expressions of underlying brain diseases or injury. The course will provide in-depth coverage from clinical perspectives of wide range of disorders caused by stroke, traumatic brain injury, degenerative diseases, and inflammatory diseases. Students will learn the various neurologic, neuroimaging and neuropsychological methods for assessing and diagnosing these disorders and will review specific illustrative cases. Recommended prereqs., PSYC 3313 or 4303. Restricted to sophomores/juniors/seniors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

PSYC-4553 (3) Women's Mental Health: A Biopsychosocial Approach

Examines women's mental health risks as they occur over the life span, from adolescence through menopause, and helps students develop a multi-dimensional understanding of factors contributing to the higher prevalence of women's mental health disorders, including social, neurobiological, cultural, developmental, reproductive, behavioral, cognitive and emotional factors. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only. Prereqs., PSYC 3313 or 4303. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4713 (3) Survey of Clinical Psychology

Covers theories and practices relating to problems of ability and maladjustment. Diagnostic procedures and treatment methods with children and adults. Prereq., PSYC 3313 or 4303. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4733 (4) Psychological Testing and Assessment

Provides an overview of issues central to testing and assessment of psychological constructs, including types of evaluation instruments currently in use in the field, their applications, and design. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of PSYC 1001 & PSYC 3101 with grade of C- or better.

NRSC-4015 (3) Affective Neuroscience

Experiencing and learning from affect--emotional value--is a fundamental part of the human experience. When people started thinking of brains as computers, research on emotion fell by the wayside. Recently however, this has changed, and there is an explosion of work on the brain mechanisms of affective value. We will cover recent advances in understanding the emotional brain. Prereqs. for NRSC 4015 are PSYC 2012 or NRSC 2100 or instructor permission, and junior or senior standing. NRSC 4015 and 5015 are the same course. PSYC-4136 (4) Judgment and Decision Making

One lab, three lectures per week. Introduces the study of judgment and decision making processes (estimation, prediction and diagnosis, choice under certainty, and risky decision making) and the methods that have been developed to improve these processes (statistical modeling, decision analysis, and expert systems). Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2606 and 3101. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4142 (3) Brain Injury, Plasticity and Recovery: From Neuron to Behavior

Traumatic brain injury is prevalent in all aspects of society, with incidence rates varying according to age, gender, military affiliation and participation in certain sports. The course will delve into the full spectrum of consequences following injury, beginning with the individual neural cells in the brain through to the behaving individual. It will also cover strategies to improve functional recovery. Prereq., PSYC 2012 or NRSC 2100. Recommended prereq., PSYC/NRSC 4132. Restricted to junior/seniors or instructor consent required. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

PSYC-4145 (4) Advanced Cognitive Psychology

Advanced course in human cognitive processes. Focuses on attention pattern recognition. Memory, learning, language, visual thought, reasoning, problem solving, and decision making. Discusses major theories and ideas in terms of the research they have inspired. Emphasis varies with instructor. One lab per week; research project required. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2145, and 3101. Same as PSYC 5145. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite classes of PSYC 1001, 2145, and 3101.

NRSC-4155 (4) Cognitive Neuroscience/Neuropsychology

An introduction to cognitive neuroscience and neuropsychology. Provides a survey of the neuropsychological underpinnings for a wide range of cognitive functions: motor control, object recognition, spatial processing, attention, language, memory and emotion. One lab, three lectures per week. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2012 or NRSC 2100, PSYC 3101 or MATH 2510 or MATH 2520 or IPHY 2800 or APPM 1710 or APPM 2750 or CHEN 3010 or CHEN 3130 or ECON 3818. Same as PSYC 4155.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology

PSYC-4155 (4) Cognitive Neuroscience/Neuropsychology

An introduction to cognitive neuroscience and neuropsychology. Provides a survey of the neuropsychological underpinnings for a wide range of cognitive functions: motor control, object recognition, spatial processing, attention, language, memory and emotion. One lab, three lectures per week. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2012 or NRSC 2100, PSYC 3101 or MATH 2510 or MATH 2520 or IPHY 2800 or APPM 1710 or APPM 2750 or CHEN 3010 or CHEN 3130 or ECON 3818. Same as NRSC 4155.

PSYC-4165 (4) Psychology of Perception

One lab, three lect. per week. Analyzes peripheral and central mechanisms involved in the transduction and interpretation of experience. Gives special attention to vision and audition; major theories in these areas are discussed in terms of research they have inspired. Prereqs., PSYC 1001 and 3101.

PSYC-4175 (4) Computational Cognitive Neuroscience

Introduction to cognitive neuroscience (how the brain gives rise to thought) using computer simulations based on the neural networks of the brain. Covers a full range of cognitive phenomena including perception and attention, learning and memory, language, and higher-level cognition based on both large-scale cortical neuroanatomy and detailed properties of cortical neural networks. One lab per week. Recommended only for students with a strong interest in the topic, as it requires a combination of computer modeling, neuroscience and cognition. Prereq., PSYC 1001, 2012, 2145, and 3101. Same as PSYC 5175. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4220 (3) Language and Mind

Studies processes of perceiving speech, interpreting it as meaningful, and expressing intentions to communicate as utterances. Emphasizes roles of the brain and of perceptual and motor systems. Writing, gestural, and animal communicative systems also are treated. Prereqs., PSYC 1001 and LING 2000. Same as LING 4220.

PSYC-4303 (3) Abnormal Psychology

Examines borderline disorders as extreme variations of the normal personality. Focuses on major functional and organic disorders, theories of mental disorders, and methods of psychotherapy. Prereq., PSYC 1001. Credit not granted for this course and PSYC 3313.

PSYC-4376 (4) Research Methods in Social Psychology

Designed primarily for psychology majors interested in learning about research methodology. Topics include research design, data collection and data analysis, and written research reports. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2606, and 3101. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite classes of PSYC 1001, 2606, and 3101. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4385 (3) Ethology and Comparative Psychology

Discusses behavior of representative members of each animal phylum. Emphasizes ontogeny of behavior as well as phylogeny. Prereq., PSYC 1001 or EBIO 1210. Same as PSYC 5385.

PSYC-4443 (4) Research Methods in Clinical Psychology

Learn to evaluate research methods as they relate to etiology, assessment, and intervention of psychological disorders. Emphasizes the importance of using sound methodological strategies in both research and clinical settings. Three lectures, one lab per week. Prereqs., PSYC1001, 3101, and 3313 or 4303. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite classes of PSYC 1001, PSYC 3101, and either PSYC 3313 or 4303. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4456 (3) Psychology of Personality

Offers a psychological study of structure, organization, and development of the person as a whole. Analysis of major theories, methods, and research, including topics such as emotion, motivation, temperament, inner experience, identity and the self, personality change, and the influence of sociocultural context.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology Social

PSYC-4511 (3) History of Psychology

Includes outline of development of psychological theories since the Greek philosophers, the story of experimental psychology and its problems, and schools of psychological thinking. Students read original sources in English and English translations.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology General

PSYC-4521 (3) Critical Thinking in Psychology

Allows students to expand their powers as they think about psychological problems, or about how psychological knowledge and techniques can be applied to pressing political, economic, biological, quantitative, and social issues. Encourages intellectual discipline and critical thinking about concepts and ideas; enables students to participate in oral and written discussion. May not be repeated, only 3 credit hours allowed. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 87-180 credits (Senior, Fifth Year Senior) Psychology (PSCY)majors only.

PSYC-4541 (3) Special Topics in Psychology

Studies and analyzes special interest topics from the broad and diversified field of psychology. Particular section content is determined by instructor. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours, provided the topics vary. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only. Same as PSYC 5541. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4543 (3) Clinical Neuropsychological Disorders

Neuropsychological disorders are behavioral and cognitive expressions of underlying brain diseases or injury. The course will provide in-depth coverage from clinical perspectives of wide range of disorders caused by stroke, traumatic brain injury, degenerative diseases, and inflammatory diseases. Students will learn the various neurologic, neuroimaging and neuropsychological methods for assessing and diagnosing these disorders and will review specific illustrative cases. Recommended prereqs., PSYC 3313 or 4303. Restricted to sophomores/juniors/seniors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

NRSC-4545 (3) Neurobiology of Addiction

Covers an intensive survey and synthesis of recent findings contributing to our understanding of the neurobiological basis of addiction. Analysis of both drug and behavioral addictions will be made at the molecular, cellular and neurocircuitry levels and synthesized into models utilizing common themes between various addictions and contributing pathologies. Prereq., PSYC 4132 or NRSC 4132. NRSC 4545 and 5545 are the same course. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of PSYC 4132 & NRSC 4132 with grade of C- or better.

PSYC-4553 (3) Women's Mental Health: A Biopsychosocial Approach

Examines women's mental health risks as they occur over the life span, from adolescence through menopause, and helps students develop a multi-dimensional understanding of factors contributing to the higher prevalence of women's mental health disorders, including social, neurobiological, cultural, developmental, reproductive, behavioral, cognitive and emotional factors. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only. Prereqs., PSYC 3313 or 4303. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology Clinical

PSYC-4560 (3) Language Development

Examines the development of language in childhood and into adult life, emphasizing the role of environment and biological endowment in learning to communicate with words, sentences, and narratives. Restricted to Psychology majors only. Prereqs. or coreqs., PSYC 1001 and LING 2000. Same as LING 4560 and SLHS 4560. Prerequisites: Restricted to Psychology majors only.

PSYC-4606 (3) Advanced Topics in Social Psychology

In-depth study of selected topics in social psychology. Particular section content each semester is determined by the instructor. May be repeated for a maximum of 6 credit hours, provided the topics vary. Prereqs., PSYC 1001, 2606 and 3101. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4684 (3) Developmental Psychology

In-depth consideration of human developmental processes across the life span. Includes coverage of the major topics in human development, such as physical, cognitive, social, and personality development. Prereq., PSYC 1001.

PSYC-4713 (3) Survey of Clinical Psychology

Covers theories and practices relating to problems of ability and maladjustment. Diagnostic procedures and treatment methods with children and adults. Prereq., PSYC 3313 or 4303. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

PSYC-4733 (4) Psychological Testing and Assessment

Provides an overview of issues central to testing and assessment of psychological constructs, including types of evaluation instruments currently in use in the field, their applications, and design. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of PSYC 1001 & PSYC 3101 with grade of C- or better.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology | Clinical

PSYC-4740 (3) Biology of Amphibians and Reptiles

Focuses on comparative morphology, taxonomy, ecology, behavior, and geographic distribution of amphibians and reptiles. Prereqs., EBIO 1210, 1220, 1230, and 1240; or PSYC 1001, 2012. Same as PSYC 5740 and EBIO 4740.

NRSC-4841 (1-3) Independent Study in Neuroscience

May be repeated up to 8 total credit hours. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Neuroscience (NRSC) majors only. Pass/Fail only. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Neuroscience (NRSC) majors only.

PSYC-4841 (1-6) Independent Study (Upper Division)

Pass/fail only. May be repeated up to 8 total credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Psychology (PSYC) majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology General

NRSC-4911 (3) Teaching of Neuroscience

This course offers a rich experience for students to develop and organize curriculum to complement the Neuroscience core courses. This course offers a valuable teaching experience utilizing computational modeling to simulate experimental results. Any Neuroscience curriculum course, such as Intro to Neuroscience I or II, Neuropharmacology, Neurobiology of Learning and Memory or Behavioral Neuroscience may be appropriate with instructor consent. NRSC 4911 and 5911 are the same course.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology

PSYC-4911 (3) Teaching of Psychology

Students receive concrete experience in teaching general psychology under supervision of a psychology faculty member. Alternative pedagogical strategies are discussed. Students must submit an application to the undergraduate advising center.

PSYC-4931 (3) Field Placement Internship

Offers valuable volunteer experience through a supervised field placement. Provides hands-on insight into the decisions and issues that confront professionals in psychology and related fields. Prereqs., completion of 15 or more hours of psychology course work. Restricted to psychology majors. Prerequisites: Restricted to Psychology majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology General

NRSC-5015 (3) Affective Neuroscience

Experiencing and learning from affect--emotional value--is a fundamental part of the human experience. When people started thinking of brains as computers, research on emotion fell by the wayside. Recently however, this has changed, and there is an explosion of work on the brain mechanisms of affective value. We will cover recent advances in understanding the emotional brain. Prereqs. for NRSC 4015 are PSYC 2012 or NRSC 2100 or instructor permission, and junior or senior standing. NRSC 4015 and 5015 are the same course. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences Psychology

NRSC-5032 (3) Neurobiology of Learning and Memory

Same as NRSC 4032. Formerly PSYC 5032 Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

NRSC-5052 (4) Behavioral Neuroscience

PSYC 5052 and NRSC 5052 are the same course. Same as PSYC/NRSC 4052. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5082 (2-3) Seminar: Biological Psychology

Special topics concerning biological bases of behavior. Prereqs., PSYC 4052 and instructor consent.

NRSC-5092 (4) Behavioral Neuroendocrinology

Same as NRSC 4092. Formerly PSYC 5092. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology

NRSC-5100 (2-5) Introduction to Neuroscience I

Provides an intensive introduction to the principles of neuroscience, initially covering the detailed neuroanatomy of human forebrain, hindbrain, and spinal cord. This is followed by neurophysiology with a concentration on the electrophysiology of neural systems. The basics of neuroanatomy and neurophysiology with a concentration on the electrophysiology are then applied to an examination of the structure and function of visual, auditory, and sensorimotor systems in animal and man. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5102 (2) Behavioral Genetics

Instructor consent required. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology | Biological

NRSC-5110 (3) Introduction to Neuroscience II

Provides an intensive interdisciplinary introduction to the principles of neuroscience. It is a sequel to NRSC 5100. Provides a detailed overview of neurochemistry, neurodevelopment, neuromotor control, neurogenetics, and cognitive neuroscience. Prereq., NRSC 5100.

PSYC-5112 (3) Concepts in Behavioral Genetics

Examines selected topics in greater detail than is possible in the comprehensive undergraduate course in behavioral genetics (PSYC 3102). Topics covered may include inheritance of behavioral characteristics from perspectives of pharmacogenetics, transmission genetics, biochemical genetics, and evolutionary genetics. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Instructor consent required.

PSYC-5122 (3) Quantitative Genetics

Surveys principles of genetics of quantitative characteristics. Topics include gene frequencies, effects of mutation, migration, and selection. Also looks at correlations among relatives, heritability, inbreeding, crossbreeding, and selective breeding.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology | Biological

NRSC-5132 (3) Neuropharmacology

May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Formerly PSYC 5132. Same as NRSC 4132. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5200 (3) Physiological Genetics and Genomics

Introduces genetic and genomic concepts as they apply to mammalian physiology. The course covers fundamental concepts and methods in molecular genetics and genomics and their applications towards understanding the role of genetics in the normal and pathological function of physiological systems. Same as IPHY 5200.

PSYC-5232 (2) Molecular Genetics and Physiology

Covers fundamental mechanisms of gene action, including genome structure and regulation of gene expression. Discusses molecular techniques used to examine human genetic diseases. Emphasizes genetic diseases with behavioral, neurologic, and physiologic abnormalities. Prereq., IPHY/PSYC 5200 or instructor consent. Same as IPHY 5232.

Analysis of both drug and behavioral addictions will be made at the molecular, cellular and neurocircuitry levels and synthesized into models utilizing common themes between various addictions and contributing pathologies. Prereq., PSYC 4132 or NRSC 4132. NRSC 4545 and 5545 are the same course. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5606 (3) Proseminar: Social-Personality Psychology

Provides a thorough introduction to methods and theories in social psychology concerned with topics such as the self, social cognition, judgment and decision making, attitude formation and change, small group processes, inter-group relations, health and social psychology, and others. May be repeated up to 12 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5665 (2) Proseminar: Advanced Experimental Psychology

Provides an advanced and intensive survey to topics in experimental psychology. General areas are higher-level cognition, attention, and learning and memory. Meets seven weeks in the term. May be repeated up to 4 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5685 (2) Proseminar: Advanced Experimental Psychology

Provides an advanced and intensive survey of topics in experimental psychology. General areas are research methods in cognitive psychology, and low-level perception. Meets seven weeks in the term. May be repeated up to 4 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5695 (2) Proseminar: Memory

Provides beginning Ph.D. students with a basic introduction to (primarily human) memory research. This is one of the six Cognitive Psychology Proseminar modules that all students in the Cognitive Psychology Ph.D. program are required to take. The seminar will include consideration of theoretical, behavioral, and cognitive neuroscience perspectives on memory. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Psychology | Experimental

PSYC-5740 (3) Biology of Amphibians and Reptiles

Same as PSYC 4740, EBIO 5740.

PSYC-5741 (4) General Statistics

Surveys probability and statistics in psychology. Instructor consent required. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5751 (4) General Statistics

Continuation of PSYC 5741. Instructor consent required. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5761 (3) Structural Equation Modeling

Provides training in the use of structural equation modeling, a class of analytic techniques that include the estimation of unobserved, or latent, constructs and an estimation of relationships among latent constructs. Prereqs., PSYC 5741 and 5751. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5815 (2) Proseminar: Advanced Experimental Psychology

Provides an advanced and intensive survey of topics in experimental psychology. General areas are language and high-level thinking. Meets seven weeks in the term. May be repeated up to 4 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent.

PSYC-5825 (2) Proseminar: Executive Function

Provides beginning Ph.D. students with basic introduction to research on executive functions -- a set of general-purpose control processes regulate one's thoughts and behaviors. This is one of the six Cognitive Psychology Proseminar modules that all students in the Cognitive Psychology Ph.D. program are required to take. The seminar will include consideration of theoretical, behavioral, and cognitive neuroscience perspectives on executive function. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-5835 (2) Proseminar: Thinking

Provides beginning Ph.D. students with a basic introduction to research on complex human cognition. This is one of the six Cognitive Psychology Proseminar modules that all students in the Cognitive Psychology Ph.D. program are required to take. The seminar will include consideration of theoretical, behavioral, and cognitive neuroscience perspectives. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-7215 (3) Seminar: Experimental Psychology

Advanced seminar dealing with different specialized topics, at the discretion of the instructor, in different years. Topics chosen are within the broad range of experimental psychology. Instructor consent required. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PSYC-7291 (3) Multivariate Analysis

Familiarizes students with scientific concepts, matrix theory, and computer techniques of multivariate analyses for psychological research. Topics include cluster and factor analysis, multiple regression, and discriminant functions. Emphasizes research technology rather than mathematical theory. Instructor consent required.

PSYC-7315 (2) Advanced Research Seminar on Human Memory

Addresses topics in the experimental psychology of human memory. Content varies from semester to semester, depending on interests of faculty and students. A sample topic is the long-term retention of skills. Prereq., graduate standing in psychology or related disciplines.

MATH-1005 (3) Introduction to College Mathematics

Introductory level mathematics course which presents a college level introduction to algebraic functions and their applications. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1011. Course is only offered through the Student Academic Service Center. Meets MAPS requirement for mathematics.

