8. Do you wish to claim eligibility for in-state tuition classification? Yes No

In order to qualify for in-state tuition with its reduced costs, largely subsidized by the state of Colorado, a number of conditions must be met including domicile in Colorado for at least 12 consecutive months. Most international students with nonimmigrant student status, such as F-1, F-2, J-1, or J-2, are classified as out-of-state students and are ineligible for the lower tuition rate. However, international students under age 22 with F and J status whose parents have employment visas may qualify. Students who are married, second year graduate students, or over the age of 22 will be evaluated for residency using their current visa status. Exceptions to the one-year requirement may be available for qualified military members or their dependents, honorably discharged veterans and other specific situations as identified in tuition law. Details of these exceptions and information about the Colorado resident/non-resident regulations are available from the Office of the Registrar at www.colorado.edu/registrar/students/state-residency, by email at tuitclass@colorado.edu or by telephone at 303-492-6970.

Continuing, non-resident, students who believe that they now qualify for in-state tuition must submit a residency petition to the Office of the Registrar. Residency petitions are available for download from the tuition classification website at www.colorado.edu/registrar/students/state-residency or from the Tuition Classification Office, Regent Administrative Center 101, University of Colorado Boulder, 20 UCB, Boulder, Colorado 80309-0068 USA, telephone: 303-492-6970. Please address all additional questions about your residency to tuitclass@colorado.edu.