College of Arts & Sciences | Mathematics

MATH-1011 (3) Fundamentals and Techniques of College Algebra

Covers simplifying algebraic expressions, factoring linear and quadratic equations, inequalities, exponentials, logarithms, functions, and graphs, and systems of equations. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1005 or 1150. Prereq., one year high school algebra. Meets MAPS requirement for mathematics. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

MATH-1012 (3) Quantitative Reasoning and Mathematical Skills

Promotes mathematical literacy among liberal arts students. Teaches basic mathematics, logic, and problem-solving skills in the context of higher level mathematics, science, technology, and/or society. This is not a traditional math class, but is designed to stimulate interest in and appreciation of mathematics and quantitative reasoning as valuable tools for comprehending the world in which we live. Credit not granted for this course and QRMS 1010. Approved for GT-MA1. Meets MAPS requirement for mathematics. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

MATH-1021 (2) Numerical and Analytical College Trigonometry

Covers trigonometric functions, identities, solutions of triangles, addition and multiple angle formulas, inverse and trigonometric functions, and laws of sines and cosines. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1150, 1030 or 1040. Prereqs., MATH 1011 or 1020 or 1 1/2 years of high school algebra and 1 year of high school geometry.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-1071 (3) Finite Mathematics for Social Science and Business

Discusses systems of linear equations and introduces matrices, linear programming, and probability. Prereq., MATH 1011 or 1 1/2 years of high school algebra. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1050, 1060 and 1070. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-1081 (3) Calculus for Social Science and Business

Covers differential and integral calculus of algebraic, logarithmic, and exponential functions. Prereq., MATH 1011, 1071, 1010, or 1070 or placement exam score for MATH 1020 or two years high school algebra. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1080, 1090, 1100, 1300, 1310, APPM 1350, and ECON 1088. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-1110 (3) The Spirit and Uses of Mathematics 1

For prospective elementary teachers. Includes a study of problem-solving techniques in mathematics, the uses and role of mathematics in our society, and the structure of our familiar number systems. Additional topics are chosen from number theory, ancient numeration systems, computer sciences, modern geometry and algebra and elementary logic. Prereq., one year of high school algebra and one year of plane geometry. The combination MATH 1110 and 1120 is approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-1120 (3) The Spirit and Uses of Mathematics 2

Continuation of MATH 1110. Prereq., one year of high school algebra and one year of plane geometry. The combination MATH 1110 and 1120 is approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-1130 (3) Mathematics from the Visual Arts

Introduces mathematical concepts through the study of visual arts. Credit not granted for this course and QRMS 1130. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

MATH-1150 (4) Precalculus Mathematics

Develops techniques and concepts prerequisite to calculus through the study of trigonometric, exponential, logarithmic, polynomial, and other functions. Prereq., one and a half years of high school algebra. Students having credit for college algebra and trigonometry may not receive additional credit for MATH 1150. Students with credit for college algebra receive only 2 additional hours of credit for MATH 1150. Similar to MATH 1000, 1010, 1020, 1011, 1021, 1030, and 1040. Approved for GT-MA1. Meets MAPS requirement for mathematics. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

MATH-1300 (5) Calculus 1

Topics include limits, derivatives of algebraic and trigonometric functions, applications of the derivative, integration and application of the definite integral. Prereqs., two years high school algebra, one year geometry, and 1/2 year trigonometry or MATH 1150. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1081, 1310, APPM 1345, 1350, and ECON 1088. Similar to MATH 1080, 1090, and 1100. Approved for GT-MA1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-1310 (5) Calculus, Stochastics, and Modeling

Calculus, probability, statistics, and discrete and continuous modeling are central to understanding the behavior of complex systems, ranging from gene networks and cells to brains and ecosystems. This course is similar to MATH 1300, but a greater emphasis is placed on relevance and applications to complex systems. Especially recommended for biology majors. Prereq., 2 years high school algebra, 1 year geometry, and 1/2 year trigonometry, or MATH 1150. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1080, 1081, 1090, 1100, 1300, APPM 1350, or ECON 1088. Approved for GT-MA1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

MATH-1410 (3) Mathematics for Secondary Educators

Assists students in meeting state mathematics certification requirements. Topics include problem solving, number systems, geometry and measurement, probability and statistics. Enrollment is restricted to students already admitted to or intending to apply for admission to the secondary teacher education program. Prereqs., one year high school algebra, one year geometry. Approved for GT-MA1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills. Prerequisites: Restricted to PRED, EDEL, EDEN, EDSS, EDSC, EDMU, EDSP, EDFR, EDGR, EDIT, EDJP or EDLT Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-2001 (3) Introduction to Discrete Mathematics

Introduces the ideas of rigor and proof through an examination of basic set theory, quantification theory, elementary counting, discrete probability, and additional topics. Prereq., MATH 1300 or APPM 1350.

MATH-2300 (5) Calculus 2

Continuation of MATH 1300. Topics include transcendental functions, methods of integration, polar coordinates, differential equations, improper integrals, infinite sequences and series, Taylor polynomials and Taylor series. Prereq., MATH 1300. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1320 or APPM 1360.

MATH-2380 (3) Mathematics for the Environment

An interdisciplinary course where analysis of real phenomena such as acid rain, population growth, and road-killed rabbits in Nevada leads to consideration of various fundamental concepts in mathematics. One-third of the course consists of individual projects chosen by students. Prereq., proficiency in high school mathematics. Credit not granted for this course and QRMS 2380. Approved for GT-MA1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-2400 (4) Calculus 3

Continuation of MATH 2300. Topics include vectors, three-dimensional analytic geometry, partial differentiation and multiple integrals, and vector analysis. Prereq., MATH 2300. Credit not granted for this course and APPM 2350.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-2510 (3) Introduction to Statistics

Elementary statistical measures. Introduces statistical distributions, statistical inference, and hypothesis testing. Prereq., two years of high school algebra. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 4520/5520 or MATH 3510.

MATH-3001 (3) Analysis 1

Provides a rigorous treatment of the basic results from elementary Calculus. Topics include the topology of the real line, sequences of numbers, continuous functions, differentiable functions, and the Riemann integral. Prereq., MATH 2001.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-3110 (3) Introduction to Theory of Numbers

Studies the set of integers, focusing on divisibility, congruences, arithmetic functions, sums of squares, quadratic residues and reciprocity, and elementary results on distributions of primes. Prereq., MATH 2001. Offered each spring.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-3120 (3) Functions and Modeling

Engages the students in lab-based activities designed to strengthen and expand knowledge of the topics in secondary mathematics, focusing especially on topics from Precalculus and Calculus. The labs will involve the use of multiple representations, transformations, data analysis techniques, and interconnections among geometry, probability and algebra. a recurrent theme will be building relationships between discrete and continuous reasoning. Prereqs., Calculus I, MATH 2001, or instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-3130 (3) Introduction to Linear Algebra

Examines basic properties of systems of linear equations, vector spaces, linear independence, dimension, linear transformations, matrices, determinants, eigenvalues, and eigenvectors. Prereq., MATH 2300 or APPM 1360. Credit not granted for this course and APPM 3310.

MATH-3140 (3) Abstract Algebra 1

Studies the elementary theory of groups, rings, fields, polynomials, group and ring homomorphisms, and isomorphisms. Prereq., MATH 2001 and 3130.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-3170 (3) Combinatorics 1

Covers basic methods and results in combinatorial theory. Includes numeration methods, elementary properties of functions and relations, and graph theory. Emphasizes applications. Prereq., MATH 2001.

College of Arts & Sciences Mathematics

MATH-3210 (3) Euclidean and Non-Euclidean Geometry

Axiomatic systems. Foundations of Euclidean and Lobachevskian geometries. Prereq., MATH 2001 and 3130.

WMST-2000 (3) Introduction to Feminist Studies

Introduces students to the field of Women & Gender Studies. Examines gender issues in the United States from interdisciplinary, multicultural, and feminist perspectives. Covers such topics as sexuality, beauty ideals, women's health, violence against women, work, the economy, peace and war, and the environment. Meets MAPS requirement for social science: general. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences | Womens Studies

WMST-2020 (3) Femininities, Masculinities, Alternatives

Examines contemporary experiences of people around the world as they negotiate dominant and subversive understandings of gendered identities. Focuses on the ways in which the material and discursive circumstances of people's lives shape their opportunities for resistance and creative construction. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences | Womens Studies

WMST-2030 (3) Introduction to Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Studies

Same as LGBT 2000. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

WMST-2050 (3) Gender, Sexuality, and Popular Culture

Explores diverse cultural forms such as film, popular fiction and non-fiction, music videos, public art, websites, blogs and zines which are shaped by, and in turn shape popular understandings of gender at the intersections of race, class, ability, religion, nation, and imperialism. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

Same as CLAS 2110. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences | Womens Studies | Classics

WMST-2200 (3) Women, Literature, and the Arts

Introduces the contributions of women to literature and the performing arts from a historical and cross-cultural perspective. Emphasizes the cultural contexts in which artworks are created, as well as representations of gender and sexuality. Stresses issues of structure, content, and style, along with the acquisition of basic techniques of literary and arts criticism. Prereq., WMST 2000. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity or literature and the arts.

WMST-2290 (3) Philosophy and Women

Same as PHIL 2290. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences | Womens Studies | Philosophy

WMST-2400 (3) Women of Color and Activism

Studies the history of social activism in the United States by women of color, with an emphasis on modes of social activism, issues that have organized specific communities of color, issues that have crossed ethnic/racial boundaries, and the interaction of women from different ethnic/racial groups, including women of color and white women. Recommended prereq., WMST 2000 or 2600. Same as HIST 2636. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: United States context.

WMST-2600 (3) Gender, Race, and Class in a Global Context

Examines the positionality of women in terms of gender, race, ethnicity, class, and power relations in a global context. Approved for GT-SS3. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies.

WMST-2700 (3) Psychology of Contemporary American Women

Surveys psychological theory and research concerning contemporary American women. Deals with such issues as masculine bias in American culture, sex difference in cognitive functioning and personality, psychological conflict for women between career and home, and, finally, specific areas pertaining to women's mental health. Prereq., WMST 2000 or PSYC 1001. Same as PSYC 2700. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

Same as SOCY 3046.

WMST-3090 (3) Critical Thinking in Feminist Studies

Analyzes the concepts, ideas, arguments, and assumptions that inform major texts in feminist theory through close reading, class discussion, and writing papers. Emphasizes developing reading and writing skills to interpret theoretical arguments. Prereq., WMST 2000 and junior or senior standing. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

WMST-3100 (3) Feminist Theories

Explores a variety of alternative systematic accounts of, and explanations for, gender inequities. Social norms of both masculinity and femininity are analyzed in relation to other axes of inequality such as class, sexuality, race/ethnicity, neocolonialism, and the domination of nonhuman nature. Prereq., WMST 2000. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

WMST-3110 (3) Feminist Practical Ethics

Explores a variety of personal and public policy issues in light of basic feminist commitment to opposing women's subordination. Provides students not only with a deeper understanding of the specific issues discussed but also with a sense of the ways in which a principled commitment to feminism may influence and be influenced by prevailing interpretations of contemporary ideals and values (such as freedom, equality, and community). Provides an opportunity to develop skills of critical analysis useful in a wide range of contexts. Prereq., WMST 2000 or 2290, and junior or senior standing. Same as PHIL 3110. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

WMST-3135 (3) Chicana Feminisms and Knowledges

Provides insight into the present socioeconomic condition of Chicanas and the concept of feminismo through interdisciplinary study of history, sociology, literary images, and film portrayals. Prereq., ETHN 2001 or 2536 or equivalent. Same as ETHN 3136. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

The second semester of a French third-year level composition course. Students build on their previous knowledge of formal writing in French and more emphasis is given to argumentative and analytical style of writing in FREN 3060. Prereq., FREN 3050 or equivalent. Required for French majors.

College of Arts & Sciences French & Italian French

FREN-3100 (3) Introduction to Critical Reading and Writing in French Literature

Study of French literature through close readings of representative examples of major literary forms (poetry, fiction, drama, essay) and through the composition of critical writings in French. Required for French majors. Prereq., FREN 3060. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

FREN-3110 (3) Main Currents of French Literature 1

Surveys French literature from the Middle Ages through the 18th century. Students are expected to acquire a fairly detailed knowledge of principal writers and schools of the periods covered. Required for majors. Prereq., FREN 3100. May be taken with FREN 3120. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

FREN-3120 (3) Main Currents of French Literature 2

Surveys 19th and 20th century French literature. Close reading of selected texts of the principal writers and schools. Required for majors. Prereq., FREN 3100. May be taken before, after, or with FREN 3110. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

College of Arts & Sciences French & Italian French

FREN-3200 (3) Introduction to Literary Theory and Advanced Critical Analysis

Introduces important aspects of both classical and modern literary theory as an aid to reading and understanding literary texts. Covers theoretical works by figures ranging from Plato and Aristotle to modern French critics such as Barthes, Foucault, and Derrida in conjunction with selected literary works. Offers students more sophisticated means of understanding issues like gender, ethnicity, the roles of both author and reader in constructing meaning, the nature and functions of signs, and the relationship between literature and the larger society. Conducted in English, though French majors are required to read the texts in the original language. Required for students taking honors in French or Italian. Prereq., FREN 3100 or instructor consent. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: literature and the arts.

College of Arts & Sciences French & Italian French

FREN-3500 (3) French Current Events: Conversation and Composition

For students who have spent fewer than four months in a French-speaking environment. Focuses on presentations, debates, discussions, readings, and written work. Prereq., FREN 3060 or equivalent.

FRSI-1010 (5) Beginning Farsi I

Provides a grounding in basic Persian Farsi grammar. The morphological and phonological nuances of the language will be introduced, along with Persian culture. Basic conversation is re-enforced on a daily basis with strong emphasis and reiteration upon the homework and covered grammar.

College of Arts & Sciences Asian Languages & Civilizations Farsi

FRSI-1011 (3) Introduction to Persian Civilization

An introduction to the history, literature and art of Iranian (Persian) civilization with a focus on the social and cultural aspects of contemporary Iran. Taught in English.

College of Arts & Sciences Asian Languages & Civilizations Farsi

FRSI-1020 (5) Beginning Farsi II

Continuation of FRSI 1010. Completes the presentation of basic structures of Farsi. Continued acquisition of vocabulary and practice of speaking, listening, reading, and writing. Class conducted largely in Farsi. The second half of the course will introduce authentic texts of Persian prose literature. Some poetry may be included. Prereq., FRSI 1010 (min. grade C) or instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences Asian Languages & Civilizations Farsi

FRSI-2110 (4) Intermediate Farsi I

Provides an intensive introduction to cultural and literary texts of Iran, along with an introduction of the grammatical and rhetorical complexities of Persian prose and poetry. Students continue to develop speaking, listening, and writing skills through activities based on the readings. Prereq., FRSI 1020 (min. grade C) or instructor consent. Meets MAPS requirement: foreign language. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: foreign language. Formerly FRSI 2010.

College of Arts & Sciences Asian Languages & Civilizations Farsi

FRSI-2120 (4) Intermediate Farsi II

Continuation of FRSI 2110. Incorporates more readings in Persian literature, both poetry and prose, and cultural readings. Students continue developing speaking, listening and writing skills based on the readings. Prereq., FRSI 2110 (min. grade C) or instructor consent. Formerly FRSI 2020.

College of Arts & Sciences Asian Languages & Civilizations Farsi

FRSI-3110 (3) Advanced Farsi I

An intensive introduction to both Persian philology and the contemporary novel. Textual analysis of texts ranging from complex to very complex will enable the students to gain a strong grounding in Persian literary texts. Students continue developing speaking, listening, and writing skills through activities based on the readings. Prereq., FRSI 2020 (min. grade C) or instructor consent. Formerly FRSI 3010.

College of Arts & Sciences Asian Languages & Civilizations Farsi

FRSI-3120 (3) Advanced Farsi II

This course is the continuation of Farsi 3110. The focus will be on textual analysis and discussion of authentic texts in a wide variety of genres and a wide range of topics. Students continue developing speaking and listening skills through activities based on the readings and develop the ability to write short papers (3-5 pages) in Farsi. Prereq., FRSI 3110 (min. grade C) or instructor consent. Formerly FRSI 3120.

GEOL-1010 (3) Introduction to Geology

Introductory geology for majors and nonmajors. Studies Earth, its materials, its characteristics, its dynamic processes, and how it relates to people. Separate lab (GEOL 1030) is optional. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science: nonlab. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-1020 (3) Introduction to Earth History

Examines how Earth's interior and surface, the atmosphere and climate, the oceans, and life interact and have changed over the immensity of geologic time. For majors and non-majors. Separate lab (GEOL 1030) is optional. Prereq., GEOL 1010. Credit not granted for this course and GEOL 1040. Approved for GT-SC2. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-1030 (1) Introduction to Geology Laboratory 1

Features field trips to local points of geologic interest. Studies rocks and topographic and geologic maps. Prior or current registration in 1000-level geology recommended. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirements for natural science lab, if taken with GEOL 1010. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Formerly GEOL 1080.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-1040 (3) Geology of Colorado

Reviews the geologic evolution and history of Colorado. It first develops the basic concepts needed to interpret the geology, and then systematically shows how the state evolved through geologic time. The course is designed for those who enjoy understanding the beauty and splendor of the state. Prereq., GEOL 1010. Credit not granted for this course and GEOL 1020. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-1060 (3) Global Change---An Earth Science Perspective

Focuses on evidence for planetary warming, climate change, glacier and ice-sheet melting, and sea level rise both now and in the recent past. Attempts to develop understanding of the interactions within the coupled Earth system that regulate such changes. Utilizes examples from the geological and instrumental records, and evaluates the global warming forecast. Prereq., GEOL 1010. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science: nonlab. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

GEOL-2001 (4) Planet Earth

Explores the dynamics of planet Earth with particular emphasis on the factors that make the planet habitable. Includes examination of heat balance, hydrology, geomorphology, biogeochemistry and climate history through both lecture and lab-based activities. The course is required for the Environmental Geoscience track within the Geology major and will introduce students to the major concepts in contemporary Earth system science. Prereqs., GEOL 1010, 2100 or ENVS 1000 or instructor consent required.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-2040 (3) The Search for Life in the Universe

Introduces the scientific basis for the possible existence of life elsewhere in the universe. Includes origin and evolution of life on Earth and the search for evidence of life in our solar system, especially Mars and Jupiter's moon Europa. Discusses the conditions necessary for life and whether they might arise on planets around other stars. Same as ASTR 2040. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-2100 (3) Environmental Geology

Introduces the influences of geologic processes on human lives and the changes human actions cause in geologic systems. Uses examples and case studies from Colorado and the West. Approved for the arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-2700 (2) Introduction to Field Geology

Introduces basic field techniques necessary to collect geologic data and samples, and necessary to map geologic units. Prereqs., GEOL 1030 and either GEOL 1010 and 1020; or GEOL

1010 and 1040; or GEOL 1010 and 1060; or GEOG 1001 and 1011.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3010 (3) Introduction to Mineralogy

Two lects. and one lab per week. Origin, occurrence, identification, classification, and uses of minerals. Applications of mineralogy to economic geology and petrology are emphasized. Prereq., Chem 1111 and Math 1300.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3020 (3) Petrology

Field relations, petrography, petrology, chemistry, and origins of igneous and metamorphic rocks are studied by means of lectures, reading, and lab and field experience. Labs include instruction in the fundamentals of optical petrography and the study of rocks in thin section. Prereq., GEOL 3010.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3023 (4) Statistics for Geography

Introduces parametric and distribution-free statistics, emphasizing applications to earth science problems. Same as GEOG 3023.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3030 (3) Introduction to Hydrogeology

Introduces groundwater flow concepts, hydrologic cycle, physical and chemical properties, flow net, hydraulic potential, geologic controls on heterogeneity and anisotropy, aquifers and aquitards in a geologic system, saturated and unsaturated flow, flow to a well, pumping tests, and role of groundwater in geologic processes. Prereqs., GEOL 1010 or 2001, and MATH 1300; or instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3040 (3) Global Change: The Recent Geological Record

Geological records in lakes, oceans, deserts, and around glaciers indicate the significant changes in the global systems that have taken place over the last few hundred or thousand years. Explores the timing and nature of these changes. Prereqs., any two-course sequence of natural science core courses. Credit not granted for this course and GEOL 4070. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3050 (2) GIS for Geologists

Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (GIS) techniques focused on geological applications. GIS analyzing, mapping, and GPS use are covered. Basic computer skills are a plus before entering the class.

College of Arts & Sciences | Geological Sciences

GEOL-3070 (3) Introduction to Oceanography

Investigates the broad-scale features and dynamics of Earth's oceans. The course is roughly divided amongst the four major, interrelated disciplines of oceanography: marine geology, marine chemistry, physical oceanography (i.e. circulation), and marine biology. Specific topics include seafloor spreading, marine sediments, salinity, biogeochemical cycles, currents, waves, tides, primary production, marine ecology, marine resources, global warming, and much more. Prereq., any two-course sequence of natural science courses. Same as ATOC 3070. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

GEOL-3090 (3) Developing Scientific Writing Skills

Focuses on the development of scientific writing skills. Enhances student ability to write professionally, revise text, and review the work of others. Writing assignments integrate the subject matter of different topics in earth science. Prereq., a lower division writing course and one of the following: GEOL 2001, 2700, 3010, 3030, 3120, 3230, 3320, 3430, or 3820. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: written communication.

GEOL-3120 (4) Structural Geology

Geometrical techniques for describing and illustrating geological structures. Major topics include graphic methods and geometry of fractures and folds. Prereqs., any 1000-level sequence in geological sciences.

GEOL-3130 (3) Global Warming: Understanding the Forecast

Uses the example of man-made climate change to develop an analytical understanding of the Earth system (solid, fluid, and living) that can be used to interpret the complex and uncertain forecast. Emphasis is given to the concepts of forcing, feedback and response in order to examine natural vs. man-made environmental changes and climate change mitigation strategies.

GEOL-3230 (3) Earth Materials

Provides introduction to the classification, composition and properties of Earth rocks and minerals, with emphasis on near surface Earth materials. Two lectures and one lab per week. Labs include instruction on optical mineralogy and on the study of rocks in thin section. Prereqs., CHEM 1111 and MATH 1300.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3300 (3) Extraterrestrial Life

Discusses the scientific basis for the possible existence of extraterrestrial life. Includes origin and evolution of life on Earth; possibility of life elsewhere in the solar system, including Mars; and the possibility of life on planets around other stars. Prereq., one-year sequence in a natural science. Same as ASTR 3300.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3320 (3) Introduction to Geochemistry

Introduces chemical principles as applied to geologic processes. Includes an introductory discussion of mineral and rock chemistry, aqueous geochemistry, and organic geochemistry. Prereqs., CHEM 1111, CHEM 1133, and MATH 1300.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3410 (3) Paleobiology

Surveys morphology, ecology, and evolution of ancient animal and plant life and their interactions on Earth. Fossils used to solve geological and biological problems. Prereqs., any 1000-level sequence in geological science or environmental, population, and organismic biology or instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3430 (4) Sedimentology and Stratigraphy

Introduces the study of sedimentary rocks emphasizing their origin, characteristics, and interpretation; and the principles and techniques for establishing the temporal order and spatial distribution of sedimentary layers. Prereq., GEOL 1010 and GEOL 1020 or 1040, and GEOL 1030, and GEOL 2700 or 3010, or instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences Geological Sciences

GEOL-3500 (3) Earth Resources and the Environment

Examines Earth's most important natural resources and their impact on society and the environment. Addresses the geology, occurrence, production, and use of petroleum, coal, mineral, and water resources. Future world energy supply and demand, conservation, and the transition from fossil fuels to non-polluting renewable resources are discussed. Prereq., GEOL 1010 or 1060. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

GRMN-1030 (5) Intensive Beginning German

Covers the same material as GRMN 1010 and GRMN 1020 in one course. Focuses on acquiring ability to understand and speak everyday German; on developing reading and writing skills; and on learning about the cultures of the German-speaking countries. Credit not granted for this course and GRMN 1010 and GRMN 1020.

College of Arts & Sciences | Germanic & Slavic Languages & Literature | German

HEBR-1030 (3) Biblical Hebrew 1

This course is designed to enable students to read the Hebrew Bible in the original language. The focus will be the ability to read the various genres of the text, utilizing both the tools of modern language acquisition and the study of classical grammar methods. Same as JWST 1030.

College of Arts & Sciences | Germanic & Slavic Languages & Literature | Hebrew

HEBR-1040 (3) Biblical Hebrew 2

Building on HEBR/JWST 1030, this course continues to build expertise in reading the Hebrew Bible. Modern language acquisition and classical grammar study methods equip students with the tools to translate and read the various genres of the Biblical material. Prereq., HEBR/JWST 1030 or instructor consent. HEBR 1040 and JWST 1040 are the same course.

RUSS-1050 (5) Intensive Beginning Russian

Covers same material as RUSS 1010 and RUSS 1020 combined in one course. Focuses on acquiring basic grammar (all cases for nouns, adjectives and possessives, verb conjugations, in all three tenses), and ability to understand and speak basic everyday Russian. Develops basic reading and writing skills and provides exposure to the fundamentals of the Russian culture. Credit not granted for this course and RUSS 1010 or 1020.

SLHS-1010 (3) Disabilities in Contemporary American Society

Addresses the issue that 50 percent of all individuals experience disability in their lifetime. Introduces students to the social, cultural, psychological, economic, political, legal, and health-care issues related to society and individuals with disabilities. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies or ideals and values.

College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department

SLHS-2000 (3) Introduction to Communication Disorders

Surveys communication disorders, including hearing impairments, learning disabilities, and speech-language disorders, as well as an introduction to basic speech and hearing science.

SLHS-2010 (3) Science of Human Communication

Discusses how human communication (the process by which a thought is transmitted from the brain of a speaker to the brain of a listener) involves a complex interaction of acoustics, anatomy, physiology, neurobiology, and psychology. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

SLHS-2305 (4) American Sign Language 1

Introduces basic sign vocabulary, grammatical structures of ASL, and the culture of deaf people. Classes are taught using ASL without the use of spoken English.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | American Sign Language |

SLHS-2315 (4) American Sign Language 2

Develops more complex vocabulary and grammatical structures, and an understanding of deaf culture. Classes are taught using ASL without the use of spoken English. Prereq., SLHS 2305 or equivalent.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | American Sign Language |

SLHS-2325 (4) American Sign Language 3

Continuation of SLHS 2315. Covers ASL literature, advanced grammatical structures, idiomatic expressions, and deaf culture. Prereq., SLHS 2315 or equivalent. Meets MAPS and core requirement for a foreign language.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | American Sign Language |

SLHS-3006 (3) Phonetics

Focuses on production of speech sounds, transcribing speech using the International Phonetic Alphabet, analyzing the acoustic properties of speech sounds, understanding how speech sounds vary depending on the context. Provides a foundation for understanding normal and atypical speech development, atypical speech problems and patterns, regional and foreign accents, and speech recognition by computers. Prereq., LING 2000.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: Speech-Hearing Sci |

SLHS-3106 (3) Hearing Science

Focuses on the three main aspects of the hearing process: Sounds in the environment (physical acoustics), sounds encoded within the auditory system (physiological acoustics), and perception of sound (psychological acoustics). Prereq., SLHS 2010.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: Speech-Hearing Sci |

SLHS-3116 (3) Speech Science

Provides a basic understanding of the structural organization (anatomy), function (physiology), and neural controls of the structures used to produce speech, swallowing, respiration, and related behaviors in humans. Prereq., SLHS 2010. Prereq. or Coreq., SLHS 3106.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: Speech-Hearing Sci |

SLHS-4000 (3) Multicultural Aspects of Communication Differences and Disorders

Examines perceptions and attitudes regarding differences in communication as a function of cultural-linguistic diversity. Discusses implications of differing verbal and nonverbal communication styles of various cultural groups in terms of professional responsibilities. Prereq., upper-division standing and a minimum of 60 credit hours. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|

SLHS-4100 (1-3) Special Topics in Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences

Studies selected topics in speech, language, hearing sciences, communication disorders, and other professional issues.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |

SLHS-4502 (3) Language Disorders: Child and Adult

Language disorders can result from problems with cognitive, linguistic, and/or discourse processing. The theoretical framework of language dysfunction is addressed while drawing upon real clinical examples of language disorders that have been observed in children and adults. Coreq., SLHS 4560.

| | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic:Speech-Lang Pathology |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------|

SLHS-4512 (3) Speech Disorders: Voice, Cleft Palate, Motor Disorders, Stuttering

Emphasizes stuttering, clefting, voice disorders, and motor disorders. Discusses research, evaluation, and treatment pertaining to each of these four disorder areas. Prereq., SLHS 2010.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic:Speech-Lang Pathology |

SLHS-4560 (3) Language Development

Covers the development of language in childhood and into adult life, emphasizing the role of environment and biological endowment in learning to communicate with words, sentences, and narratives. Restricted to Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences majors only. Same as LING 4560, PSYC 4560. Prerequisites: Restricted to Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences majors only.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|

SLHS-4704 (3) Audiological Evaluation

Studies basic principles and techniques of hearing evaluation, including pure-tone, speech, immittance, and advanced audiometry; hearing conservation in hospital, school, and industrial settings;

and identification and evaluation of auditory pathologies. Required projects in screening and pure-tone audiometry. Prereq., SLHS 3106. Prerequisites: Restricted to Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences majors only.

| | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|---------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: Audiology |

SLHS-4714 (3) Audiological Rehabilitation

Covers basic principles and techniques related to the habilitation and rehabilitation of individuals who are deaf or hard of hearing: amplification, speech, language, auditory, speech reading, and educational issues. Prereq. or coreq., SLHS 4704, and LING 3100 or SLHS 3006.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|---------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: Audiology |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|---------------------|

SLHS-4849 (1-4) Independent Study for Undergraduates

May be repeated up to 7 total credit hours. Prereq., departmental consent.

| | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|-------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Independent Study |

SLHS-4918 (2) Introduction to Clinical Practice

Introduces students to the clinical processes and key components of assessment and interventions. Explores the applications of the theoretical and scientific information to clinical settings. Students complete supervised observation of individuals with communication challenges. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences (SLHS) majors only.

| | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|----------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Practica |

SLHS-4938 (1-6) Internship: Speech-Language Intervention

Provides a supervised clinical experience with children who have communication challenges enrolled in the Child Learning Center programs; individuals demonstrating communication disorders as a cotherapist in the Speech, Language, and Hearing Center; or off-campus experience in an affiliated hospital or public school program. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|----------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Practica |

SLHS-5000 (2) SLHS Research Methods 1

Familiarizes students with basic methodologies and research designs employed in the field. Focuses on critical reading of research papers and design of experiments. At least one research project is conducted and written as part of the course requirements. May be repeated up to 4 total credit hours.

| | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |

SLHS-5006 (2) Applied Speech Science

Provides an advanced understanding of the acoustics, aerodynamics, and biomechanics of speech production and related non-speech behaviors. Emphasizes the integration of theoretical constructs in the speech sciences with applied clinical and basic research. Prereq., SLHS 3136 or equivalent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences (SLHS) or Audiology (AUDD) graduate students only.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: Speech-Hearing Sci |

SLHS-5032 (3) Competencies and Strategies for the SLPA

Includes roles and responsibilities for the Speech Language Pathology Assistant (SLPA) working in the public schools, service delivery models, health and safety, screening assistive technology, intervention and self reflection and evaluation. Prereq., SLHS 4918. Must be accepted in the SLPA certification program.

| | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic:Speech-Lang Pathology |

SLHS-5110 (2) Clinical Theory and Practice

Reviews models and theoretical perspectives regarding communication disorders with application to the clinical processes of assessment, intervention, counseling, and efficacy of intervention. Focuses on issues, challenges, and skills related to working with consumers of speech-language pathology and audiology services and their families, cultural competence, legal and ethical practices, teaming, and collaborative service delivery. Prereq., graduate standing. Prerequisites: Restricted to Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences (SLHS) or Audiology (AUDD) graduate students only.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|

SLHS-5120 (3) Foreign Language Learning in Students with Language Learning Disabilities

Introduces a foundational knowledge of language based learning and processing problems that impact foreign language learning in students with disabilities. Must be accepted into the MFL certificate program.

| | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|

SLHS-5130 (3) Curricular Accommodation Programs for Students with Foreign Language Learning Disabilities

Provides knowledge about the legal bases for student accommodations for MFL learning disabilities, the administrative procedures and policies surrounding accommodations, assessment, advising and related implementation issues. Must be accepted into the MFL certificate program.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|

SLHS-7000 (3) Research Designs in Human Communication Sciences and Disorders

Offers an advanced seminar in research designs for human behavior: efficacy, ethnographic, single-subject, quasi-experimental, and experimental designs. Designed to familiarize students with terminologies and research designs frequently used in speech-language-hearing areas. Prereq., basic statistics.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |

SLHS-7100 (3) Cognitive Bases of Human Communication and Its Disorders

Explores major cognitive theories related to language, including connectionism, information processing, and cognitive mechanisms of early lexical learning. Discusses data from children and adults. Prerequisites: Restricted to Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences (SLHS) or Audiology (AUDD) graduate students only.

| | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |

SLHS-7200 (3) Business, Management and Ethics in Audiology

Focuses on the business aspects of managing an audiology practice. Addresses developing a business plan, contracting for services, legal issues, financial reporting, budgeting, pricing, billing and reimbursement, regulatory issues, marketing, personnel management, risk abatement, and business ethics. Prereq., good standing in the SLHS graduate program or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences (SLHS) or Audiology (AUDD) graduate students only.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |

SLHS-7450 (3) Audiology Capstone Project

Provides an individualized project for AUD, completed prior to initiation of final clinical year. May be in the form of research-based investigation, an evidence-based position paper, a clinical protocol based on peer-reviewed literature, a grant proposal, or another format approved by AUD committee. Project requires approved proposal by AUD committee and focused study supervised by capstone advisor. Restricted to students enrolled in the AUD graduate program. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |

SLHS-7775 (1-2) Topics in Cognitive Science

Reading of interdisciplinary innovative theories and methodologies of cognitive science. Students participate in the ICS Distinguished Speakers series that hosts internationally recognized cognitive scientists who share and discuss their current research. Session discussions include analysis of leading edge and controversial new approaches in cognitive science. Restricted to students enrolled in ICS Cognitive Science Academic Programs. Same as LING 7775, CSCI 7772, EDUC 7775, PSYC 7775, and PHIL 7810. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| College of Arts & Sciences | Speech, Language, & Hearing Sciences | Didactic: All-Department |

SLHS-8990 (1-10) Doctoral Dissertation

All doctoral students must register for not fewer than 30 hours of dissertation credit as part of the requirements for the degree. For a detailed discussion of doctoral dissertation credit, refer to the Graduate School section. Prerequisites: Restricted to Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences (SLHS) or Audiology (AUDD) graduate students only.

Gives attention to the impact of secularization and to the religious elements found in aspects of secular life (e.g., politics, literature, education, and recreation). Approved for GT-SS3. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies.

College of Arts & Sciences Religious Studies

RLST-2500 (3) Religions in the United States

Explores the development of various religions within the shaping influences of American culture, including separation of church and state, the frontier experience, civil religion, and the interaction of religions of indigenous peoples, immigrants, and African Americans. Approved for GT-AH2. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: United States context or ideals and values.

College of Arts & Sciences Religious Studies

RLST-2600 (3) Judaism, Christianity, and Islam

Introduces literature, beliefs, practices, and institutions of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, in historical perspective. Same as JWST 2600. Approved for GT-AH3. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values.

College of Arts & Sciences Religious Studies

RLST-2610 (3) Religions of South Asia

Introduces the literature, beliefs, practices, and institutions of Hinduism, Buddhism, Jainism, and Sikhism, in historical perspective. Approved for GT-AH2. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values.

College of Arts & Sciences Religious Studies

RLST-2620 (3) Religions of East Asia

Introduces literature, beliefs, practices, and institutions of Taoism, Confucianism, Buddhism, and Shintoism in historical perspective. Approved for GT-AH3. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values.

RLST-2700 (3) American Indian Religious Traditions

Introduces religions of the peoples indigenous to the Americas. Concerns include ritual, mythology, and symbolism occurring throughout these cultures in such areas as art, architecture, cosmology, shamanism, sustenance modes, trade, and history. Same as ETHN 2703. Approved for GT-AH2. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values or human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences Religious Studies

RLST-2800 (3) Women and Religion

Examines roles of women in a variety of religious traditions including Judaism, Christianity, Hinduism, Buddhism, and goddess traditions. Same as WMST 2800. Approved for GT-AH2. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences Religious Studies

RLST-2840 (1-3) Independent Study

May be repeated up to 8 total credit hours.

RLST-3000 (3) Christian Traditions

Studies origins and development of various aspects of Christian tradition as expressed through scripture, theology, ritual, church order, ethics, and the arts. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences Religious Studies

RLST-3010 (3) Religion and the Senses

Expanding the five common senses so they are grounded on a more fundamental kinesthetic sense, that is, sense of movement, this course focuses on the study of religion and culture on all those marvelous richly and sensuously textured aspects of religious behavior: movement, experience, feeling, action, sensation, gesture, art, music, dancing, architecture, costume, food, and ritual.

RLST-3020 (3) Advanced Writing in Religious Studies

Seminar for religious studies majors that emphasizes the development of writing skills for use inside as well as outside the academy. Writing assignments are focused on one or more core topics in religious studies. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: written communication. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Religious Studies (RLST) majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Religious Studies

RLST-3050 (3) Religion and Literature in America

Studies religious dimensions of American culture through representative literature, beginning with the Puritans and focusing on diversity in the 19th and 20th centuries. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: United States context.

RLST-3100 (3) Judaism

Explores Jewish religious experience and its expression in thought, ritual, ethics, and social institutions. Same as JWST 3100. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences | Religious Studies

RLST-3200 (3) Hinduism

Studies literature, beliefs, practices, and institutions of Hinduism, in historical perspective.

College of Arts & Sciences | Religious Studies

RLST-3300 (3) Foundations of Buddhism

Introduction to Buddhist thought and practice in the variety of its historical and cultural contexts. The course begins with an exploration of narrative, cosmology, doctrine and ritual in early Buddhism and the Theravada of South and Southeast Asia. Through case studies, we then trace diverse conceptions of the Buddhist path in Tibet and East Asia where the Mahayana spread. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

RLST-3400 (3) Japanese Religions

Studies the literature, beliefs, practices, and institutions of Shinto, Buddhism, and Confucianism within the development of Japanese culture.

College of Arts & Sciences | Religious Studies

RLST-3600 (3) Islam

Introduces Islamic beliefs and practices through an examination of the Qur'an, Muhammad's life, ritual duties, law and theology, mysticism, and social institutions.

College of Arts & Sciences | Religious Studies

RLST-3750 (3) Women in Buddhism

Explores diverse representations of the female in Buddhist literature and the social realities of actual women in Asian historical contexts. Through case studies that traverse Buddhist Asia, we delve into monastic views of the female body, philosophical analyses of the emptiness of gender, idealized images of the feminine in Buddhist tantra, and contemporary issues such as the nun's revival moment. Same as WMST 3750.

College of Arts & Sciences | Religious Studies

RLST-3800 (3) Chinese Religions

Studies classical Confucianism, Taoism, Buddhism, and Neo-Confucianism within the historical context of Chinese culture.

TBTN-1010 (4) Beginning Colloquial Tibetan I

Provides a thorough introduction to colloquial forms of Tibetan. This course focuses on conversation practice, the acquisition of basic vocabulary and grammar in colloquial usage, learning the alphabet, and training in the skills of pronunciation, spelling and handwriting.

College of Arts & Sciences Asian Languages & Civilizations Tibetan

TBTN-1020 (4) Beginning Colloquial Tibetan II

Provides a thorough introduction to colloquial forms of Tibetan. This course continues the development of vocabulary and grammar begun in Tibetan I and expands the range of conversation topics. While students focus on oral and aural skills, they begin to learn to read and write modern Tibetan to produce an overall knowledge of the language. Prereq., TBTN 1010 (min. grade C) or instructor consent.

TBTN-2010 (4) Intermediate Colloquial Tibetan I

Aims at increasing students' proficiency in colloquial forms of Tibetan. This course expands knowledge of the vocabulary and grammar of spoken Tibetan and engages in more advanced conversation topics while also continuing to develop reading knowledge of modern Tibetan. Prereq., TBTN 1010 and 1020 (min. grade C) or instructor consent.

TBTN-2020 (4) Intermediate Colloquial Tibetan II

Aims at increasing students' proficiency in colloquial forms of Tibetan. This course expands knowledge of the vocabulary and grammar of colloquial Tibetan and also continues to develop knowledge of reading and writing modern Tibetan. Prereq., TBTN 2010 (min. grade C) or instructor consent.

TBTN-3210 (4) Beginning Literary Tibetan 1

Provides a thorough introduction to literary and colloquial forms of Tibetan. This course focuses on the grammatical foundation of the language, the acquisition of basic vocabulary, and training in the skills of pronunciation, conversation, handwriting and spelling.

TBTN-3220 (4) Beginning Literary Tibetan 2

Continuation of TBTN 3210. Provides a thorough introduction to literary and colloquial forms of Tibetan. This course continues the grammar and vocabulary work begun in Tibetan 1 by studying actual Tibetan text and moving to more advanced conversation topics. Students develop oral, aural, and written skills to produce an overall knowledge of the language. Prereq., TBTN 3210 (min grade C-).

TBTN-4210 (4) Intermediate Literary Tibetan 1

Aims at increasing students' proficiency in literary and colloquial forms of Tibetan. This course expands knowledge of the grammar and vocabulary of literary Tibetan through translating texts in a variety of genres and also continues to develop knowledge of spoken modern Tibetan. Prereqs., TBTN 3210 and 3220 (min grade C-).

TBTN-4220 (4) Intermediate Literary Tibetan 2

Continuation of TBTN 4210. Aims at increasing students' proficiency in literary and colloquial forms of Tibetan. YIDD-1010 (4) Beginning Yiddish 1

Introduces students to speaking, listening, reading, and writing skills in the historic language of Ashkenazic Jewry. Uses grammar as point of departure for development of oral skills.

College of Arts & Sciences | Germanic & Slavic Languages & Literature | Yiddish

YIDD-1020 (4) Beginning Yiddish 2

Continuation of YIDD 1010. Prereq., YIDD 1010 (min. grade C-) or placement.

College of Arts & Sciences | Germanic & Slavic Languages & Literature | Yiddish

YIDD-2010 (4) Intermediate Yiddish 1

Review and continuation of skills begun in the first year: reading, writing, speaking, and oral comprehension. Provides an intensive introduction to cultural and literary texts of central and eastern European Jewish culture. Prereq., YIDD 1020 (min. grade C-) or placement.

CHEM-1011 (3) Environmental Chemistry 1

Lect. Introduces basic principles of chemistry with applications to current environmental issues including toxic chemicals, air and water pollution, energy sources and their environmental impact, and climate change resulting from the greenhouse effect. No credit given to chemistry or biochemistry majors for CHEM 1011 if students already have credit in any college-level chemistry course numbered 1113/1114 (formerly 1111) or higher. Approved for GT-SC2. Meets MAPS requirements for natural sciences: chemistry or physics. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Chemistry

CHEM-1021 (4) Introductory Chemistry

Lect. and lab. For students with no high school chemistry or a very weak chemistry background. Remedies a deficiency in natural science MAPS requirements and prepares students for CHEM 1113/1114. No credit given to chemistry or biochemistry majors for CHEM 1021 if students already have credit in any college-level chemistry course numbered 1113/1114 (formerly 1111) or higher. Prereq., one year high school algebra or concurrent enrollment in MATH 1011. Approved for GT-SC1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Chemistry

CHEM-1031 (4) Environmental Chemistry 2

Lect. and lab. Applications of chemical principles to current environmental issues including acid rain, stratospheric ozone depletion, the Antarctic ozone hole, solar energy conversion and fuel cells, and the environmental consequences of nuclear war. Laboratory experience is included. No credit given to chemistry or biochemistry majors for 1031 if students already have credit in any college-level chemistry course numbered 1113/1114 (formerly 1111) or higher. Prereq., CHEM 1011 with a grade of C- or higher. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

CHEM-1113 (4) General Chemistry 1

Lect., rec. Intended for first-semester students whose academic plans require advanced work in chemistry. Subjects: components of matter, stoichiometry, classes of reactions, gases, thermochemistry, atomic structure, electron configuration, chemical bonding, molecular shapes, covalent bonding, organic compounds, intermolecular forces, equilibrium. Prereqs., one year high school chemistry or CHEM 1021 (min grade C-); high school math through pre-calculus. Not recommended for students with grades below B- in CHEM 1021. Coreq., CHEM 1114. Not open to engineering students with exception of EPEN majors. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1111, 1251, 1351, or CHEM 1221/CHEN 1211. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: AMEN, AREN, ASEN, CHEN, CSEN, CVEN, ECEN, EEEN, EVEN, MCEN, OPEN or CBEN majors are not allowed to take this class.

CHEM-1114 (1) Laboratory in General Chemistry 1

Lab. Intended for first-semester students whose academic plans require advanced work in chemistry. Instruction in experimental techniques which coordinate with lecture topics in CHEM 1113. Prereqs., one year high school chemistry or CHEM 1021 (min grade C-); high school math through pre-calculus. Not recommended for students with grades below B- in CHEM 1021. Coreq., CHEM 1113. Not open to engineering students with exception of EPEN majors. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1111, 1251, 1351, or CHEM 1221/CHEN 1211. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: AMEN, AREN, ASEN, CHEN, CSEN, CVEN, ECEN, EEEN, EVEN, MCEN, OPEN or CBEN majors are not allowed to take this class.

CHEM-1133 (4) General Chemistry 2

Lect., rec. Intended for second-semester students whose academic plans require advanced work in chemistry. Subjects: acid-base equilibria, buffers and titrations, thermodynamics, redox reactions, electrochemistry, transition elements and their coordination compounds, solubility/solubility equilibria, crystal field theory, kinetics, nuclear chemistry. Prereq., CHEM 1113/1114 or equivalent (min grade C-). Coreq., CHEM 1134. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1131, 1271 or 1371. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite courses of CHEM 1111 or CHEM 1113/1114 or CHEM 1251 or CHEM 1351 or CHEN 1211/CHEM1221.

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-1134 (1) Laboratory in General Chemistry 2

Lab. Intended for second-semester students whose academic plans require advanced work in chemistry. Instruction in experimental techniques which coordinate with lecture topics in CHEM 1133. Prereq., CHEM 1113/1114 or equivalent (min grade C-). Coreq., CHEM 1133. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1131, 1271, or 1371. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite courses of CHEM 1111 or CHEM 1113/1114 or CHEM 1251 or CHEM 1351 or CHEN 1211/CHEM1221.

CHEM-1221 (2) Engineering General Chemistry Lab

Coreq., CHEN 1211. One hour recitation in which concepts and problems are re-emphasized, homework is collected, and quizzes are given. Three hour lab in which students perform experiments designed to illustrate chemical concepts discussed in CHEN 1211. Also introduction to basic techniques in chemical measurements and synthesis. Prereq., one year high school chemistry or CHEM 1001 or 1021 (min grade C-); high school algebra. Coreq., CHEN 1211. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1111, 1113/1114, 1251 or 1351. Restricted to engineering students only. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite of course CHEM 1001 or 1021 (minimum grade C-). Requires co-requisite of course CHEN 1211. Restricted to Engineering students only.

CHEM-1251 (5) General Chemistry 1 for Chemistry and Biochemistry Majors

Lect. and lab. Intended for first-semester CHEM/BCHM majors. Subjects: components of matter, stoichiometry, classes of reactions, gases, thermochemistry, atomic structure, electron configuration, chemical bonding, molecular shapes, covalent bonding, organic compounds, intermolecular forces, equilibrium. Prereqs., one year high school chemistry or CHEM 1021 (minimum grade C-); high school math through pre-calculus. Not recommended for students with grade below B- in CHEM 1021. Restricted to CHEM/BCHM majors. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1113/1114, CHEM 1351, or CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Restricted to Chemistry and Biochemistry majors only.

CHEM-1271 (5) General Chemistry 2 for Chemistry and Biochemistry Majors

Lect. and lab. Intended for second-semester CHEM/BCHM majors. Subjects: acid-base equilibria, buffers and titrations, thermodynamics, redox reactions, electrochemistry, transition elements and their coordination compounds, solubility/solubility equilibria, crystal field theory, kinetics, nuclear chemistry. Prereq., CHEM 1251 or equivalent (minimum grade C-). Restricted to CHEM/BCHM majors. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1131, 1133/1134 or 1371. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of CHEM 1251 (minimum grade C-). Restricted to Chemistry and Biochemistry majors only.

CHEM-1351 (5) Honors General Chemistry 1

Lect. and lab. Principles of chemistry and their applications are covered in a comprehensive manner (honors level) in this low-enrollment freshman course. Lectures include topics not covered in CHEM 1113/1114-1133/1134. The laboratory experience is more extensive; therefore, the CHEM 1351-371 sequence is highly recommended for well-prepared students who intend to major in chemistry, chemical engineering, physics, molecular biology, or related areas. Prereqs., one year high school chemistry; four years of high school math and/or a high score on the SAT or ACT math exam and one year of high school physics. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1113/1114, 1221, 1251, and CHEN 1211. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

CHEM-1371 (5) Honors General Chemistry 2

Lect. and lab. Continuation of CHEM 1351. Prereq., CHEM 1351 (min grade C-). Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1131, 1133/1134 or 1271. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of CHEM 1351 (minimum grade C-).

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-3151 (3) Air Chemistry and Pollution

Examines the composition of the atmosphere, and sources of gaseous and particulate pollutants: their chemistry, transport, and removal from the atmosphere. Applies general principles to acid rain, smog, and stratospheric ozone depletion. Prereqs., two semesters of chemistry. ATOC 3500 and CHEM 3151 are the same course. CHEM 3151 was formerly CHEM 3500. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-3251 (3) Sustainable Energy from a Chemistry Perspective

Explores qualitative and quantitative chemical aspects of energy systems (production, transmission, storage, utilization) including fossil, wind, solar, nuclear and biomass energy. Applies chemical principles including composition, structure, bonding, physical properties, thermodynamics, equilibrium and kinetics to energy systems and sustainability, especially environmental implications. Describes the importance of energy to the chemical industries and society as a whole. Prereqs., CHEM 1133/1134, CHEM 1271, CHEM 1371, or CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221 (min. grade C-).

CHEM-3311 (4) Organic Chemistry 1

Lect. and rec. Intended primarily for nonmajors. Topics include structure and reactions of alkanes, alkenes, alkynes, alkyl halides, and aromatic molecules; nomenclature of organic compounds; stereochemistry; reaction mechanisms and dynamics. Students may receive credit for only one of CHEM 3311 and 3351. Prereq., CHEM 1133/1134 (formerly 1131), 1271, or 1371 (min grade C-); for engineering students only: CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221 (min grade C-) or equivalent; coreq., CHEM 3321 or 3361. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of CHEM 1131 or CHEM 1133/1134 or CHEM 1271 or CHEM 1371 or CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221.

CHEM-3321 (1) Laboratory in Organic Chemistry 1

Lab. Instruction in experimental techniques of modern organic chemistry emphasizing chemical separations and reactions of alkanes, alkenes, and aromatic compounds. Stereochemical modeling and the identification of organic unknowns by spectroscopic and chemical methods are also introduced. Prereqs., CHEM 1133/1134 (formerly 1131), 1271, 1371, or CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221 (min grade C-) or equivalent. Coreq., CHEM 3311 or 3351. For biochemistry and nonchemistry majors. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 3361. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of CHEM 1131 or CHEM 1133/1134 or CHEM 1271 or CHEM 1371 or CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221.

CHEM-3331 (4) Organic Chemistry 2

Lect. and rec. Intended primarily for nonmajors. Topics include structure and reactions of alkyl halides, alcohols, ethers, carboxylic acids, aldehydes, ketones, and amines; introduction to the chemistry of heterocycles, carbohydrates, and amino acids; nomenclature of organic compounds; synthesis; and reaction mechanisms. Prereq., CHEM 3311 or 3351 and CHEM 3321 or 3361 (all min grade C-). Coreq., CHEM 3341 or 3381. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 3371. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite courses of CHEM 3311 or 3351, and CHEM 3321 or 3361 (minimum grade C- for all).

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-3341 (1) Laboratory in Organic Chemistry 2

Lab. For biochemistry and nonchemistry majors. Instruction in experimental techniques of modern organic chemistry emphasizing reactions involving alcohols, ketones, carboxylic acids, and their derivatives. Multistep syntheses are also introduced. Prereq., CHEM 3321 or 3361 (min grade C-). Coreq., CHEM 3331 or 3371. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite courses of CHEM 3311 or 3351, and CHEM 3321 or 3361 (minimum grade C- for all).

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-3351 (4) Organic Chemistry 1 for Chemistry and Biochemistry Majors

Lect. and rec. Intended primarily for majors. Topics include structure and reactions of alkanes, alkenes, alkynes, alkyl halides, and aromatic molecules; nomenclature of organic compounds; stereochemistry; reaction mechanisms, dynamics and organic spectroscopy. Students may receive credit for only one of CHEM 3311 and 3351. Prereq., CHEM 1133/1134 (formerly 1131), 1271, or 1371 (min grade C-); coreq., CHEM 3321 or 3361. Prerequisites: Restricted to CHEM and BCHM majors. Requires pre-requisite course of CHEM 1131 or CHEM 1133/1134 or CHEM 1271 or CHEM 1371 or CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221.

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-3361 (2) Laboratory in Organic Chemistry 1 for Chemistry Majors

Lab. Required course for chemistry majors. Instruction in experimental techniques of modern organic chemistry emphasizing chemical separations and reactions of alkanes, alkenes, alcohols, ketones, and alkyl halides. Explores stereochemical modeling and the chemical identification of organic unknowns. Coreq., CHEM 3351 or 3311. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 3321. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of CHEM 1131 or CHEM 1133/1134 or CHEM 1271 or CHEM 1371 or CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221 (min grade C-). Restricted to Chemistry and Biochemistry majors.

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-3371 (4) Organic Chemistry 2 for Chemistry and Biochemistry Majors

Lect. and rec. Topics include structure and reactions of carboxylic acids and derivatives, aromatic compounds, and amines; introduction to the chemistry of heterocycles, carbohydrates, and amino acids; nomenclature of organic compounds; reaction mechanisms. Prereqs., CHEM 3351 or 3311 and CHEM 3361 or 3321 (min grade C-). Prereq. or coreq., CHEM 3381 or 3341. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 3331. Prerequisites: Restricted to Chemistry and Biochemistry majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-3381 (2) Laboratory in Organic Chemistry 2 for Chemistry Majors

Lab. Required course for chemistry majors. Instruction in experimental techniques of modern chemistry, emphasizing reactions involving alcohols, ketones, carboxylic acids, aromatic compounds, and their derivatives. Multistep syntheses are also introduced. Prereqs., CHEM 3321 or 3361 and CHEM 3341 (min grade C-). Prereq. or coreq., CHEM 3331 or 3371. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite courses of CHEM 3311 or 3351, and CHEM 3321 or 3361 (minimum grade C- for all). Restricted to Chemistry and Biochemistry majors only.

CHEM-4011 (3) Modern Inorganic Chemistry

Lect. Required course for chemistry majors. Introduces modern inorganic chemistry for undergraduates. Includes atomic structure, chemical periodicity, structure and bonding in molecules and crystals, reaction mechanisms, chemistry of selected main group and transition elements, and emphasis on catalyst, materials, bioinorganic, and organometallic systems. Prereq. or coreq., CHEM 4431, 4521, or 4531 (min grade C-).

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-4021 (3) Inorganic Laboratory

One lect. and two 3-hour labs per week. Instruction in experimental techniques of modern inorganic chemistry. Includes syntheses and spectroscopic characterizations of transition metal and main group compounds, experience in manipulation of air sensitive compounds, and techniques involving unusual conditions of pressure or temperature. Prereq., CHEM 4011 (min grade C-). Prerequisites: Requires prerequisite course of CHEM 4011 (minimum grade C-). Restricted to Chemistry and Biochemistry majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

CHEM-4171 (3) Instrumental Analysis

Lect. Theory and practice of instrumental methods of chemical analysis including atomic and molecular spectroscopy, gas and liquid chromatography, mass spectrometry, and electrochemistry. Prereqs., CHEM 3331 or 3371 (min grade C-).

ANTH-1030 (3) Principles of Anthropology 1

Evolution of humanity and culture from beginnings through early metal ages. Covers human evolution, race, prehistory, and rise of early civilizations. This course is taught through Continuing Education. Meets MAPS requirements for social science: general.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-1040 (3) Principles of Anthropology 2

Surveys the world's major culture areas. Covers components of culture, such as subsistence, social organization, religion, and language. This course is taught through Continuing Education. Meets MAPS requirement for social science: general.

ANTH-1100 (3) Exploring a Non-Western Culture: The Tamils

Surveys the social and economic patterns, ideas and values, and aesthetic achievements of the Tamils, a Hindu people who live in South India and Sri Lanka. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

ANTH-1105 (3) Exploring a Non-Western Culture: Tibet

Introduction to Tibetan culture, history, religion, and society from an anthropological perspective, including traditional as well as contemporary dimensions. Topics will include Tibetan Buddhism, politics, nomadism, gender, refugee issues, and the global Tibetan diaspora, all framed within the larger methods and concepts of cultural anthropology. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-1115 (3) The Caribbean in Post-Colonial Perspective

Introduces the student to the varied peoples and cultures in the Caribbean region, emphasizing the historical, colonial, and contemporary political-economic contexts of their social structure and cultural patterns. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

ANTH-1120 (3) Exploring a Non-Western Culture: Hopi and Navajo

Explores two American Indian cultures, Hopi and Navajo, and cultural interrelationships from the prehistoric through the contemporary period, using an integrated, holistic, and humanistic viewpoint. Same as ETHN 1123. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

ANTH-1135 (3) Exploring a Non-Western Culture: TBA

Examines the geography, kinship, politics and religious values of a particular non-Western people in historical and contemporary context through an anthropological perspective. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-1140 (3) Exploring a Non-Western Culture: The Maya

Explores the culture of the Maya of Central America, emphasizing their material adaptations, social organizations, ideals and values, and artistic achievements in the past and the present. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

ANTH-1145 (3) Exploring a Non-Western Culture: The Aztecs

Explores the culture of the Aztec people of Central Mexico: their subsistence, society, religion, and achievements, as well as the impact of the Aztec empire in Mesoamerica. Also reviews the clash of a non-western society with the western world with the arrival of the Spanish conquistadors. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-1150 (3) Exploring a Non-Western Culture: Regional Cultures of Africa

Explores a small number of cultures in a specific sub-region of Africa from an integrated holistic viewpoint, emphasizing material adaptations, social patterns, ideas and values, and aesthetic achievements. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

ANTH-1160 (3) The Ancient Egyptian Civilization

Emphasizes the origin of the Egyptian culture, its importance, and its impact on other cultures. In addition, the different points of view of various scholars are discussed with a comparative study of the ancient Egyptian culture and modern culture of Egypt and the Middle East. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

ANTH-1170 (3) Exploring Culture and Gender through Film

Uses films and written texts to explore the concepts of culture and gender, as well as ethnicity and race. By looking at gender, ethnicity, and race cross-culturally, students will know how these concepts are constructed in their own society, as well as in others. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

ANTH-1180 (3) Maritime People: Fishers and Seafarers

Explores important milestones in the development of human societies and cultures that live from the sea. Emphasizes the evolution of maritime adaptations associated with fishing and seafaring from more than 10,000 years ago through the present. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

ANTH-1190 (3) Origins of Ancient Civilizations

Examines origins of the world's first civilizations in Mesopotamia, Egypt, the Indus Valley, Mesoamerica, and the Andes. Covers archaeology of ancient cities, trade, economy, politics, warfare, religion, and ideology. Seeks insights into general processes of cultural evolution. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-1200 (3) Culture and Power

Compares contemporary sociopolitical systems across cultures, from non-Western tribal groups to modern states. Introduces students to anthropological approaches for understanding and analyzing political forces, processes, and institutions that affect cultures such as colonialism, warfare, violence, ethnicity, migration, and globalization. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-2009 (3) Modern Issues, Ancient Times.

Considers issues of vital importance to humans, both now and in ancient times. Topics such as food, death, sex, family, literacy, or power are explored to consider how ancient societal norms and attitudes evolved, and how they relate to modern culture. Draws on material and literary evidence to develop an understanding of the complexities of ancient life. Same as CLAS 2009. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-2010 (3) Introduction to Physical Anthropology 1

Detailed consideration of human biology, the place of humans in the animal kingdom, primate ecology, and fossil evidence for human evolution. Credit not granted for this course and ANTH 2050. Required for ANTH majors. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science: non-lab. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-2020 (3) Introduction to Physical Anthropology 2

Continuation of ANTH 2010. Emphasizes genetics, human variation, and microevolution. Prereq., ANTH 2010. Credit not granted for this course and ANTH 2060. Approved for GT-SC1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

ANTH-2030 (1) Laboratory in Physical Anthropology 1

Lab in human osteology and musculoskeletal system emphasizing comparative primate morphology, adaptation, and the fossil record documenting the natural history of primates. Coreq., ANTH 2010. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science: lab, when taken with ANTH 2010. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-2040 (1) Laboratory in Physical Anthropology 2

Experiments and hands-on exercises designed to enhance understanding of the principles and concepts presented in ANTH 2020. One two-hour class per week. Coreq., ANTH 2020.

Approved for GT-SC1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-2070 (3) Bones, Bodies, and Disease

Studies the human skeleton and introduces techniques used to evaluate demographic variables. Applies techniques through evaluation of photographic images of an excellently preserved mummified skeletal population from ancient Nubia to reconstruct prehistoric patterns of adaptation and biocultural evolution. Offered through Continuing Education only. Recommended prereq., ANTH 2010.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-2100 (3) Frontiers of Cultural Anthropology

Covers current theories in cultural anthropology and discusses the nature of field work. Explores major schools of thought and ethnographic fieldwork in a range of cultures studied by anthropologists. Required for ANTH majors.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-2200 (3) Introduction to Archaeology

Discusses history, basic concepts, techniques, and theoretical construction of archaeological field and laboratory investigations, as well as a general outline of world prehistory. Required for ANTH majors.

College of Arts & Sciences | Anthropology

ANTH-2210 (1) Laboratory Course in Archaeological Methods

Studies analytical methods in archaeological research including those employed both in the field and in the laboratory. Deals with practical exercises illustrating many of the theoretical principles covered in ANTH 2200. Coreq., ANTH 2200.

ANTH-3000 (3) Primate Behavior

Surveys naturalistic primate behavior. Emphasizes social behavior, behavioral ecology, and evolution as they lead to an understanding of human behavior. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior). Prereqs., ANTH 2010 or EBIO 1210. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of ANTH 2010 or EBIO 1210. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior).

EBIO-1030 (3) Biology: A Human Approach 1

Lect. Studies the principles of biology and their implications. Central theme is humans and the environment, emphasizing ecology, natural resource conservation, and the interrelatedness of a growing human population. Recommended for nonscience majors. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science: non-lab. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences
Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-1040 (3) Biology: A Human Approach 2

Lect. Continues EBIO 1030, focusing on the function of the human body, and maintenance of dynamic equilibrium in the internal environment in the face of a continually changing external environment. Discusses factors influencing these homeostatic conditions and how and why they change. Recommended for nonscience majors. Prereq., EBIO 1030. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences
Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-1050 (1) Biology: A Human Approach Laboratory

One two-hour lab per week. Provides experiments and exercises relating to concepts presented in EBIO 1030 and 1040. Biology: a Human Approach 1 and 2. This course uses animals and/or animal tissues. Recommended for nonscience majors. When taken with EBIO 1030, meets MAPS requirement for natural science: lab. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences
Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-1210 (3) General Biology 1

Lect. Provides a concentrated introduction to molecular, cellular, genetic, and evolutionary biology. Emphasizes fundamental principles, concepts, facts, and questions. Intended for science majors. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2060,2660 or KAPH 2060. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-1220 (3) General Biology 2

Provides a concentrated introduction to organisms, homeostasis, development, behavior, and ecology. Emphasizes fundamental principles, concepts, facts, and questions. Intended for science majors. Prereq., EBIO 1210 or equivalent. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2050 or 2650. Approved for GT-SC1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

EBIO-1230 (1) General Biology Laboratory 1

One 3-hour lab per week. Consists of experiments and exercises to provide an extension of basic concepts and scientific approaches presented in General Biology 1. Intended for science majors. Prereq. or coreq., EBIO 1210. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2060, 2660 or KAPH 2060. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

EBIO-1240 (1) General Biology Laboratory 2

One 3-hour lab per week. Consists of experiments and exercises to provide an extension of basic concepts and scientific approaches presented in General Biology 2. Intended for science majors. Prereq. or coreq., EBIO 1220 or equivalent. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2050 or 2650. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-1300 (1-3) Topics in Biological Sciences

Covers special topics in biology for freshmen or nonmajors. Introduces scientific methods and principles in biology, as well as issues of current interest in biology. Does not count toward the major in EBIO.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-1840 (1-6) Independent Study (Freshman)

May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-1950 (3) Introduction to Scientific and Academic Writing

Introduces students to academic writing and the associated discipline-specific conventions, styles, and qualities that are part of this type of writing. Classes lead students to think rhetorically, to understand the process of composing written text, to employ a variety of writing strategies, to conduct research, and to interpret, critique, summarize, and paraphrase scholarly texts. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: written communication.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-2010 (1-3) Environmental Issues and Biology

Lect. Describes how the natural environment is currently stressed by a variety of human actions. Examines the nature of these environmental problems and their impact on living organisms, both human and nonhuman species.

EBIO-2040 (4) Principles of Ecology

Lect. and lab. Introduces principles of ecology, emphasizing patterns and processes at various levels of biological organization. Scope global, but examples often from local environment. Laboratory emphasizes techniques of field biology. Uses animals and/or animal tissues. Prereqs., EBIO 1030, 1040, and 1050, or EBIO 1210, 1220, 1230, and 1240. Similar to ENVS 2000. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2050 or EPOB 2650 or EPOB 3020 or EBIO 2640 or ENVS 2000.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-2070 (4) Genetics: Molecules to Populations

Lect. and rec. Covers principles of genetics and developmental biology at levels of molecules, cellular organelles, individuals, and populations; asexual and sexual life cycles; and heredity. Recitations allow discussion of genetics problems and implications of genetic principles, and provide demonstrations and simulations of genetic processes. Intended for sophomore majors in EBIO. Prereqs., EBIO 1210, 1220, 1230, and 1240, or EPOB 2050 and 2060. Credit not granted for this course and EBIO 2670.

EBIO-2090 (3) Tropical Island and Marine Ecology

Examines fundamental concepts of marine ecology, emphasizing organismal diversity, species interactions, dispersal, colonization, physiology and adaptations. Includes study of beach and coral formation, island organisms and their population dynamics. Students may also register for an optional 1 credit, one week, tropical island and coral reef trip that complements the lecture portion of the class but has an additional cost. Recommended prereq., EBIO 1220.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-2091 (1) Marine Ecology, Oceanography and Island Ecology Field Studies

A 1 credit, one week, tropical island and coral reef trip that complements the lecture portion of EBIO 2090 and ATOC 3070 with an additional cost. Examines fundamental concepts of marine ecology, emphasizing organismal diversity, species interactions, study of beach and coral formation, island formation, organisms and their population dynamics. Coreq., EBIO 2090 or ATOC/GEOL 3070. Recommended prereq., EBIO 1220.

EBIO-2590 (3) Plants and Society

Acquaints students with the plants that are both essential and desirable to human survival, well-being, and quality of life. Topics include plants and world cultures, food plants, commercial products (beverages, extracts, herbs, and spices, etc.), cosmetics, textiles, wood products, medicinal plants, psychoactive plants, poisonous plants, plants used in horticulture and landscape architecture, wood products, musical instruments, etc.

EBIO-2640 (5) Honors Principles of Ecology

Lect., lab, and rec. Introduces principles of ecology, emphasizing patterns and processes at various levels of biological organization. Scope global, but examples often from local environment. Lab emphasizes techniques of field biology. Uses animals and/or animal tissues. Prereqs., EBIO 1210, 1220, 1230, and 1240; or 1030, 1040, and 1050. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2050 or 2650 or 3020 or EBIO 2040.

EBIO-2840 (1-6) Independent Study (Sophomore)

May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.

College of Arts & Sciences | Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-3010 (1-2) Teaching Biology

Provides an opportunity to assist in teaching of specific laboratory section in EBIO under direct faculty supervision. Students must make arrangements with the faculty member responsible for the course in which they plan to assist. May be repeated up to 4 total credit hours. Formerly EPOB 3010.

College of Arts & Sciences | Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-3040 (4) Conservation Biology

Applies principles of population ecology, population genetics, biogeography, animal behavior, and paleobiology to the maintenance of biodiversity and natural systems. The resulting theory is then applied to conservation policy and management techniques. Prereq., EBIO 2040 or 2640. Same as ENVS 3040.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-3080 (4) Evolutionary Biology

Lect. and lab. Emphasizes the fundamental evolutionary concepts that provide explanations for the diversification of life on Earth. Specific topics include the evidence for evolution, adaptation by natural selection, speciation, systematics, molecular and genome evolution, and macroevolutionary patterns and processes. Recitations allow students to explore specific topics in more depth and smaller groups. Prereq., EBIO 1210 and 1220 or equivalent. Credit not granted for this course and EBIO 3680 or EPOB 2080 or 2680.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-3110 (3) Population and Community Ecology

Presents principles of ecology that relate to the niche, population growth, metapopulations, population interactions (within and between trophic levels), community structure and development, landscape ecology and species diversity. Prereq., EBIO 2040 or 2640 or equivalent.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-3170 (3-4) Arctic and Alpine Ecology

Lect. and field trips. Focuses on the biology of arctic and alpine environments, limiting physical factors (such as geomorphology and climatic history), and human interaction with cold-stressed environments, especially the arctic. Prereqs., EBIO 1210 and 1220, or EPOB 2050 and 2060.

EBIO-3175 (1) Arctic and Alpine Ecology Lab

Examines alpine ecosystems and treeline relative to global change. Weekend (one-day) field trips into the Rocky Mountains, visits to Denver Museum of Nature and Science, and to CU herbarium/plant lab for experiential learning connected to EBIO 3170. Coreq., EBIO 3170. Formerly EPOB 3175. Pass/fail only.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

EBIO-3180 (3) Global Ecology

Lect. Involves study of ecological principles and problems at the biosphere level. Presents a worldwide approach to populations, biotic resources, ecologic interactions, land use, deforestation, desertification, species extinctions, pollution, environmental quality, global change, and environmental ethics. Prereqs., EBIO 1210 and 1220 or equivalent. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

JWST-1818 (3) Introduction to Jewish History, Bible to 1492

Study the origins of a group of people who call themselves, and whom others call, Jews. Focus on place, movement, power/powerlessness, gender, and the question of how to define Jews over time and place. Introduces Jews as a group of people bound together by a particular set of laws; looks at their dispersion and diversity; explores Jews' interactions with surrounding cultures and societies; introduces the basic library of Jews; sees how Jews relate to political power. Same as HIST 1818.

College of Arts & Sciences
Jewish Studies

JWST-1828 (3) Introduction to Jewish History since 1492

Surveys the major historical developments encountered by Jewish communities beginning with the Spanish Expulsion in 1492 up until the present day. We will study the various ways in which Jews across the modern world engaged with the emerging notions of nationality, equality, and citizenship, as well as with new ideologies such as liberalism, socialism, nationalism, imperialism and antisemitism. Same as HIST 1828. Formerly JWST 1108. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences Jewish Studies

JWST-2350 (3) Introduction to Jewish Culture

Explores the development and expressions of Jewish culture as it moves across the chronological and geographical map of the historic Jewish people, with an emphasis on the variety of Jewish ethnicities and their cultural productions, cultural syncretism, and changes. Sets the discussion in a historical context, and looks at cultural representations that include literary, religious, and visual texts. Taught in English. Same as HEBR 2350. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences Jewish Studies

JWST-2502 (3) Representing the Holocaust

Examines how the memory of the Holocaust in Nazi Germany is increasingly determined by the means of its representation, e.g., film, autobiography, poetry, architecture. Same as GRMN 2502. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values.

JWST-2551 (3) Jewish Literature: Jews Coming of Age

Study the work of Jewish writers in English and English translation. Looks at a broad spectrum of texts which show the various ways Jewish authors and poets across time and space have understood the world. Themes will include questions of secularity and tradition, diaspora, exile and citizenship, and the changes of modernity (social and political emancipation, world-wide wars, cultural transformation, new homelands). HEBR 2551 and JWST 2551 are identical courses. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: literature and the arts.

College of Arts & Sciences Jewish Studies

JWST-2600 (3) Judaism, Christianity, and Islam

Introduces literature, beliefs, practices, and institutions of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, in historical perspective. Same as RLST 2600. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values.

College of Arts & Sciences Jewish Studies

JWST-3100 (3) Judaism

Explores Jewish religious experience and its expression in thought, ritual, ethics, and social institutions. Same as RLST 3100. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences | Jewish Studies

JWST-3200 (3) Religion and Feminist Thought

Examines the origin of patriarchal culture in the theology and practices of Judaism and Christianity. Explores attitudes and beliefs concerning women as Judeo-Christian culture impacts gender roles and gender stratification through reading and discussion. Women's religious experience is studied from the perspective of feminist interpretations of religiosity. Prereq., WMST 2000 or WMST/RLST 2800. WMST 3200 and JWST 3200 are the same course.

College of Arts & Sciences | Jewish Studies

JWST-3202 (3) Women, Gender & Sexuality in Jewish Texts & Traditions

Reads some of the ways Jewish texts and traditions look at women, gender and sexuality from biblical times to the present. Starts with an analysis of the positioning of the body, matter and gender in creation stories, moves on to the gendered aspects of tales of rescue and sacrifice, biblical tales of sexual subversion and power, taboo-breaking and ethnos building, to rabbinic attitudes towards women, sexuality and gender and contemporary renderings and rereadings of the earlier texts and traditions. Same as HEBR 3202. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: Human Diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences | Jewish Studies

JWST-3312 (3) The Bible as Literature

Surveys literary achievements of the Judeo-Christian tradition as represented by the Bible. Same as ENGL 3312. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: ideals and values. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Jewish Studies

JWST-3401 (3) The Heart of Europe: Filmmakers and Writers in 20th Century Central Europe

Surveys the major works of 20th century central and central eastern European film and literature. Examines cultural production in the non-imperial countries and non-national languages of the region including Yiddish, Belarusian, Czech, Hungarian, Polish and Romanian, among others. Traces the rise of nationalism over the course of the century from the age of empires through the "Cold War." Same as GSSL 3401.

College of Arts & Sciences | Jewish Studies

JWST-3501 (3) German-Jewish Writers: From the Enlightenment to the Present.

Provides insight into the German-Jewish identity through essays, autobiographies, fiction, and journalism from the Enlightenment to the post-Holocaust period. Examines the religious and social conflicts that typify the history of Jewish existence in German-speaking lands during the modern epoch. Same as GRMN 3501. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

JWST-3600 (3) Global Secular Jewish Societies

This course uses a transnational lens to explore contemporary debates about Jewish people, places, and practices of identity and community. Drawing on history, sociology, international studies, and anthropology, we'll think about the places that Jewish people have called 'home,' and what has made, or continues to make those places 'Jewish.' We'll also explore diverse practices that express the extraordinary varieties of Jewishness (such as building synagogues, food markets, and coffeehouses, creating film festivals, going on heritage travel, Israeli-Jewish backpacking, the creation of online websites and blogs, and creating new urban kibbutzim). Restricted to students with minimum 57 units completed. JWST 3600 and IAFS 3600 are the same course.

Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

JWST-3610 (3) Topics in International Affairs and Jewish Studies

Explores topics in international affairs as it relates to Jewish culture and society. Subjects addressed under this heading vary according to student interest and faculty availability. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. IAFS 3610 and JWST 3610 are the same course. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

JWST-3650 (3) History of Arab-Israeli Conflict

Explores the origins and development of the Arab-Israeli conflict. Traces Arab-Jewish/Israeli relations from the nineteenth century through the Palestine Mandate, the evolution of Arab and Jewish nationalism, and the creation of Israel to the present day. Recommended prereqs., HIST 1308; HIST/JWST 1828. Same as IAFS 3650. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

College of Arts & Sciences | Jewish Studies

JWST-3677 (3) Jewish-American Literature

Explores the Jewish-American experience from the 19th century to the present through writers such as Sholom Aleichem, Peretz, babel, Singer, Malamud, Miller, Ginsberg, and Ozick. The Jewish experience ranges from the travails of immigration to the loss of identity through assimilation. Same as ENGL 3677. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomores, Juniors or Seniors).

College of Arts & Sciences | Jewish Studies

JWST-3930 (3) Internship in Jewish Studies

Learn beyond the classroom by interning in a local non-profit organization that connects with the Program in Jewish Studies through its mission and/or program. Interns will be supervised by the faculty member of record as well as the employer housing the intern. Prereqs., HIST/JWST 1108 or HEBR/JWST 2350. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.

JWST-4000 (1-3) Capstone in Jewish Studies

Serves as the final product for students completing the major in Jewish Studies. The capstone asks students to design a project under the supervision of a mentor that serves as the summation of their past work in Jewish Studies. Capstone projects can take the form of a thesis, film, or other medium and must engage the student's second language. Restricted to senior Jewish Studies (JWST) majors only. Prerequisites: Restricted to senior Jewish Studies (JWST) majors only.

JWST-4050 (3) Anthropology of Jews and Judaism

Explores topics in Jewish anthropology. Course will use the lens of anthropological inquiry to explore, discover and analyze different concepts within Jewish culture. Topics explored will include customs, religious practices, languages, ethnic and regional subdivisions, occupations, social composition, and folklore. Courses will explore fundamental questions about the definition of Jewish identity, practices and communities. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior). ANTH 4050 and JWST 4050 are the same course.

JWST-4101 (3) Topics in Hebrew Studies

Explores topics in Hebrew and Jewish literature and cultures. These may include topics such as diasporic literatures, Jewish artists and thinkers, courses on specific authors, figures or communities. Topics change each semester. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Taught in English. HEBR 4101 and JWST 4101 are the same course.

JWST-4203 (3) Israeli Literature: Exile, Nation, Home

Examines the creation and development of Israeli literature from its pre-State beginnings to the present day, from the writings of immigrants for whom Hebrew was not their mother tongue to a literature written by native Hebrew speakers. Considers texts written by Israeli Jewish and Arab writers and explores how ideas of exile, nation, and home play into the Israeli experience. Recommended prereqs., ENGL/JWST 3677, GRMN/JWST 2502; GRMN/JWST 3503; HEBR/JWST 2551; WRTG/JWST 3020. Same as HEBR 4203. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: literature and the arts.

JWST-4260 (3) Topics in Judaism

Examines in depth central themes, schools of thought, and movements in Judaism across a range of historical periods. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours as topics change. Recommended prereqs., 6 hours of RLST courses at any level including RLST/JWST 3100, RLST/JWST 2600, HIST/JWST 1108 or HEBR/JWST 2350 or instructor consent. RLST 4260, JWST 4260, and 5260 are the same course.

JWST-4301 (3) Venice: the Cradle of European Jewish Culture.

Explores the development of European Jewish culture from the late Middle Ages to the present by focusing on Jewish life in the city of Venice, Italy. Emphasis is on the development of Venetian print culture and emergence of Italy as a center of Jewish publishing in both the religious and secular world. The course examines a variety of cultural and historical material including early printings of the Talmud, the creation of Yiddish popular literature, Hebrew rabbinic literature, responses to political turmoil, and the aftermath of the Nazi genocide. Taught in English. Prereq., HEBR/JWST 2350. HEBR 4301 and JWST 4301 are the same course. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: literature and the arts.

MCDB-1030 (3) Plagues, People, and Microorganisms

Discusses the biology, history, ecology, and social impact of human plagues, including Aids, smallpox, polio, bubonic plague, tuberculosis, leprosy, the impact of the Irish potato blight, and emerging human pathogens. The biology of pathogens and the human immune responses are treated in detail. Discusses the impact of molecular biology on curtailing the impact of diseases. For nonmajors. Approved for GT-SC2. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Molecular, Cellular, & Development Biology

MCDB-1041 (3) Fundamentals of Human Genetics

Covers the basic principles of genetics, human pedigree analysis, and how genetic diseases affect DNA, RNA, and proteins. Considers implications of this research for medicine and society. For nonmajors. Recommended prereq., good background in high school chemistry and biology. Approved for GT-SC2. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

MCDB-1150 (3) Introduction to Cellular and Molecular Biology

Covers biologically important macromolecules and biological processes, together with an introduction to cell structure, function, and physiology. Provides the foundation for advanced MCDB courses to majors, and a rigorous overview of modern biology to nonmajors. MCDB 1151 must be taken concurrently by MCDB and biochemistry majors and prehealth science students. Prereq., high school chemistry and algebra. Coreq., MCDB 1151 for majors. Credit not granted for this course and MCDB 1111. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirement for natural sciences: lab. Approved for arts and science core curriculum: natural science.

MCDB-1151 (1) Introduction to Cell and Molecular Biology Lab

Offers one two-hour lab per week designed to acquaint students with research techniques and concepts in molecular and cellular biology. Topics include cell structure, function, physiology, and recombinant DNA. MCDB 1150 must be taken concurrently. Credit not granted for this course and MCDB 1111. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirement for natural sciences: lab. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

MCDB-1152 (1) Problem Solving Co-Seminar for Introduction to Molecular and Cellular Biology

Uses problem solving and other interactive group work to aid student learning in co-requisite course MCDB 1150. Students will work in small groups on learning and practicing how to solve difficult conceptual problems, as well as using hands-on activities and concept mapping to help learn content. Coreq., MCDB 1150.

MCDB-1161 (2) From Dirt to DNA: Phage Genomics Laboratory I

Provides laboratory experience working on a bacteriophage genomics research project. Students will study novel bacteriophage they isolate from the environment. Topics covered include phage biology, bacteria and phage culturing and amplification, DNA isolation, restriction digest analysis, agarose gel electrophoresis, and electron microscopy. Coreq., MCDB 1150 or successful completion of 2 semesters of General Biology AP credit.

MCDB-2150 (3) Principles of Genetics

Introduces the behavior of genes and chromosomes in eukaryotic and prokaryotic organisms. Covers three areas: transmission genetics, molecular genetics, and population genetics. Attention is given to genetic mapping, recombinant DNA procedures, and gene expression. MCDB 2151 must be taken by MCDB or biochemistry majors and prehealth science students concurrently or when next offered. Prereqs., MCDB 1150 or 1111 or EBIO 1210 or general biology. Approved for GT-SC1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

MCDB-2151 (1) Principles of Genetics Laboratory

One two-hour lab per week. Provides hands-on experience with principles introduced in MCDB 2150. Topics include mitosis, meiosis, classical genetics, complementation, mutagenesis, DNA replication, natural selection, and evolution. Prereqs., MCDB 1150 and 1151. Coreq., MCDB 2150. Approved for GT-SC1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

MCDB-2152 (1) Problem Solving Co-Seminars for Genetics

Uses problem solving and other interactive group work to aid student learning in co-requisite course MCDB 2150. Students will work in small groups on learning and practicing how to solve difficult conceptual problems, as well as using hands-on activities and concept mapping to help learn content. Coreq., MCDB 2150.

MCDB-2161 (2) From DNA to Genes, Phage Genomics Laboratory II

Provides laboratory experience working on a bacteriophage isolated during the previous semester. Topics include bioinformatics, genome annotation, open reading frame and RNA identification, BLAST analysis, phylogenetics and submission to a genomic database. Prereqs., MCDB 1150 and 1161. Coreq., MCDB 2150.

MCDB-2840 (1-3) Lower-Division Independent Study

May be repeated for credit, but only 8 hours of MCDB 2840 plus MCDB 4840 can be counted toward graduation. Students with adequate prerequisites should take MCDB 4840. Prereqs., instructor consent and independent study contract. Coreq., MCDB 1150.

MCDB-3135 (3) Molecular Cell Biology I

Examines the central dogma of biology by discussing the most important molecules in cells (DNA, RNA, and protein) and how their synthesis (DNA replication, transcription, RNA processing, and translation) is regulated. Incorporated into the discussion is how recombinant DNA techniques are used to discover and dissect cellular processes, how to design and interpret experiments, and understanding the limits of experiments to draw conclusions. These principles are the foundation for subsequent examination of intracellular mechanisms in MCDB 3145. Prereqs., MCDB 2150 or EBIO 2070. Prereq., or coreq., CHEM 1133. Recommended coreq., MCDB 3140. Credit not granted for this course and MCDB 3120.

MCDB-3140 (2) Cell Biology Laboratory

One four-hour lab per week. Provides experience with and exposure to modern cell biology laboratory techniques. Topics include microscopy, immunocytochemistry, Western blotting, Southern blotting, and flow cytometry. This course does not use vertebrate animals. Coreq., MCDB 3135 or 3145.

MCDB-3145 (3) Molecular Cell Biology II

Examines intracellular mechanisms, including transport of ions and small molecules across membranes; protein targeting to organelles; membrane trafficking between organelles; signal transduction; the cytoskeleton; and the cell cycle. Analysis of these activities is from the experimental perspective established in MCDB 3135. Prereq., MCDB 3135. Recommended prereq or coreq., MCDB 3140 concurrent with either 3135 or 3145. Students may not receive credit for MCDB 3145 and 3500.

MCDB-3150 (3) Biology of the Cancer Cell

Highlights dimensions of the cancer problem; cancer as a genetic/cellular disease; chemicals, viruses, and radiation as causes of cancer; cancer and diet; cancer epidemiology; cancer risk factors; proto-oncogenes, oncogenes, and cancer suppressor genes; and prevention of cancer. Prereq., MCDB 2150 or EBIO 2070, or instructor consent. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

MCDB-3280 (3) Molecular Cell Physiology

Analyzes cellular mechanisms from a molecular perspective. Examines molecules as machines that are the basis of cellular mechanisms. Uses animal systems' physiology as examples. Prereqs., MCDB 3120 and CHEM 1133.

MCDB-3330 (3) Evolution and Creationism

Intensive lecture/discussion course on the interrelationships among science, religion, and social policy. Includes historical and scientific development of evolution theory, social Darwinism/sociobiology, and the public perception of science. Prereq., MCDB 1111 or 1150 or instructor consent. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

MCDB-3350 (3) Fertility, Sterility, and Early Mammalian Development

Describes the production of germ cells, ovulation, fertilization, reproductive cycles, controls of reproduction, early development of the embryo, methods of contraception, and causes and treatments of sterility. Recommended for students planning careers in the health sciences. Prereq., MCDB 1150, EBIO 1210, or instructor consent.

MCDB-3650 (3) The Brain - From Molecules to Behavior

Examines the molecular basis of the brain's role in thought, action, and consciousness by exploring issues such as relationship of cognition and localized brain function, sensory systems and their role in cognition, learning and memory, and behavioral neurochemistry. Prereq., MCDB 1150 and 2150 or equivalent.

MCDB-4111 (3) Experimental Design and Research in Cell and Molecular Biology

Learning molecular and cell biology experimental design and approaches through independent research projects. Students, working in pairs, will explore the research process and gain extensive first-hand experience in: hypothesis formation; experimental design; solution preparation and experimental methodology; proposal presentation and defense (oral and written); formal presentation of results and conclusions (oral and written in a publication-style format); the publication process; critical reading and evaluation of primary scientific literature. Prereq., MCDB 1150 or equivalent and instructor consent. Recommended coreq., MCDB 3135 or 3500.

MCDB-4201 (3) From Bench to Bedside: The Role of Science in Medicine

Demonstrates the breadth of research in the life sciences and how such research (not just in medical schools) can lead to medical applications. Lecturers from life sciences, the medical school and biotechnology, discuss drug development and the transfer of research into the clinical arena. Students also prepare a paper and presentation on the development of a commercial drug. Prereqs., MCDB 1150, 1151, or 1111, and MCDB 2150, 2151, 3140, and 3120 or 3145.

MCDB-4202 (3) The Python Project

Studies how python hearts grow after they consume a meal. Understanding the molecular processes of growth and regression in the python heart could lead to development of therapeutics for heart disease. Students work in groups in the laboratory and generate novel data by using modern molecular biology and bioinformatic techniques to clone and sequence candidate molecules of the python genome. May be repeated once. Prereqs., MCDB 1150 and 2150. Recommended prereqs., MCDB 3120 and 3500, or MCDB 3135 and 3145, and CHEM 4711 and 4731.

MCDB-4234 (3) Research Methods

Presents a rigorous and pedagogically coherent introduction into the experimental process used to collect data, formulate hypotheses, and answer scientific questions in general, and biological questions in particular. Includes a detailed consideration of the elements of experimental design, data collection and analysis, and the interpretation of results in the context of effective science teaching. Part of the CU Teach course sequence for teacher certification in science and mathematics. Prereqs., completion of freshman/sophomore major requirements, MCDB 1150 or 1111, MCDB 2150, 3120/3140, or 3135/3145, or instructor consent. Restricted to students enrolled in School of Education. Prerequisites: Restricted to MCDB majors or School of Education undergraduate students only.

MCDB-4300 (3) Immunology

Emphasizes cellular and molecular mechanisms by which organisms protect themselves from pathogens and the experimental basis for our understanding of these processes. Discusses development, function, and malfunction of t-cells, b-cells and other components of the immune system, focusing on the human immune system. Prereqs., MCDB 3120 and 3500, or MCDB 3135 and 3145. Same as MCDB 5301.

MCDB-4310 (3) Microbial Genetics and Physiology

Examines the physiology and genetics of bacteria, Archaea and viruses. Particular emphasis will be on metabolism, regulation of gene expression and protein function, mechanisms of interactions with and manipulation of the environment, and evolution in response to environmental pressures. Prereqs., MCDB 2150, 3135 and 3145 or instructor consent. Recommended prereq. or coreq., CHEM 4611. Same as MCDB 5310.

CHEM-1031 (4) Environmental Chemistry 2

Lect. and lab. Applications of chemical principles to current environmental issues including acid rain, stratospheric ozone depletion, the Antarctic ozone hole, solar energy conversion and fuel cells, and the environmental consequences of nuclear war. Laboratory experience is included. No credit given to chemistry or biochemistry majors for 1031 if students already have credit in any college-level chemistry course numbered 1113/1114 (formerly 1111) or higher. Prereq., CHEM 1011 with a grade of C- or higher. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

ATOC-1050 (3) Weather and the Atmosphere

Introduces principles of modern meteorology for nonscience majors, with emphasis on scientific and human issues associated with severe weather events. Includes description, methods of prediction, and impacts of blizzards, hurricanes, thunderstorms, tornadoes, lightning, floods, and firestorms. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science: non-lab. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences
Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-1060 (3) Our Changing Environment: El Nino, Ozone, and Climate

Discusses the Earth's climate for nonscience majors, focusing on the role of the atmosphere, oceans, and land surface. Describes the water cycle, atmospheric circulations, and ocean currents, and how they influence global climate, El Nino, and the ozone hole. Discusses human impacts from climate change. Prereq., ATOC 1050. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences
Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-1070 (1) Weather and the Atmosphere Laboratory

Optional laboratory for ATOC 1050. Laboratory experiments illustrate fundamentals of meteorology. Covers collection, analysis, and discussion of data related to local weather. Uses computers for retrieval and interpretation of weather data from Colorado and across the U.S. Prereq. or coreq., ATOC 1050 or instructor consent. Approved for GT-SC1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences
Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-3070 (3) Introduction to Oceanography

Investigates the broad-scale features and dynamics of the Earth's oceans. The course is roughly divided amongst the four major, interrelated disciplines of oceanography: marine geology, marine chemistry, physical oceanography (i.e. circulation), and marine biology. Specific topics include sea floor spreading, marine sediments, salinity, biogeochemical cycles, currents, waves, tides, primary production, marine ecology, marine resources, global warming, and much more. Prereq., any two-course sequence of natural science courses. Same as GEOL 3070. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-3300 (3) Analysis of Climate and Weather Observations

Discusses instruments, techniques, and statistical methods used in atmospheric observations. Covers issues of data accuracy and analysis of weather maps. Provides application to temperature and precipitation records, weather forecasting, and climate change trends. Uses computers to access data sets and process data. Prereqs., ATOC 1050 and 1060, or ATOC 3600/GEOG 3601/ENVS 3600, or GEOG 1001 and 1-semester calculus. Same as GEOG 3301. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-3500 (3) Air Chemistry and Pollution

Examines the composition of the atmosphere, and sources of gaseous and particulate pollutants: their chemistry, transport, and removal from the atmosphere. Applies general principles to acid rain, smog, and stratospheric ozone depletion. Prereqs., two semesters of chemistry. ATOC 3500 and CHEM 3151 are the same course. CHEM 3151 was formerly CHEM 3500. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-3600 (3) Principles of Climate

Describes the basic components of the climate system: the atmosphere, ocean, cryosphere, and lithosphere. Investigates the basic physical processes that determine climate and link the components of the climate system. Covers the hydrological cycle and its role in climate, climate stability, and global change. Includes forecasting climate and its application and human dimensions. Prereqs., ATOC 1050 and 1060, or ATOC 3300/GEOG 3301, or GEOG 1001 and 1-semester calculus. Same as GEOG 3601/ENVS 3600. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-3720 (3) Planets and Their Atmospheres

Explores the physics and chemistry of the atmospheres of Mars, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and Titan. Examines evolution of the atmospheres of Earth, Venus, and Mars; and the escape of gases from the Galilean satellites, Titan and Mars; the orbital characteristics of moons, planets, and comets. Uses recent results of space exploration. Elective for APS major and minor. Prereq., PHYS 1110--1120, and either MATH 1300--2300, or APPM 1350--1360, or instructor consent. Same as ASTR 3720. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Junior or Senior) Astronomy (ASTR) or Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences (ATOC) majors only.

ATOC-4215 (3) Descriptive Physical Oceanography

Introduces descriptive and dynamical physical oceanography, focusing on the nature and dynamics of ocean currents and their role in the distribution of heat and other aspects of ocean physics related to the Earth's climate. Dynamical material limited to mathematical descriptions of oceanic physical systems. Restricted to seniors. Same as ATOC 5215 and ASEN 4215. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-4500 (1-3) Special Topics in Atmospheric and Oceanic Sciences

Acquaints students with current research in atmospheres, oceans, and climate. Topics may vary each semester. May be repeated for a total of 9 total credit hours within the degree. Students may register for more than one section of this course in the same semester.

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-4700 (3) Weather Analysis & Forecasting

Utilizing a range of operational weather observations to analyze current weather conditions, providing hands-on experience interpreting observations and relating those observations to the physical principles that govern atmospheric behavior is the course emphasis. It focuses on how to read weather reports, analyze observations, and how to prepare weather maps to analyze current conditions and how to interpret numerical weather forecasts. Prereqs., ATOC 1050 or 1060. Recommended prereq., ATOC 4720. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-4720 (3) Introduction to Atmospheric Physics and Dynamics

Introduces the fundamental physical principles that govern the atmosphere, and provides an elementary description and interpretation of a wide range of atmospheric phenomena. Topics include atmospheric structure and composition, electromagnetic radiation, clouds, precipitation, energy balance, atmospheric motion, and climate. Prereqs., one year of calculus and one year of physics with calculus.

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-4750 (3) Desert Meteorology and Climate

Introduces students to the dynamic causes of deserts in the context of atmospheric processes and land-surface physics. Discusses desert severe weather, desert microclimates, human impacts and desertification, inter-annual variability in aridity (drought), the effects of deserts on global climate, and the impact of desert climate on humans. Prereq., ATOC 1050 or equivalent. Same as ATOC 5750. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural sciences.

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-4800 (3) Policy Implications of Climate Controversies

Examines controversial issues related to the environment, including climate change. Covers scientific theories and the intersection between science and governmental policy. Includes discussion, debate, and critical reading of textual materials. Prereqs., ATOC 1060 or 3600. Credit not granted for this course and ATOC 5000.

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-4900 (1-3) Independent Study

May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Prereq., instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-4950 (1-3) Honors Thesis

Students work independently on a research topic under the guidance of a faculty member. A written thesis and an oral presentation of the work are required. Registration by arrangement and with consent of faculty mentor. Prereq., junior or senior standing, and minimum 3.00 GPA. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-5000 (3) Critical Issues in Climate and the Environment

Discusses current issues such as ozone depletion, global warming, and air quality for graduate students in nonscientific fields. Provides the scientific background necessary to understand, follow scientific developments, and critically evaluate these issues. Same as ENVS 5830. Credit not granted for this course and ATOC 4800.

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-5050 (3) Introduction to Atmospheric Dynamics

Covers atmospheric motion and its underlying mathematical and physical principles. Explores the dynamics of the atmosphere and the mathematical laws governing atmospheric motion. Topics include atmospheric composition and thermodynamics, conservation laws, geostrophic balance, vorticity dynamics, boundary layers, and baroclinic instability. ATOC graduate core course.

Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-5051 (3) Introduction to Physical and Chemical Oceanography

Provides fundamental knowledge of the basic dynamics and chemical composition of the ocean. Prereq., calculus. ATOC graduate core course. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ATOC-5060 (3) Dynamics of the Atmosphere

Examines large-scale motions in a stratified rotating atmosphere, and quasi-geostrophic flow, barotropic and baroclinic instabilities, cyclogenesis, global circulations, and boundary layer processes. Ageostrophic motions, including Kelvin waves, internal gravity waves, and the theory of frontogenesis are also considered. Prereq., ATOC 5050 or equivalent. ATOC graduate core course.

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-5061 (3) Dynamics of Oceans

Explores theories of the large-scale ocean, including quasigeostrophic, planetary geostrophic, and shallow water equations. Topics may vary to focus on ocean climate (e.g. thermocline, westward intensification), ocean waves (e.g. gravity, Rossby, and Kelvin), or ocean models (toy, analytic, and numerical). Maybe repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Prereqs., ATOC 5400 and ATOC 5051 or 5060 or equivalent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-5151 (3) Atmospheric Chemistry

Reviews basic kinetics and photochemistry of atmospheric species and stratospheric chemistry with emphasis on processes controlling ozone abundance. Tropospheric chemistry focusing on photochemical smog, acid deposition, oxidation capacity of the atmosphere, and global climate change. Prereq., graduate standing or instructor consent. ATOC graduate core course. Same as CHEM 5151.

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-5215 (3) Descriptive Physical Oceanography

Same as ATOC 4215 and ASEN 5215. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

ATOC-5235 (3) Introduction to Atmospheric Radiative Transfer and Remote Sensing

Examines fundamentals of radiative transfer and remote sensing with primary emphasis on the Earth's atmosphere; emission, absorption and scattering by molecules and particles; multiple scattering; polarization; radiometry and photometry; principles of inversion theory; extinction- and emission-based passive remote sensing; principles of active remote sensing; lidar and radar; additional applications such as the greenhouse effect and Earth's radiative energy budget. ATOC graduate core course. Same as ASEN 5235. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences Atmospheric & Oceanic Sciences

ATOC-5300 (3) The Global Carbon Cycle

Covers the role of the ocean, terrestrial biosphere, and atmosphere in the global carbon cycle. Specific topics include marine carbonate chemistry, biological production, terrestrial fluxes, anthropogenic emissions, and the evolution of the global carbon cycle in a changing climate. Prereq., graduate standing in a physical science or instructor consent. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

CLAS-4021 (3) Athens and Greek Democracy

Studies Greek history from 800 B.C. (the rise of the city-state) to 323 B.C. (the death of Alexander the Great). Emphasizes the development of democracy in Athens. Readings are in the primary sources. Same as CLAS 5021 and HIST 4021.

College of Arts & Sciences Classics Ancient History

CLAS-4031 (3) Alexander the Great and the Rise of Macedonia

Covers Macedonia's rise to dominance in Greece under Philip II and the reign and conquests of Alexander the Great. Prereq., one of the following: CLAS 1509, 3039, 3113, 4051, 4139, 4149, CLAS/HIST 1051, 2041, 4021, or 4041. Same as CLAS 5031 and HIST 4031.

College of Arts & Sciences Classics Ancient History

CLAS-4041 (3) Classical Greek Political Thought

Studies main representatives of political philosophy in antiquity (Plato, Aristotle, Cicero) and of the most important concepts and values of ancient political thought. No Greek or Latin required. Prereq., CLAS/HIST 1051, CLAS/HIST 1061, HIST 1010, PSCI 2004, or PHIL 3000. Same as CLAS 5041, HIST 4041, and PHIL 4210.

College of Arts & Sciences Classics Ancient History

CLAS-4061 (3) Twilight of Antiquity

Explores the reasons for the fall of the Roman Empire in the western Mediterranean and its survival in the East as Byzantium. Emphasizes Christianity; barbarians; social, economic, and cultural differences; contemporary views of Rome; and modern scholarship. No Greek or Latin is required. Same as CLAS 5061 and HIST 4061.

College of Arts & Sciences Classics Ancient History

CLAS-4071 (3) Seminar in Ancient Social History

Considers topics ranging from demography, disease, family structure, and the organization of daily life to ancient slavery, economics, and law. Focuses either on Persia, Greece, or Rome and includes a particular emphasis on the methodology required to reconstruct an ancient society, especially the interpretation of problematic literary and material evidence and the selective use of comparisons with better known societies. No Greek or Latin required. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Same as CLAS 5071 and HIST 4071.

College of Arts & Sciences Classics Ancient History

CLAS-4081 (3) The Roman Republic

Studies the Roman Republic from its foundation in 753 B.C. to its conclusion with the career of Augustus. Emphasizes the development of Roman Republican government. Readings are in the primary sources. No Greek or Latin required. Same as CLAS 5081 and HIST 4081.

College of Arts & Sciences | Classics | Ancient History

CLAS-4091 (3) The Roman Empire

Intense survey of Imperial Rome from the Roman revolution to the passing of centralized political authority in the western Mediterranean. Emphasizes life, letters, and personalities of the empire. No Greek or Latin required. Same as CLAS 5091 and HIST 4091.

College of Arts & Sciences | Classics | Ancient History

CLAS-4761 (3) Roman Law

Studies the constitutional and legal history of ancient Rome; emphasizes basic legal concepts and comparisons with American law. No Greek or Latin required. Same as CLAS 5761 and HIST 4761.

COMM-1210 (3) Perspectives on Human Communication

Surveys communication in a variety of contexts and applications. Topics include basic concepts and general models of communication, ethics, language and nonverbal communication, personal relationships, group decision making, organizational communication, and impact of technological developments on communication. Required for COMM majors. Meets MAPS requirement for social science: general. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies.

College of Arts & Sciences Communication

EBIO-1210 (3) General Biology 1

Lect. Provides a concentrated introduction to molecular, cellular, genetic, and evolutionary biology. Emphasizes fundamental principles, concepts, facts, and questions. Intended for science majors. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2060,2660 or KAPH 2060. Approved for GT-SC1. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

ESLG-1210 (2) Academic Writing for Foreign Students

Addresses the development of paragraphs and full-length essays. Focus areas include organization and style, grammar and vocabulary, and conventions of academic writing, including incorporating the ideas of others and citing sources appropriately. Extensive instructor feedback provided. Improves fluency and precision in academic writing. Does not fulfill humanities or major requirements.

ARTS-1212 (3) Painting for Non-Majors

Explores varied painting techniques. Introduces concepts relevant to the understanding of painting and the creative process. May not be repeated.

College of Arts & Sciences | Art & Art History | Painting/Drawing

HIST-1218 (3) Introduction to Sub-Saharan African History to 1800

Provides an introduction to African history, beginning with early man and ending in 1800. This course moves rapidly through civilizations as different as Ancient Egypt, Mali, Oyo, and the Cape Colony, touching on important developments and highlighting themes relevant to the history of Africa as a whole. These include migration, technology, environment, trade, gender, religion, slavery, and more. Formerly HIST 1208. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences | History | World Areas: Specific Regions

DNCE-1220 (1) Beginning Jazz with Experience

Further develops work begun in Beginning Jazz. Exercises and jazz dance phrases are more complex. May be repeated up to 2 total credit hours. Prereq., DNCE 1200.

College of Arts & Sciences | Theater & Dance | Nonmajor Technique

EBIO-1220 (3) General Biology 2

Provides a concentrated introduction to organisms, homeostasis, development, behavior, and ecology. Emphasizes fundamental principles, concepts, facts, and questions. Intended for science majors. Prereq., EBIO 1210 or equivalent. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2050 or 2650. Approved for GT-SC1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

PHYS-1220 (3) Physics for Future Presidents

Intended primarily for nonscientists, this course covers topics relevant to leaders, policy makers, and citizens confronted with science and technology issues. Topics include energy consumption and its impact on the environment; atoms and heat; radioactivity and nuclear reactions; nuclear bombs; light and radio waves for technological applications; climate change; quantum physics. Recommended prereq., high school algebra. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

CHEM-1221 (2) Engineering General Chemistry Lab

Coreq., CHEN 1211. One hour recitation in which concepts and problems are re-emphasized, homework is collected, and quizzes are given. Three hour lab in which students perform experiments designed to illustrate chemical concepts discussed in CHEN 1211. Also introduction to basic techniques in chemical measurements and synthesis. Prereq., one year high school chemistry or CHEM 1001 or 1021 (min grade C-); high school algebra. Coreq., CHEN 1211. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1111, 1113/1114, 1251 or 1351. Restricted to engineering students only. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite of course CHEM 1001 or 1021 (minimum grade C-). Requires co-requisite of course CHEN 1211. Restricted to Engineering students only.

ESLG-1222 (2) Advanced Written Composition for Foreign Students

Continued practice in academic writing, including incorporating the ideas of others and citing sources appropriately. Extensive instructor feedback provided. Preparation, writing, and revising of a full-length academic term/research paper or work on chapters for a master's thesis or doctoral dissertation. Does not fulfill humanities or major requirements. Prereq., ESLG 1210 or instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences | Linguistics

HIST-1228 (3) Introduction to Sub-Saharan African History Since 1800

Introduces students to the history of Sub-Saharan Africa from 1800 to the present. Major topics of study included the trans-Atlantic slave trade, African state-building, European colonialism, African responses to colonialism and issues facing independent African nations, ranging from debt to HIV/AIDS. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

EBIO-1230 (1) General Biology Laboratory 1

One 3-hour lab per week. Consists of experiments and exercises to provide an extension of basic concepts and scientific approaches presented in General Biology 1. Intended for science majors. Prereq. or coreq., EBIO 1210. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2060, 2660 or KAPH 2060. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

PHYS-1230 (3) Light and Color for Nonscientists

Discusses light, color, vision, and perception. Covers reflection, refraction, lenses, and applications to photography and other methods of light sensing. Other topics include lasers and holography. Course is geared toward nonscience majors. Meets MAPS requirements for natural science: chemistry or physics. Should not be taken by students with a math MAPS deficiency. Approved for arts and science core curriculum: natural science.

EBIO-1240 (1) General Biology Laboratory 2

One 3-hour lab per week. Consists of experiments and exercises to provide an extension of basic concepts and scientific approaches presented in General Biology 2. Intended for science majors. Prereq. or coreq., EBIO 1220 or equivalent. Credit not granted for this course and EPOB 2050 or 2650. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Ecology & Evolutionary Biology

PHYS-1240 (3) Sound and Music

Explores the physical processes that underlie the diversity of sound and musical phenomena. Topics covered include the physical nature of sound, the perception of sound, the perception of pitch and harmony, musical instruments, synthesizers and samplers, and room acoustics. Nonmathematical; geared toward nonscience majors. Approved for GT-SC2. Meets MAPS requirement for natural science: chemistry or physics. Should not be taken by students with a math MAPS deficiency. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences Physics

WRTG-1250 (3) Advanced First-Year Writing and Rhetoric

Advanced version of WRTG 1150 intended for more experienced writers, this course meets the same goals as WRTG 1150 but at a more challenging level. Taught as a writing workshop, the course places a premium on invention, drafting, and thoughtful revision. For placement criteria, see the arts and sciences advising office. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours. Approved for GT-CO2. Meets MAPS requirement for English. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: written communication.

College of Arts & Sciences Program for Writing & Rhetoric

CHEM-1251 (5) General Chemistry 1 for Chemistry and Biochemistry Majors

Lect. and lab. Intended for first-semester CHEM/BCHM majors. Subjects: components of matter, stoichiometry, classes of reactions, gases, thermochemistry, atomic structure, electron configuration, chemical bonding, molecular shapes, covalent bonding, organic compounds, intermolecular forces, equilibrium. Prereqs., one year high school chemistry or CHEM 1021 (minimum grade C-); high school math through pre-calculus. Not recommended for students with grade below B- in CHEM 1021. Restricted to CHEM/BCHM majors. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1113/1114, CHEM 1351, or CHEN 1211/CHEM 1221. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Restricted to Chemistry and Biochemistry majors only.

ENGL-1260 (3) Introduction to Women's Literature

Introduces literature by women in England and America. Covers both poetry and fiction and varying historical periods. Acquaints students with the contribution of women writers to the English literary tradition and investigates the nature of this contribution. Same as WMST 1260. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences English General Literature & Language

WMST-1260 (3) Introduction to Women's Literature

Same as ENGL 1260. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

College of Arts & Sciences Womens Studies English

CHEM-1271 (5) General Chemistry 2 for Chemistry and Biochemistry Majors

Lect. and lab. Intended for second-semester CHEM/BCHM majors. Subjects: acid-base equilibria, buffers and titrations, thermodynamics, redox reactions, electrochemistry, transition elements and their coordination compounds, solubility/solubility equilibria, crystal field theory, kinetics, nuclear chemistry. Prereq., CHEM 1251 or equivalent (minimum grade C-). Restricted to CHEM/BCHM majors. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1131, 1133/1134 or 1371. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of CHEM 1251 (minimum grade C-). Restricted to Chemistry and Biochemistry majors only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

DNCE-1290 (1) Jazz 1

Introduces jazz dance, consisting of a technique warm-up, locomotion across the floor, and a series of dance phrases developed into a short dance combination. Offered summers only at Perry-Mansfield Performing Arts Camp. May be repeated up to 2 total credit hours.

College of Arts & Sciences | Theater & Dance | Nonmajor Technique

ARTH-1300 (3) History of World Art 1

Surveys major art styles from the Paleolithic period through the Renaissance, including European, Asian, and the Pre-Columbian/Islamic world. Emphasizes comparison of Western and non-Western visual expressions as evidence of differing cultural orientations. Approved for GT-AH1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: literature and the arts.

College of Arts & Sciences | Art & Art History | Art History

COMM-1300 (3) Public Speaking

Covers theory and skills of speaking in various public settings. Examines fundamental principles from rhetorical and communication theory and applies them to oral presentations. Required for COMM majors.

College of Arts & Sciences | Communication

EBIO-1300 (1-3) Topics in Biological Sciences

Covers special topics in biology for freshmen or nonmajors. Introduces scientific methods and principles in biology, as well as issues of current interest in biology. Does not count toward the major in EBIO.

MATH-1300 (5) Calculus 1

Topics include limits, derivatives of algebraic and trigonometric functions, applications of the derivative, integration and application of the definite integral. Prereqs., two years high school algebra, one year geometry, and 1/2 year trigonometry or MATH 1150. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1081, 1310, APPM 1345, 1350, and ECON 1088. Similar to MATH 1080, 1090, and 1100. Approved for GT-MA1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

HIST-4071 (3) Seminar in Ancient Social History

Considers topics ranging from demography, disease, family structure, and the organization of daily life to ancient slavery, economics, and law. Focuses either on Persia, Greece, or Rome and includes a particular emphasis on the methodology required to reconstruct an ancient society, especially the interpretation of problematic literary and material evidence, and the selective use of comparisons with better known societies. No Greek or Latin required. May be repeated up to 9 total credit hours. Same as CLAS 4071. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

College of Arts & Sciences | History | Europe: Ancient and Medieval

HIST-4081 (3) The Roman Republic

Studies the Roman Republic from its foundation in 753 B.C. to its conclusion with the career of Augustus. Emphasizes the development of Roman Republic government. Readings are in the primary sources. No Greek or Latin required. Same as CLAS 4081. Prerequisites: Restricted to History Majors only.

HIST-4091 (3) The Roman Empire

Studies Imperial Roman history beginning with the Roman Revolution and ending with examination of the passing of centralized political authority in the western Mediterranean. Emphasizes life, letters, and personalities of the Empire. Same as CLAS 4091. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

HIST-4511 (3) Europe in the Dark Ages (400--1000 A.D.)

Examines the history of Europe from the fall of the Roman Empire to the turn of the first millennium. Treats social, political, and religious transformations in the barbarian kingdoms, and considers the persistence of Roman institutions and culture and the impact of Christianity in northern Europe. Prereq., HIST 1010, 1030, 2170 or 2543. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

HIST-4521 (3) Europe in the High Middle Ages (1000--1400 A.D.)

Examines the history of Europe from the emergence of feudal institutions to the rise of nation states, with specific attention to social, intellectual and religious change, the role of law and ritual, the crusades and European expansion, and urban growth and identity in the West. Prereq., HIST 1010, 1030, 2170, or 2543. Restricted to sophomores/juniors/seniors.

HIST-4711 (3) The Medieval Crusades: Holy War and Its History, 1095--1400

Studies the innovation, impact and meaning of holy war and the expansion of Christendom during the High Middle Ages. Topics include the definition of crusade and crusaders, religious persecution and tolerance, the expansion of European modes of government, war memory, colonization and its aftermath, the meaning of the Holy Land and the home front. Prereq., HIST 1010 or 3020. Restricted to sophomores/juniors/seniors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

ECON-2020 (4) Principles of Macroeconomics

Provides an overview of the economy, examining the flows of resources and outputs and the factors determining the levels of income and prices. Explores policy problems of inflation, unemployment, and economic growth. Prereq., ECON 2010. Credit not granted for this course and ECON 1000 and 1001. Meets MAPS requirement for social sciences: general. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Theory & History Economic Thgt

ECON-3070 (3) Intermediate Microeconomic Theory

Explores theory and application of models of consumer choice, firm and market organization, and general equilibrium. Extensions include intertemporal decisions, decisions under uncertainty, externalities, and strategic interaction. Prereqs., ECON 1000 or 2010; and either ECON 1078 and 1088, or MATH 1300, or MATH 1310, or MATH 1081, or MATH 1080, 1090, and 1100, or APPM 1350, or equivalent. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

ECON-3080 (3) Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory

Introduces theories of aggregate economic activity including the determination of income, employment, and prices; economic growth; and fluctuations. Macroeconomic policies are explored in both closed and open economy models. ECON 3070 and 3080 may be taken in any order; there is no recommended sequence. Prereqs., ECON 1000 or 2020; and either ECON 1078 and 1088, or MATH 1300, or MATH 1310, or MATH 1081, or MATH 1080, 1090, and 1100, or APPM 1350, or equivalent. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 27-180 credits (Sophomore, Junior or Senior) only.

ECON-3403 (3) International Economics and Policy

Examines national and supranational policies that affect the international economy, with attention to trade barriers, economic nationalism and regionalism, international political economy, exchange market intervention, and international transmission of economic perturbations. Prereqs., ECON 2010 and 2020. This course may not be taken after either ECON 4413 or ECON 4423. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies. Prerequisites: Economic (ECON) majors are restricted from taking this course.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | International Trade & Finance

ECON-3535 (3) Natural Resource Economics

Integrates economic analysis with life science aspects of natural resource systems to develop social policies for use of natural resources. Studies economists' approaches to resources policy analysis and applies them to energy, forestry, fisheries, mineral, and water systems. Prereq., ECON 2010. Credit not granted for this course and ECON 4535. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies. Prerequisites: Economic (ECON) majors are restricted from taking this course.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Natural Resources & Environ

ECON-3545 (3) Environmental Economics

Highlights causes of excessive environmental pollution and tools for controlling it through economic analysis, values of preservation, and distribution of costs and benefits from environmental protection programs. Prereq., ECON 2010. Credit not granted for this course and ECON 4545. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: contemporary societies. Prerequisites: Economic (ECON) majors are restricted from taking this course.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Natural Resources & Environ

ECON-3784 (3) Economic Development and Policy

Introductory course in Economic Development, designed for non-majors. Students are introduced to the major issues in development economics. Students will explore empirical, theoretical, and policy issues in economic development. Emphasis is placed on the controversial issues in this literature, requiring students to explore competing, and often conflicting, perspectives of these issues. Prereqs., ECON 2010 and 2020. Prerequisites: Economic (ECON) majors are restricted from taking this course.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Economic Development

ECON-3818 (4) Introduction to Statistics with Computer Applications

Introduces statistical methods and their applications in quantitative economic analysis. Prereqs., ECON 2010 and 2020; and either ECON 1078 and 1088, or MATH 1300, or MATH 1310, or MATH 1081, or MATH 1080, 1090, and 1100, or APPM 1350, or equivalent.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-4070 (3) Topics in Microeconomics

Studies utility maximization under uncertainty, risk, game theory, moral hazard, and adverse selection. Applications include insurance markets and the theory of contracts. Prereqs., ECON 3070 and 4808 or equivalent, or instructor consent.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Theory & History Economic Thgt

ECON-4111 (3) Money and Banking Systems

Discusses money, financial institutions and the monetary-financial system in a modern economy. Prereq., ECON 3080.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Money and Banking

ECON-4211 (3) Economics of the Public Sector

Focuses on taxation and public expenditures. Topics include economic rationale for government action, economic theory of government behavior, and effects of government policies on allocation of resources and distribution of income. Prereqs., ECON 3070 and 3818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Public Economics

ECON-4221 (3) Political and Public Choice Economics

Explores decision-making in non-traditional market settings, specifically political market settings, using economic models. We investigate policy outcomes as the product of interactions among individuals in political markets, and analyze how governmental decisions are the result of rational optimizing behavior, even if they do not lead to policies that maximize national welfare. Prereqs., ECON 3070 and 3818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Public Economics

ECON-4231 (3) Practicum: Applied Economic Analysis and Public Policy

Applies economic analysis to current issues of public policy. Reviews basic public finance and economic justifications for government action. Examines structure and procedures of Colorado State Legislature. Chooses current legislative issues, reviews relevant economic literature and applies implications through briefing papers and testimony at legislative hearings. Explores the challenges of integrating informed economic analysis into legislative process. Prereqs., ECON 3070, 3080, and 3818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Public Economics

ECON-4242 (3) Urban Economics: The Economics of Cities

Considers the economic forces which drive households and jobs to congregate in metropolitan areas. It then considers the forces within the city which determine how the established cities "look" - how rents vary with location, the distribution of jobs and households within a city, urban sprawl, and the sorting of households between neighborhoods. Finally it considers some government policies relating to land use and housing. Prereqs., ECON 3070 and 3818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Urban & Regional Economics

ECON-4292 (3) Migration, Immigrant Adaptation, and Development

Examines historical and current patterns of migration with an emphasis in international movement. Looks at leading migration theories related to both origin- and destination-based explanations while critically looking at the role of development as a potential cause and consequence of population movement. Finally, covers some aspects of immigrants' social and economic adaptation to their host society. Prereq., ECON 3070. Same as GEOG 4292.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Urban & Regional Economics

ECON-4309 (3) Economics Honors Seminar 1

For information consult the department's director of honors. Open only to qualified seniors. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Independent Study and Other

ECON-4339 (3) Economics Honors Seminar 2

For information consult the department's director of honors. This course does not count toward major requirements. Prereq., ECON 4309. Prerequisites: Restricted to students with 57-180 credits (Juniors or Seniors).

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Independent Study and Other

ECON-4413 (3) International Trade

Focuses on theories of international trade and its impacts on economic welfare. Analyzes commercial policy, including tariffs, non-tariff barriers, retaliation, regional integration, and factor migration. Prereq., ECON 3070.

ECON-4423 (3) International Finance

Covers balance of payments; foreign exchange market, income, trade, and capital flows; asset markets adjustment mechanisms; stabilization policies in an open economy; and problems of international monetary systems. Prereq., ECON 3080.

ECON-4504 (3) The New Institutional Economics: Institutions, Contracts and Economic Outcomes

Understand the conceptual tool kit of the New Institutional Economics. The concepts include transaction costs, property rights, credible commitment, and most importantly the roles of formal and informal institutions. We will examine the impact of institutions on contracting and organizations. The goal is to understand how the underlying institutions determine the degree to which societies improve their economic performance. Prereqs., ECON 3070, 3080 and 3818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Economic History

ECON-4514 (3) Economic History of Europe

Covers evolution of modern economic growth and development in Europe, emphasizing institutional change. Prereqs., ECON 3070 or 3080. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Economic History

ECON-4524 (3) Economic History of the United States

Evolution of modern economic growth and development in the U.S. from colonial times to the present emphasizing institutional change. Prereq., ECON 3070. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: United States context.

ECON-4808 (3) Introduction to Mathematical Economics

Introduces the use of mathematics in economics. Topics include vectors and matrices, differential calculus, and optimization theory, with economic applications. Prereqs., ECON 3070 and ECON 3818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-4818 (3) Introduction to Econometrics

Provides undergraduate economics majors with an introduction to econometric theory and practice. Develops the multiple regression model and problems encountered in its application in lecture and individual applied projects. Prereqs., ECON 3070 and 3818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-4838 (3) Microcomputer Applications in Economics

Teaches basic concepts in Java programming applied to economic models. Development of Web pages and dynamic modeling will be introduced. Students will gain a foundation that can be applied to creating advanced applications relating to analysis of statistical data and custom projects. Prereqs., ECON 3070 and ECON 3818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-4848 (3) Applied Econometrics

Introduces students to the practice of applied regression analysis. Summarizes and reviews the regression technique, explores U.S. census data sources, introduces an advanced statistical software package and provides structured exercises in regression analysis of census data. Concludes with independent research projects analyzing social and economic issues using regression analysis and census data. Prereqs., ECON 3070 and 3818 or equivalent.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-4858 (3) Financial Econometrics

Introduces statistical models, estimation and testing procedures used in analyzing financial data for advanced undergraduates. Topics include the modeling of returns, portfolio theory, the capital asset pricing model, options pricing and fixed income securities. Prereq., ECON 3818 or equivalent. Recommended prereq., ECON 4818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-4868 (3) Simulation Modeling in Microeconomics

Computer simulation modeling translates theory into computer code to examine questions numerically; for example, the effects of taxes or emissions permits on welfare and income distribution.

We use GAMS (general algebraic modeling system); a version may be downloaded for free. Students must have access to a computer (not needed in the classroom). Prereq., ECON 3070.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-6828 (3) Applied Time Series Analysis (Box-Jenkins) and Forecasting

Introduces first-year graduate students to time series approach of model building and forecasting. Basic topics are autoregressive integrated moving average models, nonstationarity and co-integration, vector autoregressions, and the evaluation of forecasts from such models. Emphasizes applied computer assignments. Prereqs., ECON 3818 and 4808, or equivalent.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-7818 (3) Mathematical Statistics for Economists

Provides the mathematical foundation for Ph.D. level statistical inference in economic research. The primary topics of the course are probability theory and mathematical statistics including hypothesis testing and classical estimation with an emphasis on the method of maximum likelihood. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-7828 (3) Econometrics

Continuation of ECON 7818. Topics include regression analysis and extensions of the linear regression model to generalized least squares, time series data, and systems of equations. Prereq., ECON 7818.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-8828 (3) Seminar: Econometrics 1

First semester of two-semester sequence in econometrics for PhD students. Studies least squares and generalized least squares estimation of linear econometric models. Asymptotic (large sample) theory of inference. Some topics in the estimation of microdata. Prereq., ECON 7818. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-8838 (3) Seminar: Econometrics 2

Teaches the advanced level of econometrics theory. Topics include asymptotic theory, maximum likelihood estimation, limited dependent variables analysis and other frontier areas of econometrics such as the method of moment estimation, semiparametric and nonparametric estimation procedure. Prereq., ECON 7828.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-8848 (3) Applied Microeconometrics

Presents a "User's guide" to conducting empirical research in applied microeconomics. Begins with a primer on an industry-standard econometric software package including programming techniques and data management. Introduces advanced econometric techniques including panel data methods, IV, matching models, regression discontinuity, and limited dependent variables models. Concludes with a research project requiring a replication and/or extension of an existing published paper. Prereqs., ECON 7818 and 7828. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

College of Arts & Sciences | Economics | Quantitative Economics

ECON-8858 (3) Computational and Structural Estimation Methods

Teaches students to construct a variety of applied economic models, obtain parameter values through calibration or estimation techniques, and uses the resulting models to conduct policy simulations. Prereqs., ECON 7010 and 7818. Prerequisites: Restricted to Graduate Students only.

PHYS-1300 (3) Experiment in Physics

Examines the roles of experiment in physics, using historical examples. Experiments provide a basis for scientific knowledge, test theories, call for new theories, give hints toward the mathematical form of theories, and provide evidence for the existence of entities involved in theories. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Physics

HIST-1308 (3) Introduction to Middle Eastern History

Interdisciplinary course that focuses on medieval and modern history of the Middle East (A.D. 600 to the present). Introduces the Islamic civilization of the Middle East and the historical evolution of the region from the traditional into the modern eras. Covers social patterns, economic life, and intellectual trends, as well as political development. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: historical context.

College of Arts & Sciences | History | World Areas: Specific Regions

MATH-1310 (5) Calculus, Stochastics, and Modeling

Calculus, probability, statistics, and discrete and continuous modeling are central to understanding the behavior of complex systems, ranging from gene networks and cells to brains and ecosystems. This course is similar to MATH 1300, but a greater emphasis is placed on relevance and applications to complex systems. Especially recommended for biology majors. Prereq., 2 years high school algebra, 1 year geometry, and 1/2 year trigonometry, or MATH 1150. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1080, 1081, 1090, 1100, 1300, APPM 1350, or ECON 1088. Approved for GT-MA1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

APPM-1340 (3) Calculus 1 with Algebra, Part A

Studies selected topics in analytical geometry and calculus: rates of change of functions, limits, derivatives and their applications. APPM 1340-1345 together are equivalent to APPM 1350. The sequence APPM 1340-1345 is specifically designed for students whose manipulative skills in the techniques of high school algebra and precalculus may be inadequate for APPM 1350. Prereqs., 2 years high school algebra, 1 year geometry, 1 semester trigonometry. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1150.

College of Arts & Sciences | Applied Mathematics

APPM-1345 (3) Calculus 1 with Algebra, Part B

Continuation of APPM 1340. Studies selected topics in calculus: derivatives and their applications, integration, differentiation and integration of transcendental functions. Algebraic and trigonometric topics are studied throughout, as needed. Prereq., APPM 1340. Credit not granted for this course and APPM 1350 or MATH 1300.

College of Arts & Sciences | Applied Mathematics

APPM-1350 (4) Calculus 1 for Engineers

Topics in analytical geometry and calculus including limits, rates of change of functions, derivatives and integrals of algebraic and transcendental functions, applications of differentiations and integration. Prereqs., 2 years high school algebra, 1 year geometry, and 1/2 year trigonometry; or approval by faculty advisor. Credit not granted for this course and MATH 1080, 1081, 1090, 1100, 1300, 1310, APPM 1345, or ECON 1088. Approved for GT-MA1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills.

CHEM-1351 (5) Honors General Chemistry 1

Lect. and lab. Principles of chemistry and their applications are covered in a comprehensive manner (honors level) in this low-enrollment freshman course. Lectures include topics not covered in CHEM 1113/1114-1133/1134. The laboratory experience is more extensive; therefore, the CHEM 1351-371 sequence is highly recommended for well-prepared students who intend to major in chemistry, chemical engineering, physics, molecular biology, or related areas. Prereqs., one year high school chemistry; four years of high school math and/or a high score on the SAT or ACT math exam and one year of high school physics. Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1113/1114, 1221, 1251, and CHEN 1211. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

APPM-1360 (4) Calculus 2 for Engineers

Continuation of APPM 1350. Focuses on applications of the definite integral, methods of integration, improper integrals, Taylor's theorem, and infinite series. Prereqs., APPM 1350 or MATH 1300 (min. grade C-). Credit not granted for this course and MATH 2300.

College of Arts & Sciences | Applied Mathematics

CHEM-1371 (5) Honors General Chemistry 2

Lect. and lab. Continuation of CHEM 1351. Prereq., CHEM 1351 (min grade C-). Credit not granted for this course and CHEM 1131, 1133/1134 or 1271. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science. Prerequisites: Requires pre-requisite course of CHEM 1351 (minimum grade C-).

College of Arts & Sciences | Chemistry

ARSC-1400 (1) MASP Coseminar: Chemistry 1 & 2

College of Arts & Sciences | Arts & Sciences Admin | Miramontes Arts & Sciences Pgr

ARTH-1400 (3) History of World Art 2

Surveys major art styles from about 1600 to the present, including Europe, Asia, the Islamic world, the Americas, and tribal arts. Emphasizes comparison of Western and non-Western visual expressions as evidence of differing cultural orientations. Credit not granted for this course and FINE 1409. Approved for GT-AH1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: literature and the arts.

College of Arts & Sciences | Art & Art History | Art History

FREN-1400 (3) Medieval/Renaissance Women Writers in Italy and France

Introduces major literature through close readings of women's writings in their historical context. Offers a general introduction to women's status and roles in Italy and France. Taught in English. Same as ITAL 1400. Approved for GT-AH2. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: human diversity.

PHIL-1400 (3) Philosophy and the Sciences

Considers philosophical topics and concepts related to the natural sciences, such as science and pseudo-science; scientific method; the nature of explanation, theory, confirmation, and falsification; the effect of science on basic concepts like mind, freedom, time, and causality; ethics of experimentation; and the relation of science to society. Approved for GT-AH3. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: natural science.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

ESLG-1410 (3) Academic English Skills for International Students

Provides instruction and practice to improve academic speaking and writing skills for effective participation in U.S. universities. Speaking includes accent reduction and effective communication through oral activities and recordings. Writing addresses development of paragraphs and full-length papers, including organization, grammar, vocabulary, incorporating ideas of others, and citing sources appropriately. Instructor feedback helps students improve fluency in both speaking and writing. Restricted to non-native speakers of English. Credit not granted for this course and ESLG 1130 or ESLG 1210.

MATH-1410 (3) Mathematics for Secondary Educators

Assists students in meeting state mathematics certification requirements. Topics include problem solving, number systems, geometry and measurement, probability and statistics. Enrollment is restricted to students already admitted to or intending to apply for admission to the secondary teacher education program. Prereqs., one year high school algebra, one year geometry. Approved for GT-MA1. Approved for arts and sciences core curriculum: quantitative reasoning and mathematical skills. Prerequisites: Restricted to PRED, EDEL, EDEN, EDSS, EDSC, EDMU, EDSP, EDFR, EDGR, EDIT, EDJP or EDLT Students only.

ARSC-1420 (1) MASP Coseminar: Introduction to EEB

Designed to supplement and strengthen student experiences in EBIO 1210 and 1220. Allows particularly gifted students an opportunity to extend their understanding of the subject and possible careers in science. May be repeated up to 2 total credit hours.

ARSC-1432 (1) MASP Coseminar: Economics

Designed to supplement and strengthen student experiences in microeconomics. Allows particularly gifted students an opportunity to extend their understanding of the subject and to explore possible careers in social science. May be repeated up to 2 total credit hours.

ARSC-1440 (1) MASP Coseminar: Mathematics

Offers an unusual and essential opportunity for students to receive small-group enrichment and reinforcement. Supplements and strengthens student experiences in mathematics, allowing particularly gifted students an opportunity to extend their understanding of the subject in a supportive environment, and to explore possible careers in science. May be repeated up to 2 total credit hours.

College of Arts & Sciences | Arts & Sciences Admin | Miramontes Arts & Sciences Pgr

PHIL-1440 (3) Introductory Logic

Introductory study of definition, informal fallacies, and the principles and standards of correct reasoning. Provides practice in analyzing, evaluating, and constructing frequently encountered types of arguments. Does not fulfill major requirement in logic.

College of Arts & Sciences | Philosophy

ARSC-1460 (1) MASP Coseminar: Introduction to Mcd Biology

Supplements and strengthens student experiences in MCDB 1150 and 2150. Allows particularly gifted students an opportunity to extend their understanding of the subject and to explore possible careers in science. May be repeated up to 2 total credit hours.

ARSC-1480 (1) MASP Seminar: Exploration of Public Discourse through the Social Sciences

Fosters an appreciation of the humanities and social sciences. Readings, discussions, cooperative learning exercises, and outside activities illustrate the interconnections between different bodies of knowledge. Emphasizes relationships between the humanities/social sciences and the real world. May be repeated up to 2 total credit hours.

ARSC-1490 (1) MASP Seminar: Activating the Humanities and Social Sciences

Building on ARSC 1480, enhances students' knowledge and appreciation of the humanities and social sciences. Readings, discussions, cooperative learning exercises, workshopping papers and presentation, guest speakers, and outside activities are designed to enhance both students' appreciation of the subject matter and their performance in their regular courses. Emphasis is on actively using knowledge of humanities and social sciences in a variety of ways. Prereq., ARSC 1480. May be repeated up to 2 total credit hours.

ARSC-1492 (1-3) MASP Research Seminar

Building on ARSP 1490, this course seeks to enhance students' knowledge and appreciation of the humanities and social sciences. Readings, discussions, cooperative learning exercises, workshopping papers and presentations, guest speakers, and outside activities are designed to enhance both students' appreciation of the subject matter and their performance in their regular courses. Emphasis is placed on actively using knowledge of humanities and social science in a variety of ways. May be repeated up to 6 total credit hours.
